PUBLISHER MISSING SINCE LAST MONDAY

Sumner C. Britton Disappears From His Home at 183d St. and Pinehurst Av.

POLICE ASKED TO FIND HIM

Son Says Father Had Break-Down and Suffers From Lapses of Memory.

The Missing Persons Bureau has been requested to search for Sumner Charles Britton, retired publisher, who has been missing from his home in the Hudson View Gardens, 183d Street and Pinehurst Avenue, since last Monday, it was learned yesterday.

William A. Britton of the George H. Doran Publishing Company reported the disappearance of his father to the police on Monday night. He said his father had suffered a nervous breakdown after a business failure about six years ago and since then he has undergone a mental retrogression.

The missing man is 61 years old, weighs about 145 or 150 pounds, is five feet and eight and a half inches in height, and has a fair complexion and hazel eyes. He suffers, his son said, from poor expression and lapses of memory. He bears a scar from an abdominal operation.

Mr. Britton had practically no money with him, but carried a gold watch and chain. His clothing bears the laundry mark "S. C. B."

When he left his home Monday morning and did not return, the family at first believed he had gone to the Aldine Club, Twenty-third Street and Broadway, for luncheon. When it was learned that he had not been seen there, inquiry was made among his friends, and then the police were notified.

This is the second time that Mr. Britton has wandered off within the last month. On Thanksgiving eve he was found wandering about at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue by the police, and sent to Bellevue Hospital, where he was located the next day by the family.

Mr. Britton has another son, Sumner Hamilton Britton, living in the city. William A. Britton has made his home with his parents at the Hudson View Gardens.

Mr. Britton was formerly President of the Reilly & Britton Company, publishers, of Chicago, now the Reilly & Lee Company. After coming to New York he founded the Britton Publishing Company.

Gigli Santa Claus to Police Orphans.

Beniamino Gigli, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, with his two young daughters will give a Christmas party at their home at 140 West Fifty-seventh Street, next Wednesday afternoon to twenty-two children whose fathers were killed during the year while serving as members of the Police Department. The mothers of the children also have been invited as have Mayor and Mrs. James J. Walker and Police Commissioner and Mrs. George V. McLaughlin.

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 17.—A military coup d'état was carried out at Kovno at 3 o'clock this morning. The insurgents, under General Antona Smetona, ex-President, usurped the entire machinery of the Lithuanian Government and arrested the President of the Republic, Dr. Grinius, and all the Ministers they could lay hands upon.

Communication with Riga was interrupted for some hours, but later messages came through stating that everything was quiet and that the insurgents had taken over the Administration.

Apparently the chief cause of the coup was widespread discontent with Premier Slezevicius and his Government over its pro-Soviet policy and its leniency toward the Communists in Lithuania.

Today was the sixtieth anniversary of the birthday of the President of the Republic, and seemingly the insurgents chose the occasion for their attempt because the movement of troops would be assumed to be in connection with the birthday celebration.

Telephonic communication with Kovno was interrupted a second time, and disquieting news began arriving by various unofficial routes.

Loyal Troops Send Ultimatum.

According to a trustworthy report, although all the official buildings of Kovno are in the hands of the insurgents, some of the troops remained faithful to the Slezevicius Government and occupy part of the capital, including the important section of the so-called Green Hills and the Seventh Fort, which is reputed to be the strongest of the Kovno forts.

These troops, supported by eight regiments and a certain number of airplanes, sent an ultimatum to the insurgents, demanding that they surrender before 6 o'clock this evening. An armed clash is feared.

Telephonic communication with Shavli also is now interrupted. The latest message from there, received about 5 o'clock, stated that the troops had not yet taken sides. The Berlin-Riga express is reported to have been allowed to proceed through Kovno after several hours of delay, and it is anxiously awaited on Latvian territory, as it is hoped it will bring trustworthy news of the events.

The military leader of the insurgents is a former Czarist officer, Major Plehavicius, who immediately liberated the former Czarist Colonel Glavacky and appointed him commandant of Kovno. Colonel Glavacky was arrested by the Slezevicius Government a week ago for propagating Fascism.

WARSAW, Dec. 17.—Lithuania is in the throes of revolution. The situation at present is this:

Former President Smetona has possession of Kovno, the Lithuanian capital, holding it with all but one regiment of Lithuanian soldiers.

A counter-revolution by Communists was essayed, but is said to have been suppressed.

Premier Slezevicius has been ousted and his whereabouts are unknown.

Poland is anxiously awaiting news, which hitherto has been trickling in from Dantzic and Riga. The situation is regarded as of the highest significance here. The Polish Foreign Minister, M. Zalesky, in a statement tonight declared for a watchful waiting policy, but officers with Marshal Pilsudski insisted that military preparations were going on.

According to rumors here the Lithuanian incident is one which Marshal Pilsudski predicted weeks ago.

The revolution, which has Poland thoroughly puzzled, with the possible exception of Marshal Pilsudski, may be due to causes revealed by inquiries here and in Vilna, where THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent recently reported the presence of German and Russian officers. The reasons cited here are German influence in Lithuania, Soviet influence in Lithuania, combined influence by Germans and Russians, secret moves by Marshal Pilsudski to weld the Lithuanian and Polish States, and an uprising by the Lithuanian public against the Separatist methods, which have been stifling industry.

Of these five reasons, the Soviet and German influence is regarded in Poland as the outcome of the ending of allied control of arms in Germany.

Talk of Polish-Lithuanian Monarchy.

Warsaw newspapers this afternoon reported that former President Smetona, who has declared himself dictator, seized the principal Government offices and arrested many officials. Only a small band of Communists and one regiment of soldiers held out against him.

Radio in the Finnish Diet Helps Check Windy Orators

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 17 (AP).—The radio has put Finnish Legislators in such close touch with the voters that the latter can tell orators when to stop speaking.

Broadcasting has just been installed in the Diet to enable the nation to listen to the legislators. An important debate was scheduled the first night the radio was operated and the members, naturally, were anxious to make a good showing.

One rural legislator entered into a long discourse on the subject of ham and bacon. As the speech ran on and on one of the speaker's constituents about 100 miles away became bored. He reached the house by long-distance telephone and requested an official to tell the long-winded speaker that if he did not stop he would be defeated at the forthcoming election. The surprised orator stopped.

Adverse Vote of 249 to 171 Causes the Marx Ministry to Resign.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—The Marx Cabinet suffered defeat in the Reichstag this afternoon and has resigned office.

The Socialists' lack of confidence motion introduced yesterday was supported by the Nationalists, Communists, ultra-reactionary Voelkisch and Industrialists, only the Little Coalition parties [People's, Centre and Democratic] upholding the Government. The votes cast against the Government totaled 249, to 171 for it.

Immediately after President Loebe announced the result of the vote Chancellor Marx left the Ministerial benches and went direct to the Presidential palace, where he handed to President von Hindenburg the resignations of his entire Cabinet. The President accepted but asked the Cabinet to carry on the business of State until a new Government is formed, which is unlikely to be until the middle of January. After its vote the Reichstag adjourned for the holidays, appointing Jan. 19 as the date for reassembling.

Expectant Reichstag Agitated.

Though high tension marked yesterday's session through the speech of Philipp Scheidemann, the Republican First Chancellor, charging Dr. Gessler, Minister of War, with building up a Reichswehr which is not representative of the republic but nationalistic in character, with having illegal relations with the Soviet Government and with secretly buying munitions, the proposed action of the Nationalists, on whom hung the decision, brought the Reichstag to fever heat.

When the Deputies filed in at 12 o'clock the galleries were filled. M. Krestinski, the Soviet Ambassador entered the diplomats' section and seated himself beside Dr. Schurman, to whom he spoke repeatedly when the orators brought out poignant points. A survey of the house showed Government parties controlling about the same number of votes as the Opposition, provided the reactionaries refrained from balloting.

Count Westarp, leader of the Nationalists, had been summoned to the Presidential Palace this morning and afterward called a caucus of party Deputies, but their decision as to their course of action was not revealed until immediately before the voting, when he announced that the Nationalists would vote against the Government, though for different reasons than those advanced by the Socialists.

Count Westarp demanded as a recompense for supporting the Government today guarantees from the Catholic Centrists that the Cabinet would be rebuilt, giving several portfolios to the Nationalists, thus forming a bourgeois bloc. Chancellor Marx declared this would be impossible as long as he was Chancellor, which attitude was backed by the Government parties.

Failing to obtain the promises he sought, Count Westarp declared in the Reichstag that his party was convinced through recent events that a minority coalition Government which was continually obliged to change its policies in order to obtain a majority was "impossible" and that the party would lend support in future only to such a Cabinet as was backed by a majority of the Reichstag.

Former Chancellor Muller, the Socialist leader, who introduced the lack of confidence motion, expressed the be-

NORRIS BACKS THEIR MOVE

He Says Any Investigation Should Cover Country and His Committee Gets Resolution.

POSTMASTERSHIPS CITED

Southern Senators Say Republican Committeemen There Give Patronage "for a Consideration."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The alleged sale of postal and other Federal offices in Southern States by Republican National Committeemen was brought under Senatorial fire today in a debate precipitated by Senator William J. Harris, Democrat, of Georgia. He asked for an investigation in his own State alone, but several Senators, not all from the South, soon took the floor and urged a general investigation into the sale of Federal jobs.

One of those making such a demand was Senator George W. Norris, Liberal Republican, of Nebraska, who recently became Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, to whose committee the Harris resolution was finally referred.

Senator Norris declared that if any action were taken the whole country should be embraced, and thus, as a result of what developed in debate today, there is a possibility that an investigation may be made into the "barter of Federal offices or of influence in respect of appointments to such offices," if the resolution is adopted in its present form.

Southern Democrats have favored such an inquiry for some time, but previously were unable to gain support from Senators representing other sections. One of the first to be criticised was C. Bascom Slemp, former member of the House and later Secretary to President Coolidge. Before he resigned from the House and afterward, he was charged on the floor with bargaining postoffices in Virginia.

Joseph W. Tolbert, National Committeeman for years in South Carolina, was attacked in the House not long ago by Representative W. F. Stevenson of South Carolina for alleged sale of patronage, and one of those who joined Senator Harris today, urging, however, a broader inquiry than in the State of Georgia, was Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina.

Other Southern States Complain.

In Georgia, Ben Davis, a negro, is the present Republican National Committeeman, having succeeded the late Henry Lincoln Johnson. Senator Smith contended that conditions in South Carolina were similar to those alleged in Georgia, and that any inquiry ordered by the Senate would embrace his own State.

Senators Harrison of Mississippi, King of Utah and Trammell of Florida also demanded that the resolution be made broad enough to include other States than Georgia. Senator Harris acquiesced. It will remain for the Judiciary Committee to recommend the scope and form of investigation and whether it will be ordered will depend upon future developments.

Toward the end of the debate it was enlivened by Senator Moses of New Hampshire. Waiving the right of the Postoffice Committee to consider the resolution, he declared his hope that the Judiciary Committee would report it in this form, "That an investigation should be made to discover whether each State of the Union is enjoying that form of republican government which is guaranteed to it under the Constitution."

Senator Moses has consistently contended that negroes in Southern States are deprived of their vote.

Senator Harris did not mention on the floor the details of his charges, but he stated later that he was prepared to show the select committee not only that offices were being bought but otherwise being trafficked in, and that he knew of at least one instance where a job was paid for but not delivered because its sale was claimed to have been forgotten.

Declares Offices Are Sold.

"I am not familiar with the conditions in other States," said Senator Harris, "but am told by most reliable people in my State that offices are sold. I think it is the exception when an appointment is made on recom-

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, Saturday, Dec. 18.—The Emperor of Japan is not expected to last through the night and all is in readiness for the final announcement.

After a false alarm at 10:30 o'clock last night the Prince Regent and the Queen consort were awakened from a light sleep and hurried to the bedside together with other members of the Imperial family, while the Premier and Court officials held conferences, quiet settled down on Hayama.

The official bulletin issued at 11 o'clock showed a higher temperature and faster respiration. It was stated that the camphor injections no longer affected the heart action.

During the rest of the night the household officials and attendants of Princes and Princesses of the blood and Government officers stood on watch expecting an urgent call for all the Imperial family and officials.

Thrice yesterday the end was expected and the imperial family and officials gathered at the villa. At 1, 7 and 10 o'clock all were assembled, but the patient pulled through the crisis. The strain of anxiety and the false alarms are very wearing on the imperial family and the officials, all of whom must be ready to rush to the bedside on notice.

Already three persons attempted to take their lives because of the Emperor's condition, trying to emulate Count Nogi, who took his life when the Emperor's father was buried. A wealthy farmer's patriotic son was successful. One of the Emperor's trained nurses and one of his cooks cut their throats, but did not die.

TOKIO, Saturday, Dec. 18 (AP).—At noon today the Japanese Emperor lost ground in his fight for life, pneumonia, a complication which set in several days ago, having developed further. This condition increased his fatigue.

An added solution of saline was administered, an official announcement said.

The Cabinet members were summoned in the morning from Tokio to the bedside of the Emperor at his Hayama villa. An important announcement was expected in the afternoon, it was stated.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—An unconfirmed report was received in London late tonight from Tokio and New York that the Emperor of Japan was dead.

The "important announcement" mentioned in the Tokio dispatch recalls that in the case of the deaths of previous rulers of Japan hours and sometimes days elapsed before official announcement of death was made.

REGENCY TO RULE STATE REPUBLICANS

Group Will Take the Place of Party Boss With Retirement of Wadsworth.

HILLES A CHIEF FACTOR

Water-Power Policy Will Be the First of Big Problems to Be Decided by New Regime.

A regency will take the place of a boss in the Republican State organization for the next two years. With Senator James W. Wadsworth, who had been looked up to as the de facto party leader in this State, in the political discard for the time being at least, the once mighty and well-managed Republican Party organization is now leaderless.

Republican National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles has been strongly urged by party men of prominence to step into the shoes of Senator Wadsworth. Mr. Hilles, however, has declined to do so and, in fact, is given credit in party circles for suggesting the regency. Undoubtedly Mr. Hilles for some time to come will be the most influential leader in the organization. Parties live on patronage, and the Republicans for the next two years will be dependent entirely upon Federal patronage, of which Mr. Hilles will be the chief dispenser, to keep alive.

Morris Also to Serve.

It was indicated yesterday that the regency probably would include Mr. Hilles, Chairman George K. Morris of the State Committee, the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the State Committee, whom Mr. Morris will appoint early in January, President pro tem. of the Senate John Knight, Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies of the Assembly and Representatives Bertrand H. Snell of St. Lawrence and James S. Parker of Washington. To the number will be added, when chosen, the Republican floor leader of the Assembly.

While only two of the Republican Representatives are included, it was said yesterday that when questions come up in Congress of material interest to the organization in this State, undoubtedly the entire Republican delegation to the House of Representatives will be called in to help determine the party attitude.

How long the prospective regency will remain in control of affairs will depend largely upon circumstances. What most of the county leaders want is a State leader of the type of Odell and Platt, whose prestige appears to have grown in Republican eyes with the years which have passed since they laid down the sceptre.

The probability, as Republicans view the situation, is that men of their size and sagacity cannot be reared under political conditions as they exist today and that political organizations in the future must look for leadership to men who are elected to high office, like Governor and Senator. The belief was expressed that the regency probably would continue until the Republicans succeed in electing a Governor.

Democrats Gain Power Control.

An early task confronting the prospective high council of the party will be to define the new policy with reference to water power development. With the stroke of midnight that ushers in the new year control of the water power situation, as far as leases and concessions are concerned, will pass from Republican into Democratic hands. Where such matters are concerned Governor Smith will hold the whip hand and will be in a position to exercise Czarlike power from the fact that the Hughes reorganization plan which goes into effect on Jan. 1 makes the Governor's signature on a lease essential to validate it.

The Republicans do not hold it beyond the Governor to use that power for the purpose of promoting personal or party interests and know that the only way of definitely placing it beyond his power to do so is through the repeal of the present Water Power act.

The alternative would not necessarily be acceptance of his proposal for the creation of a Power Authority to study and undertake the work of development of water power under State auspices. It is regarded likely in Republican circles, however, that if the Republicans decide to stand for repeal of the present law, they will also accept the Governor's proposal, if for no other reason, in order to turn aside the popular wrath that undoubtedly would result if the Governor with his persuasive eloquence should succeed in convincing the people that the Republicans were placing obstructions in the way of his own power program.

CRITICIZES DELANEY AGAIN

Construction of the Nassau Street subway as part of the B. M. T. system, connection of the Washington Heights subway, now under construction, with the B. M. T. Broadway subway and the lengthening of the subway station platforms were advocated yesterday by Controller Charles W. Berry in a reply to John H. Delaney, Chairman of the Board of Transportation.

General Berry again criticized Mr. Delaney's plan of paying for part of the construction of the new subways by issuing five-year serial bonds to be amortized by the inclusion in the city budget of $15,000,000 a year, half the amount of what Mr. Delaney has estimated as the city's increased taxing power due to increased assessments on real estate. General Berry declared that Mr. Delaney's plan, which he characterized as "preposterous," would mean big increases in rents and taxes, no transit relief, curtailment of abandonment of other city improvements and a muddled transit situation.

Denies He Favors Fare Rise.

In an interview, which accompanied his statement, General Berry denied Mr. Delaney's charge that he favored a 10-cent fare, declaring that he was not on record for any increased fare. "The 5-cent fare is like the 'bloody shirt,' which was used as an issue for some time after the Civil War," he said. "They waved the bloody shirt then and it was effective for a time. Now they seek to inject the 5-cent fare in any discussion of transit."

General Berry said he had been informed by engineers that construction of the Nassau Street Subway, which would complete the B. M. T. loop, would enable that company to increase its service 50 per cent. Failure of the city to build this line, which is called for by the city's contract with the company, is one of the chief points on which the company based its $30,000,000 damage suit, now on trial.

General Berry's statement follows:

"A big increase in rents and taxes, no relief from the intolerable conditions in the present subways, curtailment if not abandonment of other city improvements, a staggering debt, and a hopelessly muddled transit situation is apparently the program of the Board of Transportation. I criticized it severely on Wednesday and I repeat again the so-called plan is preposterous.

"If an issue of five-year serial bonds for $75,000,000 were authorized each year for five years, the effect would be as follows during the next four years:

Total tax rate, assuming that the city used the full 2 per cent. of tax limitations	2.92	3.06	3.18	3.31

"Or, in other words, if an owner had property assessed at $20,000 his taxes at the present rate would be $536, and in 1931 would advance $126, to $662, provided he was fortunate enough to keep his assessment at the same figure, which would hardly be probable under the plan proposed.

Sees No Present Relief.

"Following the present plan for subway construction, no relief will be possible for at least six years; some experts add two or three more to this estimate.

"If the Nassau Street loop was built, platforms on all routes lengthened, and a connection either temporary or permanent made between the Washington Heights subway and the B. M. T. at Fifty-seventh Street transit relief would be afforded in two years.

"Present subway plans call for a serious curtailment of all city improvements, as schools, sewers, &c., according to the statement of the Chairman, Board of Transportation. It is inconceivable that any such plan as suggested by the Chairman of the Board of Transportation should be given serious consideration. I am confident that the members of the City Administration, authorized to deal with this problem, will eventually reach a solution that will be sound from every standpoint."

Mayor Walker, who had refused previously to reply to Controller Berry's criticism of the Board of Transportation's transit policy, which is understood to be his transit policy, was asked again last evening to reply to the Controller. The Mayor recalled that his Republican opponent for the Mayoralty had a slogan when he engaged in a transit campaign.

"You can say," Mayor Walker said, "that the Mayor is saying it with shovels and not with words."

110-STORY BUILDING, HIGHEST IN WORLD, TO RISE IN 42D ST.

TOTAL VALUE $22,500,000

RENTALS SET AT $3,000,000

The world's highest building, an office structure of 110 stories, towering 1,208 feet above street level, will be built in the Times Square district early next year, according to plans filed yesterday with the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings by John A. Larkin, President of the 330 West Forty-second Street Corporation, the prospective builder.

The super-skyscraper, which will be known as the Larkin Tower Building, will be erected on a plot of approximately 50,000 square feet on the south side of West Forty-second Street, between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, and will cost, it was announced, $18,000,000. The value of the ground was said to be $4,500,000, making the total cost of the property $22,500,000, on which the builders expect to obtain a yearly rental of approximately $3,000,000.

The new building, designed by John A. Larkin and Edward L. Larkin, architects and engineers, and Alexander D. Stark, structural engineer, will be a monumental example of American skyscraper architecture, stressing the stern and simple beauty of straight lines laid out in proportionate geometric patterns brought into full relief by setbacks. It will be of steel, limestone and brick construction, with a granite base, with Vermont marble for the first story and Indiana limestone for the second and third stories of the Forty-second Street façade.

Building to Rise 1,208 Feet.

The building will rise twelve stories on the Forty-second Street side without a setback. From the thirteenth story to the roof of the eighteenth story there will be a series of three setbacks, whence will start a seven-phase tower, which, without the flagpole, will be 1,208 feet above the street—506 feet higher than the 60-story Woolworth Building, the highest building in New York, and nearly 300 feet higher than the new 85-story Book Tower in Detroit, the highest building in the world.

The structure will contain a gross total of 1,450,000 square feet, of which 950,000 square feet will be rentable area, making it the fourth largest building in the world, being surpassed in area only by the new Graybar Building now being erected in Lexington Avenue in the Grand Central Zone, the Equitable Building at 120 Broadway and the General Motors Building in Detroit.

The building will be served by sixty high-speed elevators, two of which will be expresses ascending directly to the eighty-second story, whence passengers will be served by four shuttle cars which will ascend to the 110th story. The sixty elevators will be arranged in ten "banks" centred in the building from north to south, insuring, it was said, the greatest economy of space with the greatest efficiency of service.

There will be no interior courts in the building, and all the space in the structure, it also was said, will be assured of permanent light and air. The exterior court formed by the nineteenth floor will have an area of more than 35,000 square feet and will serve to protect the light and air of the ninety stories in the seven-phase tower that rises above it. The light on the lower floors will be protected on the north and south by Forty-second and Forty-first Streets, while the holdings of the Holy Cross Church, directly opposite on the east side on Forty-second Street, will add further light protection on the north side of the Larkin Tower Building.

Foundations 48 Feet Below Street.

The three upper floors of the building will be given over entirely for sightseeing purposes. The building will have a basement and sub-basement, which will form two stories. The excavations for the foundation will be in rock forty-eight feet below street level. The building will rest on a heavy

Coolidge Thinks Estimates For Army and Navy Adequate

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—President Coolidge believes that budget estimates provide adequately for the Army, Navy and Marine Corps in the fiscal year 1928, according to a letter he has written John Callan O'Laughlin, publisher of The Army and Navy Journal, and which will appear in that publication tomorrow. The letter reads:

The White House.
Washington, Dec. 9, 1926.

My dear Mr. O'Laughlin:

Replying to your letter, I have stated repeatedly my attitude upon the question of national defense, and my views are epitomized in the annual message and budget message presented to Congress this week. I am convinced the estimates submitted provide adequately for the services; and economic administration will assure a well fed and well disciplined army, maintain the navy in a high state of efficiency and promote the well-being and development of air service.

Very truly yours,
CALVIN COOLIDGE.

HUGE STILL RAIDED ON M'KENNA ESTATE

SOURCE OF JERSEY SUPPLY

Troopers on Mountain Spied Still Through Glasses—Three Arrested, Caretaker Sought.

A distilling plant and alcohol with an aggregate estimated value of $300,000 were seized by State troopers yesterday in a large barn on the estate of Dr. Charles F. McKenna, 79 years old, a wealthy retired physician. The estate is situated four miles northeast of Suffern, N. Y. Dr. McKenna is in the South. The estate has been closed for four months. The caretaker left in charge is now being sought.

The raid was made by State troopers from White Plains and Troop K from Rockland County. Twenty-four took part in it and later guarded the roads in that vicinity, hoping to capture some of the trucks used for delivering the alcohol which had been distilled. Three men who were operating the plant at the time of the raid, about 3 P. M., were arrested. They were held prisoners temporarily in the barn, it being feared that if they were arraigned it might leak out and the night shift would not report for duty as usual.

At midnight no trucks or night workers had appeared and the troopers said they believed their quarry had been tipped off. The men arrested were arraigned before Justice of the Peace M. J. Hillet at Suffern and locked up in the county jail at New City in default of $2,500 bail each. They refused to divulge the names of their employers or to give any other information of value to the raiders or others.

The prisoners said they were John Styles, Anthony Polot and Garrett Debot, all of Paterson, N. J. The troopers, who were led by Lieutenants Francis S. McGarvey and Joseph B. Lynch, said all of the alcohol distilled at the plant had been shipped to Paterson and vicinity and that the plant had been the chief source of supply for that section of New Jersey.

Troopers Watched From Mountains.

The barn stands at the side of a lake on the McKenna estate and for days troopers had been watching it. They intimated that the prohibition authorities had suspected the place for some time. The State troopers, however, stationed themselves upon near-by mountains with binoculars and noticed that smoke or steam seemed to be coming up through the ice that almost covered the little lake.

They noticed also that the barn had a smokestack and that at certain times it seemed to be the outlet for smoke from a very big fire. Finally, convinced that the barn was being used as a still and that the best time to raid it was at 3, when, as indicated by the smoke, persons inside were active, they descended upon the place and found that a pipe through which steam passed led into the waters of the lake.

The two trooper lieutenants, who

More Than 617,000 Shares Are Sold, Involving $95,000,000 —Stock Hits 160½.

WHOLE LIST SWEPT UPWARD

Total of 2,640,441 Shares Changes Hands—Railway and Other Issues Rise.

CURB DOES BIG BUSINESS

New Steel Sales There Reach 118,000—Corporation Still to Have $800,000,000 Surplus.

Wall Street seized yesterday upon the United States Steel Corporation's 40 per cent. stock dividend proposal of the previous afternoon as the spark needed to set off one of the wildest demonstrations ever witnessed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Steel, ever an inspiring market leader, stimulated speculative enthusiasm to such an extent that it reached the highest price at which it ever sold, 160½, and swept the main body of stocks along with it to the highest levels reached in many months.

It was a steel market. From the opening moment at 10 o'clock, when traders were massed around the Steel post in a frenzy of excitement waiting for the first transactions, until the closing gong at 3 o'clock there was such a mad scramble for the stock as to recall that other red letter day in Steel, Dec. 21, 1916, the day of the "peace-leak" market, when the peak for all time was reached in the volume of trading. Total transactions in the stock yesterday ran to 617,400 shares, the heaviest turnover since the record of 875,000 set in 1916. Yesterday's total sales involved a cash aggregate of around $95,000,000.

Opening Scene Exciting.

The scenes that attended the opening were dramatic, both on the floor of the Stock Exchange and in brokerage houses throughout the financial district. Steel had closed on the preceding day at 154⅞, at which time Wall Street was conjecturing wildly on the "important developments" known to be impending. It was not until 2:45 o'clock, 45 minutes after the close of the market, that Chairman E. H. Gary announced the proposed "melon-cutting." So no one knew yesterday morning just what the market's response would be. At 10 o'clock the Exchange floor was seething with excitement. Throughout the financial district, and possibly in many other cities throughout the country, stock market operators, large and small; small-fry traders, bankers, investors and mere spectators were draped around the tickers or congregated before the boards in customers' rooms.

"X"—the Steel symbol—was tapped off, 40,000 shares at a spread opening of 158½-160, meaning that the 40,000 represented lumped sales at quotations in this range. The market was off. The appetite for Steel was revealed. Throughout the first hour there was tremendous activity in the stock. In the first fifteen minutes 131,000 shares changed hands, while in the first forty-five minutes there was a turnover of 367,700 shares.

The buying fever spread throughout the general list. Standard issues, speculative favorites and stocks which have been sluggish for weeks were snapped up. Railroad shares, under the leadership of Atchison, New York Central and New Haven, bounded forward, carrying a large portion of the rail group with them. Atchison, the most spectacular performer in this department of the market, was run up sharply on reports that the directors might declare a stock dividend soon. Other issues which were under accumulation, especially Allied Chemical, owed part of their strength apparently to the circulation of reports of possible stock distributions. Wall Street was filled with rumors that large companies with huge surpluses were preparing to follow the example of United States Steel and distribute additional stock.

A list of the day's leaders in the stock market and their price ranges may be found in an accompanying table.

The total turnover on the Stock Exchange was 2,640,441 shares, which was the largest day's business since Aug. 3, when 2,839,021 shares changed hands.

The story of the day's activity was written also in the averages. THE NEW YORK TIMES's average for twenty-five representative rail stocks was 101.66, the highest for all time, and that for twenty-five representative industrials was 181.45. The average for the fifty stocks combined was 141.56, also the highest for all time.

Many Take Profits.

Heavy profit-taking developed at the middle of the day, but the advance was not halted at any stage. That there was a great deal of selling of Steel was attested by the fact that the range for the day in the second heaviest trading in history was only 2¼ points.

While the stock market was boiling under the intoxication of Steel, the new stock was being traded in at an astonishing rate on the New York Curb Market on a when-issued basis. The Street's appraisal of the value of the new stock was to be found in these transactions. While the theoretical value of this stock, on the basis of the market value at the close on Thursday, was about 110, it was actually traded in yesterday on the Curb at prices higher than this. The day's high on this stock was 116⅞, the low was 115 and the close was 116¾. The total sales were 118,300 shares.

Arbitraging on an extensive scale was carried on between the present

Earth Will Darken Section of Moon Tonight In First 'Lunar Appulse' in Four Centuries

BOSTON, Dec. 17 (AP).—There is going to be a shadow on the face of the man in the moon tomorrow night. An unusual celestial phenomenon, known as a "lunar appulse," wherein the moon enters the earth's penumbra is to take place. Scientists say it is four centuries since the last occurrence of the kind. It will be almost an eclipse, but not quite. Appulses are much rarer.

This partial shadow will darken the moon while that planet swings close to the black true shadow. It will not touch the umbra, however, for if it did there would be an eclipse. The moon will enter the penumbra at about 11 P. M. Eastern Standard Time, always remaining visible, although its light will be dimmed.

This darkening of the moon will progress until about 1:20 A. M. Sunday, when, according to the authorities, the moon will have assumed a dark hue at the edge, shading to ruddy brown. From then on the spectacle will fade and shortly after 3:30 A. M. the moon will be fully visible.

At the Harvard College observatory it was explained that the phenomenon was not scientifically important. At Providence College, Father Lawkins, Professor of Astronomy, plans to train a telescope on the moon and explain the phenomenon to a group of students.

Ernest Torrence Lauds American Navy For Aid in Taking Sick Aunt From Liner

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—A tribute has been paid to the American navy for its efforts to save the life of his aunt, Mrs. V. Earle, by Ernest Torrence, film actor, in a letter to The London Times.

"She was an elderly lady, 75 years old, on her way to Los Angeles," he writes, "on the steamer President Harrison, to visit her daughter and niece.

"Nine hundred miles south of Los Angeles Mrs. Earle was stricken with a mortal illness. A radio appeal was sent out by Captain Porter of the President Harrison, was received by Admiral Richard H. Jackson, Commander of the Pacific Coast Fleet of the United States Navy. It was necessary to perform an operation on Mrs. Earle in order to prolong her life till she had reached her loved ones. The ship facilities were inadequate. Captain Porter asked for two surgeons, two nurses and complete operating equipment and medical supplies.

"Without hesitation, Admiral Jackson ordered a relief ship to proceed from San Diego to meet the liner. When it was discovered that the hospital ship was too slow to reach the liner in time to save the aged passenger's life, the Admiral immediately ordered the destroyer Decatur to proceed at full speed to the rescue.

"Needless to state, the destroyer crowded her engines to the limit on this errand of mercy, reaching the liner in time to prolong Mrs. Earle's life, and bring her safely into the port of San Pedro, some 30 miles from Los Angeles. Lieut. Commander Carlton L. Andrus and D. G. Sutton commanded the destroyer.

"I am very happy to write that this splendid deed enabled Mrs. Earle to survive until she reached the arms of her loved ones. She died a few days after her arrival at a Los Angeles hospital."

stock on the New York Stock Exchange and the when-issued stock on the Curb. As the most favorable period for such transactions in the day traders, it was estimated, could make a net profit of $1 a share. The volume of such trading was understood to be largest around noon. It was calculated that the market for each stock would soon readjust itself to a point that would eliminate the opportunity for such profits.

There was a great deal of discussion in financial circles as to the dividend policy to be adopted by the Steel Corporation after the new stock is issued. The general impression seems to be that the present rate of 7 per cent. will be maintained. It was recalled in this connection that Chairman Gary at the annual meeting of stockholders last April, in intimating that a stock dividend would be paid when the management deemed it safe to do so, remarked: "Of course, if this were done it would add to the amount of cash dividends on common stock." This statement is now construed as an indication that Steel's management has no intention of reducing the rate. The rate of $7 on the enlarged common share capital would be equivalent to $9.80 a share on the present capital.

The payment of the present rate on the new common share capital will require a total annual disbursement of $49,813,646. The net earnings for common shares in 1923 were $83,487,387; in 1924 they were $59,847,514, and in 1925 they were $85,382,975. The corporation, it is estimated, will earn about $69,000,000 this year.

That the 40 per cent. stock dividend is justified, it was pointed out in Wall Street yesterday, is indicated by the fact that the surplus of the corporation, including $240,000,000 appropriated for plant extensions, will amount to more than $800,000,000 at the close of this year. There will remain a surplus of more than $600,000,000 after the distribution of $308,321,000 as a stock dividend.

Stocks Carried Upward With U. S. Steel In Huge Volume of Trading on the Exchange

Among the stocks which, led by United States Steel, were most active yesterday on the New York Stock Exchange, advancing in price and helping to make a total turnover of 2,640,441 shares for the day, were the following:

New high price for all time.

The rate of operations for the first two weeks of December was higher than that at the end of November. The last week was a good one also for fabricated structural steel. Lettings for the week totaled 64,000 tons, as against 35,000 tons in the previous week. The figures caused surprise today, as the fabricated steel lettings of the last few months had dropped to a point distinctly below that maintained for two years. Totals for the last fortnight, however, are approximately 50 per cent. above the two-year average.

ATTACKS STOCK DIVIDEND.

Lawyer for Unions Says Money Was Taken From Employes.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17 (AP).—The distribution of more than $800,000,000 to common stock holders of the United States Steel Corporation without any of it going to the small wage earners of that organization was criticised adversely today by Donald Richberg, a lawyer, who represents various labor unions and in 1922 was counsel for the striking railway shop crafts.

"The stockholders have not earned a dollar of this surplus and have been generously paid for all the money they have invested," said Mr. Richberg. "But the managers, being large stockholders, have now converted the surplus earnings of the workers into stock and given it to themselves and other stockholders. The stock dividend simply means that the small wage earners have been finally deprived of the wages which they earned in the $200,000,000 surplus.

"Perhaps Judge Gary will announce as a Christmas present that these employes will be permitted to buy on easy payments some of the stock which they have already bought and paid for—but which has been legally taken from them."

STEEL MILLS MORE ACTIVE.

Corporation Operating at Pittsburgh at 83 Per Cent. of Capacity.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 17.—Following yesterday's announcement of a 40 per cent. stock dividend by the United States Steel Corporation, figures were released here today showing that operations of steel mills in this district have been increased in the last week and that the Steel Corporation has reached a rate of 83 to 84 per cent. of its capacity in ingot production. The independent companies, it is said, are not far behind this figure.

LOANS OPEN SOON TO EX-SERVICE MEN

Credit Value of Bonus Certificates by Jan. 1 Will Be $216,668,000.

BANKS EXPECT BIG DEMAND

Washington Officials Predict Government Will Have to Redeem Thousands of Certificates.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—According to statements made tonight by officials of the United States Veterans' Bureau, the loan value of adjusted compensation certificates issued by authority of the Soldiers' Bonus act will approximate $216,668,000 by Jan. 1, 1927.

During the coming year the loan value of these certificates will increase to a total of more than $263,000,000 and to a total of more than $380,000,000 by the end of 1930.

Certificates in the nature of insurance so far issued to more than 3,000,000 men and women who have served in the World War, now have a maturity value of more than $3,127,000,000.

Under the law loans may be made by banks and trust companies on the certificates, up to 90 per cent. of their current face value, any time after two years from the date of issue. Thus a $1,000 certificate running two years would have a loan value of $87.93. At the end of nineteen years this same certificate would have a loan value of $631.

The Veterans' Bureau has no means of knowing just what proportion of the certificates will be offered as collateral for loans on Jan. 1, but banks are counting on a heavy demand on this account. Most of the certificates bear the date of Jan. 1, 1925, and are therefore good for loans on the first of next month.

While these certificates are regarded as desirable collateral, there is one provision of the law bearing on the loaning feature that is objectionable to bankers. That is the stipulation that the Veterans' Bureau may not redeem a certificate accepted as security for a loan until six months after default. The certificates run for a maximum period of twenty years. The Veterans' Bureau has issued regulations under which the certificates may be sold, transferred or rediscounted. Interest on loans made on adjusted compensation certificates are restricted to 2 per cent. above the current rediscount rates of the Federal Reserve banks.

Estimates made here indicate that service men in New York hold certificates which will be valued on Jan. 1 next for loan purposes at more than $22,000,000. Officials here are of the opinion that thousands of these certificates eventually will have to be redeemed by the Government through the medium of the Veterans' Bureau.

As a result of thousands of inquiries received from service men and bankers bearing on loans on adjusted compensation certificates instructions for the benefit of all have been prepared by the Veterans' Bureau. They are, in part, as follows:

SECTION 13302. TO WHOM LOANS MAY BE MADE.

Only the veteran named in the certificate can lawfully obtain a loan on his adjusted service certificate, and neither the beneficiary nor any other person than the veteran has any rights in this respect. The person to whom the loan is made must be known to the lending bank to be the veteran named in the certificate securing such note. The consent of the beneficiary is not required, the act providing that a loan on the security of the certificate may be made "with or without the consent of the beneficiary thereof."

SECTION 13303. BY WHOM LOANS MAY BE MADE.

Any national bank or any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of any State, Territory, possession or the District of Columbia hereinafter referred to as any "bank" is authorized to loan to any veteran upon his promissory note, secured by his adjusted service certificate, any amount not in excess of the loan value of the certificate at the date the loan is made.

Each certificate contains on its face a table for determining the loan value of the certificate. Upon the making of such loan, the lending bank shall promptly notify the bureau of the name of the veteran, the number shown immediately after the name, the number of the certificate and the amount and date of loans. However, this requirement may be waived by the director.

SECT. 13305. INTEREST CHARGES.

The rate of interest which a bank may charge upon such a loan shall not exceed by more than 2 per cent. per annum the rate charged at the date of the loan for the discount of ninety-day commercial paper under Section 13 of the Federal Reserve act by the Federal Reserve Bank of the district in which the lending bank is located.

SECTION 13306. SALE OR DISCOUNT OF NOTE BY HOLDING BANK.

Any bank holding a note secured by an adjusted service certificate may sell the note to any bank authorized to make a loan to a veteran and deliver the certificate to such bank. In case a note secured by an adjusted service certificate is sold or transferred, the bank selling, discounting or rediscounting the note is required by law to notify the veteran promptly by mail at his last known postoffice address.

No adjusted service certificate is negotiable or assignable or may serve as security for a loan, except as provided in Section 502 of the World War Adjusted Compensation act, which is printed on the face of each certificate.

Any negotiation, assignment or loan made in violation of Section 502 of the World War Adjusted Compensation act is void.

In case of sale discount or rediscount by the bank which made the loan, the note should be accompanied by the affidavit required by Paragraph 8 of these regulations.

SECTION 13307. REDISCOUNTS WITH FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS:

Upon the endorsement of any bank, which shall be deemed a waiver of demand, notice and protest by such bank as to its own endorsement exclusively, and subject to regulations to be prescribed by the Federal Reserve Board any such note secured by an adjusted service certificate and held by a bank is made eligible for discount or rediscount by the Federal Reserve Bank of the Federal Reserve District in which such bank is located, whether or not the bank offering the note for discount or rediscount is a member of the Federal Reserve System and whether or not it acquired the note in the first instance from the veteran or acquired it by transfer upon the endorsement of any other bank; provided that at the time of discount or rediscount such note has a maturity not in excess of nine months, exclusive of days of grace, and complies in all other respects with the provisions of the law the regulations of the Federal Reserve Board and this regulation.

SECTION 13308. REDEMPTION BY BUREAU.

(A) If the veteran does not pay the loan at its maturity, the bank holding the note and certificate may at any time after the maturity of the loan but not before the expiration of six months after the loan was made, present them to the Director of the Bureau. The Director may in his discretion accept the certificate and note and pay the bank in full satisfaction of its claim, the amount of the paid principal due it and unpaid interest at the rate fixed in the note up to the date of the check issued to the bank.

ARMY MUST TRANSFER 1,200 MEN TO AIR ARM

Further Reduction of Other Branches of Service Is Made Necessary by Economy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The regular army, already reduced in numbers, according to the public statements of its leaders, is to be yet further skeletonized in its cavalry, infantry, field artillery and coast artillery branches.

Forced to reduce its enlisted personnel recently from 118,750 to 110,000 because of insufficient appropriations for rationing, it now finds that the expansion called for in its developing aviation arm will not be taken care of by a corresponding increase in its total strength.

Instead the increase of over 1,248 men contemplated by law for army aviation in the fiscal year 1928, for which appropriations are now being framed, must be taken from the other combatant arms of the service.

The authorized strength of the army for 1928 is confidently expected to be put at 115,000 men, a loss of 3,750 from that permitted for the present year before the allowance of 53 cents a day per man for rations was found to be insufficient and the cost was increased to 36 cents, causing automatically a reduction to 110,000 men.

NAVY REVISES PLAN FOR MANOEUVRES

Changes Are Made as a Result of Army Giving Up Participation.

BIG WAR GAME OFF COAST

Main Fleet Will Have 120 Vessels In Tactical Exercises That Will Be Tried.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The scheduled manoeuvres of the navy will be held in Atlantic waters next Spring, notwithstanding the withdrawal of the army because of lack of funds, but the exercises will not take on the character originally outlined as a test of the coast defenses.

Instead, the United States fleet, consisting of nearly 120 vessels, will conduct tactical exercises off the coast, furnishing the first war games to be held in the North Atlantic area since the war.

Target practice and tactical exercises will first be conducted at Guantanamo, and then the fleet will move into North Atlantic waters for exercises off the New England coast beyond the steamer lanes. Destroyers will launch attacks, vessels will be deployed and all other manoeuvres will be conducted to increase the efficiency of the floating fighting machine.

The scouting fleet will go to Atlantic ports from Guantanamo for the Christmas holidays, but will return to Cuban waters in early January, and on March 5 will be joined by the battle fleet from the Pacific. Tactics and gunnery exercises will be conducted until April 23, when the fleet will leave for New York, to remain until May 15.

It will then put to sea for the tactical exercises. These will continue five days, the time allotted including that originally set aside for the joint exercises with the army, and on May 21 the fleet will put into Narragansett Bay and soon afterward break up.

Engaged in the manoeuvres will be fifteen battleships, seven light cruisers, sixty-four destroyers, fifteen submarines, the aircraft carrier Langley and a number of supply ships, tenders and other craft.

Aircraft will participate from the decks of the first line craft and the Langley, but the dirigible Los Angeles will not be available, as under the terms of its construction in Germany, it is used by the navy only for training purposes.

Hopes that the new aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga would be available for the manoeuvres were in vain, as neither will be completed in time.

FOR MORE BUILDING MONEY.

Reed Proposes Additional Appropriation of $100,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP).—A lump appropriation of $100,000,000 for public building construction throughout the country was proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative Reed of New York, a Republican member of the Public Buildings Committee. The amount would be in addition to the $100,000,000 provided for this purpose by Congress last Winter.

The money would be appropriated at the rate of $10,000,000 annually. This would increase from $25,000,000 to $35,000,000 the amount now available each year.

COL. SMITH DEFIANT IN SENATE DILEMMA

WANTS TO GIVE HIS SIDE

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—According to information received in Washington today, Senator-designate Frank L. Smith of Illinois is still showing a defiant attitude toward the warning of his friends that he will be denied a seat in the Senate if he presents himself with credentials from Governor Len Small appointing him to fill the unexpired term of the late William B. McKinley.

The situation produced by Mr. Smith's appointment has reached a critical stage, with the general view prevailing among Senators that an effort by Mr. Smith to enter the Senate at this time would produce a debate so prolonged that all other legislative business would go by the board and President Coolidge would be compelled to call an extra session of the new Congress in order to enact the annual supply bills for the support of the Government in the next fiscal year.

It is with preventing an extra session of a Congress, in which Republican Senators will at the best be equal in number only to the combined opposition, that leading Republicans are chiefly concerned. But they are concerned also over the set conviction that it will make a bad situation worse if the moral principle involved in the cases of Mr. Smith and Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania is brought to the front in the Senate at this time. Therefore they are still seeking ways of convincing Mr. Smith that he will injure the interests of his party as well as his own cause if he brings Governor Small's credentials to the Senate and attempts to use them in an effort to take the seat of the late Senator McKinley.

Canvass Situation for Smith.

Three personal and political friends of Mr. Smith have been in Washington for several days for the purpose of ascertaining for his information what the situation is affecting his case. One of them is William Hale Thompson, former Mayor of Chicago and commonly referred to at one time as the Republican boss of that city. He went back to Chicago this afternoon convinced, according to those with whom he conferred, that Mr. Smith would commit a grievous error if he sought admission to the Senate on the basis of the credentials appointing him.

Another friend who is taking the same character of information to Mr. Smith is Allan F. Moore, Republican National Committeeman for Illinois, who managed Mr. Smith's successful campaign for election to the Senate this year.

In talks over the telephone with these and others in Washington or who have been here, Mr. Smith has resisted their advice by stressing that the Senate, according to his contention, has an entire misconception of his case and that he is the only person capable of setting it right. For that reason, he tol' them, he felt that he should come to Washington and, through the medium of presenting his certificate of appointment, get a hearing before the Senate.

An alternative proposal which has been made to Mr. Smith over the telephone and which is to be laid before him again by those who are returning to Illinois with first-hand information about the Senate's reaction to his case is that he might come to Washington after the Chrismas holidays, bringing his wife with him, and find out for himself, through conferring with many Republican Senators, Representatives and others here with whom he is acquainted, just what he would have to expect if he presented his credentials in the Senate Chamber.

Coolidge Corporations.

Toward the close of his campaign for the Senate Mr. Smith sought to justify his heavy expenditures in his primary contest for the Republican nomination and his acceptance of large contributions from Samuel Insull and other prominent public utility executives while Mr. Smith held the position of Chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission, with its power to fix rates and supervise financial transactions of public utility corporations, by indicating his opinion that his case was no worse in that respect than that of President Coolidge in allowing great corporations, so Mr. Smith contended, to contribute to the expenses of his election in 1924.

Suspicion exists here, and may be based on some substantial information, that Mr. Smith desires to appear before the Senate to justify his acceptance of the Insull and similar contributions by pointing to the alleged course of the management of the Republican national campaign two years ago. It is well understood that for him to adopt such a course would not only alienate many of those disposed to be friendly to him but also injure his own standing as a Republican by giving the Democrats much ammunition for use against the Republican Party in the Presidential contest of 1928.

Alarmed over the situation, some Republican Senators were consulting today over a proposal that a party conference be called to adopt a definite program either to make it clear to Mr. Smith that those from whom ordinarily he might expect support would vote to reject him if he tried to get into the Senate at this time or to adopt a mode of procedure for meeting the likelihood of a prolonged debate on the Smith case, which would precipitate an extra session unless nipped in the bud. There was opposition to having any party conference in the present uncertain state of affairs, and no agreement is in sight.

Senator Ashurst's resolution to bar Smith from the Senate came before the Senate automatically in the course of routine business today, but Senator Ashurst explained that he did not desire to press it unless and until Mr. Smith appeared to take the oath. At his request the resolution went over without prejudice and will lie on the table ready to be called up should Mr. Smith appear personally in the Senate chamber and ask to be admitted.

Col. Smith Thinks of Waiting a Bit.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Colonel Frank L. Smith would not discuss his plans today.

From persons close to him in politics it was learned that Colonel Smith does not purpose to refuse the three-month term to which he was appointed. The suggestion made by them was that Colonel Smith await a more favorable time to present his short-term certificate. Colonel Smith's idea is said to be to give the Senate a chance to cool a bit before he steps in with his credentials.

SEES OVERREACHING AS NATIONAL DANGER

Sir Henry Thornton Warns America to Beware of Arrogance and Intolerance.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—The United States has within its hands today the welfare of practically all other nations of the world and "it is only by tolerance in her national and international affairs that she can restore to the march of civilization that prosperity and content which the war destroyed," Sir Henry W. Thornton, K. B. E., President of the Canadian National Railways, declared tonight in an address to the Illinois Manufacturers' Association. Sir Henry, who chose as his topic, "Overreaching," said in part:

"Overreaching is one of the maladies which seem to be inherent in mankind. It is a symptom of malignant opulence and is universally provoked by success. It thrives in an atmosphere of wealth and power. Prosperity blinds the eye to danger, blunts the senses and often excites an auto-intoxication which ends in catastrophe. Overreaching carries in its train intolerance, prejudice an injustice and banishes a recognition of the legitimate rights of others. The pages of history abound in examples of conquerors, rulers and nations who have fallen prey to overreaching.

"The great highway along which nations and empires have traveled is strewn with the skelotons of those who have overreached. Pharaoh lost a valuable addition to the Egyptian population by overreaching and oppressing Moses and his flock. Alexander the Great overreached considerably, but an untimely death rescued him from a fate which would otherwise have been his. Julius Caesar was similarly and somewhat luckily saved. Overreaching destroyed Antony and shattered the hopes of Cleopatra. Imperial Rome and all of the great empires of antiquity committed suicide while of unsound mind by grasping more than could be assimilated.

"In modern times the two outstanding examples of over-reaching are found in Napoleon and the Central Empires. Had either been content with what was reasonable and consistent with safe acquisition, the history of the world would have been different, much blood and treasure would have been saved, and civilization materially advanced. The oppression which an English King displayed, and which was but a form of overreaching, was responsible for the independence and the creation of the United States of America.

"Great wealth and great power carry with them increasingly grave responsibilities. They also expose the recipient to the dangers of pride, vainglory, arrogance and ruthlessness.

"In these days when great political and social forces are working rapid changes in our habit of life and our viewpoint, nothing is so essential on the part of the individual, the community, and the nation as that poise which springs from knowledge—the knowledge of mankind, the knowledge of limitations, the recognition of humility. The more one studies the less one finds the store of individual knowledge to be. The more tolerant one becomes the more clearly one recognizes the rights of others and the less does one fall a prey to over-reaching. As is the citizen, so is the State. The principles which determine the daily conduct of individuals and their enterprises are also the principles which will determine the policies of the State.

"The people of the United States hold in their hands, to a large degree, the welfare of many other nations and the safety of civilization. Your statesmen, your bankers, your industrial executives and the people at large are the responsible custodians of the policies of the nation. Your greatest menace is your wealth. Only by tolerance in your national and international relations, only by that poise which comes from education and a knowledge of mankind, and only by that humility which finds its source in wisdom, will you be faithful to your responsibilities and restore the march of civilization which but lately has been retarded by that greatest of all disasters, the Great War."

Sir Henry was born in Indiana.

Regiment Plans Benefit Circus.

Members of the 104th Field Artillery, National Guard, will stage a benefit circus at the armory, Sixty-eighth Street and Broadway, this evening to raise funds for the widowed mother of an ex-member of the regiment who was killed in an accident a few days ago. Colonel James E. Austin, in command of the regiment, has arranged an extensive program, including an indoor polo game. After the circus there will be dancing.

mendation of the National Committeeman that does not have a consideration."

Senator Harrison said if the matter was going to be investigated in Georgia the resolution should not be confined to that State, "but should apply to other States," where rumors are current or charges have been preferred. "If not to the whole United States, I think at least it ought to apply to the Southern States," he said.

"If the subject is going to be investigated," said Senator Norris, "it is much broader than postoffices. I do not like the form of the resolution. It seems to me it ought to be in general terms and not applied to any one State.

"Would the Senator from Georgia be willing to enlarge the scope of his resolution so as to take in the country generally?" asked Senator Smith.

"I have no objection to that amendment," replied Mr. Harris, "this is a pretty serious charge to make. I would not have made it if I had not known through reliable people that there was foundation for the charges contained in this resolution. I did not want to include other States without having similar knowledge as to them."

Norris Wants National Inquiry.

"Any Senator," Mr. Smith continued, "who has been here any length of time knows the condition alleged to exist in my State. I think I was one of the first that came here asking for consideration. I would like to have my State included if we are to make a thorough and honest investigation of the conditions."

Senator Norris said:

"This matter ought to be investigated in a very comprehensive way. It should not apply to postoffices alone, nor apply to any State alone. The jurisdiction of the investigating committee, if any investigation is to take place, ought to cover the entire country. I do not mean the committee should go everywhere in the country and investigate, but it ought to have the power to do that.

"It should not be confined by any geographical limitations, nor even to the so-called Southern States, from which I suppose most of the charges come. If the matter shall be investigated in the way in which it should be, it will be no small task. The committee ought to have authority to sit anywhere in the United States. They ought to be given as broad a scope as possible."

Additional scope for the inquiry was suggested by Senator Trammell of Florida, who said:

"There is one feature that should be investigated that does not seem to be embraced within the resolution, that is, the question of assessments made against Federal employes, officeholders, for maintenance of State and national organizations. I have no direct proof upon that subject, but it is pretty commonly rumored that postmasters have to make contributions to maintain the State Republican organizations."

SINCLAIR-FALL CASE WAITS TILL TUESDAY

Court Postpones Hearing on the Motion to Quash the Teapot Dome Indictment.

NEW ATTACKS IN SENATE

Heflin Again Scores Freeing of Fall and Doheny, With Reed of Missouri Joining.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Justice Jennings Bailey of the District of Columbia Supreme Court today postponed until Tuesday the hearing of arguments on the motion of Harry F. Sinclair of New York to quash the indictment for alleged conspiracy against himself and Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, growing out of the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve in Wyoming. Postponement was made necessary by congestion of the court docket for the day.

Levi Cooke, counsel for Mr. Fall, told the Court that he expected to file a similar motion on behalf of the former Cabinet officer. The Court limited the argument on the motion to an hour on each side.

Messrs. Roberts and Pomerene, special counsel for the Government, will file a brief Tuesday in opposition to the motion to quash.

Mr. Sinclair was present today with counsel, but Mr. Fall was resting at a hotel. His attorneys arranged with Government counsel that he could be called by telephone in the event arraignment, scheduled to follow disposition of the motion to quash, should be ordered. Wilton J. Lambert was in court as counsel with Mr. Cooke for Mr. Fall.

The grounds of Sinclair's motion are that the appointment of special counsel and singling out the oil cases deprived the accused of the equal protection of the law; also that the passage of the Walsh act taking jurisdiction from the Court of Appeals after a special appeal had been granted the accused and the passage of the recent act of Congress allowing the Government to serve subpoenas on Americans found outside the jurisdiction of the United States further impaired the defendant's rights.

More Criticism in Senate.

References were made again today in the Senate regarding the acquittal yesterday of Fall and Doheny on a charge of conspiring to defraud the Government in the Elk Hills leases.

Senators Reed of Missouri and Heflin of Alabama touched upon the subject, although neither ventured criticism of Judge and jury such as was voiced in yesterday's discussion by Mr. Heflin.

Senator Reed brought to the attention of the Senate an editorial on the Fall-Doheny case printed in today's Philadelphia Record, which he described as one of the finest pieces o' irony that he had ever read. The general tone of the editorial was that in the light of the acquittal of Messrs. Fall and Doheny the American people were always assured of righteous verdicts in the District of Columbia, the seat of Government.

Mr. Heflin told the Senate that he wanted to preserve in the Congressional Record a full narrative of the jury's action in the Fall-Doheny case. He said that it was his wish that the country should know that the jury sang and cursed as it deliberated over the fate of the accused. He read headlines on the report of the acquittal printed by The Washington Post, which read, in part:

"Jury acquits Fall and Doheny; exoneration declared complete; bribery charge may be dropped," and which also represented Mr. Doheny as giving way to tears.

BUCKNER'S AIDES HIT BACK.

Prosecutors of Daugherty Decry Heflin's Charge of Jury "Fixing."

The speech of Senator Thomas J. Heflin of Alabama in the Senate on Thursday met with sharp retorts yesterday in the office of Emory R. Buckner, United States Attorney, who conducted the prosecution of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, former Alien Property Custodian. Conduct of the Daugherty trial was attacked by Senator Heflin, who charged that Mr. Daugherty would never have gone to trial "until he knew somebody on the jury would hang there until doomsday or acquit him or make a mistrial."

Mr. Buckner himself was not at his office, as he is recovering from an operation. A spokesman said that the Government had never imputed any improper actions to the Daugherty jury, however disappointed it had been at the jury's disagreement. Senator Heflin was also criticised for his statement that Mr. Buckner had been appointed by the same Administration at Washington which produced Albert B. Fall, Daugherty and Jess Smith. Mr. Buckner was appointed in February, 1925, by President Coolidge, at the suggestion of Harlan F. Stone, then Attorney General, now a Justice of the Supreme Court. Mr. Daugherty was no longer in the Cabinet at that time, and Mr. Fall had already resigned as Secretary of the Interior.

It was pointed out that Mr. Buckner's attitude was best shown by the impending retrial, to which his office is devoting all its energies in an attempt to obtain a conviction.

Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mr. Daugherty, refused to comment on Senator Heflin's charges. William Rand Jr., of counsel for Colonel Miller, ridiculed the Senator's accusations, calling them "hot air, like a lot of other speeches made in the Senate."

Heflin Has Not Seen Toland.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Senator Heflin said tonight that if, as reported in a dispatch from New York, Edmond Toland, Special Assistant of the Department of Justice in the Daugherty case, had come to Washington to see he Senator what he knew about the alleged murder of Jess Smith, he had not called upon the Senator. At the hotel where Mr. Toland usually stops when in Washington it was stated tonight that he had not been there for several days.

LEAGUE NO ALLIANCE, PROF. MURRAY SAYS

Calls It a New Way of Living and Cites Record of Its Accomplishments.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—"The League of Nations is not an alliance, it is a new way of living," declared Professor Gilbert Murray, speaking tonight at the citizens' farewell given in his honor at Symphony Hall. "It is not an alliance, not a league of some nations against others. It is a league of all peace-loving nations against war."

Professor Murray, one of the leaders in the League, will shortly return to Oxford after a series of lectures here at Harvard and at the Lowell Institute.

Professor Murray opened his address with an expression of gratitude to the United States, which, he said, by its pressure at Paris in 1918 and 1919 brought the League idea into practical accomplishment.

"Of the many dangers that faced the world at that time," he said, "the prospect of another war between France and Germany—a war which would wreck civilization—was by far the greatest. If you read the treaties signed last year at Locarno, you will see that France and Germany have agreed never under any circumstances to make war on one another. They will keep their word. And if any party should arise in either country desiring war, it would have against it immediately Italy and Great Britain and afterward all the sanctions of the League."

The speaker then went on to discuss other work of the League. Its next step, he said, must be to bring about a surety of peace between Germany and Poland.

As an example of the League's methods he cited the settlement of the boundary dispute between Czechoslovakia and Poland by establishing the disputed territory as a bird and game sanctuary.

In regard to the fear common here that the decisions of the World Court, which he characterized as a great accomplishment of the League, were unenforceable by war, he pointed out that such measures cannot be used against the offender has actually committed acts of war. He also brought out that in case of aggressive war by a member against a non-member the League is pledged to defend the defender unless against the attacker.

H. Woods also paid $800 for a fifteenth to sixteenth century carved pino wood door, paneled in six sections and carved in bas-relief. Arthur Arnold bid in for $925 a fifteenth century sculptured Dolomite stone font.

A. Fellows paid $900 for an eighteenth century Southern Spain walnut and pino wood entrance door paneled in intricate geometrical design. He also bought for $850 an eighteenth century wrought-iron and parcel-gilded gateway.

IF A CHILD WERE TO "STAND AT THE DOOR AND KNOCK" this Christmas, you might not be able to give him a home yourself. But you would surely see that he was cared for.

BECAUSE It's Christmas

Will you give $100 to enable us to place a homeless child in a good home?

Or $50 to board a temporarily motherless child in a family home?

Or $10 to help us trim a tree, fill a stocking, and cook a Christmas dinner for the poor children who look to us for Christmas happiness?

RUG DUTIES MAY RISE $44,000,000 A YEAR

Port Appraiser Seeks to Learn If Price Control Rules in Lands of Manufacture.

THIS WOULD RAISE LEVIES

Between $44,000,000 and $55,000,000 in customs duties, which may be added hereafter to those now paid in a year by importers of Oriental rugs into the United States, is estimated to be at stake in an inquiry now being conducted by F. J. H. Kracke, Appraiser of the Port of New York. The investigation, which has been going on quietly for several weeks, was revealed last night.

Besides those millions of revenues which may be levied against the rug importers, it was reported on reliable authority, a basis may be laid through the inquiry for suits by the Treasury Department against practically the entire Oriental rug trade in this country, to collect similar huge sums in customs in arrears for the last few years.

The inquiry hinges on the provisions of the tariff laws by which goods in customs are appraised either by foreign valuation or United States market valuation. Oriental rugs are now appraised for duties averaging 55 per cent. upon the foreign or manufacturing valuation. After the inquiry they may be appraised at their American market valuation or about three times the foreign one.

According to the tariff law, it is understood, the appraiser here uses the foreign valuation where it is shown that there is a free and competitive market for the goods in the countries whence they come. When there is control of price in the foreign country the appraiser here levies the duty on the United States market valuation.

Seek Status of Market Abroad.

It is to determine whether the free and open market on Oriental rugs exists now or has existed in the last few years in the countries of their manufacture that the inquiry by Mr. Kracke is being made. Important dealers in Oriental rugs have been summoned before Mr. Kracke, it is understood, together with their books covering several years.

The imports of Oriental rugs into this country are valued at $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 annually in recent years, according to the foreign figures on which they are assessed. Their American market value is between $120,000,000 and $150,000,000.

Duties on rugs entering at all ports were estimated last night on the basis of these figures as from $22,000,000 to $27,500,000 a year. At the United States market valuation the duties would be from $66,000,000 to $82,500,000.

It is said that the manufacturing country under attack chiefly is China, but allegations of price control have been made—and denied—concerning the manufacturers in the other Oriental and Near East producing centres.

Calls Price Control Absurd.

Kent R. Costikyan, Treasurer of Kent-Costikyan, 485 Fifth Avenue, said last night he had heard of the inquiry, but called the idea that the Oriental rug market abroad was controlled absurd. Buying, he said, was a highly competitive and fluctuating business in all countries, with the result that American buyers sometimes overbought and sometimes did not import enough for their demands. The entire trade, he said, was completely lacking in general organization.

"I suspect," he said, "that any question of price control abroad is part of the tactics of domestic rug manufacturers, who have seen tremendous increase in the sales of Orientals recently because of the prosperity of the country. I have heard that there was some question about raising the duties on Chinese rugs, but that would be a matter for Congress. Chinese manufacture certainly is not organized so that there is price fixing."

H. Michaelyan, head of the corporation of that name at 2 West Forty-seventh Street, said he had heard that the foreign valuation on modern Chinese rugs was under fire, but that as a dealer principally in antiques the inquiry did not concern him. He said he understood there had been some question raised of control in markets abroad by interests of several countries, among them the United States, but whether there was any ground for it he could not say.

grillage embedded in an eighteen-foot slab of reinforced concrete, anchored in the solid rock, which, it was estimated, will bear a load of thirty-five tons to the square foot. The building will be designed to use less than 60 per cent. of this capacity load.

Construction of the Larkin Tower Building was expected to be started as soon as the present owners complete new buildings elsewhere for the occupancy of the Rehabilitation and General Hospital and the George A. Feld Company, two of the property owners, from whom sites for the new building were bought. These buildings are expected to be completed in January. As soon as possible thereafter demolition will be started. The construction was expected to take twenty months. Completion of the building is expected in the Autumn of 1928.

The site of the Larkin Tower Building will front 226.10 feet on the south side of Forty-second Street, 300 feet west of Eighth Avenue, and run through the block to a frontage of 250 feet on Forty-first Street.

The Larkin Brothers were the builders of the twenty-four-story Printing Crafts Building on Eighth Avenue, and have specialized in powerfully built structures.

John A. Larkin said yesterday that he believed that Forty-second Street, with the completion of the new Eighth Avenue subway, would continue to be the natural centre of business and transportation in New York, and that business in the city demanded more concentration—hence a 110-story building.

"It has been asked of us why we chose to design this building taller than other buildings," he said, "but the fact is that we did not set out to accomplish this specific result. We simply endeavored to provide the greatest amount of permanent light and air to the greatest possible proportion of floor area with a surplus of elevator service. The projected building came naturally out of these conditions."

ORMISTON GIVES UP IN LOS ANGELES

Leaves Chicago While Police There Are Waiting for Him to Surrender.

GOES INTO COURT TODAY

Mrs. McPherson Quits Usual Haunts as Her Former Radio Man Arrives.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17 (AP).—The Los Angeles Examiner in a copyrighted story says Kenneth G. Ormiston, co-defendant in the Aimee Semple McPherson case, is under arrest here and will be arraigned tomorrow morning on charges of criminal conspiracy.

The former Angelus Temple radio man was taken into custody by Los Angeles officers at Cajon, on the Los Angeles-San Bernardino County line, soon after 11 o'clock this morning when he left the Union Pacific Limited from Chicago and was brought to this city by automobile, according to the story. He was accompanied by representatives of the newspaper.

Ormiston is quoted as saying he became "tired of waiting to be arrested in Chicago" and, voluntarily waiving extradition, came to California to "find out what it is all about."

To Ask Bail Reduction.

When Ormiston appears in court tomorrow he will ask that the $10,000 bail fixed following his indictment last Wednesday on charges of conspiracy to pervert and obstruct justice be reduced. He will ask for the reduction because of the fact that he waived extradition and came here of his own accord to face the charges against him. Ormiston continued his silence on the McPherson case.

Every step in the apprehension and return of Ormiston to Los Angeles was done with the full knowledge and sanction of District Attorney Asa Keyes, the newspaper states.

Throughout the train trip from Chicago, said J. J. Williams, conductor of the Union Pacific's Gold Coast Limited, Ormiston kept closely to the stateroom occupied by himself and the newspaper men who took him to Los Angeles. Even the car porter failed to get a glimpse of the fugitive. When the porter entered the room Ormiston disappeared into the anteroom and remained there until the porter had departed.

Wait in Vain for Chicago Arrest.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17 (AP).—While the police awaited the surrender here today of Kenneth G. Ormiston information came to them indicating that the fugitive had departed.

Reports that he had been taken to the Pacific Coast were discredited at first, but when the hour set for his appearance passed twice without his surrender, and when his attorneys here professed to have lost all trace of him, the belief grew that Ormiston had left Chicago.

Twice today the Chief of Police, holding a fugitive warrant for Ormiston, set the stage for his appearance and surrender, and as many times he failed to appear. Toward nightfall, as the chief locked up his office and turned out the camera men prepared to picture the radio man's surrender, the suspicion grew stronger among the police that they were victims of a hoax.

Improvement of the equipment of the New York Railways Corporation was promised yesterday by John D. Hertz, Chairman of its Board of Directors, in announcement of the policy of the new board elected as the result of the acquisition of control of the company by the Fifth Avenue Coach Company.

Mr. Herts said that the cars would be repainted and kept clean and that the company was ready to introduce motor coaches and improve traffic conditions generally. The New York Railways Corporation with the Fifth Avenue Coach Company is an applicant for a bus franchise for Manhattan.

"It is our idea to make electric surface transportation in New York the best possible," Mr. Herts said. "This will involve an immense expenditure of money, even though the company is not earning a fair return on its present investment.

Plan Extensive Improvements.

"But, firm in the faith that we shall have the full cooperation of the public, we are about to begin an extensive program of improvements.

"One of the first things to be done will be to array our equipment, so to speak, in a new suit of clothes and to keep the cars at all times fresh and clean.

"We have the full cooperation of our employes, and a committee appointed for this purpose by the New York Railways Brotherhood has made suggestions to improve traffic conditions, which will be brought to the attention of the authorities.

"Should motor coaches be required as the facility best adapted to the ends in view, the company stands ready to introduce them. In this the company has the advantage of connection with the Fifth Avenue Coach Company, the mother company of all city motor coach operation.

"In a word, we aim to give the kind of transportation which will serve the public best and give the City of New York a pride in its existence. This is modern transportation."

Full Board Is Announced.

Mr. Herts announced the full Board of Directors of the New York Railways Corporation, the election of himself and seven other Chicago men having been made known several days ago. The Chicago members of the board are, in addition to Mr. Hertz, Edward N. D'Ancona, Albert Ettlinger, Leonard S. Florsheim, Albert D. Lasker, Charles A. McCulloch, Stuyvesant Peabody and John A. Ritchie.

Other new members of the board are John C. Jay, Robert Lehman, Grayson M. P. Murphy, Charles H. Sabin, Elmer Schlesinger, David A. Schulte, Frederick Strauss, Edmond E. Wose and Frederic T. Wood.

Members of the old board who were reelected are Harry Bronner, J. P. Cotton, George B. Gibbons, Samuel L. Martin, H. J. Sheeran and Willis D. Wood. Five members of the old board resigned, Haley Fiske, Henry V. Poor, Boykin Wright, J. J. Hefferman and W. G. Strait.

SURVEY OF BUREAUS AROUSES SUSPICION

Brooklyn Will Fight Any Move to Eliminate Boroughs, Says Democratic Leader.

CASTS THE LARGEST VOTE

Livingston Expresses Same View—No Objection to Bureau Mergers to Save Money.

Borough officials and politicians who have some influence in the affairs of municipal Government have begun already to look askance at the resolution voted last Thursday by the Board of Estimate empowering Mayor Walker, Controller Berry and Aldermanic President McKee to consider plans for the reorganization and consolidation of departmental and bureau functions of the city Administration.

Some of them do not like the frank suggestion of a probable necessity for serious changes in the City Charter, accompanied by a probable curtailment of borough jobs and borough patronage.

If the Mayor has it in mind to concentrate a centralized city government in Manhattan under Tammany auspices, a Brooklyn Democrat declared yesterday, he is likely to find he has a fight on his hands. This critic pointed out that Brooklyn now casts a greater number of votes than Manhattan; that in any such radical change the voters would have the final decision, and that the city voters might elect to centralize the municipal government either in Brooklyn or in Queens rather than in Manhattan.

Brooklyn, it was said, was ready to give battle over the issue, and that the party leaders of that borough resented the fact that their extensive and powerful demesne was not represented on the committee which the Mayor appointed to make the survey looking toward reorganization and consolidation. Controller Berry having moved from Brooklyn to Staten Island, while Judge McKee is a citizen of the Bronx.

McCooey Will Not Talk.

John H. McCooey was unwilling to discuss the matter, but one of the stanchest lieutenants of the Democratic leader of Brooklyn, said: "The Democratic organization in Kings is in favor of doing away with overlapping work and promoting anything that will make for economy and efficiency in city administration. But any material changes in the construction of the county government with the city government would involve an amendment to the Constitution. This must not be overlooked.

"It must be remembered, too, that amendments to the Constitution must be passed by two successive State Senates and must then be approved by the people at the polls. If the people want to abolish county and borough government they may do so, but only by constitutional amendment, and that would require at least two years and probably longer."

Jacob A. Livingston, Republican county leader of Brooklyn, said: "If this scheme means the elimination of borough and county lines and a new form of centralization, it will be opposed to the limit here in Brooklyn."

Borough President James J. Byrne of Brooklyn indicated that he was ready to go along with the Mayor in any plan he might have in mind for the elimination of overlapping offices and in the interest of economy. But when he was asked whether he thought his $15,000 job as Borough President was jeopardized, he merely smiled.

Miller Laughs at "Menace."

Borough President Julius Miller of Manhattan, who was nominated and elected as the candidate of Tammany Hall, appeared to regard the menace as a huge joke. His comment upon the suggestion that the present power and patronage of the Borough Presidents might be greatly curtailed or even eliminated was a hearty "Ha, ha!

Friends of Mayor Walker who are familiar with his views declared that any such idea as an elimination of county lines in a reorganization of city government was foreign to his thought. He sees no necessity, however, in each borough having its own industrial agencies for the collection of taxes, assessments and arrears, for the prosecution of public works, the inspection of buildings, the paving or grading of streets and other activities which are now directly under the control of the Borough Presidents.

It also was declared by close associates of Mayor Walker that, while he probably was not prepared to advocate so radical a step as the elimination of the Borough Presidents from the Board of Estimate, it was not unlikely that the special committee might consider such a possibility. As the Borough Presidents were city officers elected by vote of the people, such an elimination could be brought about only by a vote of the Board of Estimate itself, ratified later by a popular vote. Neither possibility, it was admitted, was one likely to be realized.

SMITH POSTCARD WINS RACE AROUND WORLD

Beats Coolidge Entry by 6 Hours in 55-Day Journey—$500 Wager on the Contest.

Two postcards which raced each other in opposite directions around the world have reached this city approximately fifty-five days after being mailed. One card bore the likeness of Governor Smith and the other the portrait of President Coolidge. The Smith card won.

On the night of Oct. 21 Theodore Steinway, piano maker, and Hugh Clark, stamp collector, carrying out a novel contest they had entered into at luncheon that day in the Collectors' Club, dispatched the cards. A wager of $500 was made, with Mr. Steinway backing the Smith card.

The cards were mailed in the special postoffice in the International Stamp Exhibition, which was held in Grand Central Palace last October. The cards were stamped at 6 P. M. Mr. Steinway's entrant was westbound, making the first lap to San Francisco by air mail. It was verified in Tokio and London. Mr. Clark's card left the same night on a steamship for London and it was checked in London and in Tokio.

The Smith card reached the Collectors' Club at 4:10 P. M. on Wednesday and at 8 A. M. the next day the Clark-Coolidge card was received. The postmark of the losing card showed that it had reached the New York Postoffice at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, so that in actual time only six hours separated the cards at the finish. The portraits on the cards were executed by Miss Lucy Bycker.

REPUBLICANS OFFER WELFARE PROGRAM

County Committee Body Will Ask Legislature to Make Laws of Platform Pledges.

The Welfare Advisory Committee of the Republican County Committee, of which Harold Riegelman, a lawyer of 67 Wall Street, is Chairman, made public last night a report embodying measures which will be recommended to the incoming Legislature as the Republican welfare program.

The measures are proposed in discharge of party pledges contained in the welfare plank of the Republican State platform, which also was drafted by the Welfare Advisory Committee.

The following recommendations are embodied in the report:

1. That the Housing Board be requested to investigate the extent of emergency arising from a shortage, if any, of housing facilities, any extension of present rent laws to depend upon the findings of the board.

2. That the Mothers' Pension (child welfare) law be clarified as to wives of tubercular husbands and extended to make new or further provision for relatives (other than mothers) supporting orphans, mothers of one or two children, deserted mothers, and to encourage idle boards to function.

3. That no marriage license be issued to a girl under sixteen unless, in addition to parental consent, there is obtained the consent of a Supreme Court or Children's Court Justice or Judge.

4. That State investigation of urban milk supplies be undertaken in order that a thorough impartial study might furnish the basis for comprehensive measures insuring purity of milk from point of origin to consumer, and reform of collection and distribution methods in the interest of producers and consumers.

5. That our archaic, ineffective poor law be modernized by concentrating responsibility for administration and by providing a constructive instead of a negative policy in caring for the poor.

6. That State aid be given for full time health officers in cities of over 50,000 population.

7. That State aid be given for building and equipping public general hospitals in certain counties lacking such facilities.

"It has fallen to the lot of the Republican Party," the report says, "as a majority party in the Legislature, to filter out the small residuum of sound welfare measures from the mass of ill-considered 'panacea' bills that have come before the Legislature for some years. The task has been a difficult and thankless one, in the doing of which party leaders not infrequently gained the name of obstructionists. The charge was undeserved but probably inevitable. Minorities may and do propose freely. Majorities are under a public duty to dispose cautiously."

Mr. Riegelman said in his report that the Republican leaders and the Republican majority of the Senate and Assembly in next year's Legislature were committed to the program and expressed hope that the Democrats would support it too.

The report was signed by Mr. Riegelman, A. A. Berle Jr., Elsie M. Bond, Homer Folks, James H. Hubert, Stanley M. Isaacs, Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins, Solomon Lowenstein, the Rev. William B. Miller, Jeanie V. Miner, Ellen C. Phillips, Mrs. Ruth T. Pratt, Mrs. Pauline M. Sabin, Charles H. Tuttle, Mrs. Grace Vanamee and Miss Lillian D. Wald.

LAYS PRISON LAXITY TO ESTIMATE BOARD

Member of Kings Grand Jurors' Association Reports That It Refused to Increase Guards.

By their failure to provide the proper appropriations, Mayor Walker and the Board of Estimate were held responsible for the recent attempted break from the Tombs, which resulted in five deaths, and for other prison laxity in a report submitted to the Kings County Grand Jurors' Association last night by Stephen S. Tuthill, Chairman of the Prison Committee of the organization.

Mr. Tuthill said in his report that Comissioner of Correction Frederick A. Wallis had made requests for additional funds for more keepers and other facilities before the abortive Tombs break and had warned the city officials of the possibility of such a break unless the proper steps were taken. Mr. Tuthill said that these requests had been ignored.

"I unhesitatingly say," he asserted, "that the blame for the Tombs tragedy and the present condition rests with the Mayor and the Board of Estimate and not with Commissioner Wallis."

The report also warned of the peril of a similar "break" from the Raymond Street Jail in Brooklyn and called for more guards and added precautions there to prevent it.

$36,141 FOR NEW HOSPITAL

Gifts amounting to $36,141 were added to the Lutheran Hospital Building Fund last night, bringing the total obtained to $443,218, according to reports made at a meeting at St. Peter's Church, Fifty-fourth Street and Lexington Avenue. E. F. Ellert, President of the hospital, presided. He said $750,000 was needed to erect the new building at 187th Street and Bennett Avenue which will replace the present structure at 144th Street and Convent Avenue.

Among the gifts announced last night were: Herbert H. Lehman, $1,000; Miss Lillian S. Valentine, $1,000; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gisselle, $1,000; Mrs. Alexander Minick, $1,000; Adolph Kuttroff, $1,000; a Luther Leaguer, $1,000; Anonymous, $5,300; William Krauss, $500; Micuriel Co., $250; Dr. G. W. Smith, $200.

SNOW-GRAFT JAILINGS VALID.

Appellate Court Upholds Legality of Sentencing Nine Men.

Joseph A. Warren, Commissioner of Accounts, wrote to Mayor Walker yesterday that the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court had affirmed the legality of the convictions of the nine city employes who were found guilty in the snow removal grafting cases that were brought to court last Winter as a result of an investigation by Commissioner Warren. In view of this affirmation by the reviewing court, the trials of the remaining twenty defendants, the Commissioner declared, would be pressed immediately.

A check-up by inspectors after the recent snowstorm, Commissioner Warren said, had failed to show a single case of overcharge for snow dumping.

SAYS GUNMAN TRIED TO SELL CONFESSION

Detective Asserts Maxwell, Executed, Offered to Assume Guilt in a Crime for $100.

HE "CLEARED PATTERSON

But Dodd Says He'll Ask No New Trial for Convict, Aided by Slayer's "Admission."

John Maxwell, who before being put to death in Sing Sing on Dec. 9 for the murder of Mrs. Mary Betch during a hold-up declared he had committed a burglary in an A. & P. store in Brooklyn for which crime Victor Patterson is serving time, offered to assume responsibility for another "crime," which he had not committed, if paid $100, according to Detective Philip Lyons of the Thirty-seventh Precinct Station.

Lyons, with Hugh Finnerty and Robert Byrne, respectively manager and clerk of the store at 1,648 Eleventh Avenue, Brooklyn, the robbery of which caused Patterson to be sent to prison last April for fifteen years, rehearsed the facts of the burglary yesterday for Joseph V. Gallagher, Assistant District Attorney of Kings County. Lyons said that during Maxwell's trial for murder in May he entered the prisoners' pen, pretending to be a prisoner. Maxwell, he said, questioned him about his "crime" and said "I'll take the rap for a century." To the criminal this means "I'll take responsibility for $100."

At the time of Maxwell's trial Patterson was in Sing Sing, convicted despite pleas of innocence. His mother, Mrs. Clara Patterson of Brooklyn, believed her son. When pictures of Maxwell and stories of his burglaries appeared in the newspapers she was struck by his resemblance to her son. She wrote to a Brooklyn probation officer about the matter, suggesting that her son had been sentenced for Maxwell's crimes. As a result, Finnerty and Byrne visited Maxwell on succeeding days. Both said that Maxwell was not the man who had robbed their store.

Maxwell, annoyed by the scrutiny to which he was subjected, finally asked Finnerty what the visits meant and Finnerty explained. Maxwell then, according to Finnerty, said he had not been near the store and did not even know of the hold-up. His denial last May was followed seven months later, as he stood in the shadow of the electric chair, by his "confession" of the crime.

District Attorney Charles J. Dodd is investigating circumstances surrounding Maxwell's "confession." Maxwell's original denial, his willingness to accept responsibility for other "crimes" and the positive denial by the men present at the burglary that Maxwell was the burglar caused Mr. Dodd to say last evening that there was very little possibility of his ever recommending retrial for Patterson on the strength of Maxwell's statement.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing said last night that Maxwell had never had any money in his stay in prison, so far as he could learn. Maxwell's statement clearing Patterson was made about 10:45, half an hour before he died, and was taken in writing by the Rev. John J. McCaffrey, chaplain, and John Sheehy, head keeper of the prison. If money entered into the matter its disposal was a mystery, the Warden said. He also expressed surprise that the statement had come so late if it had been paid for.

GRIM WOMAN DEPUTY GETS HER THREE MEN

After Chase of Day and Night She Captures Trio Who Locked Her in Florida Jail.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Dec. 17 (AP).—Mrs. W. B. Maynard, wife and Chief Deputy of the Collier County Sheriff, has got her men. After a day and a night of tracking prisoners, who locked her in a cell and escaped from the county jail at Everglade Wednesday night, she captured the trio among the keys of the lower West Coast today and rattled grimly into the little town late this afternoon with the fugitives occupying the rear seat of her automobile.

Her ire aroused by the treatment given her by the prisoners, Mrs. Maynard, accompanied by a male deputy, started a pursuit of the three fugitives that led her to Cokolosekee Inlands.

She closed in at daybreak today to find her quarry had eluded her, taking with them George Stillwell, the only inhabitant of the island. Enlisting a guide, Mrs Maynard pushed on, combing the coast and keys in the vicinity until she found Stillwell alone in his skiff on a small lagoon.

Stilwell was compelled to point out the key on which the prisoners had hidden and the woman Sheriff moved stealthily on their camp, surprising two of them and forcing them to a sheepish surrender. They led her to an adjoining key where the other member of the trio was sleeping. She then loaded all three in a boat, went eighteen miles to Marco, where she had abandoned her automobile, and started the return journey.

The prisoners were Claud O'Neil, 20; Hans Grice, 30, and Ken Robinson, 24. O'Neil and Grice were awaiting trial on charges of robbery and Robinson was serving a short term for a misdemeanor.

STEAMERS QUITTING PARTS OF YANGTSE

BRITISH ENVOY GOES NORTH

Results of Parley With Chen Are Not Known and the Business Situation Is Serious.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HANKOW, Dec. 17.—A wireless message from Ichang this morning says the situation there is grave. All shipping companies are recalling their steamers from the upper and middle Yangtse reaches and suspending sailings between Hankow and Ichang.

Today the goldsmiths and silversmiths here closed their shops following the money demands of the Canton Nationalist Government, which also is demanding a very large contribution from the foreign race club in the form of a special tax levy.

Miles Lampson, the new British Minister, left for Peking tonight. His conversations with Eugene Chen, Canton Foreign Minister, were informal and very friendly. They will resume at the earliest opportunity.

From the viewpoint of foreign business interests the situation here is critical. The Cantonese leaders, through their public announcements, clearly indicated their policy in regard to the treaties, and may begin by attacking them directly or by paving the way for their annulment through a boycott which would force the suspension of British business and perhaps that of other interests.

The Canton Government has not made up its mind as to labor extremes. They are not without their difficulties, for it is a question whether all their non-Canton troops can be depended upon, and there is an undercurrent of moderate opinion among the better informed Cantonese which does not approve any dictation of the Russians.

Money is the most potent need in China, and any action affecting trade would reduce the amount of taxes now being collected. There should be a great inducement to encourage trade for revenue purposes, particularly as one of the first acts of the new Government will be the imposition of additional duties on foreign trade to correspond with those levied now at Canton.

Hangchow Has Not Been Taken.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 17.—The situation in Hangchow, south of here, hitherto extremely obscure, materially cleared today. Now it appears that while Chekiang's "declaration of independence" may have been an attempt to secure the neutrality and inviolability of the province, it seems certain that General Chuan Sun-fang acquiesced in it.

Sun has now repaired the railway, and through communication to Hangchow from Shanghai has been reopened.

Sun is reported to have pushed forward about 4,000 loyal troops to within a few miles of Hangchow, where, it appears, quite a considerable body of his men remain loyal. One division was sent to Ninpo last Tuesday, possibly in order to remove it from the influence of Cantonese propagandists. If any Cantonese troops ever entered Hangchow they left soon, although they are reported to be at Lanchi, 100 miles to the south.

The Cantonese commanders used a lull until they have consolidated their power in the middle Yangtse area and made good the enormous cost of the recent campaign in Kiangsi Province.

Shanghai is perfectly tranquil, though the rumors of the past few days brought in the usual crowd of native refugees.

Battle Expected Soon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The State Department today received a message from the Shanghai Consulate to the effect that hostilities between Sun and Cantonese are imminent "and heavy Southern reinforcements are reported moving from Western Chekiang."

A telegram from Consul General Lockhart in Hankow states that the new Cantonese Government is gradually getting settled, with a clearing up locally of the general situation. He adds that "the Ministries of Foreign Affairs, Finance and Communications will be conducted from Hankow, while the remainder of the Government will continue to function from Wuchang."

GIBRALTAR, Dec. 17.—The Second Battalion of the Suffolk Regiment, garrisoned here, today received orders to be ready to proceed to the Far East.

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Some apprehension exists in Government circles as to whether a boycott against British subjects may be instituted in China. Should the Cantonese insist upon immediate recognition under threat of a boycott the British would be placed in an embarrassing position. With the main issue between the Northern and Southern factions still unsettled, the British Government is not ready to accord recognition to either side.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Charles Sims, the English portrait painter, has resigned his position of Keeper of the Royal Academy. The resignation arrived unexpectedly from New York, where Mr. Sims has been for the past eight months and where, it is said, he has reaped a rich harvest in commissions.

The announcement was something of a sensation in London art circles today, recalling the controversy that raged over Mr. Sims's full-length portrait of King George, which was hung in the Summer exhibition of the Royal Academy in 1924 and withdrawn last Autumn.

The portrait depicted the King wearing the robes of the Order of the Garter and showed His Majesty as a thin and depressed figure in strong contrast to the magnificence of his garments. It was criticized as a work of art and as a portrait of the King, and Mr. Sims himself decided to withdraw it. It was afterward exhibited in the Knoedler Galleries in New York with thirty other paintings by Mr. Sims.

It is understood here that Mr. Sims may remain permanently in America.

"He has been wonderfully successful in New York," said a friend of the family today, "and I know that he felt very keenly some of the incidents which happened here before he left."

George Clausen will fill Mr. Sims's post until a permanent successor is appointed as Keeper of the Royal Academy.

Mr. Sims has been living in New York recently, after an extended stay near Philadelphia, according to acquaintances here, but has gone to Atlantic City. He could not be found there last night.

FRENCH ABSORBED IN RISE OF FRANC

Whole Country Waits for Poincare to Act, as Mounting Prices Cripple Business.

HOMBERG HITS INACTIVITY

Financier Declares Stabilization Is Needed at Once if Trade Is to Be Saved.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Much more than in all other questions in either domestic or foreign politics is France interested in the franc. What is to be done with the national money is the query.

Five short months ago the whole nation was frightened with the thought that the franc would follow the mark and that many billions of invested Government securities would sink to zero. Now the shoe is on the other foot and the rise of the franc, coupled with a paradoxical rise in prices, has curtailed French business to an extent which is rapidly crippling the industry of the country.

All France is waiting in suspense to see what is going to be done and as yet no Government plan has been announced. Unemployment is growing, foreign trade is languishing, and Montmartre, typical of the enormous French industry for the entertainment of foreigners, looks these nights as if Mr. Volstead had waved his saddening wand above the minarets.

Octave Homberg, one of France's foremost financiers, who was interviewed today on the situation, said that it was urgent that the franc be stabilised. The exact rate he said did not make much difference, but he predicted disaster if the Government pursued the policy of trying to revalorize the paper currency. He said it would take twenty-two years with the best of luck to bring the present franc back to gold value and then France would be left with a domestic debt that she could not carry.

"Stabilization or revalorisation, that is the great question confronting the French nation. I believe that the revalorization of French money is chimerical and undesirable."

M. Homberg pointed out that the domestic debt of France is 300,000,000,000 francs and that to saddle France with a debt of 300,000,000,000 francs would mean the absorption of the whole wealth of the country.

"The essential thing for France is to have a stable money; that is more important than the question of ratios. The present instability is a curse; it takes away all security from trade and makes future contracts impossible with all other countries which are back to stable money. What are we waiting for?"

M. Homberg said that he thought the rate of 150 francs to the pound the wisest, because under existing conditions and with present gold reserve of the Bank of France a six to one conversion or stabilization could be operated without foreign assistance and without crippling the French export trade to the extent which would follow stabilization at a higher figure.

He did not exclude the possibility of stabilisation at 125 francs to the pound, but thought that it would be much more painful. To make the revalorization of the franc an issue of national pride he considered a program which might cost dearly.

He thought that a program which sought above all the protection of those who had lent money to the State might well cost the rest of the country too dearly; however, he added:

"What is of greatest importance is not the level of stabilisation, but giving the country an equilibrium which will permit the maintenance of economic activity. I repeat that revalorization is difficult and dangerous. Stabilisation is easy if undertaken now at 125 or 150 francs to the pound."

Many interviews are published in the Paris press expressing the regret of French merchants at the disappearance of their foreign clientele. This is easily explainable by the fact that prices in francs remain the same or higher than when the franc was worth about half its present value. This means in many cases that goods are cheaper in London and New York than in Paris.

Adjustment will come in time, but, meanwhile, French trade is due to suffer from a sudden and perhaps too rapid rise of the paper franc.

H. IRWIN GETS DIVORCE.

Paris Court Grants Decree to Former Shipping Board Attache.

PARIS, Dec. 17 (AP).—Hallowell Irwin, formerly connected with the United States Shipping Board, has obtained a divorce from Georgenna Sandgran Irwin on the ground of abandonment.

The Irwins were married in Philadelphia Nov. 27, 1918. They have no children. The testimony showed that while the Irwins were living in London in 1925, Mrs. Irwin declined to remain with her husband. The couple separated in September and Mrs. Irwin returned to the United States.

Mrs. Helen Louise Cohne Castor has applied for a divorce from Hugo Castor. No details were revealed. The couple were married in New York City Jan. 18, 1923, and have no children.

FRENCH SET RECORD IN SPEEDING BUDGET

Outlook Is That the Bill Will Be Passed Before Christmas for First Time in 40 Years.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—For the first time in forty years France will have a budget voted before Christmas. This evening the Senate completed its study of the finance bill and sent it back to the Chamber of Deputies, where the alterations made by the upper house will be considered tomorrow.

It is forecast that both houses will have reached a complete agreement some time in the night of Saturday or on Sunday. If so the bill will become law on Dec. 20.

The treatment the bill received in the Senate, however, sets an unusual precedent, for while the Chamber planned a surplus of 460,000,000 francs, the Senate was obliged to cut the figure to 105,000,000 francs, with expenditure at 39,522,000,000 francs and receipts at 39,627,000,000 francs.

An attempt to discriminate against foreigners visiting French museums was energetically quashed by the Government, which said that the practice would violate the treaties France has signed; but it increased the entry charge to five francs (20 cents) on two days a week, which was accepted and adopted.

LONDONERS IN MOVE TO CHECK JAY-WALKING

Near Accident to Premier Baldwin Causes the Police to Adopt Pedestrian Zones.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Because Premier Baldwin was recently almost run over by an automobile, London is considering the introduction of a scheme to prevent "jay-walking."

"Jay-walking" will not be made a crime, but the possible penalty of violation of the rule against it will remain a capital one—death.

The police are studying the anti-"jay-walking" methods used in New York and other American cities. White lines will be drawn across the streets with the injunction at each end:

"Please cross here."

The police will attempt to make these zones sanctuaries for pedestrians.

BRITISH ADMIRALTY CLAIMS PEACE PRIZE

Bridgeman Says Navy Deserves Nobel Award for Most Complete Reduction Under Treaty.

ARMY CUT DOWN A THIRD

Belgium's Military Man Power Less by 20 Per Cent.—War Illiterates Among French Recruits.

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Next year's Nobel Peace Prize ought to be awarded to the British Admiralty Board, in the opinion of the Right Hon. William C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty.

Addressing a political gathering in London tonight, he made this announcement, asserting that Great Britain had fulfilled the obligations of the Washington Arms Conference more completely than any other country, and that there was no greater force for peace than the British Navy.

As to the British Army, its fighting strength has been reduced by a third since pre-war days. Parliament was told by Lord Middleton today that the present total, including regulars, Army Reserve, Special Reserve and Territorials, was 413,500 men, a decrease of 234,500.

At the same time, he declared, the administrative staff of the War Office had been doubled. In his opinion it was "Midsummer madness to clip the army to maintain the War Office."

The Earl of Onslow, replying for the Government, said the army would not be reduced below the strength required to meet the commitments undertaken by the Government with the consent of Parliament.

Reducing the Belgian Army.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 17 (AP).—The manpower of the Belgian Army is to be reduced by 20 per cent. next year. The number of men under arms will be 62,000, as compared with 77,000 this year.

The reduction forms part of the economy measures taken to bring the country back to sound financial health.

More French Recruits Illiterate.

PARIS, Dec. 17 (AP).—A little-known form of the war damage suffered by France is revealed in army figures, which show an increasing number of illiterates among recruits. In 1921, of the men called to the colors 6,713 were unable to read or write, while 13,068 confessed themselves illiterate in 1924. Figures for only a part of 1925 are available, but they show an augmentation of the condition, which is blamed on the disorganization in schooling during the war, when the present recruits were small boys.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—A French military court martial at Landeau, in the occupied Rhineland, today began the trial of Lieutenant Rousier, of the French Artillery, and six German civilians for shooting affrays in which a German lost his life.

Three hundred and one witnesses are enrolled and the Court will have to investigate many incidents which occurred between July 4 and Sept. 26. The last date was the climax of a long series of more or less serious affairs, being the only one which had fatal results. Three of the Germans accused are in flight one of whom named Mathes is being treated for wounds in some hospital in the interior of Germany.

The Germans are defended by native lawyers and the Frenchman by a brother officer. Citizens of the Rhineland are allowed to enter the court room freely to its fullest capacity and everything shows that the trial will be conducted in the fairest possible manner.

At today's proceedings the presiding Colonel read the act of accusation. A German lawyer then filed a claim for damages for the families of Muller, who was killed, and Holtzmann and Mathes, who were wounded by Rouzier. This claim was not admitted because a military court has no power to award damages.

The first case examined concerned incidents at Rosen Kaffee, in Sanderheim, on Aug. 22. Most of the witnesses differed as to how the riot occured. Rosa Muller, sister of the man who succumbed to his wounds, testified that the German police had run many witnesses out of the Rhineland to prevent their appearing before the court. This brought a protest from the German lawyer and an admonition to the latter from the presiding officer. The court adjourned till tomorrow.

BUNYAN BOOK FETCHES £2,100 IN LONDON SALE

LONDON, Dec. 17.—A first edition of a forty-four-page book by John Bunyan, published in 1688, was bought for £2,100 at Hodgson's auction today. Maggs, the London book dealer, was the purchaser.

The volume is entitled "A Book for Boys and Girls." The only other known copy is in the British Museum, which paid less than $500 for it.

The book sold today was discovered by Miss E. Miller, a postoffice employe in Hemel Hempstead.

"We have had the book for ages," she said today, "and none of us thought much about it. We saw it was old and we could not understand some of the old English. We are not really certain how the book came into our possession, but I seem to remember mother buying a whole bunch of books for half a crown (about 60 cents). An old man brought them in a sack and dumped them on the floor."

Earth Tremors Recorded in Italy.

ROME, Dec. 17 (AP).—Seismographs throughout Southern Italy recorded a series of minor earth tremors on Wednesday and Thursday, culminating in two fairly violent shocks today. MUSSOLINI LONGS TO VISIT AMERICA

He Has Always Been Attracted by Energy of Our People, He Tells Correspondent.

DEFENDS NEW PRESS LAW

Says Defense Decrees Are for Protection of "Productive Rhythm" of Italian Nation.

ROME, Dec. 17 (AP).—Premier Mussolini has always longed to visit the United States, he told a correspondent for The Associated Press in an interview at his office in the Chigi Palace.

"I have often thought of visiting America," the Duce declared. "In fact, as long as I can remember I have always wanted to see your country. A people which built rapidly with its own hands such colossal fortunes and formidable power could not fail to attract me strongly.

"Then, my sympathy is greatly increased when I notice that, despite the fact that an ocean divides us, our revolution and the work of Fascism have been more quickly and more completely understood in America than in many other countries separated from us by a few hours' train journey.

"America's understanding of our movement is easily explained if it is considered that your pioneers raised with their robust arms on the virgin soil of America a temple to a new goddess which is the same to which all Fascisti have raised a similar temple on the banks of the Tiber—Energy."

The recent drastic national defense decrees, he said, were issued for the sole purpose of protecting the "productive rhythm" of the Italian nation.

"The provision effecting revocation until further orders of the licenses of certain newspapers," the Premier said, "must not be interpreted as a breach of principle of liberty of the press or of criticism.

"What Fascism refuses to admit is liberty of libel, which, moreover, is most severely banned by American legislation. Vulgar insults and apologies of crime must be repressed not only when they explode criminally in the streets or public squares but also in journalistic haunts during the preparatory phase of crime.

"To resume its proper place after centuries of slavery, and to remedy the pitiful poverty of its resources, the Italian people has no time to lose. I tell you, and make it known to the whole world, that not even the last man among these 42,000,000 Italians has a single minute to lose.

"At the present moment the gigantic force which is behind the lictoral loan eloquently demonstrates the true interests of Italians. This loan is undoubtedly one of the most complex operations in the history of finance. It is impossible as yet to estimate precisely what will be the total sum raised by consolidation of the floating debt and by popular subscription. I desire that Italy save the honor of her monetary flag—that she win a sweeping victory in the battle of the lira.

"The money attained is destined not for the State budget, which already shows a surplus, but for the industrial and economic development of the nation. It will, therefore, have a good effect on the crisis of the currency and the crisis in industry."

REVOLUTION OUSTS LITHUANIAN RULERS

time past toward Lithuania and the other Baltic States has been to seek agreements with them by which Russian penetration might be checked.

It has long been known here that a contest for control in Lithuania has been going on under cover, and since Smetona had been in the background long enough to be chafing for power, observing Poles believe his coup to be a personal move to set himself up as a dictator.

Close friends of Marshal Pilsudski are reported to be chafing as a result of today's coup and the fact that they were entirely ignorant of it in advance. Nationalistic circles, however, predict that it will result in a union of Poland and Lithuania in a monarchist movement, in which Prince Radziwill, descendant of the Polish and Lithuanian monarchs, will be the prime mover.

On the other hand, the more moderate officials here believe the situation between Poland and Lithuania will be worse than before, owing to the German dominance in the coup, in which the Mayor of Memel is reported to have taken part.

Battle Reported Taking Place.

WARSAW, Poland, Dec. 17 (AP).—Among the various reports reaching here of the Lithuanian coup d'état at Kovno, was one stating that a fight between revolutionary and Government troops was taking place today on Green Hill, near Kovno.

Other reports stated that a second revolutionary movement, having no connection with the Kovno coup, had been started by Communists in Szwale and Poniewies.

Paris Sees Anti-Soviet Move.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—The rapid and apparently bloodless revolution in Lithuania is seen here as a direct result of the little Baltic State's decision to hitch its wagon to the Bolshevist star two months ago, when it signed a treaty of friendship and alliance with the Soviets.

Lithuania entered the Soviet agreement because she hoped for support against Poland, whom she never has forgiven for taking Vilna away from her. The immediate result was a large influx of Bolshevist agitators, who intended to use the country as an advanced base for propaganda and political activity in East Prussia and Poland.

To cap the climax the Lithuanian crops failed and the Soviets withheld promised wheat shipments and delayed signing a trade treaty in order to cause a famine and bring about a Red rebellion. With a local Soviet established at Kovno, Lithuania would rapidly be absorbed by her northeastern neighbor.

It was to thwart this danger that the Socialist Government was overthrown today by the National Christians, supported by the army and Fascist centurions. The movement has been entirely successful, according to latest reports, and the Fascisti have assumed military control everywhere. A state of siege has been proclaimed and the former President, General Smetona, has constituted a provisional Government.

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—Reactionary revolutionists, supported by the army, overthrew the Lithuanian Government at Kovno in the early hours this morning, arresting Premier Slezevicius and his Cabinet and declaring a military dictatorship under General Smetona, former President and Nationalist leader.

Martial law has been declared over the entire country, the borders have been closed and a censorship placed on all communications.

This information came from the Lithuanian Consul at Königsberg. The Lithuanian Consul in Berlin is unable to augment the information from Königsberg, but he insists that the revolution was accomplished without bloodshed.

On account of the anti-Polish views of General Smetona it is thought the first act of the new régime will be an effort to retake Vilna, which was seized by the Poles in 1920. Strong forces of troops are reported to have been sent to the Polish-Lithuanian border. A manifesto by the new Government is expected to be proclaimed shortly.

Economic Conditions Distressing.

BERLIN, Dec. 17 (AP).—Lithuanian Nationalists working for the overthrow of the Moderate Socialist Premier, M. Slezevicius, were aided by distressing economic conditions and popular distrust of the strength of the Government to resist Polish efforts to settle the dispute for possession of Vilna permanently in favor of Poland.

Several days ago the Premier, fearing a military uprising, arrested General Smetona on a charge of sedition. The ex-President, however, obtained his release and a violent agitation for a dictatorship was launched.

On Sept. 28 a treaty of neutrality and non-aggression between Lithuania and Soviet Russia was signed. The signing of the treaty had a sharp repercussion in Poland, some Warsaw newspapers demanding intervention in Lithuania and calling Lithuania a "Russian tool."

On Oct. 23 the Polish Government transmitted a mild protest to Russia against provisions of the treaty, which were interpreted as recognizing Lithuanian claims to the City of Vilna which the League of Nations in 1923 awarded to Poland.

Despite the pacific tone of Poland's communication to Russia, rumors of a coup d'état against the Kovno Government by Polish elements were circulated for a long time.

SMETONA A NATIONAL HERO.

For Twenty Years He Sought Independence From Russia.

Antona Smetona, 48 years old, was elected Acting President of the Lithuanian Republic on April 4, 1919. He had been President of the Lithuanian State Council and was well known as a lawyer and for twenty years a leader for Lithuanian independence of Russia. In 1920, accompanied by his daughter, he made a round of visits to the Western European Chancelleries—openly as his own commercial and trade envoy, but secretly, it was said, to impart his fears of his country becoming a vassal State of the new Russian Soviet Republic.

He retained the executive position until December, 1922, when the de jure recognition of the republic by the great powers caused a new election, which brought S. Stulginskis to the head of the Government. Subsequently, Smetona continued his activities against the Soviets through the official acquaintances he had made while Acting President.

OIL MEN CONFUSED BY MEXICO'S REPLY

Observers There Mystified by Morones's Interpretation of the Petroleum Law.

KELLOGG WON'T GIVE DATA

He Tells Boylan He Cannot Reveal Americans' Complaints Unless They Authorize Him to Do So.

MEXICO City, Dec. 17 (AP).—Apparent inconsistencies are seen by observers here in the reply yesterday of Luis Morones, Secretary of Industry, Commerce and Labor, to the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico at New York, who had protested that it did not see how "any valid confirmatory concession" could be issued to foreign oil companies under the Mexican Petroleum law, which goes into effect on Jan. 1.

Declaring that failure to comply with the law by Dec. 31 would mean renouncement of rights, Señor Morones at the same time asserted that the law did not establish "forfeiture" for violations.

Again, the telegram said that the Mexican Government had "shown its good faith in guaranteeing the acquired interests of foreigners in the petroleum industry," and that "pre-constitutional property rights acquired by foreign corporations or Mexican companies composed of foreigners may be retained by them during the life of the company in question," as determined by the charters and contracts of such companies.

The first reaction of observers here was that, until skilled legal advisers had carefully analyzed this statement, mystification would continue as to what would happen after Jan. 1.

Complaints to Be Kept Secret.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The State Department will not reveal the names of American citizens or companies, or the subjects of their complaints treated in diplomatic negotiations with Mexico, except with the approval of those concerned, according to a letter addressed by Secretary Kellogg to Representative Boylan, Democrat, of New York, which was made public today.

Mr. Boylan had asked for a list of complaints filed by Americans whose lives or property had been endangered in Mexico, and certain other information on the relations of the United States with the Calles Government.

In acknowledging Secretary Kellogg's letter, Mr. Boylan repeated his opinion that the United States should withdraw its recognition of Mexico.

Text of Kellogg's Letter.

Mr. Kellogg's letter reads:

Washington,
Dec. 16, 1926.

My dear Mr. Boylan:

I am in receipt of your letter of Dec. 8, 1926, in which you request me to furnish you with a list of the complaints filed with Ambassador Sheffield by American citizens whose lives have been endangered in Mexico or whose properties in that country have been taken under the provisions of the Constitution of 1917. A list of the complaints Ambassador Sheffield has filed with the Mexican Foreign Office as a result of protests by American firms and citizens who have found it necessary to apply to the American Embassy for help, and a summary of Mexico's answers to the Ambassador's representations, as well as a statement of the disposition of the complaints the Ambassador has forwarded on behalf of individual Americans and American interests.

In reply, I beg to refer to your letter of Aug. 27, 1926, in which a somewhat similar request was made, and to the department's reply of Sept. 3, 1926, to the effect that the information requested was regarded as confidential by the department and could not, therefore, be furnished.

Nature of Complaints Withheld.

I may add to the department's former letter that I do not feel at liberty at this juncture to make public, without their knowledge and consent, the names of American citizens or firms, or the particulars regarding their complaints, whose cases have been or may be the subject of correspondence between the two Governments; nor do I feel at liberty at this time to make public a summary of the answers which have been received in regard to such cases from the Mexican Government.

With respect to the names of the religious men and women who have been expelled from Mexico, I enclose herewith for your information a copy of a letter which I sent to the Hon. Stephen G. Porter, House of Representatives, on March 2, 1926, concerning this matter.

So far as the records of the department show, there have been no expulsions from Mexico of American churchmen since that time, with the exception of Archbishop Caruana, concerning whose case you are no doubt familiar.

As it is not customary for American diplomatic or consular officers to submit reports on the welfare of non-American nationals, the department is unable to inform you as to the number of expulsions affecting such nationals.

I am, my dear Mr. Boylan,
Very sincerely yours,
FRANK B. KELLOGG.

FASCISTI AND SERBS CLASH IN FIUME

BELGRADE, Dec. 17.—The newspaper Politika reports that Italian Fascisti and Yugoslav students clashed in Fiume yesterday. No one was killed, but several were seriously injured and a number slightly.

In view of the possibility of a renewal of the fighting today, an extra guard was thrown around the Yugoslav Consulate in Fiume.

The newspaper Pravda reports that heavy shipments of Italian Fascist militia arrived in Zara from Rome for use in reorganizing the police force there.

These two reports, arriving the same day, reawakened the anti-Italian feeling, which had slightly died down during the past few days. Some Yugoslavs feel that the Zara shipments may be intended for Albania when and if the emergency arises.

Moor Slave Traders Kill Two French Fliers, Torturing a Third and Leaving Him to Die

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—The details of the hideous tragedy which befell the crews of two French postal planes in the desert wastes of Northern Africa a months ago were revealed today by General Girol, who asks the posthumous recognition of the Government for the gallant services of those who fell under the bullets of slave traders.

Because of the huge distances between the towns or trading posts the French airline has made a practice of sending two planes together on the long trip along the African coast, between Marseilles and Dakar.

On Nov. 13 Pilots Gourp and Erable, accompanied respectively by an Arab interpreter and a mechanic, Pintado, took wing at Dakar and set off for Cape Juib in the Spanish Colony of Rio de Oro. Gourp had engine trouble and had to land miles from anywhere. Erable landed alongside to allow the mechanic to aid in the repairs. Then he went up for a reconnoitring flight to detect the presence of unfriendly natives.

Seeing none and landing a second time, Erable smashed a wooden prop and punctured a tire, necessitating longer repairs.

While all four men were working hard to fix the planes a body of Moorish slave traders approached with a number of negro slaves captured in the African forests, tied with long ropes to the saddles of their horses.

Forty rifles were aimed at the helpless Frenchmen, and an interpreter went forward to negotiate a ransom.

"A thousand douros for each, if you spare them," promised the Arab. In answer the Moors fired a volley. Erable fell dead. Pintado wavered and came down on his knees and was dispatched by a bullet through the brain. Gourp had a hole as big as a fist through the thigh and was spared immediate death on the promise of a thousand pesetas by his Arab companion.

But the Moorish slave traders did not intend to let the captive live after the ransom was paid. They lashed his wound with acids, and for seven days submitted him to a horrible ride across the desert sands strapped to a camel's back. They finally abandoned him with scant supplies in a little tent on the seashore, where searchers for the lost planes located him on Dec. 5. His tent was pitched where every tide would fill it half full of water. A few days after his rescue he died with frightful agonies in a Casablanca hospital with the Legion of Honor on his breast.

GERMAN CABINET UPSET BY REICHSTAG

lief this morning before the Reichstag that Dr. Stresemann's foreign policies were along the right lines, thus intimating that his reappointment to the same post in a new Government would find approval in their quarter. Regretting that injury to Germany's foreign affairs might be given through the present Nationalistic tendencies of the Reichswehr, Herr Muller expressed the belief that the League of Nations was now powerful enough to prevent a world war and added:

"The Reichswehr is valueless for carrying on war. At best it is merely a supplement to the police force."

The suspense of the Reichstag was relieved for a period when Herr Schwarz, the "wild Communist," who was thrown out of the Communist Party but refuses to resign as Reichstag Deputy, charged that Moscow was selling to the Reichswehr grenades for use against German workers, and flayed Moscow adherents as parlor bolos. Communists rushed forward, hurling epithets, but a fight was prevented by the timely interference of Herr Loebe, the Reichstag President.

Whether today's defeat will exclude Dr. Gessler from the next Cabinet is the main topic in political circles. Living through ten Cabinets and enjoying the favor of the reactionaries, though a member of the Democrats, his restoration to the War portfolio may be made a condition of support of the next Government.

President von Hindenburg tonight requested Dr. Marx, Count Westarp and Herr Muller to call on him tomorrow in order that an opinion of the kind of Cabinet acceptable to the majority can be formed. Dr. Luther, who has already headed the Government twice and was overthrown last May on account of his favoring the old imperial colors for the merchant marine flag, is mentioned as the likeliest candidate for the next Chancellorship.

Party Quarrel Caused Crisis.

The Cabinet which was defeated yesterday in the Reichstag was formed by Chancellor Marx on May 17, after the overthrow of the Luther Ministry. It has been called the "Little Coalition" because, while it contained three of the Centre Party, to which the Chancellor belongs, five of the People's, to which Herr Stresemann, the Foreign Minister belongs, and two Democrats, of whom Dr. Gessler, Minister of Defense, was one, there were neither Socialists nor Nationalists, although to them, particularly the Socialists, the Ministry owed its continued lease of life.

The crisis was brought about by a mere party quarrel. About a fortnight ago Herr Schols, a member of the People's Party, declared in the Reichstag that the Government, if it became necessary to form a "Big Coalition" would rather have Nationalists in it than Socialists. On this discrimination the Socialists raised an issue, because it was believed that Herr Scholz spoke with the authority, not merely of the People's Party, but of the Marx Government itself.

Another cause of discord was the position of Dr. Gessler, who has held the portfolio of Defense (War) through five administrations. Under him the Commander-in-Chief of the Reichswehr, Major Gen. von Seeckt, had the opportunity to develop the national militia of 100,000 men allowed by the Versailles Treaty in his own way.

AMERICANS TO MAKE A SURVEY IN MEXICO

Thirty Churchmen and Writers Will Study Religious, Economic and Educational Conditions.

PLAN TO QUESTION LEADERS

Investigation of religious, economic and educational conditions in Mexico is the aim of thirty prominent American churchmen, writers and educators, who will leave St. Louis for Mexico City Dec. 28, it became known yesterday.

Hubert C. Herring, Executive Secretary of the Social Relations Department of the Congregational Church, who organized the trip and who is now in Mexico, has requested members of the party to refrain from giving the proposed survey any publicity at this time.

Despite efforts at secrecy, it was ascertained that the group on its arrival in Mexico, by personal inquiry and interviews with the heads of the Mexican Government, clergy, financiers, educators and labor leaders, will try to find out what basis of fact exists for the anxiety attributed to State Department officials that "Mexican bolshevism is reaching down through Nicaragua and threatens the American defenses of the Panama Canal."

The survey will take about two weeks.

The group will be made up of leaders in their respective fields in different sections of the country. Among those from New York will be Herbert Croly, editor of The New Republic; B. Y. Landis of the Department of Research and Education of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America; Paul Hutchinson of The Christian Century, and representatives of The Independent, The Congregationalist and half a dozen other American periodicals.

It was explained yesterday that the reason for the attempt to keep the proposed survey secret was due "to the rather tender relationship now existing between Mexico and the State Department." One member of the party explained that if it became known that the present situation in Mexico was to be investigated "there might be difficulty placed in the way by Government and Church officials, as well as others."

It was emphasized yesterday that each member of the party would pay his own expenses and would go as an individual rather than as a representative of any organization. It was stated that members of the party might unite in signing a report. It was also suggested that each individual might make a report on the results of the survey through "a magazine or some other public channel."

WARNS ENGLAND ON COPYING US

Briton Doubts 'Low Standard of Intelligence' Here Makes for Permanent Prosperity.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—England must not copy American industrial methods too closely is the opinion of Sir Harold Bowden, bicycle magnate, who has recently returned from a trip to America.

"I do not write in an envious spirit," Sir Harold declared, "I am filled with admiration for much of what I saw. But no Englishman can feel sure, when he looks at the conditions of American industry and the increasingly low standard of intelligence demanded of the majority of its workers, that the prosperity of that great self-supporting continent is solidly founded.

"It is as bad for nations as for individuals to gain the whole world at the cost of their own souls."

Sir Harold Bowden fears that if there were ever a decline in prosperity in America democracy there might have "neither the character nor the stability to weather the storm."

The lack of a system of apprenticeship in America and the fact that unskilled laborers earn so much he believes will produce harmful results.

"There is already a dearth," he says, "of craftsmen and America relies for its technical skill very largely upon men who are tempted from Britain by the promise of far higher wages than they can get here."

However, Sir Harold urges the adoption of Henry Ford's "ruthless" efficiency as a means of recovering Britain's industrial standing.

LENINGRAD STIRRED BY CRIMINAL TRIAL

Defense Is Advanced That Evil Spirits Incited Workers to Assault Girl.

SCENE OF CRIME IS BLAMED

By WALTER DURANTY.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Dec. 17.—Leningrad is literally convulsed by a criminal trial that has just opened in the former capital of the Czars and half of the rest of Russia is following it with passionate interest. In one sense the crime is an indictment of the Soviet régime itself, for ten of the twenty-three accused persons are members or probationers of the Communist youth organization. With one exception all of them are young workers with the right to call themselves members of Russia's dictatorial proletariat.

It is a case of attack on a girl which occurred last August. The facts are plain and the guilt plainer, but there are three features of the case which transcend the usual level of such crimes. First, this is only the worst and most flagrant of a series of acts of aggravated "hooliganism" which have been deeply preoccupying the leaders of the Soviet opinion for the last year—that is, since the reintroduction of vodka last Fall.

The second is the fact that the criminals are workers, and still more members of the young Communist group to whom the leaders look for the creation of a new and regenerated Russia. The third is the terrible and mysterious suggestions which could arise in no other country but this—that upon the influence of the place where the crime was committed a horrid emanation of evil, long past but potent to corrupt, should be placed the real blame.

The crime happened in a garden known as San Galley, bordering on a small street which might appropriately be called not Saint's Alley but Hell's Alley, for it was long a refuge for the lowest criminals. A well meaning philanthropist named Stupin built there a row of "doss houses" for the dregs of St. Petersburg's population. He deserved credit, but to this day the word "Stupinites" means the worst sort of toughs. Drugs, immorality, murder and robbery lived there in an unholy brotherhood, in a sort of "Alsatia," like the old Bowery, where the police dared not penetrate.

During the harsh years of militant communism Stupin's Alley lay low and tame, but "nep" and vodka renewed its wicked life. These young workers now on trial for their lives—the State Prosecutor has demanded merciless punishment—visited the alley, got drunk on fiery spirits and committed the atrocious crime. Is the fault theirs or does there exist a real person lurking in ambush against the human race?

That, more or less indirectly, is the defense—the only defense possible against the facts.

Twenty thousand people have applied for admission to the courtroom which holds scarcely 400. No one doubts a sentence, and yet no one feels that these youngsters are hopeless, depraved criminals.

PARIS HEARS OF THREAT BY WIFE OF CAROL

Princess Helene Wants Him Forgiven or Will Join Him With Son, It Is Said.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Crown Princess Helene of Rumania has threatened to flee the country and join Carol abroad unless the veto of his free return home was removed unconditionally, according to reports in Rumanian circles here.

A complete reconciliation of the royal house and family at a Christmas gathering amid the snowclad Carpathian Mountains at the royal country residence at Sinaia is, it is asserted, certain to follow this decisive move of the strong-headed young Princess, who is understood to possess great influence in her country. The sudden and rather unexpected reconciliation between Carol and his wife, who have been separated ever since January, when Carol renounced the throne, is understood to be the result of the recent Paris interviews with Queen Maria.

There is no doubt, according to Rumanians here, that the Princess is the most popular member of the royal family. She now demands her husband's return with full rights, otherwise she threatens to join him with her young son Mihai, who, she says, owing to his tender age, cannot be separated from his mother.

Mihai, however, when Carol renounced his rights, was declared legal heir to the throne, with a regency council consisting of Carol's brother, Prince Nicholas, the Primate of the Greek Orthodox Church and the President of the Rumanian High Court, in the event of King Ferdinand's dying while Mihai was a minor. Mihai's departure from the country during the present crisis of the King's health, therefore, is naturally a weighty argument in the hands of the Princess.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 17 (AP).—Queen Marie made her first public appearance since her return from America by attending the opening of the annual fair of the Prince Mircea Society yesterday. She bought a few gifts for friends in the United States, but remarked that the parcels might not arrive before New Year's.

She was accompanied by her daughters, Princess Ileana and former Queen Elizabeth of Greece, and Crown Princess Helene, wife of the errant Carol. The comment was heard that the Queen was much thinner than when she left on her American tour.

The Prince Mircea Society, named for Queen Marie's son who died during the war, was founded for the protection of the war orphans.

CAROLINA ALUMNI DINE.

President Chase Says University Trains Leaders of New South.

President Harry Woodburn Chase of the University of North Carolina, addressing members of the New York Chapter of the Alumni Association of the university at their annual dinner at the Aldine Club last night, told the part the university was playing in training leaders of the new South.

Men are not leaving North Carolina or other parts of the South, he said, as they did in the past, because of the wide opportunities now offered at home.

George Gordon Battle, President of the chapter, presided.

Ferguson at Blows With a Texas Official Whom He Asked to Resign on Wife's Behalf

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 17 (AP).—James E. Ferguson, stormy figure in Texas politics and husband of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, today engaged in a fistic clash with E. J. Crocker, State Labor Commissioner, who resigned at the request of Mrs. Ferguson.

The encounter took place in Crocker's office at the State House when Ferguson appeared to demand the Commissioner's resignation in the name of the Governor.

Charges of affray were filed against both combatants, and it appeared tonight that the payment of fines would end the matter. Crocker pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and paid a fine of $14.95. Ferguson advised Frank A. Tanhill, Justice of the Peace, that he would plead guilty to the affray charge and send $14.95 tomorrow for his fine.

Witnesses said the encounter started when Ferguson took exception to remarks made by Crocker. The Commissioner was pushed, or fell, over a chair into a corner.

"He struck me first," said Ferguson, who appeared highly amused over the incident. The former Governor said that when he demanded the resignation, Crocker struck him on the shoulder and delivered another blow. Following an injunction to Crocker to "sit down," Ferguson said he "slapped" the Commissioner down with an open hand. After another demand, Crocker wrote out his resignation.

Governor Ferguson said she sent her husband to demand Crocker's resignation as the result of complaints from stenographers in the Commissioner's office.

"This is the culmination of many warnings given by me to Mr. Crocker," she said. "He continued to disregard my admonitions and when I heard reports that the stenographers in his office were complaining of him, I told my husband I was going to demand the resignation of Mr. Crocker because I could not tolerate any longer the humiliation he heaped upon me."

MAYOR AT GRADUATION OF 500 POLICEMEN

Praises Department and Says He Thinks Commissioner Is Best Man in City for the Job.

Mayor Walker said last night that the old superstition that it was impossible to clean up the Police Department was no longer true. He was addressing 500 probationary patrolmen at their graduating exercises in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory. He said the Police Department now was on a basis of service to the citizens. He endorsed the administration of Commissioner McLaughlin, describing him as "in the opinion of the Mayor, the best man for the job in the City of New York."

The 500 graduates of the Police Training School went through a program of calisthenics, drill and arresting tactics and were then reviewed by the Mayor, Commissioner McLaughlin, Major Gen. William N. Haskell, commander of the State Militia; Colonel John J. Phelan of the Sixty-ninth and Inspector John J. Noonan, commanding the training school.

"I wish to make a public proclamation that this is as important an incident to this Administration as any I can think of," the Mayor said. "I can remember as a boy I thought there were altogether too many policemen in the city. But today I am anxious to augment the force as rapidly as the finances of the city will permit.

"Long has it been a superstition that we should fear the Police Department. I never had that fear. Policemen are human beings, and if treated as such will come out all right. I am a public servant just as you are, and I expect both of us to live up to our obligations equally. You are presided over by the man who, in the opinion of the Mayor, is the best man in the city for the job. The Mayor asks of him only what he asks of you: Service for the benefit of the people of the city. General Haskell and Commissioner McLaughlin also addressed the men, General Haskell saying he represented Governor Smith, who was "deeply interested in you boys."

The five honor men of the school, Daniel V. Keohan, James W. F. Sutter, Joseph V. Grady, Joseph J. Reynolds and Charles Belinsky, received the Bloomingdale Trophy, Colonel Phelan making the presentations. The members of the class will be absorbed into the department to fill existing vacancies.

Lenient to Bank Tellers.

Judge Otto A. Rosalsky in General Sessions suspended sentence yesterday on three tellers of the Bowery Savings Bank, Forty-second Street branch, who had pleaded guilty to the larceny of $45,915 of the bank's funds. They were placed on probation for ten years. Judge Rosalsky said his action was influenced by statements of officials of the bank and others in behalf of the three.

The tellers are C. Russell Morra, 25 St. Paul's Place, New Rochelle; Clarence Oliver, 1,325 New York Avenue, Brooklyn, and Reginald Losee, 8 Maple Street, Dobbs Ferry.

SHAW GIVES PLACE TO INGE.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The greatest living writer in England is Dean Inge, at least that is the statement made by G. B. Shaw, who apparently regards himself as the second greatest.

This compliment to the "Gloomy Dean" was paid by Mr. Shaw at a luncheon given today by Lady Beecham to a number of distinguished people.

"I have a superior brain," said Mr. Shaw, "but there is a greater living writer in England," and he pointed to the Dean. Dean Inge sat still and silent under the compliment.

Mr. Shaw also charged himself with being the cause of many domestic discords.

"I am supposed to have a bad effect on my age," he said. "I write plays like 'Candida,' and unknown women write to me and say I have inspired them to leave their husbands. Sometimes I meet them afterward and ask whether their decision was justified. They usually say yes and I feel less guilty."

MANDEL IS CENSURED.

Teachers' Union Speakers Foresee Harm in Lefkowitz Case.

Edward Mandel, Associate Superintendent of Schools, was called a "politician eager to destroy the merit system in the public schools" and attempting to do so by barring the promotion of Dr. Abraham Lefkowitz, a teacher of history, because of his political beliefs, by speakers at a meeting of the Teachers' Union at the Ethical Culture Society Meeting House, 2 West Sixty-fourth Street, last night. Among the speakers were Dr. Lefkowitz, Dr. Jessie Wallace Hughan and Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin.

"The merit system in the schools is being destroyed by the refusal of the Board of Superintendents, dominated by Mr. Mandel, to promote teachers whose opinions are unpopular," said Dr. Hughan.

Commissioner of Education Frank P. Graves was severely criticized by Henry R. Linville, President of the Teachers' Union and formerly head of the department of biology in the Jamaica High School. "The reason we do not appeal the cases of Dr. Lefkowitz, Dr. Hughan and Miss Ruth Hardy of the Girls' Commercial High School to the Commissioner is that we have no confidence in his integrity or ability as an educator," he said.

Cuts Hall-Mills Bills.

Senator Alexander Simpson of Jersey City, special prosecutor in the Hall-Mills trial, wrote yesterday to Senator Clarence E. Case, who was of defense counsel in the trial, and is attorney for the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Somerset County, saying that the salaries of Jersey City police officers who worked on the case would be paid by Jersey City. Senator Simpson said the salary of Patrick Hayes, formerly Hoboken Police Chief, and now in charge of Hudson County detectives, would also be paid by Hudson County.

SENATE OBSERVES AVIATION BIRTHDAY

Resolution, Adopted on Day Wright Made First Flight, Asks Medal for Byrd and Bennett.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP).—The twenty-third birthday of aviation was observed in the Senate today with an appropriate resolution.

At the insance of Senator Swanson, his fellow-Virginian, Lieut. Commander Byrd and Floyd Bennett, Byrd's mechanic in the North Pole flight, were added to the list of illustrious Americans deemed worthy by the Senate of a Congresional medal.

Senator Bingham of Connecticut, who was an air service officer in the World War, reviewed the development of flying since Orville Wright made his first succesful flight twenty-three years ago today and introduced a bill to erect a monument commemorating the feat on Kill Devil Hill, at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

The flight made by Wright at that place on Dec. 17, 1903, said Bingham, was "the greatest victory of man over nature."

Senator Swanson's resolution was adopted unanimously. It not only would give Byrd and Bennett the Congressional Medal but would advance each of them one grade on the navy list. The House has not yet acted on the proposals.

A commemorative radio program in memory of the first flight of the Wright Brothers over Kitty Hawk, on Dec. 17, 1903, was broadcast yesterday from the Hotel Roosevelt. The program contained the names of 100 martyrs of aviation who have given up their lives in the interest of the conquest of the air. The representatives of the army, navy and air mail services and the Department of Commerce spoke on the occasion.

A letter from Congressman LaGuardia, former aviator, who is advocating that Dec. 17 be made Aviation Day, was read and Lieutenant Al Williams of the Navy, Ray Brooks of the Department of Commerce and E. C. Gearrabrant of the Air Mail Service spoke in the interests of aviation.

Others who talked were Harry Guggenheim, President of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the promotion of aeronautics; Tom Hill of the American Association for the Promotion of Aviation; Jacques Swaab, American ace, representing the aviation hosts of the American Legion, and representatives of the Aeronautic Corps of the National Guard.

Greetings were also received from the air services of Great Britain, Japan, France, Switzerland, Italy and Germany.

SUSPECTED BURGLAR WOUNDED IN CHASE

Hail of Three Shots Fired by Detective From Auto Hits Man on Taxi Running Board.

HELD FOR SHOOTING MAID

Prisoner and Companion Are Accused of Attacking Girl in the Robbery of Masten Home.

Fleeing across Central Park on the running board of an automobile from a detective who believed he was the burglar who shot a maid in the home of Arthur H. Masten at 56 East Seventy-ninth Street two weeks ago, Ore Roy, a carpenter, of 242 East Thirty-ninth Street, was shot and captured last night. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital in a serious condition with wounds in his right side, right arm and left leg, and held on charges of felonious assault and burglary.

Roy's companion, Germant Leticq, 23 years old, who was arrested with less trouble, was held on similar charges. Leticq shares Roy's room and says he is a stationary fireman. The prisoners had only $14 between them and no burglary tools. They were not confronted last night with Teresa Timmons, the wounded maid, who is still in Reception Hospital.

Roy and Leticq were observed by four detectives in an automobile last evening as the two men walked along Fifth Avenue near Eighty-second Street. According to the detectives, the men disappeared behind several houses, then reappeared, and finally started across the street toward the entrance to the roadway across Central Park. The detectives jumped out and chased them. Three of them got Leticq, but Roy started across Fifth Avenue, picking his way through the rushing traffic. Detective Nicolas Campo did not fire because of fear of hitting automobilists.

As the north and south bound traffic halted and crosstown traffic recommenced, Roy got on the running board of a westbound car and was carried with it into Central Park. The detective got on to the next car following him, in which were a man and a woman, and ordered the driver to chase Roy. The two cars raced across the park. As the car on which Roy was riding emerged in Central Park West the detective fired at him. He fired only three shots and all struck the man. He tumbled off the car into the street.

The robbery of which the two men are accused occurred on the evening of Dec. 2. While Mr. Masten was dressing for dinner the maid was confronted by a masked burglar on the fifth floor. She screamed and the burglar thrust his pistol against her left jaw and fired. The burglar escaped through a window and down a ladder with loot valued at $30.

J. H. McGRAW HONORED BY 1,000 AT DINNER

More than 1,000 engineers, educators and publishers gathered at the Hotel Astor last night to honor James H. McGraw, President of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, on his sixty-sixth birthday. General Guy E. Tripp, Chairman of the Board of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, one speaker, attacked the contention of Professor William Z. Ripley of Harvard that interlinking of electric power companies throughout the country was aimed at financial gain at the expense of the public. Mr. McGraw had sponsored the idea, he said.

Commending Mr. McGraw for preaching "idealism" in industry, he continued: "Now comes Professor Ripley, who sees little in the public utility holding company but a helter-skelter contrivance for buying up isolated properties with a weather-eye to financial skullduggery, when as a matter of fact the holding company is the only feasible instrument through which the country can be served with superpower systems."

Other speakers were Dexter S. Kimball, Dean of Sibley College of Engineering, Cornell University; John W. Lieb, Vice President of the New York Edison Company, who presided; Edward J. Mehren, Vice President of the McGraw-Hill Company, and Willits B. Sawyer, President of the American Railway Association. Arthur Williams of the New York Edison Company was Chairman of the committee that arranged the dinner.

Others present included Owen D. Young, Chairman of the General Electric Company; Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company; Gerard Swope, President of the General Electric Company, and Professor Fred A. Barnes, director of the School of Civil Engineering, Cornell University.

ASKS LAW TO PROHIBIT ELECTION MUD-SLINGING

Thompson of Ohio Offers a Bill in the House to Bar Eleventh-Hour Campaign Attacks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Eleventh-hour mudslinging against candidates in political campaigns would be prohibited and made punishable by fine and imprisonment by a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Thompson of Ohio.

The bill proposes to add a new section to the Criminal Code prohibiting attacks upon the personal reputation or character of a candidate for Federal office without serving notice of such intention at least eighteen days before the date of an election.

Any one who launches an attack in violation of this provision would be liable to a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for a year or both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the trial court.

Mr. Thompson said that he was impelled to introduce the bill as a result of an experience he had in the last campaign. A political opponent, just before election, issued an affidavit in which he made certain averments reflecting upon Mr. Thompson's habits. The material was circulated widely in Mr. Thompson's district, and as it came out rather late in the campaign Mr. Thompson had little time in which to make adequate reply to the charges. He won by a small majority.

Mr. Thompson, who is a Republican, has served in Congress eight years.

MILLS TELLS PLAN TO END DRY ISSUE

Prohibition Head Here Suggests a Year's 'Real Enforcement' Then National Referendum.

PUBLIC SUPPORT IS ASKED

Major Insists Law Can Be Enforced Without State Aid—13 Padlock Decrees Issued.

Major Chester P. Mills, Prohibition Administrator for this district, told newspaper men yesterday that a civic society recently had asked him what he considered the best way in which a $100,000 fund could be spent toward a settlement of the prohibition question, and that he had replied that a year of real enforcement, followed by a nation-wide referendum at the next presidential election would be the best way to end the question for all time.

Major Mills did not disclose the name of the society, nor did he say how its representatives had reacted to his suggestion, which, however, he hopes to see acted upon. He insisted that real enforcement, even without State aid, was possible.

"There is no use saying the prohibition law cannot be completely enforced without the aid of the community," Mayor Mills said he told the society's representatives. "We have a prohibition law and it is a statute of this country. Its open violation is almost universal and is leading to disregard of other laws. Why should not a solution of this problem be for a strict enforcement of the law for a definite period and then let the people vote on the matter?

"For the next eleven months attempt to secure the cooperation of the newspapers, the clergy and the reputable and respectable people of the country in a campaign for the strict observance of the law for the period of one year from November, 1927, to November, 1928, and after a year's fair trial of the law as it stands, let the people in the next Presidential election say whether they want it or not,—whether or not they want light wines and beer, whether they want modification or State option."

Judge Francis A. Winslow, in the United States District Court, issued thirteen padlock decrees yesterday as follows:

For one year—Dan's Lunch Room, 5 East 118th Street; Donlan, 404 East 143d Street, the Bronx; Kaplan, 148 West Fifty-fourth Street; Blue Bird Tea Room, 102 West Seventy-ninth Street; Pappagikas, 260 West Thirty-fourth Street.

Six months—Hoffman, 2,207 Gleason Avenue, the Bronx; Rinaldi, 205 Chambers Street; McCarthy, 147 West Forty-seventh Street; Dermody, 405 East 162th Street, the Bronx; McKibben, 343 East Forty-ninth Street; Central Malt Product Co., 473 West 148th Street; Dodd, 4,061 Boston Road, the Bronx; Trogge, 650 Brook Avenue, the Bronx.

Assistant United States Attorney Lowell Wadmond prosecuted the cases which were tried.

Five members of the crew of the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland, charged with smuggling ashore sixteen quarts of liquor, were held by United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill yesterday for examination Dec. 23. Hans Zackarias was held in $1,000 bail on a charge of selling liquor and the others were held in $500 each. They were Augustine Esrick, Philip Walters, Max Gerdes and William Sandkamp. They were charged with possession only. They were arrested Thursday night at Pier 86, North River. John O'Brien, watchman on the pier, was arrested with them, but was not arraigned and no complaint was made against him.

MISSING MAN FOUND VICTIM OF AMNESIA

S. C. Britton, Retired Publisher, Patient in Newark Hospital—Radio Aids Search.

Sumner C. Britton, a retired publisher, who disappeared from his home in the Hudson View Gardens, 183d Street and Pinehurst Avenue, last Monday night, was found in the Newark City Hospital last night, a victim of amnesia. He was able to remember his name and to recognize his son, William, when the latter called at the hospital, but physicians said he had not fully recovered his memory.

Mr. Britton, who is 61 years old, was taken to his home by his son. He was sent to the hospital early on Tuesday morning after a taxicab driver had taken him to the Third Precinct police station in Newark. Joseph Schulbach of 14 Warren Place, Newark, said he picked up the fare a few blocks from the Park Place station of the Hudson tubes late on Monday night. His passenger asked to be driven to Jersey City, and when they arrived at that place he could not give any definite place as his destination. Schulbach then drove back to Newark and finding the passenger's answers to his questions somewhat incoherent, took him to the police station.

The police were aided in their identification by descriptions of Mr. Britton broadcast from the municipal radio station, WNYC.

Mr. Britton suffered a nervous breakdown about six years ago and since then has not been in the best of health. On Thanksgiving eve he was found at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue and sent to Bellevue Hospital, where members of his family found him the following day.

ASKS HEALTH LEGISLATION.

Dr. Harris Appeals to Brooklyn Lawyers for Assistance.

Dr. Louis I. Harris, Commissioner of Health, in an address yesterday at a luncheon at the Lawyers Club of the Brooklyn Federation of Charities in the St. George Hotel, Brooklyn, asked the aid of lawyers in obtaining legislation to empower the Health Department to punish "those who wage battle against women and children in their struggle for gain." As an example of such malefactors he referred to the recently convicted "bootleg" milk dealers.

Dr. Harris also scored "the niggardly policy providing inadequate funds to protect the lives and health of the people of New York City." He acknowledged the recent addition of $400,000 to the appropriation for his department, but called it "hopelessly inadequate."

"The per capita expenditure of the city for health work," he said, "is only 96 cents. If all the money wasted in jaunting, luxury and riotous living in this city in twenty-four hours were taken in one lump sums it would make possible the accomplishment of things which now are merely dreams."

Christmas Play at Marymount.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 17.—Henri Ghéon's "Le Vie Profonde de Saint François D'Assise," a play in three acts in an English version, was presented by the Dramatic Club of Marymount College in the college auditorium, this afternoon. Miss Marie Blatz had the title rôle, Miss Lorena Laffey spoke the exhortations to St. Francis. The boon companions of Francis Bernardone were excellently portrayed and the robber scene was a noteworthy performance, as a result of the clever acting of Miss Marie Cooke. Others in the cast were the Misses Josephine Buckley, Mary O'Mella, Florence Tompkins, Marise Favre, Virginia Kenny Raymond, Mary Carroll and Virginia Hennings.

CITIZENSHIP DELAY INCREASES IN BRONX

Bureau Reports That It Is More Than 6,000 Cases Behind in Final-Paper Hearings.

APPLICANTS WAIT FOR YEAR

Federal Court Here Is Working on Applications Made Eight Months Ago.

Edward T. Meyers in charge of the Bronx Naturalization Bureau reported yesterday that the Supreme Court in the Bronx was more than 6,000 cases behind in its work of dealing with applications for citizenship. Eligible applicants, it was said, were forced to wait more than thirteen months before getting a hearing by a Judge.

Many complaints have reached the Naturalization Bureau, Mr. Meyers said, and the only explanation was that the courts were unable to handle all those who were qualified to receive their final papers.

According to officials of the bureau, the delay has been caused by the inability of the Judge sitting in Special Term to pass judgment on a sufficient number of citizenship cases in the time allotted by schedule for that purpose. With the pressure of other work, the Judge has been able to give only an hour and a half or two hours each Friday to hearing applicants.

Each hearing disposes of about 150 cases, but almost 300 applications are filed each week, so the waiting calendar is constantly growing longer, according to Mr. Meyers.

The last applicant on yesterday's list for the court, the records showed, became eligible for his final papers on Nov. 12, 1925.

"The papers of the eligible applicants are ready to be acted upon at any time," Mr. Meyers said. "If the Appellate Division could find it possible to assign a Judge to sit for two or three weeks on these cases the whole matter could be cleaned up."

The Federal service is also is behind in naturalization, Merton A. Sturges, District Director of the Federal Naturalization Service, said yesterday.

"We are working on applications for final papers made eight months ago," he declared, "but this is not unusual, for it has been that way for years."

Hospital Fund Now $423,864.

Current subscriptions to the United Hospital Fund, in its annual drive for $1,000,000, have reached a total of $423,864.24, it was announced yesterday by Harry J. Fisher, President of the fund. The total includes $185,073.84 collected through the Committee on Trades and Professions, of which Theodore F. Whitmarsh is Chairman.

McGRAW SUIT REVIVED.

E. R. Thomas's Widow Gets Permission to Prosecute $21,700 Claim.

Mrs. Lucy C. Thomas, widow of E. R. Thomas, received permission yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Gavegan to revive a suit brought by her husband against John J. McGraw, in behalf of his estate. The action was filed in April, but abated after the death of the horseman and newspaper owner.

The complaint asks $21,700 in connection with a transaction involving 750 acres of land near Sarasota, Fla., where the New York Giants have trained for several years. It is alleged that McGraw solicited the interest and financial aid of Mr. Thomas in the project, and obtained $24,700, but after the project collapsed only $3,000 was repaid.

Justice Gavegan reserved decision on a plea by McGraw to compel the plaintiff to file a bond of $250 because Mrs. Thomas and her co-executor, Rufus J. Trimble, are acting under probate letters granted in Florida.

FIFTH AVENUE

Between 34th and 35th Streets

Well, well here it is Christmas!

A HUNDRED thousand people come to this town every day. Not commuters, not returning Manhattanites. People from out of town.

They come here for what they don't find at home. Shops? Yes. Broadway, entertainments, supper clubs? Yes. But principally for shops, shops, shops.

The shops of New York with their long counters, displaying lovely, choice merchandise for the enticement of the unwary purse. Shops.

• • •

For on this Island are gathered merchandise treasures from all parts of the world, gifts of the ages from every land.

The great department stores of New York sift and cull over the globe, to allure you with their wares.

Great staffs of buyers and merchandise men and women know exactly where to go: they bring laces from Brussels, silks from Lyons, frocks from Paris, perfumes from Nice, rugs from Kashan, linens from Belfast, glass from Murano, pottery from Brittany, pipes and brogues from London.

The great stores of New York: B. ALTMAN & CO. deeply imbedded in the personality of New York; so catholicly interpreting exclusive, conservative New York at its best taste.

BEST & CO. starting as a specialty shop for infants. As the infants of New York have grown up, BEST & CO. have grown with them, keeping pace with the smartness of the Avenue.

FRANKLIN, SIMON & CO. a monument to the merchandising genius of its founder—with affluent and very smart stocks for both men and women.

BONWIT, TELLER & CO. which has so much to lend to New York's chic; a paradise for smart women, a suave, piquant establishment.

LORD & TAYLOR recently celebrating a century's career; catering to the needs of patricians, fostering a deep loyalty in their customers.

ARNOLD, CONSTABLE & CO. a fine old house enjoying the patronage of Knickerbocker New York for generations past; reaching after the patronage of new Knickerbockers; infusing a younger, more challenging spirit into its organization.

SAKS – FIFTH AVENUE which has brought to an Avenue noted the world over for its alertness and exacting discernment, new standards of smartness and modernity.

JOHN WANAMAKER lifted from Philadelphia, acclimated to Manhattan by a merchant genius who was the first to put the humanistic idea into merchandising.

GIMBEL BROTHERS the New York unit of a vast organization, the product of merchandising pioneering dating back almost 100 years.

JAMES McCREERY & CO. long established as a fine department store; in addition to a distinguished array of smart wearing apparel, specializing in merchandise for the home.

R. H. MACY & CO. with the greatest spread to its buying appeal of any store, in variety of merchandise and character of following. Famed the world over for its values, which are not to be confused with its low prices. Attracting Manhattan's most discriminating shoppers—whether wealthy or only aspiring.

STERN BROTHERS stepping northward from its old and sure position in Twenty third Street and successfully grasping a new following greater and smarter, with the finest of merchandise and a surpassing will to please.

• • •

And then the specialty shops. What an array of distinguished establishments they are. Take furs, for instance. Where in the Western Hemisphere—indeed in the whole world—are there to be had such furs as you may buy at Revillon Freres, H. Jaeckel & Sons, Gunther's, Shayne's, A. Jaeckel & Co.? Not to mention the women's specialty shops which, among their smart stocks of every kind, also carry furs of signal distinction.

Take jewelry. Black, Starr & Frost, Cartier, Kirkpatrick, Udall & Ballou, Brand-Chatillon, Marcus & Co., Tiffany, Gattle, Gorham—purveying gems that would turn the head of an Indian prince.

Or shoes, or hats, or lingerie, or linens, or china. Take, indeed, what you will, you'll find many of these exquisite establishments on the Main Thoroughfare and the by-streets offering rare, exclusive things.

Search, we say, through these stores. Yet how can you possibly fine-toothcomb New York? You'd be as lost as a little boy in a library of the world's literature. You'd collapse in the first alcove.

But in reading The New Yorker you may select their most choice and individual merchandise through The New Yorker's pages. The New Yorker's staff, self-appointed scouts, drill up and down and across the town to discover and bring back the news; and present it in the "On and Off the Avenue" department—that shopping guide and courier to Manhattan.

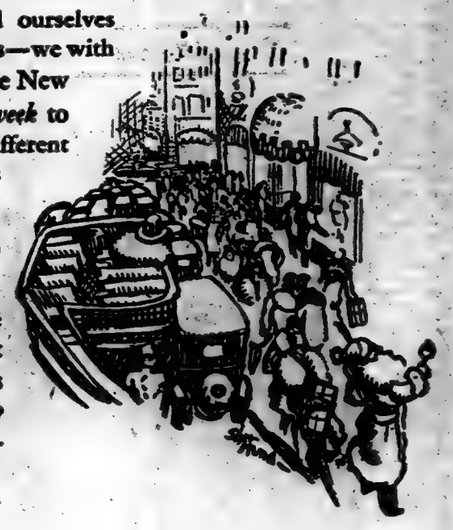
• • •

In the advertising pages, too. The incredible advertising patronage which The New Yorker has won in 22 months of publication has come in large part from these great department stores and fine specialty shops.

Not from every one of them. Just a few, even of the finest stores, have not yet discovered The New Yorker.

• • •

But between the stores and ourselves—they with their advertisements—we with "On and Off the Avenue"—The New Yorker points infallibly each week to most of what is new, smart, different and beautiful in the great bazaars of Manhattan.



Just one more week to Christmas.

Get your New Yorker at the newsstand today. Tabulate in it those stores and those counters which will enjoy your visit today and in the days remaining before Christmas.

RABIES CONFERENCE BACKS VACCINATION

Physicians, Health Officers and Scientists Urge Adoption of Standard Dog Treatment.

S. P. C. A. SAID TO OPPOSE

Society Manager Denies That It Has Acted on Immunization or Blocked Killing of Strays.

Recommendations that the city, State and Federal Governments conduct laboratory experiments with a view to standardizing canine anti-rabies vaccine were made yesterday afternoon at a conference of physicians, scientists and public health officers. The meeting was held in the New York offices of the State Department of Health at 25 West Forty-fifth Street.

Dr. Matthias Nicoll Jr., State Health Commissioner, presided. Dr. H. Noguchi of the Rockefeller Institute described the immunization of dogs in Tokio and Yokohama. Dr. George M. Corwin of Hartford, Conn., Connecticut State Health Officer, told of efforts in his State to get dog owners to vaccinate their pets. Dr. J. V. Mulcahey, State Bacteriologist of the Department of Animal Husbandry of New Jersey, described conditions in his State. Dr. C. H. Lavinder of the United States Public Health Service told of efforts by the Federal Government to curb rabies.

Reports More Rabies in Jersey.

Dr. Mulcahey said 203 New Jersey dogs were found to have had rabies in the past year, against forty-six four years ago. Seven persons have died from rabies after having been bitten by dogs in the last year in New Jersey, against three in the three previous years, he said.

Dr. Noguchi said that in Japan 104,000 dogs were vaccinated and less than 100 became afflicted with rabies, so he favored compelling dog owners to have their dogs immunized. He recommended that research produce a standard serum.

Dr. Shirley Wynne, Deputy Health Commissioner of New York City, said that Health Commissioner Harris was open minded on the subject.

All present agreed that the spread of rabies could not be absolutely checked without concerted destruction of stray dogs. In this connection health officers from New Jersey and Nassau and Westchester Counties agreed that humane societies presented an obstacle. In New Jersey, according to Dr. Mulcahey, such organizations had been instrumental in having muzzling and other protective ordinances removed.

Say S. P. C. A. Protects Strays.

Dr. Anna W. Williams of the City Research Laboratories declared that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was against the destruction of stray dogs. Dr. Nicoll said that the attitude of the society was "extremely unfortunate."

"It is a very vicious attitude," he said, "and subversive of the public health."

W. H. Hosten, general manager of the society, said that the society had never opposed vaccination of dogs and denied that the society was opposed to the destruction of stray dogs.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS SEE $79,600 HOLD-UP

Six Bandits Emerge From Kansas City Throng, Slug Guard and Rob Bank Messenger.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17 (AP).—Appearing suddenly out of a Christmas crowd in the downtown financial district, six young bandits robbed a Fidelity National Bank messenger of $79,600 in cash here today and escaped in a motor car, leaving no trail. Later in the day the same messenger, W. A. Green, a negro, walked over the same route from the Kansas City Federal Reserve Bank, carrying the same amount in cash, but encountered no bandits. He was accompanied on his second trip by three policemen.

W. M. MacAvage, a guard, who was walking a few yards behind Green at the time of the holdup, was slugged by two of the bandits, but arose and fired two shots after the fleeing car.

Police tonight were working on half a dozen theories, the principal one being that the daring coup was planned and executed by Chicago or St. Louis gangsters, some of whom are known to have been in Kansas City during the last ten days.

The bandits coolly drew up to the curb as Green neared the entrance to the Fidelity Bank, stuck revolvers in his side, slugged MacAvage and left with the sack containing the currency—all $10, $20, $5 or $1 bills. Witnesses said no word was spoken, each bandit carrying out his part with celerity.

Several thousand Christmas shoppers were within eyesight of the corner at Ninth and Walnut Streets, where the holdup occurred. A woman carrying a small child narrowly escaped being run down as the bandits' car drew away.

The car had been stolen from Fred T. Wyatt, a contractor of Kansas City, Kans. Witnesses obtained the license number. Traffic patrolmen commandeered cars and attempted to follow the bandits, but soon lost track of them in the heavy traffic.

Neither Green nor MacAvage could supply a description of the men beyond the fact that they were youthful and fairly well dressed.

The money taken was for week-end payrolls. Bank officials said it had been the custom for some time for Green to make the trip, accompanied by a guard.

Dig Up French and Spanish Pieces at Middletown, N. Y.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Dec. 17.—Century-old coins of French and Spanish mintage have been uncovered by workmen excavating for a water main in this city. The money is believed to have been stolen and hidden many years ago and then forgotten or concealed by a negro slave against a dash for freedom from some unkind owner.

Leslie H. Prince, who owns the land on which the money was found, says no effort will be made to claim it and has given permission to dig up the entire area if there is a possibility that more money will be disclosed.

SOUL ELUDES SURGEONS, SAYS DR. CHARLES MAYO

They Have Explored Every Nook of the Body, He Explains, but Are Hazy on Motivating Force.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17 (AP).—Modern surgeons still are as much in the dark about man's soul as ever, although they have explored every nook and corner of the body and know to the last detail its composition and functions, said Dr. Charles Mayo of Rochester, Minn., in an address before the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Surgical Association today.

"Like the small boy with a watch," he said, "we have taken man's form apartment and put it together again, but as yet are hazy about the force that makes it run. Some believe the soul to be in the brain, others think it is in the heart. I have met men and women whose actions led to me believe their souls—if they have such equipment—would be found in their stomachs."

have been in numbers of raids, said it was the biggest plant of the kind they had ever seen. The three men captured were the only ones in the plant at the time of the raid, although it was said that about eight men ordinarily were at work there day and night. The alcohol, it was said by the raiders, was removed nightly by trucks and all of it went to New Jersey.

In addition to the 2,500-gallon still the raiders found and seized 185 hogsheads of 100 gallons each, filled with distilled alcohol; about 300 hogsheads of 100 gallons each, filled with liquid mash in a state of fermentation, and quantities of yeast, sugar, malt and grain, as well as a complete distillery equipment.

The distilled alcohol was tested by the officers and found to be 190 proof. The still alone was estimated to be worth more than $200,000. According to the troopers, the still had been operated for several months by men who, they believe, learned that the estate had been closed and either got in touch with the caretaker, whose name was not made public yesterday, or else got him out of the way in some manner and took possession.

Last night a number of troopers from Monroe, N. Y., joined the others in guarding the roads over which it was believed trucks might attempt to reach the still. It was said that other arrests would be made in the next day or so.

This is the second distilling plant discovered this week on a private estate in this prohibition jurisdiction, but in neither case did the owner of the estate have anything to do with the illicit activities. On Tuesday a still was raided in the home of the houseman on the estate of Edward T. Bedford, at Greens Farms, Conn. The houseman was arrested and entered a plea of guilty. Mr. Bedford himself told the prohibition authorities of his suspicions when informed by an acquaintance of what was going on on his property.

John Clark and Mortimer Armstrong were arrested by prohibition agents yesterday in their offices in Rooms 507 and 508 in the building at 32 Broadway on a charge of violation of the Volstead act. The offices, according to the agents, are supposed to be brokerage offices, but were used as a speakeasy. The agents said they purchased seven drinks of liquor at 50 cents a drink. Some liquor was seized in the place by Agents James B. Morrison and Clifford Brinkerhoff. The building adjoins that of the Standard Oil Company. At the Old Slip Police Station Clark said he lived at 170 East 113th Street and Armstrong gave his home address as 219 East Eighty-second Street.

THREE EXPLORERS FORM POLAR LEGION

Ellsworth, Byrd and Amundsen, Its Only Living Members, Are the Founders.

SCOTT AND PEARY INCLUDED

Son of Former and Widow of Latter to Get Scroll Showing Honorary Membership.

The Polar Legion, one of the most exclusive organizations in the world, consisting of leaders of expeditions which have reached the North or South Poles, was organized last night in the rooms of Lincoln Ellsworth at the Metropolitan Club. The three living members of the legion are, Mr. Ellsworth, Commander Richard E. Byrd and Captain Roald Amundsen. Commander Byrd reached the North Pole in his airplane last Spring and Mr. Ellsworth and Captain Amundsen crossed the Pole in the airship Norge.

The two honorary members are Admiral Robert E. Peary and Captain Robert F. Scott, the first of whom was the first to reach the North Pole, while the latter was the second leader to reach the South Pole, winning his goal only a few days after Amundsen achieved the summit of southern exploration.

Mr. Ellsworth was host at a dinner last night to Commander Byrd, who flew the Josephine Ford over the ice pack to the North Pole and back to Spitzbergen last Spring, and to Captain Amundsen, who was co-leader with Ellsworth in the flight of the dirigible Norge to Alaska from Spitzbergen. Copies of the membership scroll enrolling Admiral Peary and Captain Scott in the Polar Legion will be sent to Mrs. Robert E. Peary in Washington and to Peter Scott, son of Captain Scott, in London.

Mr. Ellsworth in his speech to Captain Amundsen and Commander Byrd last night said:

"I am honored to have you here as my guests tonight. It is always an honor to me to be in the company of such men.

"Although this is a small dinner, it is a tremendous occasion. For here tonight is born the Polar Legion—and what an ideal it stands for! To reach either the North or South Pole may have no practical value in itself, but each has been the motive force to produce some of the most wonderful journeys under terrible conditions in the history of our race.

"Why? Just because they are there. So long as the human eye loves to see the play of the Northern lights across distant snowfields, or the human ear to hear the break of the deep sea surge along lonely coast lines, so long will men of a certain mold and temper 'seek and strive to find and not to yield,' in order to learn its secrets.

"Two members of the Polar Legion have traveled into the unknown, never to return again—the great unknown out of which no man returns. But their memories and their deeds will ever be kept fresh and inviolate. Such is the principal object of the Polar Legion.

"Let us stand, then, with glasses raised, pay a silent tribute to the memory of these two brave comrades—Robert Falcon Scott and Robert Edwin Peary, honorary members of the Polar Legion, who reached the South and North Poles, respectively."

The purpose of the formation of the legion is understood to have been the desire of Mr. Ellsworth, Commander Byrd and Captain Amundsen to show the solidarity of purpose and ideals of all those who have journeyed into the Arctic and Antarctic ice in quest of the unknown.

DRUNKEN POLICEMAN GOES ON A RAMPAGE

Wrecks Two Bronx Restaurants, Abusing Their Owners and Wounds Fellow Officer.

SUBDUED IN STATION HOUSE

Arrested After Firing Four Shots and Then Is Suspended—Past Record Was Good.

Patrolman Thomas Reilly of the Simpson Street Station in the Bronx was held without bail yesterday by Magistrate Albert Vitale in the Morrisania Court after being accused of wrecking two restaurants and shooting a fellow-police officer. He was suspended and arrested after a police surgeon had pronounced him intoxicated and unfit for duty.

Reilly, who is 34 years old, 6 feet in height and weighs more than 200 pounds, entered the restaurant of Nathan Roemer at 1,291 Wilkins Avenue, the Bronx, at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. Roemer was behind the counter. Two truck drivers were eating. After announcing antipathy for Jews, the patrolman walked over to the marble serving counter and cracked it with a violent blow from his nightstick.

Smashes Dishes and Fixtures.

Roemer's objections seemed to anger him, and he proceeded, according to Roemer, to smash everything within range of his stick, including a cigar case, an electric cigar lighter and several dishes. Then he tried to hit Roemer. At this Chan Fah, Chinese cook, rushed out of the kitchen to his employer's assistance.

"I don't like Chinamen, either," said Reilly, as he aimed a blow at the cook. The Chinese ducked through a narrow door and into the basement. The truck drivers took their leave and Roemer dashed down the street, looking for help. Then Reilly left.

He saw a "coffeepot" restaurant a short distance away, at 1,284 Southern Boulevard. Constantine Bafcapulos was behind the counter attending to the gastronomical wants of a trio of taxicab drivers. He looked up to behold a giant policeman staggering in the door.

"I don't like Greeks," he said Reilly shouted. Then Reilly proceeded to emphasize his feeling with his nightstick. After he had shattered two mirrors and a dish he picked up the cash register and dashed it on the floor, Bafcapulos said.

Shoots Fellow-Patrolman.

A few minutes later Patrolman James Gibson, 60 years old, looked up from his job of sweeping out cells in the Simpson Street Station. He saw Reilly brandishing a pistol and reeling about, but thought his friend was "only fooling." He changed his mind when Reilly fired three shots in rapid succession.

"Be careful! Put that gun away!" he shouted.

Lieutenant Xenedochious, on desk duty, had heard the shots and rushed back to the station lock-up in time to hear a fourth shot and find Gibson wounded in the top of the head. He pinned Reilly's arms from the rear, and others who rushed in subdued him. Gibson was taken to Lincoln Hospital, where his wound was found to be not serious, probably having been caused by a piece of a bullet ricocheting from one of the steel cell bars.

District Attorney John E. McGeehan ordered the patrolman's arrest after examination by Dr. Patrick J. York. Deputy Police Commissioner John A. Leach ordered his suspension. He had had a good record on the force for five and a half years, his superiors said. He is married, but has no children. He will have a hearing Tuesday.

POLICEMAN GOES TO JAIL.

He and Two Chauffeurs Default Bail on Robbery Charge.

A policeman and two chauffeurs were sent to jail in Staten Island yesterday morning in default of bail on a charge of assault and robbery by Magistrate William Creak in the New Brighton Police Court. Only $4 was obtained in the robbery.

Patrolman Joseph Tuite of 21 Cottage Place, Port Richmond, who is attached to headquarters at St. George, was held in $50,000 bail. Francis Whalen, 133 Newark Avenue, Elm Park, was held in $15,000 bail, and their companion, William Smith, 67 Cottage Place, was held without bail as a second offender.

They were charged with having entered the home of John Pretowski, 37 John Street, Elm Park, on the night of Dec. 9, demanded money and then liquor and to have made a search for both. A boarder lost $4. Whalen and Smith were arrested the following day by detectives, and, according to Captain Ernest Van Wagner, admitted they had visited the Pretowski home, but said they went in search of liquor. Tuite, who has been on the police force six years, was arrested while on post. He has been suspended by Commissioner McLaughlin.

MRS. BURCH STARTS WEST.

Mrs. Isabelle Keys Burch, who came from San Francisco to appeal to her husband, Lyndon W. Burch of 50-A Locust Hill Avenue, Yonkers, to get a divorce so that she might be free to marry Captain Arlando Marson of Bronxville, her step-father-in-law, with whom she eloped last October, is on her way back to San Francisco, her appeal having been unanswered, according to information obtained yesterday.

Mrs. Burch, who is held as a material witness by the Federal Government following the arrest of Captain Marson under the Mann act, obtained a stay from testifying before a Federal Grand Jury to come East to see her husband and to endeavor to reach a reconciliation. Upon her arrival here a week ago she conferred with her husband, who turned over to her all of her clothing and personal belongings.

Mrs. Burch, with her interview with her husband seemingly ended in an impasse, left without trying to see her children and is expected to arrive in San Francisco Saturday or Sunday. The Federal Grand Jury which is hearing the charges is expected to resume its inquiry on Monday.

Metropolitan Opera Matinee
"Don Quixote"
Little Librettos by LEONARD LIEBLING

Cervante's immortal story has delighted and moved generation after generation, with its universal appeal to young and old alike.

Small wonder that Massenet chose for his operatic material, and his atmospheric and colorful music, the grandiloquent knight, with his cavalierly deeds of derring-do, all for the love of his idealized lady.

The famous nag, Rosinante; the fickle Dulcinea; the fat and jolly Sancho Panza and his mule, and the serio-comic fight with the windmill, all have found a place in this picturesque librette.

Chaliapin, famed basso, is extraordinary and eloquent as the demented Don, and blends pathos and drollery with inimitable art, climaxing in an affectingly sad and tender finale.

On request we will send you a brochure containing ninety-six portraits of Metropolitan Artists.

THREE GUARDS ACCUSED IN NEW TOMBS INQUIRY

Wallis Takes Up Charges Involved in Outbreak in Which Three Prisoners Were Slain.

Three keepers at the Tombs Prison—Cornelius Shea, James J. Martin and William H. Reynolds—were brought before Commissioner of Correction Wallis at his office in the Municipal Building yesterday on charges of dereliction of duty in connection with the attempted escape of three prisoners on Nov. 3, which resulted in the death of all three, the warden and another prison keeper.

Yesterday's hearing, which was behind closed doors, followed the inquiry which Commissioner Wallis made into the circumstances and a report made to Mayor Walker by Joseph A. Warren, Commissioner of Accounts, blaming the prison administration, in part, for the affair. The hearing will be continued today and next week, it was said. Nothing concerning the testimony will be given out until conclusions have been reached.

Commissioner Wallis presided at the hearing. Sitting with him were Deputy Commissioner Herbert L. Tudor, Major Sidney W. Brewster, City Warden; Robert Barr, the present Warden of the Tombs; Assistant Corporation Counsel Russell L. Tarbey, E. K. Cass of the Prison Association and Leon C. Weinstock of the State Prison Commission.

TWO CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE.

Mother Is Burned in Vain Effort to Save Them From Blaze.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGETON, N. J., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Nicholas Hanby Jr., 23 years old, was injured and her two young children, Ralph and Warren, were killed when their cottage on Lummis Mill Road burned to the ground this morning.

Mrs. Hanby said that she had lighted a fire in the stove after her husband's departure for work and had gone to the edge of the woods near by for kindling. There she saw the house was in flames. She rushed back and tried to enter, she said, but the heat burned her face and drove her away. By the time help was called the two children had perished.

ORANGE MAY JOIN FIGHT ON BLUE LAW

Theatre Men Will Seek 100 Warrants in Plan to Stir Revolt Against Statutes.

SECRECY IN IRVINGTON

ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 17.—The campaign against the blue laws of New Jersey, recently waged in Irvington by theatre operators who are endeavoring to make the old statutes odious by enforcing them, will probably spread to the City of Orange this week. Michael Steinberg, attorney, with offices at 263 Main Street, announced tonight that within the next few days he intended to apply to Judge John I. Burke of Orange, for 100 "John Doe" warrants.

These warrants, according to the plan, will be served against all sorts of individuals who, it is said, are violating the laws just as much as they would be if they operated theatres. The announcement was made after Mr. Steinberg conferred today with representatives of theatres, which are now debarred from Sunday shows. Six months ago a motion picture theatre, after announcing that there would be a Sunday show, was kept under surveillance by police who threatened arrests if any tickets were sold or persons permitted to enter Sunday. The plan was dropped after the arrests were threatened.

Special to The New York Times.

IRVINGTON, N. J., Dec. 17.—Ernest P. Biro, attorney for the motion-picture men who launched the campaign last week which netted ninety-eight arrests here for Sabbath law violations was mysterious today about next Sunday's program.

"I won't say that I will open the theatres on Sunday," he said, "and, on the other hand, I will not say that the theatres will remain closed."

It was reported, however, that the movies might be open. Research experts digging down into the depths of the Vice and Immorality act of 1854, under which the arrests were made, found this paragraph:

"If in the opinion of three Justices of the Peace it shall be deemed that the performance of any play, farces or interludes, is innocent or may probably tend toward any reasonable or useful end it shall be lawful for them to give licenses providing for such performances."

It was the understanding here today that Irvington had anywhere from twenty to thirty Justices of the Peace. Since Irvington became a city the Justices have had little to do. It was further understood that some of the Justices, what with their leisure, might want to while away a little time in the movies on Sunday. Mr. Biro, however, would not commit himself on this.

LINK EX-POLICEMEN TO CANTON MURDER

Witnesses Say Chief and Detective Conferred With Two of the Accused.

CANTON, Ohio, Dec. 17 (AP).—Incidents linking the alleged slayers of Don R. Mellett with deposed members of Canton's police force were related today to the jury trying Patrick E. McDermott for the murder of the newspaper publisher.

Mrs. Thelma Harris testified that Louis Mazer, one of the three indicted men, on the night of the murder conferred in the home of Doll Carey, alleged underworld character, with Floyd Streitenberger, then a police detective, and that Mazer later departed carrying a revolver.

John A. McDonald, a police detective, testified that Ben Rudner, third of those indicted, conferred with S. A. Lengel, then Police Chief, in his office a few hours before the publisher was slain.

Lengel was one of the targets of Mellett's attacks in his newspaper, in which he declared that vice and crime were rampant in Canton and that the Police Department was doing nothing to stop it.

Lengel was ousted as Police Chief after a police inquiry into the murder failed to uncover the slayers. He was charged with being "too intimate" with Mazer, Rudner and "other known law violators." Streitenberger, who furnished an alibi for Mazer's whereabouts the night of the murder by saying "he was at my house," also was dismissed.

Dan Pfaff of Cleveland, testified today that while he was bootlegging in Cleveland he helped McDermott hide out after the murder. Pfaff said he sheltered McDermott at the request of Ben Nadel of Cleveland, his associate in the liquor business.

Norman Clark, a Canton attorney, who faces the charge of violating the prohibition law, testified that on three occasions before Mellett was killed, Mazer told him: "If Mellett keeps this up, he'll be bumped off."

Plans of the State to rest its case were frustrated when the last witness failed to show up. His testimony is expected to require but a few minutes tomorrow, and then the defense will take up its case. Homer Durand, defense attorney, said that no motion for a directed verdict of acquittal would be made.

ROCHESTER POET A SUICIDE.

Thomas T. Swinburne Jumps From Bridge Into Genesee River.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP).—An overcoat left on the Central Avenue bridge today by a man who leaped into the Genesee River and was swept over the upper falls, has been identified as belonging to Thomas Thackeray Swinburne, 62, member of Swinburne-Horton Company, printers.

The body has not been recovered, but the authorities believe Mr. Swinburne committed suicide in a fit of despondency over the death of a relative a short time ago.

Mr. Swinburne had the reputation here of being an accomplished writer of poetry. Songs written by him are used by the University of Rochester and the Society of the Genesee. He published three volumes of verse, all having to do with the Genesee Valley.

Mr. Swinburne was a graduate of the University of Rochester and a member of Theta Delta Chi. A nephew, brother and sister survive him.

Do you believe in Miracles?

A Miracle of Today

Do you respond to a tale, beautifully told, that appeals to the emotions? Do you acknowledge the miracles about us? Then "The Miracle", as poignant a tale (and a true one) as ever happened at Christmas time, is one you must read. "The Miracle" is the first of the Christmas stories appearing in the Herald Tribune Christmas Magazine Section next Sunday.

The Christmas City

Then there is New York at Christmas—vivid, sparkling, crying out for notice more than ever—a miracle in itself.

Fifth Avenue with its massed crowds, eyes and tongues moving faster than feet hindered by traffic—the other avenues, First and Second, Eighth and Ninth, lined with spruce and fir and holly from end to end—markets loaded with poultry, fruit and nuts—downtown the sober office buildings gaily decked with holly and crimson—suburban trains carrying two loads, tired, happy eyed commuters, and their enormous bundles.

It's this Christmas city that Will Irwin captures and writes about glowingly, powerfully, in "The City of St. Nicholas", in the Sunday Herald Tribune Christmas Magazine Section tomorrow.

A Christmas Carol

The Christmas you lost somewhere between childhood and youth, the Christmas with the charm of Dickens' Christmas Carol, has been recreated by Henry Albert Phillips in his essay "Another Christmas Carol" in the Sunday Herald Tribune Christmas Magazine Section tomorrow.

He tried to kill Christmas

Then for those who are untouched by the stirring times about us, who won't believe in "Merry Christmas", there is the story of the Man Who Tried to Kill Christmas.

This is another of the unusual stories in the Christmas Magazine Section of the Sunday Herald Tribune tomorrow.

Tomorrow's Sunday Herald Tribune will have an air of expectancy for the holidays. The enlarged Radio Section will be full of suggestions for radio gifts; "Books" will contain many last minute aids; the Unusual Shops columns will help with a host of gift ideas; and the announcements of New York's leading shops will give you one more opportunity for reading the announcements of merchandise which will be featured in the few days remaining before Christmas.

Tomorrow's Sunday Herald Tribune will add to your enjoyment of Christmas. Be sure to order your copy in advance.

Special to The New York Times.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 17.—A cold, steady rain made players miserable and scores unusually high on the Del Paso Country Club course today in the first round of the Sacramento open $2,500 golf tournament. In the field of eighty-five starters only Joe Turnesa of New York and Eddie Loos of Chicago were able to equal par of 72.

The Del Paso course, with its narrow greens, is a scoring problem under normal conditions, and wet grips, soggy grass and a shifting wind made it extremely hard today.

Cyril Walker of Leonia, N. J., former national open champion, said he rarely had played better golf, yet it took him 79 to get around, whereas in the professional-amateur event yesterday he had a score of 67, three better than the course record.

George Duncan, former British open champion, also took 79. He played the last six holes in even 4s after taking 42 going out.

45 for Mike Brady.

Mike Brady of New York, former metropolitan open champion, took 45 to the turn and finished with 85. The same total was returned by Duncan Sutherland of Edmonton, Canada, Western Canadian professional champion in 1924.

Under such unfavorable conditions the golf of Turnesa and Loos stood out like a beacon in the night. Turnesa never missed a green on the last fourteen holes, all played in the driving downpour.

Loos came to the last hole with a 4 for a 70. A strong head-on wind made the eighteenth nearer to a par 5 than a two-shotter. Loos hit a drive of almost 200 yards. As he attempted his approach shot his club slipped from his hand. After putting his third on, he took three putts for a 6.

The cards of the two leaders follow:

Out—
Turnesa	4	4	3	4	4	4	5	5	4—37
Loos	4	5	4	4	3	3	5	5	4—37
In—
Turnesa	4	3	4	4	4	4	3	4	5—35—72
Loos	4	3	4	4	4	3	3	4	6—35—72

The next best cards were 74, made by Bill Mehlhorn, unattached, New York; Larry Nabholtz of Cleveland, and George Howard of Canton, Ohio. Mehlhorn played well except for four putts on the second green.

Golden's Card Is 75.

Johnny Golden of North Jersey had a 75. In a group at 77 were Al Watrous, Bobby Cruickshank, Tommy Armour and Al Espinosa. Johnny Farrell took 78.

HAGEN IS DEFEATED AT LOS ANGELES

He and Willie Hunter Lose to Von Elm and Dr. Hunter, 5 and 3, in 36 Holes.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17 (AP).—Walter Hagen, three times national open golf champion, paired with Willie Hunter, Los Angeles professional, received the worst defeat of his Western exhibition tour here today, losing to George Von Elm, national amateur champion, and Dr. Paul Hunter, former State title-holder, 5 and 3, in a thirty-six-hole match.

The two amateurs led at the end of the morning round, 2 up, largely due to the effective work of Dr. Hunter, who holed three shots from off the greens. Von Elm with a 71 was leading Hagen five strokes at the half-way mark.

All four golfers finished under par for the first nine holes of the afternoon round, Von Elm getting a 33, Dr. Hunter a 34 and the two professionals each a 35. Von Elm played par golf throughout the day's play.

A gallery of 2,500 persons saw the match. The foursome will play again Sunday, instead of the Hagen-Willie Hunter match which had been planned.

Congratulations Pour in on Landis, Now Baseball's Highest Priced "Star"

CHICAGO, Dec. 17 (AP).—Telegrams of congratulation were piled a foot deep on the desk of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball's highest-priced "star," when he returned to his office after the annual baseball meetings. His new seven-year contract at $65,000 a year tops the highest previous figure by a substantial margin. Babe Ruth is the highest salaried player at $52,000 a year.

The white-haired Commissioner, just past his sixtieth birthday, signed checks of $387.81 each for the twenty-three members of the Washington Senators. This was their share of the world's series receipts, as fourth place winner in their league, but they had been slow to decide how they wished it divided. Nick Altrock and Al Schact, the club's comedians, received full shares and Frank Saxter and Decatur Jones, half shares.

Ban Johnson, American League head, whose hearty congratulations to Landis yesterday ended a two-year dispute with the Commissioner, had an equally large collection of telegrams offering him felicitations upon the burial of the baseball hatchet.

"Landis is all right," Johnson said vigorously. "There are lots worse people than the Judge. I'm glad everybody wishes him well. I do, too."

'Not a Baseball Orphan Yet'; Eddie Collins May Play Again

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—Eddie Collins, deposed manager of the White Sox, broke his silence today at his home in Lansdowne and said he was "not a baseball orphan yet."

"In baseball you must take things as they come," he said. "I have seen big league managers come and go in my time, but I certainly believe I have enough second basing left in me to hold down a major league post and make a good job of it. I don't hesitate saying this after looking over some of the other second basemen. I'm not through by any means."

YALE SIX WORKS ON PRINCETON RINK

Practice Starts Soon After the Team Arrives and Will Continue Until Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 17.—Twenty members of the Yale hockey squad, starting their vacation from college yesterday, reached here this morning with Coach Clarence Wanamaker for a practice session on the Baker Memorial Rink in preparation for a hard season. The Elis have no rink of their own and Princeton extended an invitation to the Yale team for the use of its rink during the Christmas vacation.

The team practiced this morning shortly after its arrival, and will continue the daily workouts until Monday, when the men will disband until after Christmas. The team indicated a lack of practice. Coach Wanamaker said he had not been able to pick even a tentative team. The day was spent entirely in placing the members of the squad in different positions as the coach looked for prospective varsity material.

No practice games with Princeton are planned. The two teams will meet for the first time in Princeton on Jan. 15, playing a return game at New Haven, provided the Yale rink is completed by that time, on Feb. 22. A third game will be played at Madison Square Garden on March 2.

The Yale squad which arrived here consists of Captain Noble, Armstrong, Brady, Coady, P. Curtis, Frey, Hart, Herrman, Hurd, Knight, Lapham, Manville, Norris, Robinson, Roby, Ryan, Tremaine, Vaughan, Wheelock and Wilmerding.

After Christmas the team will return for three more days of drill, then go to New York to meet the McGill hockey team in Madison Square Garden on Dec. 30. Following the game in New York the team will return here for another three days of practice before going to New Haven to meet M. I. T. at Springfield on Jan. 3.

Event Will Be Held by the Indian Harbor Club at Greenwich.

TWO COURSES SELECTED

Weather Will Determine Which Will Be Used—Block Island and Other Races Listed.

Several important dates in next year's speed boat program were announced yesterday by Charles F. Chapman, Chairman of the Racing Commission of the American Power Boat Association. Among these fixtures was the Gold Cup Regatta of 1927, the date for which has been set as Aug. 6. This will be the outstanding speed boat carnival in the East and will be held under the auspices of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club of Greenwich, Conn., present holder of the trophy.

Two tentative courses already have been laid out for the Gold Cup event, one inside the islands off Greenwich, in Long Island Sound, and one in Oyster Bay, on the Long Island shore. The course off Greenwich will be used unless there is heavy easterly weather at the time. The 1926 Gold Cup race was held in Manhasset Bay last August, and the trophy was captured by Greenwich Folly, owned by George H. Townsend of the Indian Harbor Club.

Other local dates announced by Mr. Chapman were those for the annual Block Island race of the New York Athletic Club, on July 9; Craig Trophy race, from Execution Light to Sheepshead Bay, around Long Island, July 22 or 29, and the Hunt Trophy, Execution Light to Cornfield Reef and return, Aug. 3 and 4.

Jan. 21—Mount Dora, Fla.
Feb. 20-23—Palm Beach.
March 11—Sanford, Fla., 18, 19; Miami Beach, classes for all types of boats; Colonel E. H. R. Green Trophy for outboard championship.
April 2—Jacksonville, Fla.

TWIN BOXERS SWITCH IN BOUT AT NEWARK

Fresh One Knocks Out Rival Who Was to Have Faced Other Brother—Lose Trophies.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 17 (AP).—A set of red-headed, freckle-faced twins tonight walked out of the Newark Athletic Club with one amateur boxing championship between them.

Walking out together proved their undoing, however, and their trophy was taken from them by officials, who caught the pair just as they passed out of the door.

The twins were Joe and Tom Rimo of the Y. M. C. A. of Elizabeth. Joe, who weighed 118 pounds, outpointed John McCann in one of the first bouts of the tournament, thus becoming eligible for the final.

Joe had a brother Tom in hiding in his dressing room, and the latter, weighing five pounds more than his duplicate, felt so fresh he bounced his opponent all over the ring before knocking him out in the third round.

Jefferson Park Form Players See Every Favorite Beaten

FAVORITES GO DOWN AT NEW ORLEANS

BRACKETS FOR LONG POINT

Takes Dash After Wild Aster Falters to Finish Third—Stintson Wins Two-Year-Old Race.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 17.—With warmer weather and a drying track, there is promise of better sport for the week-end at Jefferson Park. Today's card was featureless, with six claiming numbers and one allowance event for the juveniles, although the fields were large in most of the races.

The six-furlongs dash for four-year-olds and upward held the most promise of interest. The result was disastrous to the players through the decisive defeat of G. C. Winfrey's five-year-old colt Wild Aster. This son of Ultimus and Blume looked one of the best bets of the day and the players went to him with such confidence that he was backed down to practically even money.

Chick Lang again had the mount on the favorite and while he waited too long with the gelding the last time out, this afternoon he rode him from the start. Wild Aster, however, did not have the foot and finished in the third hole. The winner was G. P. Fought's Long Point, the second choice, which paid $9.20 in the mutuels.

Long Point Gets Early Lead.

Mack Garner rushed Long Point into the lead from the start and he came home an easy winner over C. A. Bernhardt's Huon Pine, which led the favorite a length. Wild Aster carried top weight of 118 pounds and conceded seven to the winner.

It was hard sledding for the players all day, not a single first choice coming down in front. Dubois handled two winners, Jack Knight in the third, and Levoy in the closing number.

Mrs. L. Burg's Stintson gained his second straight victory at the meeting when he annexed the money in the six-furlongs dash for the juveniles. While he was heavily played, J. Spencer's Grey Face was the favorite, the winner paying $7.20 in the mutuels. Stintson just lasted to gain the decision by a head over Jeanette S.

Strong Play on Thaddeus.

The St. Louis Stable's Thaddeus had shown a good effort on his first start here and he was played strongly in the opening number, although B. Harding's Rim was the public choice. Thaddeus scored, while Rim was out of the money. Thaddeus galloped home eight lengths in front of J. Spencer's Onup, the latter just lasting to take the place from Faithful Friend. The winner paid $7.80 for $2.

The favorite made a sad showing in the claiming event at six furlongs, Mrs. G. W. Glick's gelding Kia finishing in the ruck. T. W. Nichols's Optimist, after a successful campaign at Juarez, won here at the first asking, beating seven other platers easily. He paid $13.80 in the machines.

A long shot grouped in the mutuel field easily beat eleven other platers in the gallop of a mile and a sixteenth, third on the card, Jack Knight paying $29 for each $2 investment. Revellion and Van Patrick were equal favorites, but only the latter was in the money, finishing third. Jack Knight finished a length in front of Private Seth.

N. Y. U. IN OPENER TONIGHT.

Violet Quintet Faces Montclair A. C. on New Jersey Court.

The New York University basketball team will open its season tonight against the Montclair A. C. five at Montclair. Coach Howard Cann indicated yesterday that he would use Roberts, Trupin, Werner, Hawkins and Reedy in the line-up. A squad of fifteen men will make the trip.

This evening's game is the first of twelve for New York University and marks the beginning of one of the shortest N. Y. U. schedules in recent years, due to lack of a gymnasium.

ST. JOHN'S TO MEET ARMY.

200 Students Will Accompany the Quintet to West Point Today.

Recent victories by the St. John's basketball team have stimulated such interest in the sport that 200 students will accompany the team today to West Point for the game with the Army. The rooters will make the trip each way by bus.

Only Three Favorites Scored In 28 Races at Four Tracks

Form went by the boards at all four tracks yesterday. The favorite was on the front-end of the parade at the judges' stand in only three of the twenty-eight races that were run. All of the first choices on the Havana card as well as on the Jefferson Park program were toppled.

Yesterday's record follows:

DOUBLE FOR DRAUN AT SEMINOLA PARK

Apprentice Healy Scores With Louis Rubenstein and The Rove for the Stable.

Special to The New York Times.

LONGWOOD, Fla., Dec. 17.—Apprentice Charles Healy rode two winners at Seminola Park today—both for the stable of L. B. Draun. He piloted The Rove home in front of Forget-Me-Not and Bonny Castle in the fifth race, a six-furlong affair, and gave Louis Rubenstein a winning ride in the next sprint, the Sanford Times Purse, which featured the card. Louis Rubenstein broke in front and was in command all the way, finishing nearly two lengths clear of Tender Seth. Al Hotfoot was a distant third.

The Yale Club lost its first match of the season in the metropolitan Class B squash tennis championship to Walter Kinsella's Interfraternity Club team last night on the Yale courts at 4—3 as the first half of the league schedule came to a close. Milton Baron, whose playing this season has been unusually promising, gained one of his most notable victories of the season when he defeated Harry Cross of Yale in the lead-off match at 15—13, 15—6.

While Yale was losing to the Interfraternity Club, the Columbia University Club was winning from the New York A. C. on the latter's courts, and thereby earned a tie for first place with Yale, both teams having won eight matches and lost one. The Columbia players, who were in a tie for second place with the New York A. C., won by the surprising score of 6—1.

In the other matches the Harvard and Princeton Clubs scored clean sweeps over Short Hills and the Gramercy Park Squash Clubs respectively, and the Crescent A. C. defeated the Montclair A. C., 5 to 2.

Greater strength at the top of the line-up brought Interfraternity victory over Yale. The Elis lost three of the four top matches. S. R. Jandorf defeated L. H. Sonneborn in the No. 2 match, and H. E. Wilson won the No. 4 engagement. It was Wilson's victory that clinched the series for Interfraternity.

Two of Yale's victories were gained after the bitterest sort of struggles. J. S. Davidson defeated H. P. Cole of Interfraternity at 15—18, 18—16, 18—17, and R. J. Larner of Yale won from W. B. Hervey at 6—15, 18—17, 18—16.

Canzoneri Triumphs Over Graham in Garden Bout

GRAHAM IS BEATEN BY TONY CANZONERI

9,000 See Utica Bantam Go Down to Defeat in Ten-Round Bout in Garden.

RESULT A STARTLING UPSET

Loser, Matched to Meet Rosenberg, Was 4 to 1 Favorite to Win—Green Conquers Burrone.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Add another to the list of the season's boxing upsets. Last night in Madison Square Garden, before 9,000 fight fans who paid $22,390 to see the spectacle, Tony Canzoneri, Williamsburg Italian youngster who has been boxing for less than two years professionally and considered no better than a 4-to-1 shot in the betting, boxed his way to the decision over Bushy Graham, Utica lad, who is matched to fight Charley (Phil) Rosenberg for the world's bantamweight title in the same ring on Jan. 7.

Judges Harold Barnes and Joe Agnello, who used to box under the name of Joe Coster, and Referee Arthur Donovan, son of the late Professor Mike Donovan, rendered the decision, and it was a unanimous verdict. It also was popular and altogether justified, for Canzoneri, a determined lad, who refused to be awed by his rival's impressive record, plodded steadily along in a style of battle that was principally methodical.

Canzoneri carried off five of the ten rounds. He won the first, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth rounds. Graham won three, the third, fifth and sixth, and two, the second and fourth, were even.

The result was one of the biggest upsets in a year of upsets, a fact which was clearly reflected in the action of betting commissioners prior to the start of the contest when they held Graham a favorite at odds of 4 to 1. But Graham didn't fight like a favorite. He didn't even fight like the Graham of dazzling speed and brilliant execution who has become popular with local fight fans. He fought like a mediocre fighter, content with dancing about the ring and seldom essaying an offensive.

Victor Attacks Boldly.

Canzoneri, on the other hand, leaped boldly to the attack, landed the cleaner and by far the greater number of blows and clearly established title to the decision. It was the timidity on attack of Graham which cost him the decision.

The result, however, is not expected to interfere with Graham's chance at the title on Jan. 7 because the bout was not at the bantamweight limit. Canzoneri weighed 120 pounds and Graham 118¾.

Johnny Green, Harlem bantamweight, carried off the decision over Vic Burrone, Greenwich Village favorite, in the ten-round semi-final. A strong offensive from the fourth session to the finish gave Green the honors by a comfortable margin.

Burrone appeared to advantage in the first two rounds and held Green even in the third, but the action swung to the Harlemite's favor in the fourth when Burrone suffered a severe cut on the lower lip, and throughout the round as well as the succeeding rounds Green showed to advantage. After the fourth session Burrone bled profusely from the lower lip, but the Greenwich Village lad nevertheless uncorked a rally in the two closing rounds in a desperate bid for victory. The rally, however, failed. Green weighed 121 pounds and Burrone 120¾.

Petrone Gets Draw.

The first two battles of the night failed to produce a victor. Draw decisions were rendered in each. Pete Sarmiento, spectacular Filipino bantamweight, and Dominick Petrone, Harlem lad, clashed in the first of the four ten-round encounters. The verdict of draw was not popular with the gathering, as was indicated by expressions of disapproval which greeted the announcement.

Sarmiento was the aggressor throughout and appeared entitled to the honors by a margin of five rounds to two. Sarmiento weighed 119¼ pounds and Petrone 120.

The other draw decision was in the bout between Carl Tremaine, Cleveland featherweight, and Andy Martin, Boston youngster. Tremaine had to extend himself to avert defeat. A rally over the closing half of the battle earned an even break for Tremaine.

The Clevelander went down just before the bell in the second round, but recovered himself quickly. In the main, however, the contest was dull and the crowd repeatedly yelled for action. Tremaine tried to make a long-range fight of it, but Martin worked steadily at close quarters. Martin weighed 122 pounds and Tremaine 123¼.

BOXERS FROM CANADA WIN IN PHILADELPHIA

Take Five of the Eight Bouts, Mainly Through Their Straight Hitting.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17 (AP).—Canadian boxers handed the team of Philadelphia amateurs a decisive defeat at the Penn A. C. tonight, taking five of the eight rounds. In most of the contests the fighting was even, but the men from across the border gained their victories by straight hitting and good infighting.

Only one knockdown was scored, Al Cohen, 160-pounder from Canada, being unable to continue in the last round of the final bout. Three of the bouts went an extra round, and in two of these the judges disagreed and the referee in each case awarded the fight to the invading boxer.

The summaries:

BOARD SANCTIONS LANGFORD BENEFIT

Plans for a benefit boxing show for Sam Langford, former colored heavyweight headliner, were launched yesterday morning at the meeting of the State Athletic Commission when the board issued a sanction for the carnival and appointed Deputy Commissioners Edward F. Curry, Daniel H. Skilling and John T. McNeil, with Matchmaker Jess McMahon of Madison Square Garden and James J. Johnston, President of the National Sports Alliance, a committee to arrange details. The bouts probably will be held at the Walker A. C. on a date to be selected and it is proposed to have three negro boxers, Bruce Flowers, Chick Suggs and Black Bill, participate in as many matches.

Decision thus to make provision for Langford, who is in need of help, followed Langford's appeal for assistance. The appeal was directed to the National Sports Alliance, which has a fund for the aid of destitute boxers of the present and the past, and their families.

In an effort to establish amateur boxing on a more satisfactory basis the commission, after a conference with President Murray Hulbert of the Amateur Athletic Union, recommended that in the future only clubs holding membership in the A. A. U. be permitted to stage tournaments. President Hulbert will submit the recommendations to the Metropolitan A. A. U. and at next Friday's meeting a method of satisfactorily adjusting the situation is expected to be adopted.

It was announced by Secretary Stand that Promoter Humbert Fugazy had released Paul Berlenbach from the contract he holds with the former light-heavyweight champion, to permit Berlenbach to box Mike McTigue in Madison Square Garden on Jan. 14. Approval was voted the application of the Garden for permission to conduct a boxing show on Jan. 1. The Ridgewood Grove, S. C., Brooklyn, received permission to hold a wrestling show on the night of Dec. 28. An application from Frank A. Churchill, manager of Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, that Morgan be permitted to box Phil McGraw, a lightweight, in a bout at catchweights, was taken under advisement.

FLOWERS BOUT PUT OFF BY KEARNS TO SUMMER

Must Wait for Chance to Regain Title, Says Walker's Pilot, Demanding $200,000.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17 (AP).—Mickey Walker, newly crowned middleweight champion, will not give Tiger Flowers a chance to win back the title until next Summer, Jack Kearns, manager of the titleholder, said tonight. Kearns added he would insist on $200,000 as Walker's share of the purse.

"We promised Flowers a return match, but it will be up to him and his manager to dig up the promoter willing to pay us $200,000," Kearns said. "It cost us $18,000 to win the title because of the agreement we were forced to sign guaranteeing Flowers $65,000 if he lost."

Meanwhile Walker expects to engage some less dangerous opponents and will invade the Pacific Coast, returning to Chicago to box in February.

Warhorn starred in the victory for Yonkers by making seven field goals, several of which broke ties in favor of his team. The score was tied, 5 to 5, at half time and 9 to 9 in the third period. At this stage of the game Warhorn made three field goals in succession. Nothing daunted, the New Yorkers rallied and again tied the score at 15 to 15 in the last period. The count remained deadlocked until the final three minutes, when Warhorn led his mates in another assault on the New York goal and scored the point which made the final count 24 to 18.

The line-up:

1,283 BOYS ENTERED IN GAMES TONIGHT

Forty-two Schools Will Be Represented in Record List at Stuyvesant Meet.

An entry of 1,283 schoolboys, representing forty-two schools, was announced yesterday for the twenty-second annual indoor track and field meet of Stuyvesant High School, which is to be held tonight in the 102d Engineers' Regiment Armory. The entry is the largest ever received for a Stuyvesant meet and one of the largest for any schoolboy meet in this city.

All the schools of the city boasting track talent are represented, as well as Devitt Prep of Washington, D. C., with Eddie Hoctor, former De La Salle star, in the quarter-mile, and Pawling School of Pawling, N. J., which has entered lads for the quarter-mile, 100-yard senior dash and 300-yard novice run.

The New Jersey schools entered are St. Benedict's Prep, Lincoln H. S., Dickinson H. S., Kearny H. S., St. Peter's Prep and Newark Prep.

One of the feature races is the mile event in which Victor Fitzmaurice, New Utrecht H. S., P. S. A. L. cross-country champion, and Vincent McArdle, Manhattan Prep, private schools hill and dale title-holder, are scheduled to meet.

DEMPSEY TRAINING AGAIN.

Says He Will Be Ready to Meet Tunney by May 30.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17 (AP).—Jack Dempsey has started training for a comeback. He donned his gymnasium suit for the first time since he dropped his world's heavyweight boxing title to Gene Tunney, and after a brisk workout, said he expected to be in shape to meet Tunney in a return bout in New York either May 30 or July 4.

Dempsey said he would like an early fight, not later than July 4. Dempsey was twelve pounds overweight, his trainer said.

PENN OPPOSES ENCOUNTER

Brown Also Refuses Players Permission to Participate in New Year's Day Game.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 17.—The names of eighteen stars who will compose the Eastern college football team which meets the pick of the Pacific Coast in the Municipal Stadium at San Francisco on New Year's Day were announced here today by Lieutenant Beckett, one of the assistant coaches at the Naval Academy, who has had charge of organizing the eleven.

The list follows:

Backs—Kirkleski, Lafayette; Amos, Washington and Jefferson; Rauber, Washington and Lee; Diehl, Bucknell; Green and Pritchard, Penn State, and Neal, Western Maryland.

Ends—Goodwin, Carnegie Tech; Flora, Michigan.

Tackles—Yoder, Carnegie Tech; Weston and Filak, Penn State; Johnston, Northwestern.

Centres—Struebel, Wisconsin; Desmond, Loyola (Maryland).

The players in this section will leave Baltimore Sunday afternoon for Chicago, where they will meet the rest, the whole party leaving Chicago Monday afternoon and arriving in San Francisco Thursday morning.

The game will be for the benefit of the Shriners' hospital for crippled children in San Francisco, and the players will be the guests of the Shriners both in Chicago and San Francisco.

Penn Gives Explanation.

University of Pennsylvania athletic authorities feel that the East-West football game at San Francisco New Year's Day between picked teams of college men "over-emphasizes" the college game, The Associated Press reports.

This, together with the fact that participation in the contest would handicap scholastic work and be outside of university control, has been given as an explanation for Pennsylvania's refusal to permit any of the stars of its 1926 eleven to take part.

The explanation was sent to the National Headquarters of the Amateur Athletic Union, which had been requested by Pacific Coast sponsors for the game to make it clear that it was not a commercial enterprise but arranged solely as a benefit for crippled children. An erroneous impression had gone forth, it was said, that the contest was "tainted with professionalism."

In addition to Pennsylvania, the A. A. U. also communicated with Brown University, which likewise turned down bids for its football stars to participate.

PINO CONQUERS FOY.

Leonardo Pino, Chilean boxer, defeated Harry Foy, unattached, in the feature bout of the semi-monthly amateur boxing tournament of Columbus Council, K. of C., held in Brooklyn last night. Pino received the decision after an extra round had been fought. They met in the 130-pound class and the result ended Foy's winning streak of thirty victories. In another feature, Jack Foy, also unattached, knocked out Leo Baldango, Ozanam A. C., in the first round.

THE JINGLE OF THE GUINEA.

Mr. LLOYD GEORGE has finally established himself in control of the machinery of the Liberal Party. The vote of the committee in his favor was 19 to 14, not an impressive majority, and very far from that unity for which Mr. GEORGE has been pleading, but for his immediate purpose it will do. The actual resolution had a sordid sound. It merely proposed acceptance of the electoral fund under the lock and key of LLOYD GEORGE, for use in organizing the Liberal Party and fighting in parliamentary elections. Naturally, it is easy for the opponents of Mr. GEORGE, especially the Conservatives, to say that the whole thing has been a mere matter of brutal bargain and sale. He had the money under his control, in a sum estimated to be about $5,000,000; the party committee was desperately in need of funds; so the two met on a mercenary basis. But that does not tell the whole story. It is true that Mr. GEORGE, as the master of the million pounds, was in a strong position to negotiate. But it is only fair to say that he had done this in a moderate spirit, and shown a great desire to conciliate his enemies and to knit the party together. His final offer, which was the one accepted, was to place his fund at the disposal of the Liberal Party without laying down any conditions whatever.

This is described as very generous on his part. Yet his inveterate opponents within the Liberal Party, who protest that they cannot follow him lead because they cannot trust him, will be sure to point out that, once he is firmly settled in his place as Liberal leader, he will, in his restless and versatile fashion, be certain to announce policies, and to take positions, which will then be regarded as official. He may say that he has no thought of "imposing" his will, but when he declares it in his impetuous and belligerent fashion, it will have to be accepted by his Liberal followers, on pain of a still further disruption and whittling down of their strength. The outlook is, therefore, that if Mr. LLOYD GEORGE remains in full health and vigor, he will strive mightily during the next two or three years to win back his prestige and power.

Where the money came from that stuffs his political coffers is no great secret. Some of it has been contributed by wealthy men in the Liberal Party. But the greater part has been derived from what amounts to the "sale" of birthday honors. Both parties in England have been tarred with this stick. They have been willing to grant knighthoods and baronetcies and even peerages to men able and willing to foot the bill for the same. The price has usually varied according to "capacity to pay," running from a few thousand pounds up to a hundred thousand or more. The practice has been investigated by committees of Parliament, which always in their reports deplore and condemn it, but nothing effectual has been done to stop it.

As we too well know in this country, party organizations are expensive to maintain and political campaigns are costly to conduct. When you have, as in England, men willing to furnish the sinews of party war, in return for just a ribbon to stick in their coats, it is apparently impossible to stop the flow of their money to the party war chest. It is a kind of corruption, not so direct or offensive as that practiced by Sir ROBERT WALPOLE, when he was First Minister, but it has its unpleasant and harmful effects. Even Sir WILLIAM HARCOURT, who used to cry out at the "nonsense" of condemning WALPOLE for buying up the men who had their price and whom he needed in his governmental business, would not have fancied the spectacle of Mr. LLOYD GEORGE made head of the Liberal Party almost solely for the reason that he was able to make himself Paymaster of the Forces.

THE STEEL CORPORATION'S STOCK DIVIDEND.

Thursday afternoon's decision of the United States Steel Corporation directors to recommend at the April annual meeting a distribution of new common stock to existing owners, in the ratio of 40 per cent. of their actual holdings, will be discussed from varying viewpoints. Wall Street accepted it, not unreasonably, as expressing confidence in the business future on the part of the eminent financiers who compose the directorate. While the resolution made no statement regarding the rate of dividend to be paid on the common stock after the 40 per cent. increase, it appeared to be taken for granted that the amount to be paid out in dividends will be larger than it has been this year. On its present $508,302,500 of common stock the company has been paying 7 per cent. annually. If it were to pay 5 per cent. on the $712,305,578 to which the proposed increase would raise the stock, the cash payment in dividends would be the same. A higher rate than 5 would proportionately increase the amount received by the shareholder over what he got before the new shares were issued to him.

That the company is financially able to increase its payment there is no doubt. The Steel Corporation has long pursued a prudent policy, accumulating a surplus which is unusually large even when compared with its great capitalization. The reason why Wall Street and the Stock Exchange were so evidently taken by surprise at Thursday's announcement is that the company's Chairman had twice this year shown that he himself did not then expect it. On April 19, while presiding at the annual shareholders' meeting, Judge GARY frankly said of the plan for declaring a "stock dividend" that "it cannot be done with safety at the present time"; and as lately as Nov. 16 he gave out a statement that "the question of an "extra dividend, or of any dividend "in addition to the rate being paid, "has neither been considered nor discussed." It is easily possible that the Chairman and the board may since have seen strong reasons to change their minds, but Wall Street seems to have had no intimation of it.

What the effect of this proposed distribution of profits will be on the Steel Corporation's interests outside Wall Street and the investing community is a consideration that cannot be wholly overlooked. It would be strange if at least the slumbering antagonism to the steel tariff schedules were not awakened by it. One phase of the "farm bloc" agitation has been a protest against the high protective duties on foreign manufactured goods at a time when prices of agricultural products are fixed by open and world-wide competition. Waiving the question whether the farmer is right or wrong in the inferences which he draws, the action of the United States Steel directors is too spectacular to fail of emphasizing the contrasts on which the farm constituency insists.

ANTHROPOID AND HUMAN SUPREMACY.

Professor ROBERT M. YERKES of Yale University has reached some conclusions from his study of the behavior of a five-year-old mountain gorilla that have in them suggestions for humankind. Assuming that this particular individual animal displays "a "fair assortment of gorilla emotions "and reactions," the professor of psychology is of the opinion that this giant ape has been outstripped in the race for anthropoid supremacy by its fellow-ape, the chimpanzee, because the latter is "much fuller of curiosity and is more imitative." The young gorilla showed little interest in the world about it. It held itself aloof from its environment. It was too little adventurous, or inquisitive, or even inquiring. It was placid, stoical, never angry, entirely agreeable in its relations with the human beings about, slow in the solution of problems, although the most intelligent of apes—but not at all apish in its ways.

These findings, which are in agreement with those of the late CARL AKELEY, illustrate the false reputations that are so often given to the dumb creatures. An ancient Greek historian imputed to the ostrich the habit of sticking its head into the sand, and this erroneous characterization has become a metaphor of stupidity. As a matter of fact, the ostrich has, according to modern scientists, never deserved such a reputation for inanity. It has more fitly furnished MACAULAY with the wings for his memorable trope in describing an imagination which enabled its possessor to run but not to soar. So the gorilla, which was held to be one of the most fierce and savage of wild creatures until CARL AKELEY found it leading a peaceful family life in the midst of the African jungle, has now received a further certificate of good behavior from a psychologist, who has applied all kinds of intelligence and behavioristic tests.

The inference is that, because of its lack of what might be called news instinct, its slowness in adapting itself to "extraordinary environmental demands," or in conquering its environment for its own greater comfort or convenient mode of living, it has let a less intelligent relative of more apish characteristic and savage nature pass it on the road. For the same reason, it is a disappearing genus and has slunk back into the forest and avoided man.

The moral for man would seem to be that human supremacy is to come not through good-natured patience and indifference to the world about, but through an inquiring attitude of mind eager to find solutions for novel problems and to discover ways to bring within human reach the spiritual values of existence. The anthropoid has some lessons for anthropic society, and it is to be hoped that more suggestions will come from the "gorilla sanctuary" which, at the instance of CARL AKELEY, has been set apart for research—a land to which these protected creatures have admitted to his last abode their best friend among humankind.

OVERHAULING THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

With successful State reorganization as an example, New York City is out to see what it can do by way of making its government better coordinated. Mayor WALKER has long been pledged to this reform. Just how he and his associates, the Controller and the President of the Board of Aldermen, are going to find time from their other exacting duties to direct so large an undertaking is a bit of a mystery; but if they think they can do it all in the day's work, so much the better. Much of the spade work has already been done. The city has not lacked for charter revision commissions; and plenty of suggestions buried away in reports like that of the commission headed by HENRY DE FOREST BALDWIN in 1922 need only a little brushing off to be made entirely presentable now. The Mayor will also have at his beck and call his own Survey Committee, headed by MORGAN J. O'BRIEN, which already has a subcommittee looking into departmental organization.

If the Mayor wants to go into larger matters, he can take up the anomalous position which counties occupy in the structure of the Greater City Government. They are an ancient political stronghold, but Governor SMITH has had the temerity to attack it, and Mayor WALKER might do so with advantage. There has also been talk of coordinating borough activities, but borough autonomy has taken a strong hold on the popular imagination, and decentralization is often as effective a principle in this modern day as consolidation. But all three forms of government should not be allowed to run wild in the same pastures, as they do today, with political feed a-plenty. City salaries offer a special opportunity for study and readjustment. Hospital facilities could well be better coordinated. Dead wood needs pruning throughout the Municipal Administration. Until something is accomplished along these lines, we shall never have efficient city service or a tolerable budget.

MUSSOLINI'S FOREIGN POLICIES.

To the uneasy conjectures aroused by the movement of French troops along the Italian frontier Premier MUSSOLINI's statement to a representative of The Associated Press provides a sufficient answer. Since Corfu there is little in his record on foreign policy to belie his emphatic expression of good-will for France. He has not sought out trouble anywhere. It is by no means demonstrated that his recent treaty with Albania is a sinister move carried on behind the mask of a pacific Central European and Balkan policy. He is justified in calling attention to a fact, infrequently noted, that Italy's signature stands by the side of Great Britain's under the guarantee pact of Locarno. He now restates his belief in a community of interest with Great Britain in the Mediterranean, and dismisses as impossible anything but cordial relations between the two leading nations of Latin blood.

There has been since the war a good deal of strain within the Latin sisterhood. MUSSOLINI may have indirectly contributed by his flaming words about Italian destiny and revived Roman Empires, which have induced a rush of blood to the head among the more ferocious Fascisti. His words now should act as a reassurance abroad and a warning at home. He admits that the would-be mischief-makers along the French frontier are anti-Fascist exiles or Fascist black sheep. The only conceivable troubles are incidents for the police to cope with, and the French troops between the Alps and the Mediterranean would be there for just such police work.

The situation at home reinforces the argument from the international situation. The testimony of the fugitive Socialist leader TURATI may not be unbiased, though he concedes the reality of MUSSOLINI's physical hold on the country. That a foreign adventure, however, would be the signal for a revolt at home there is little reason to doubt. MUSSOLINI's opponents may not have the power to challenge him, but they have the passions, and war would supply the opportunity. In the history of nineteenth-century Europe war has not been a healthful occupation for autocracies and dictatorships. NAPOLEON III found this to be the case. The Romanoff throne was badly shaken by one war and cast down by another.

A COMMITTEE FOR THE PARK.

The hearing before the Board of Estimate on rehabilitating Central Park again brought out the lack of a constructive policy on the part of the City Administration concerning this urgent problem. The offer of Mr. HECKSCHER and others to provide a fund of a million or more for the park if the city will advance as much brought from the Mayor the hint that nothing be done until January. Various proposals about the use of the reservoir were listened to, but no action was taken. The present Administration, the Mayor said, is burdened with requests for needed municipal improvements delayed for years. It would be necessary to wait until the city could take stock of its financial resources.

It is unquestionably the duty of the City Government to administer public funds so as to obtain the best results. But this does not explain the failure of the Mayor to act on the excellent suggestion of Mr. ROULSTONE, President of the Central Park Association, that a public committee be appointed to act in consultation with Messrs. Olmsted Brothers, landscape architects, for studying and recommending action in regard to various projects of rehabilitating the park. It is essential to inaugurate and carry out a sound park policy, looking well into the future, and not merely to embark on some temporary scheme of improvement which may represent a loss to the city instead of a permanent investment.

Central Park presents two problems in finance—capital expenditure and maintenance. It is wasteful to authorize large capital outlay, such as replanting important areas of the park, without being certain of a fund to keep it up. This will necessarily cost money. But it will cost even more to permit what remains of earlier plantings to die of neglect and starvation.

RESEARCH IN GLARE.

There is apparently no end to the subjects which may be investigated to the benefit of humanity. Research in biology, chemistry, psychology and allied sciences is no longer surprising. The results are often amazing, and recently marvelous and practical results have been obtained, but research in such matters seems in no wise startling. We are more likely to be astonished by scientific examination of some of the common, every-day things which we accept as blessings or curses.

One of the latter, glare from automobile headlights, has been studied by the Research Committee of Lafayette College. It was with the purpose of alleviating the annoyance to drivers meeting at night, especially on dark roads, that the subject was taken up. Some manufacturers of lamps have tried various devices for filtering the light through dark glass, for shading the bulb, and for directing the rays wholly at the ground and never upward. But, so far as is known, none of these has been scientifically tested and found satisfactory, and their production has been comparatively haphazard.

In an effort to determine the cause and possible elimination of glare, the committee first defined the word as "any brightness of light which causes "either interference with vision, annoyance, discomfort or fatigue of the "eye." It was evident at once that these effects would vary greatly in different individuals, and that, even if one observer only were used, his physical condition and the amount of light surrounding him would not always be uniform. A mechanical method of measuring glare was sought, but without success, so direct eye observation was used. Variation was taken into account as carefully as possible, but the results could not, of course, be strictly accurate.

It was discovered that a brighter light was required to produce the sensation associated with glare when amber-colored glass was interposed. A definite amount of light was indicated below which yellow glass eliminated all glare and above which the amount of glare was reduced. The committee intends to convey this information to manufacturers, who, it is hoped, will try various types of glare-reducing glass in windshields.

THE CZAR OF BASEBALL.

Great is baseball. Judge LANDIS has been elected to a second term of seven years as Commissioner, and his salary increased from $50,000 to $65,000 a year. The so-called "Czar of Baseball" has become indispensable. He brought to his duties a profound knowledge of both law and human nature. He has had some stormy experiences with rebels of the Advisory Council, but emerged stronger than ever. The major leagues needed a man of force and character with a national reputation to boss them, for reasons it is not necessary to go into.

Judge LANDIS was described yesterday as "the fiery, white-haired ruler of the diamond," and that he actually rules no one knows better than BAN JOHNSON, President of the American League, a man of force himself. In controversy Commissioner LANDIS has generally prevailed. If one takes a sober view of baseball, he is perhaps the world's greatest arbiter. Let it be remembered that millions of dollars roll into the treasuries of the major leagues every year. The gross receipts of the "world's series" in the post-season of 1926 alone were $1,182,854. What the receipts are in six months of playing for the respective championships staggers the imagination. When the "honorarium" of Judge LANDIS was raised to $65,000 the salary of his secretary was increased to $12,500. The memory of FRANCIS RICHTER, author of "History and Records of Baseball" and editor of the American League Guide, was recognized by an appropriation of $500 to be used in marking his grave. He died a year ago. Baseball, so popular and profitable, was not in this instance generous. RICHTER with his helpful writings put it under an obligation not easily to be calculated.

The value of Judge LANDIS to the national game cannot be measured by the salary to be paid him. Mr. RICHTER, by the way, pointed out that, although in 1914 there were 26,999,151 "potential voters" in the country, "not enough good ball players are produced to man two major "baseball leagues to public satisfaction." He asked: "Is there any "other trade or profession which requires such high specialization as "baseball?" The application to the Commissioner is obvious. He has to judge many difficult controversies, to compose differences between club owners, to pass upon contracts, to discipline and punish mutinous players, to stand between the industry and the public, to make the rounds of camps before the season opens, to attend games, the observed of all observers. It is a man's job and to be remunerated accordingly. What is chiefly expected of Commissioner LANDIS is that he shall keep the game clean as a manly sport and free from the taint of graft and gambling. This he does with a passionate fervor.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Christmas Only a Week Away.

But little more than half the amount contributed to the Hundred Neediest last year has been given to the fund this year, although nearly two weeks of the time has passed and Christmas is only a week away. It ought not to be doubted that in as great prosperity as last year and in the face of as great need the total this year will be even greater than last year. But it will require the prompt response of all those who intend to give if that amount is reached by Christmas Day.

They who give quickly give doubly, as the old proverb says, and in these Neediest Cases the prompt giving will be a double giving because of the Christmas cheer that will be added to the substantial aid which the gift carries to those in misery and want. The old English rhyme needs to be changed only in one word to make it fit our need:

At Christmas give and make good cheer,
For Christmas comes but once a year.

The Canadian Grand Old Man.

Ignorantly or not, we have long pinned our faith to CHARLES VILLIERS as the Senior Member. In length of service probably he was. He sat in the House of Commons from 1834 till his death in 1898. But he was only 96, and hadn't been at Westminster since 1895. A Senate is where the seniors ought to be. Believers in etymology and long life salute respectfully and affectionately a Canadian Senator worthy of the name.

At the opening session, Hon G. C. DESSAULLES appeared "in excellent health." He is yet a boy in official chronology. He was appointed in 1907. But in point of years he outdistances VILLIERS and still more the occasional octogenarians of Congress. He was born Sept. 29, 1827. To begin senatoring at 80 and be plugging away at it heartily in one's 100th year is an interesting achievement, probably a "record." The distinguished, once the famous, Senator ISHAM G. HARRIS of Tennessee used to hide his age, a coquetry that naturally gave rise to a belief that he must be incredibly old.

Yet he was in the Senate for only twenty years and lasted but seventy-nine. Mr. DESSAULLES is made of more enduring stuff. He "expects to be at Ottawa every day of the session." We expect that he will be there for many sessions yet.

Justice Expensive for Everybody.

Somerset County, N. J., seems bound sooner or later to invite its taxpayers to dig into their pockets for the approximate sum of $35,000 for the costs of the Hall-Mills trial. It is doubtful whether the rise in realty value consequent upon the generous publicity which the case brought to Somerville will counterbalance the strain on the tax rate.

It is a form of the high costs of justice to which little attention has been paid. The traditional argument for inexpensive administration of the law has been based on the just principle that the poor litigant must have his day in court. Somerset's plight may call attention to another phase—the high community cost of criminal trials pursued in our leisurely and elephantine fashion.

This fact sufficiently stressed may be utilized to speed up the creaking wheels of the law. Filling the jury box may not be dragged out for days if reluctant panelmen are aware that the costs of a long trial come out of their own pocket. Prosecutors may learn to get along with half a dozen good witnesses instead of four dozen poor ones, if the District Attorney finds his general budget trimmed in the interests of economy.

The law's delays are often explained by an insufficiency of Judges. If court trials were abbreviated, the money saved might be employed to hire more men for the bench. With more Judges and shorter trials the result would be a double acceleration.

As Index to Personality.

People who like to answer questionnaires in company, or who delight in fortune-telling with cards or by palmistry, or who enjoy discussions of their own and their friends' characters—not reputations—should be able to extract at least one evening's pleasure from an article by KATHARINE COOK BRIGGS in the current New Republic, "Meet Yourself." She has compiled certain details from JUNG's theory of types which enable you to classify yourself and your friends.

You must belong to one of four classes—the observant, the expectant, the personal and the analytical. Under each of these headings are listed the qualities which make identification easy. In addition, "every one of us is born either an extravert or an introvert," which sounds almost too much like GILBERT to be taken seriously. However, quotations from JUNG make it clear that the difference between the two types is alarming. "They do not have even the same mental disorders—hysteria belonging to the extravert, while psychasthenia and dementia praecox belong to the introvert." When one considers that there is no escape from existence as one or the other, it is plain enough that this statement is no joke.

In an editorial reference to Mrs. BRIGGS's article, the periodical explains that it does not give her theories blanket endorsement. They remain as yet unproved, but they do offer a pleasant diversion.

CHRISTMAS OR XMAS.

Impatience Is Expressed With the Critics of Abbreviations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reference to THE TIMES front page article on the irreverence of abbreviations, I wonder if these censors weigh and judge the sign or the spirit as a criterion of the intent.

There may be no religious motive in the many holiday advertisements written frankly to sell more merchandise during the gift season, but there is no more irreverence intended in the symbols of Xmas or Santa Claus than there is in the letters "I. H. S." or "St." on altar cloths, stoles, stained glass windows and religious cards where space is limited.

A minister may say Christmas a dozen times in a sermon without undue length, but in making a picture or advertisement the word Xmas permits of more beautiful typographical effects than the word Christmas. There's no irreverence in that!

How Mr. Gradgrind of Dickens's creation must glory in the prune-like souls so busy with petty issues when this season offers so many opportunities for bigness of spirit!

Must Santa Claus go next?

Monday, in a store, I saw a child of about 4 years young telling a jovial Kriss Kringle what she wanted for Xmas. The mother pretended to be busy, but the clever Santa Claus repeated the child's whispered requests so the mother could hear. The crowd smiled, there were tears in the mother's eyes, and yet all this would be vulgar commerce to the people looking for picayune issues.

Here's for a finer and jollier Xmas!

Democratic Aids to Prosperity.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Presidential message affords the usual opportunity for the inflation of political values, but even the President expresses "astonishment" at the Treasury exhibits. Why?

The foundations of current prosperity were established during the last Democratic Administration. Increased facilities of all kinds placed industry in an impregnable position which enabled it to recover from the war inflation period more quickly than other participants in the war. The Federal Reserve Banking act, for which the Republican Party cannot claim credit, was, and is, a tremendous influence in saving the country from inflation prices and speculative fevers.

It is not to be expected that Republican leaders will stress the importance of Wilson's work, but Democrats surely ought to stress the fact that the two Democratic Administrations of the past sixty years gave the country admirable and beneficent legislation for the whole people. T. A. SKELTON.

A Troubled Soul Relieved.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I began to read THE TIMES editorial "Christmas Trees" with fear and trembling. Here, I thought, are we going to be told "we really should not." Right straight through, however, it is a fine editorial. As I interpret it, we may still enjoy our dearly loved Christmas tree in peace, without thinking we are perhaps vandals, destroying something that should not be destroyed.

One hopes that the people who are forever trying to tell us we should not have Christmas trees, that in a short time there will not be any evergreens to be had, &c., will read that editorial—some one is always taking the joy out of life. I presume they are well-meaning, but some folks like to be different. Goodness knows there are enough things against which the voice of protest can be raised legitimately, but spare us the Christmas tree! G. E. CAMPBELL.

THE ALIEN.

His boyhood dragged upon the humdrum farm,
Tending the placid kine at dusk and dawn
Day in, day out—and so he must be gone
To seek the oft-imagined ocean's charm.
He shipped—and for a fortnight chiseled rust
From anchor-chain, swabbed decks, unraveled rope,
Scrubbed greasy kettles—losing faith and hope
Was this the sailor's life for which men yearn?
He wondered. Then, as down the oil-scummed bay
The battered coaster drudged her outward way,
Unseen, he climbed the rail—and dropped astern;
For one last land-sound seared his heart like fire:
The low of cattle in a hillside byre. . . .

INTEREST ON THE DEBT.

Even Its Cancellation Would Lift an Unduly Heavy Burden.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There are many thoughtful citizens possessing a conscience and some development of moral sense who will heartily approve of the admirable letter of L. A. Throop in THE TIMES of today. This I know from those I know and others that I hear of, to all of whom the words of President Coolidge in his recent message seem singularly cold and inept.

He mentions that the paying nations were paying "some" interest. Some, indeed, when Great Britain is paying 6,500 millions of interest in settling 4,600 millions of debt, and has already paid nearly 548 millions interest and only reduced the debt by 95 millions.

It is this interest feature that renders the settlement arrived at such a crushing and discouraging burden to the debtor nations and gives rise to the cry of Shylock throughout Europe.

While I think wisdom and justice demand the cancellation of the debts in toto, why should we not forego the interest and consider all payments as applicable to the principal? It might entirely change the sentiment of Europe, at least for the time being.

The trifling sacrifice for this wealthy nation would never be felt. Few people realize that to give up the whole annual tribute when at its maximum, about 400 millions, would cost this nation about one cent per day per capita, or, say, $3.65 per annum. We can easily derive the advantage of compound interest from England's payment. Why not credit her with this when her debt would be canceled in half the time and with half the amount now scheduled?

CHARLES MYERS.

New York, Dec. 16, 1926.

From a Times Reader.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will THE TIMES allow me to pay it a brusque compliment, without a blush?

A long-time student of newspaper values, I have watched THE TIMES reach one ideal after another, and maintain them with a form of fidelity never equaled in the production of newspapers anywhere. It has reached the heights of journalism only after long and tedious travel and hard and desperate effort. It has watched the public mind stray and straggle after the yellow trend, and through it all it has gone on and on with its principle of "All the News That's Fit to Print," and by the declaration "All the News" it has given the most all-embracing appreciation of its real meaning, never wavering, never skipping, never missing fire, never faltering, but going ahead and ahead and laying on and laying to!

Surely there was never anywhere such a newspaper as THE TIMES, livid, luring and lovable! I used to think the old New York —— was the most alert of all newspapers of the world, and indeed it was everything to be admired and lauded. But with all of its athletic prowess, its alertness, its smartness in always "being there," it was never a marker to the present-day NEW YORK TIMES.

THE TIMES has simply done it all. It is the most perfectly equipped newspaper the world has ever known or will ever see. It is organized to cover events at the North Pole exactly as in Broadway or at the equator. It has a labyrinth of tentacles out to cover the Sahara or the Rhodesian jungles of Africa with the same oil-smoothness it does a Dempsey fight in Montana. It followed Roosevelt in his meandering through the thickets and vine-fortified forests of his route along the River of Doubt. It sped the news from Lieutenant Byrd at the North Pole with the speed of thought both staggering and unbelievable.

No triumph has allowed a let-up. THE TIMES goes on and on, doing things—wonderful things, beautiful things, trying things—halting and faltering at nothing. And then of late it jumps into a sort of editorial ascendancy that makes its daily page of thought and opinion a spread of all the beauties, the strength and force of thought needed to convey ideas of progress, of truth, of power or art or printing.

And above all of these passing compliments of mine come such bon-mots as your "Pre-Presidential Campaign" editorial of Friday last. A gem? More than that—a classic! And that was merely one of many. Your editorial page today is the most heartening thing in journalism, and the world holds some great pages. Every time I think THE TIMES is perfect you do some outstanding thing that makes it pluperfect. And this is enough for once—if you knew what I mean.

CHARLES THOMAS LOGAN.

Veteran Asks Words of Cheer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Another Christmas approaches, and it will find me in a tuberculosis hospital fighting for health and a place in the game of life. I am not discouraged and will continue to carry on so that I will some day be an asset instead of a liability. Six years in sixteen hospitals in France and America, yet I have no regrets and am only sorry I could not do more for my country.

THE TIMES kindly published an appeal from me last January asking for letters and cards so that life would be made brighter and less monotonous, and the response helped me to "carry on." Now I would appreciate a cheery message so that the coming year might hold no terrors for me. I love New York and remember my stay in a hospital there after returning from France with happy memories, its people showing me every courtesy and kindness.

Will you publish this as a real favor to an old-time newspaper reporter who will never "cover" another story?

An Appeal From the Y. W. C. A.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Y. W. C. A. needs $20,000 to complete its campaign fund of $265,000 for the 1927 current expense budget. In addition to serving thousands of young women through educational and cultural classes, religious services, social and club activities, physical education, housing and rooms registry departments, the association serves the public through information desks, employment services and other activities. This work must be cut if this $20,000 is not raised.

May I appeal to THE TIMES readers to show their appreciation of the Y. W. C. A. and their confidence in the work by sending a $10 contribution to the Y. W. C. A. of the City of New York, 129 East Fifty-second Street?

Australian Commissioner's Title.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the very excellent report which you published this morning of an address which I delivered yesterday to the members of the Bond Club of New York, you described me as "Australian Trade Commissioner."

I realize that this is not the fault of the reporter, as unfortunately that was the title ascribed to me on the guest list of the Bond Club itself.

My official title is "Commissioner for Australia in the United States of America," and my commission places me in charge of all matters in America in which the Government of Australia is interested, which, I need hardly say, implies something immensely more than a mere "trade" commission.

HUGH R. DENISON,
Commissioner for Australia.

BROADER VIEW OF COURTESY.

Women Might Also Practice It by Giving Up Car Seats.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Of course, the writer whose plea was recently published in THE TIMES that tired mothers be given seats in the subway was right. But I do not agree with her evident feeling that a man only is responsible for giving such a woman a seat.

In this age of women's independence we must reform our idea of chivalry. But that reformation will not be a sweeping away of concepts of chivalry. It will rather be an expansion of these ideas so that all individuals, girls and boys, women as well as men, will feel the responsibility for courtesy and chivalry. Men now feel an inconsistency between the changed status of women and the one-sided notions of chivalry, which dampens their enthusiasm.

Therefore, let us urge all young people and all men and women who are healthy and not too tired to jump to when a white-haired, frail man or woman comes into a car. Let teachers teach this new conception of chivalry to girls. Let Girl Scouts build ideas of chivalry into their programs. Let all educators live and teach this new chivalry. Why pick on the men? Let's all do it!

MILDRED ELIZABETH HILL.

Exercise for Sedentaries.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I second the motion of a writer in THE TIMES who makes a plea for subway courtesy toward tired mothers and white-haired women. I would also include the rest of the tired mothers and black, brown, yellow and red haired women and all whose burden of years or weight or evident weakness should appeal to the manhood in the male and prompt him to offer his seat.

Your correspondent mentions "short-skirted and lipsticked females with hard faces," and says, "It is not for these that I am pleading." Even these would I include. Neither a short skirt nor a hard face, necessitating the attempt at softening with a lipstick, should put a woman otherwise worthy beyond the pale of human sympathy.

And why not a plea for tired fathers and sons and brothers and standee workers in general—a plea to desk workers, male and female, to make straphanging a part of their "daily dozen" whenever it becomes evident that there are others more needy hungry than they?

Rather than mere gestures of politeness to the "weaker sex" in the interests of courtesy, breeding, chivalry and all such tommyrot, I would say let the plea be to respect the burden more, regardless of sex, and to refrain from occupying seats that we don't need in the face of those who evidently do need them. A Protestant's View of Gov. Smith.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with great interest the letter in THE TIMES from R. H. Dabney relative to Governor Smith's religion.

I am a Protestant and a Mason, and I most sincerely hope that our next President will be Alfred E. Smith. I hope this first because I feel assured that Mr. Smith is the greatest American of modern times. He has repeatedly proved that he is an American before anything else, and surely millions of the best Protestants will demand the election of this man whom the people of the State of New York have seen fit to return to the office of Governor for the fourth time.

It must further be admitted that Mr. Smith has come to be known as a champion of the people's rights, and when I say the people I mean all those who have to work for a living and who are the real backbone of the nation. Surely a man who fights the interests who are trying to steal the water power of a State for a mere song is a champion from head to foot. Imagine such a fighter as Mr. Smith as President, and imagine, too, his delivering in person his speeches to Congress! It is hard to imagine a Congress which would dare not heed his words. H. S. BAKER.

Corrections for Mr. Shepard.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I feel justified in calling your attention to the many misstatements in an item in your paper of Dec. 5 and requesting a correction of same. I should have done this sooner, but have been somewhat under the weather for the past few days.

I will take up the items in the order in which you print them. First, my boat is not 45 feet long, but 50 feet 2 inches. Secondly, her name is not Terra Dolo, but Terradelia (one word), derived from my wife's maiden name, Terradell. Thirdly, my name is not Milton Sheppard, but Elliot F. Shepard, as was my father's before. Fourthly, we were not bound for Trenton to visit Mayor Donnelly, but to get our Summer clothes, which are in my wife's house here. Fifthly, we were not short of provisions, water, gas, oil or any other commodity. We had enough of everything on board to last us for ten days.

I have received many a taunting letter and remarks from friends on this subject. "Hot skipper you are, to go to sea with enough for afternoon tea." "Thought he knew better, but suppose he is getting old," &c.

Sixthly, my captain went ashore solely to obtain a tug to haul us out of the ice. Seventhly, I am not a member of the New York Yacht Club.

Thanking you for these corrections,

ELLIOTT F. SHEPARD.

First Aid Society Seeks Help.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Society for Instruction in First Aid appeals for financial aid. It was organized on the plan of St. John's Ambulance Association of England in 1882 to teach first aid in the United States. Since that time it has given continuous instruction and the number of students is considerably over 90,000.

The society is confident that its old and new friends will come to its aid and send donations to carry on this work. However small, they will help. Checks should be made payable to A. A. Campbell, Treasurer, Room 408, United Charities Building, 105 East Twenty-second Street.

Mix-Up of Names.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have remarked an article in THE TIMES of Dec. 5 entitled "Knoll to Romance of Comstock Lode," in which the statement is made: "Mr. Whitney was glad to unload the enterprise upon the Foundation Company at a price of $800,000, pocketing his loss of something more than $4,000,000."

The Foundation Company has no knowledge of this enterprise. I judge from reading the remainder of the article that instead of the Foundation Company you meant to say the Exploration Company.

J. A. STEWART, 104, BANKING DEAN, DIES

WAS ADVISER TO LINCOLN

He Served as Assistant Treasurer Twice—Was the Oldest Princeton Trustee and Columbia Alumnus.

John A. Stewart, 104 years old, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the United States Trust Company, died yesterday. The end came to the dean of American bankers as he slept in his home, 18 West Fifty-third Street, after a day's attack of pneumonia.

Forty-eight hours before his death Mr. Stewart had shown no sign of pneumonia. He had been ailing for the last two weeks but the sturdy constitution which had carried him down through a century, during which he had participated in great chapters in his country's history, seemed certain to bring him past the danger.

Late on Thursday, however, his condition took a turn for the worse and his physician, Dr. Rolfe Floyd of 114 East Fifty-fourth Street, was called. The downward course of his illness continued and then Mr. Stewart seemed to improve and fall into a doze. Death occurred at 4 A. M., while his wife was at the bedside. Mr. Stewart's children, John A. Stewart Jr. and Mrs. Roger Weller, reached the home after death.

Kept Interest in Business.

Following his custom of the last five years Mr. Stewart had spent the Summer at his estate near Morristown, N. J. He had returned to this city on Nov. 23 and prepared to remain for the Winter at his home. Although retired from active business in 1921, he retained the threads of his many enterprises and investments in his own hands, business associates and employes calling at his home to determine his wishes.

As late as Wednesday afternoon an employe visited Mr. Stewart at his home and went over some business affairs with him. He found the centenarian as keen and as alert as he had been during the many years he presided over the destinies of the trust company at 45 Wall Street, which he helped to organize in 1853 with many notable figures of bygone days in Wall Street.

Until his retirement Mr. Stewart motored three times a week from his Morristown home or his town home to the trust company offices, and it was not for some years after he relinquished the Presidency of the company in 1902 that he abandoned his practice of reporting at his office daily.

He was twice married, his second wife having been Miss Mary Olivia Capen of Baltimore, whom he married in 1890. In addition to the widow and his son and daughter, Mr. Stewart is survived by a brother, Rear Admiral Edwin Stewart, U. S. N., retired, who lives in Orange, N. J. Funeral services will be held at 10 A. M. on Monday in the Brick Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street.

Was Adviser of Lincoln.

Mr. Stewart was Lincoln's trusted financial adviser in the dark days of the Civil War and had dinner at the White House a few days before the assassination. Andrew Jackson was the first President of the United States he could remember. Until his death he was the oldest living alumnus of Columbia University and oldest trustee of Princeton. He served as President pro tem. of Princeton after Woodrow Wilson resigned to run for Governor of New Jersey and before the selection of Dr. John Grier Hibben to head that university.

He was in his office at the time of the great Wall Street bomb explosion. The bomb went off within 100 feet of the spot where the aged banker was sitting. Fragments of broken glass, stone and mortar were showered through a window of his office. A member of his office staff later said that while others were scurrying for safety in the great excitement, Mr. Stewart was the only one that remained calm.

Mr. Stewart never could understand why there should be any particular interest in him because of his longevity. He requested newspaper men who sought him out on the occasion of his last birthdays to give no undue notoriety to him. He did not regard longevity as an achievement, and he had no formula to hand down to others desiring to equal his mark.

Cited by Rockefeller as Model.

"I haven't used tobacco in any form since I was 20 years old," he once said. "I believe that is one of the reasons I have kept my health. The only rule I have is moderation in everything. Eating too much is just as bad as drinking too much. I do not live differently from other people, but I eat and drink carefully."

Mr. Stewart was cited several years ago by John D. Rockefeller Sr. as his model. Mr. Rockefeller said he hoped to imitate Mr. Stewart in living to complete a century of life.

He was the last surviving member of the original Board of Trustees of the United States Trust Company, which included Peter Cooper, John Jacob Astor, Jacob Lawrence, John J. Phelps, John J. Cisco, William E. Dodge, Royal Phelps and William H. Macy. Before he became Chairman of that board Mr. Stewart had served forty years as President of the company, being an intimate of the elder J. P. Morgan, Andrew Carnegie, William Rockefeller, James J. Hill, Collis P. Huntington and other financiers and industrial leaders who were building America.

He served the Government conspicuously, first as Assistant Treasurer of the United States in the Administration of Lincoln, and later during the Administration of Grover Cleveland in 1894 when the gold reserve was dangerously depleted. Cleveland in his book, "Presidential Problems," acknowledged his services in obtaining the resumption of specie payments and financing the needs of the Government, and said:

"He rendered most useful and patriotic service in making this and the previous offer of bonds successful."

In his old age Mr. Stewart never wore eyeglasses. He was a little hard of hearing, which made it difficult for friends to converse with him.

Born in Fulton Street.

Mr. Stewart was born on Aug. 21, 1822, in Fulton Street, New York City, when the present Wall Street had real lambs grazing on the meadows that dotted the financial district. His father, John Stewart, was born on the Island of Lewes, one of the Hebrides group, while his mother, Mary Aikman, was born in New York City.

After attending public school in New York City, Mr. Stewart studied at Columbia. He took both the literary and scientific courses and prepared to be a civil engineer. After a few years in that work he was appointed clerk of the Board of Education of New York City and in 1850 became Actuary of the United States Life Insurance Company. When the United States Trust Company was organized in 1853 as the first American trust company chartered exclusively to render fiduciary service, Mr. Stewart became Secretary of the company. In 1856 ill health forced Joseph Lawrence, first President, to resign and Mr. Stewart was elected President at the age of 41.

"My first job?" said Mr. Stewart in reply to a question once. "I graduated from Columbia in '41 and I went to work for $1.25 a day as a civil engineer on the Erie Railroad, which was then being built. I was 19."

Mr. Stewart became a Trustee of Princeton in 1868. He knew intimately and admired the late President Woodrow Wilson, and once was quoted as saying of Wilson:

"If you disagreed with him you were wrong and he was right, and that ended it."

Watched Great Fire of 1835.

Mr. Stewart on reaching the century mark said he could recall vividly the great fire which almost destroyed New York City in 1835. He watched the flames consume the larger part of the city from a knoll near what is now Twenty-seventh Street and Third Avenue.

He said he noted a difference in the popular feeling awakened when the United States entered the late World War and when it declared war on Mexico in 1846.

"Crowds of men and boys when the Mexican War was declared," he said, "marched up and down Broadway, Wall and Broad Streets, cheering and waving American flags. When the United States entered the war against Germany, word of it was brought to me in my office. There was no great outburst, although newsboys were selling extras in the streets. There seemed to be no excitement. Times surely had changed, I thought."

Mr. Stewart believed that the biggest changes in his lifetime were in the conduct of Government administrations and elections, which he described as changes corresponding to the physical development of the country. He said:

"There has been a distinct moral improvement in politics since the middle of the last century. A recurrence of a scandal like the Tweed ring dominance in New York City would not be possible."

Mr. Stewart said he was still a boy and that it was two years after the great fire when the first financial panic occurred in 1837. Of panics he once said:

"Such panics as that and those of 1873, 1893 and 1907 are impossible now. Those were virtually national disasters."

Speaking of newspapers, he several years ago said:

"In the early days of New York editors such as Greeley, Dana and Bryant and other pioneers of modern journalism, all of whom I knew personally, had large individual followings. Today the individuality of the editors is more submerged, and the larger circulations are due, it seems to me, to the presentation of a wider variety of news."

Mr. Stewart was deeply shocked by the deaths of Lord Northcliffe and Charles R. Miller, whom he regarded as two great editors. At that time he said: "Mr. Miller of THE TIMES was a very close personal friend of my brother, Rear Admiral Stewart. He was a great editor and a good man."

"Lincoln the Greatest American."

Mr. Stewart was once asked whom he regarded as the greatest man he had even known, and he said:

"I think Abraham Lincoln was not only the greatest American but the greatest man of comparatively modern times."

On the occasion of Mr. Stewart's 100th anniversary, the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange voted to send him a message of greeting, in part reading:

"In the extended period of time his longevity has placed at his disposal he has set an unfailing example of the highest type of public-spirited citizenship. We, whose interests are rooted in the financial district of the great metropolis of New York, have benefited by the high standard which he has established in all his activities as a leader in financial affairs. The Governing Committee of the New York Stock Exchange hereby extend to Mr. John A. Stewart their heartiest congratulations on his hundredth birthday, and tender him the assurances of their most sincere respect and admiration."

HERMAN WINTER, SHIPPING MAN, DIES

Former Assistant Manager of Oelrichs & Co. Ill of Pneumonia Two Days.

HAD SERVED SEVERAL LINES

Importer for a Time After the World War—Funeral Services Tomorrow Afternoon.

Herman Winter, formerly assistant manager of Oelrichs & Co., agents for the North German Lloyd Line, considered one of the most able shipping men in New York, died yesterday in the Midtown Hospital of pneumonia at the age of 58. He became ill two days ago in his suite in the Hotel Biltmore. He leaves a brother, Emil Winter. Services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the funeral parlor at 233 Lenox Avenue.

For twenty-six years Mr. Winter was associated with Oelrichs & Co. He entered the office as first stenographer to the late Gustav H. Schwab, head of the firm, soon became Mr. Schwab's secretary and in five years his assistant. For a time before Mr. Schwab's illness forced him to resign, Mr. Winter directed the affairs of the company. Mr. Winter retired from the company in 1911, going three days later to the Cunard, in which he became assistant to General Agent Charles P. Sumner. On April 6, 1916, when the World War was on, he received word from the Liverpool office that his services would be no longer desired by the line "because of previous affiliations." Mr. Sumner stated that Mr. Winter's discharge carried no reflection on his great ability as a shipping expert, but referred to his long connection with a German firm and the fact of his German parentage.

Mr. Winter was born in Baltimore. His parents had come to this country from Bremen, Germany. He was educated chiefly in the German-American Institute in this city. After working as a clerk in an importing house, he got his first taste of the shipping business as a clerk with Vernon H. Brown & Co., the Cunard agents. Then he studied stenography and got the position with Oelrichs & Co.

After leaving the Cunard employ in 1916, Mr. Winter engaged in importing for a few years, and then in 1920 went to Hamburg as manager of the Hamburg office of the American Line for the International Mercantile Marine Company. He resigned that post early in 1925 to become general passenger agent here for the American-Palestine Line.

FUND FOR NEEDIEST FAR FROM ITS GOAL

Many More Contributions Must Come to Equal Relief Work of a Year Ago.

TOTAL IN HAND IS $137,755

An Anonymous Gift of $500 and Two of $400 Are Among the 539 Donations in a Day.

CHRISTMAS A WEEK AWAY

Contributions for the neediest cases fell off yesterday. The amount received was $9,947.07, which was $3,-[illegible] less than the total on the same day last year. This year's fund, compared day for day, is still approximately $5,000 greater than last year's.

The contributions yesterday increased the fund to $137,755.76. More than $123,000 is still needed before the final figure of $260,998.26 for last year is equaled. That fund provided for 345 neediest cases, and the aim is to provide for a still greater number this year.

With Christmas just a week off, thousands of contributions are still needed to insure relief for the neediest in the coming year on as great a scale as in the past.

The relief goes to the most distressed and afflicted families known to six of the leading charitable organizations. Relief is complete. It consists of all the necessaries of life for a year. It enables mothers and children, the sick, the helpless and the aged to keep their homes and to have decent living conditions. It cares for the sick, feeds the hungry and provides shelter, clothes and fuel for the helpless. Children who are emaciated will be built up. Children who are ragged and patched will be clothed like other children. Life will be made easier for hopeless invalids and for the aged and the feeble. Proper medical attention, diet, care and rest will recover the health of many sick fathers, mothers and children among the neediest cases. Partly disabled men will be educated in suitable occupations, and older children will receive trade training so that they can aid afflicted families to become self-sustaining again.

The appeal for the neediest cases is made only by printing their stories. No personal solicitation is authorized.

Help to Save Homes.

Contributions to the neediest cases will make Santa Claus a marvelous reality to hundreds of bereaved and suffering families. In one case his gift will be nothing less than a home, reuniting a mother and brothers and sisters who had been scattered by poverty. In another case his gift will be the saving of a home in danger of being broken up because of the destitution following the sickness or death of a breadwinner. In all cases his gifts will be the things most needed by the families in the direst want. In making a contribution the reader waves a magician's wand, changing misery into comfort and hope. He answers the prayers of a mother frantic with anxiety. He substitutes bewildering happiness for deep despair. The tales of Hans Christian Andersen, with scenery somewhat altered, become episodes of real life. Dreams come true. Good fortune comes to the neediest family from some unknown source. It is all as mysterious and bewildering as the excellent effects which wishing rings and magic hats and fairy godmothers used to produce. It is steeped in the spirit of Christmas.

Every cent contributed buys the necessaries of life for the most afflicted families in New York. Checks should be made payable to the "Hundred Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to THE NEW YORK TIMES or to one of the six charitable organizations.

Sixty-two contributions were made yesterday in memory of dear ones.

The largest contribution was one of $500 made anonymously. Gifts of $400 came from "W. H. S." and from an anonymous contributor. Other large contributors were Ludwig Vogelstein, $250; Madeline, Elizabeth and Erwin Stern Jr., $200, and Ely Lorde, $150.

Among the contributors of $100 were William T. Morris, former Minister to China; Charles R. Crane and Mrs. Crane, M. Lee Marshall, Julius Goldman, "In Memory of My Father," Stella Kane, M. A. Kane, Boni & Liveright, Janet O. Lipper, "In Memory of Oscar and Gertrude Grisch," Mr. and Mrs. Leland Rex Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. George Naumburg, Nettie G. Naumburg, Mr. and Mrs. Erasmus Lindley, Lucian H. Tyng, Katherine S. Bradley, Roland F. Elliman, R. H. Nelson and "F. R. S. and C. A. S."

Janet O. Lipper, who painted "The Man Who Knows Wall Street" and other works, sent a contribution of $100, which she realized from the first sale at her exhibition of paintings.

Messages From Contributors.

Donald Scott Jr., Cambridge, Mass.—Enclosed please find my little boost of $5 to the campaign. I have been watching the daily report in the newspaper and decided that I could be of more use to the fund by contributing instead of just observing.

S. B. Haskell—Enclosed please find money order for $30, $10 each for Cases 46, 35 and 94. My heart aches for these poor needy ones, all of them. I am only a working woman myself, but thank God I am able to share my earnings with others. I pray that more may be given this year than last.

Rose M. Cloonan—I read of the Hundred Neediest Cases in last Sunday's issue. I am in school yet, so I haven't much to contribute. I work on Saturdays during the Christmas rush and I am sending a dollar to be used if possible for Case 19, or some one else just as worthy in your opinion. I would like this to be a $100 check, but as it isn't, I hope it will bring a tiny bit of cheer.

Evelyn Frances Lewis—I will be very glad to help the poor children for Christmas. I have a brother who is 3 years old, and a sister who is 1 year old, and I am 9½. My sister's name is Harley and my brother's name is Philip and my name is Evelyn. Each of us send the poor children $3 and hope the poor children have a happy Christmas.

Irving T. Bush—I should like to tell you how fine I think is the inspirational message carried by Haskell Coffin's poster this year. It couples a touch of the finest idealism with the practical help given.

Mrs. R. J.—Enclosed is my contribution to a noble cause. May this great and inspiring work carried on yearly by THE TIMES continue to alleviate the suffering of the unfortunate and bring sunshine into the lives of little children.

Sympathy for the Neediest.

George G. Herr, Southern Pines, N. C.—Please find enclosed my check for $5 to help Case 75. This is an insignificant contribution in comparison with what I would like to give, but the spirit which prompts it is just as deep and sincere as if it were many times as much.

Mrs. Charles H. Van Buren—I am enclosing a check for $50 to be used for the Hundred Neediest Cases. My small boys were especially impressed with the hard lot of the children living in the squatter's cabin on Barren Island, having seen similar cabins on the Jersey meadows. So I am also sending a check for $2 earned by Albert Van Buren, aged 7, and Fred Van Buren aged 10.

Edwin and Lenore—Enclosed please find the offering of two little children who hope that it may be the means of making some other little girl or boy as happy as they are on Christmas.

Catherine Wertheim—Please accept enclosed check from the Gieg Club, which consists of eight girls of 13 and 14 years. Wishing you great success and trust that it will do as much good or at least help to do as much good as we hope.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Reed—It certainly is a great privilege to contribute our bit to this very worthy cause.

D. K. H.—Enclosed please find the small contribution of my little daughter, Peggy Ann, in whose name I am sending the check to be used toward any case of the many worthy ones you have listed.

Barbara Mabey—I am 11 years old and have been earning some Christmas money. I want to send part of it to be used for Case 20. I'm so sorry for the boy because he is left all alone.

Friend, Woodbury, Conn.—Enclosed find check for $5 as a wee contribution to the Hundred Neediest Cases Fund. May Christmas cheer and happiness be with these unfortunates as the fund is growing, and amounts large and small pour in to help relieve suffering and want. With highest admiration for this most wonderful charity work.

Anonymous—Enclosed find small check for the Hundred Neediest Cases Fund. I wanted the little girl with the potato doll to have it, but if she is provided for, some other little girl.

Martha E. Thompson—Will you please accept the small check enclosed toward helping June (Case 80) recover some of her lost girlhood and confidence in people. I hope she may soon learn to smile again.

Gives as a Thank Offering.

A Friend—I wish that I could have written this check for a hundred times the amount to express in some slight degree my gratitude to God for His great goodness to me and my family.

S. L. Frank, Augusta, Ga.—Away from New York, but hope this little will do some good.

Louis M. Kern—Although I am only a humble worker in the army of toilers I want to do my part and am enclosing $2, hoping the quota will be reached.

Clarence P. Smith—Enclosed please find contribution to this noble fund that I have always felt was the most direct and practical method of doing for the unfortunate.

R. G. Story—As a reader of THE NEW YORK TIMES since the days of Henry J. Raymond sixty-five years ago, I am sending you my subscription to your Neediest Fund. Please find herewith my check for $15.

M. H. A., Toronto, Can.—I am enclosing herewith $10 in aid of your splendid charity to the Hundred Neediest Cases in New York to which it has been my pleasure to contribute for some years. I heartily trust that your efforts this year will bring forth even a still larger return than last year.

Mrs. J. F. Kennedy—Please apply the enclosed $10 to Case 17 of the Hundred Neediest Cases fund printed in Sunday's TIMES on Dec. 12. It is a joy to me to try and give a little help to this deserving cause.

Henry Lord, Albemarle Park, N. C.—Enclosed is my contribution to the Hundred Neediest Cases from an old citizen.

Dr. Julian M. Bondy—In behalf of the Eta Phi Club of New York I am enclosing a check for this very worthy Christmas fund with heartiest wishes for its success and happiness for all.

Abe Stern—May the enclosed check help to bring sunshine and cheer to one of the Hundred Neediest. The Hundred Neediest is always included in my list of charitable organizations to which I contribute yearly. It has particularly appealed to me to realize that my subscription is being used for the most deserving and also to know that the full amount subscribed goes to the unfortunates, with nothing being deducted for expenses in furthering the cause. May each year's subscription exceed that of the previous one, so that this noble work will continually expand.

Florence L. Dunn, Rochester—I read in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Dec. 5 the Hundred Neediest Cases and was especially interested in the case of the little boy Davy, Case 1, and enclose check for $10, which I send for the benefit of Davy.

Glad to Help the Distressed.

S. B. C.—The enclosure is from Harriet and Jimmy Cross to be applied to Case 83 with their deep gratitude to you for enabling them to help a little to relieve such real suffering.

Gladys J. Turner—Please find enclosed a check for $5 toward the Hundred Neediest Cases Fund. This is certainly a real work of Christian charity and I only wish I could contribute more.

Helen L. Wolfe—In reading through the Hundred Neediest Cases I became very much interested in Case 20. Although this is a very small sum, I surely hope it will help this poor Albert who certainly is worthy of a chance in this world.

Mrs. O. G.—Enclosed please find my check for $100 to help a bit toward swelling the fund you are raising. Our hearts go out especially to those cases where there are little children, but use it wherever it is most needed. We send it in memory of Oscar and Gertrude Grisch.

Mrs. Alfred Stern—It is indeed a great privilege to send my very small contribution and I only hope in coming years I shall be able to help a lot more with this most wonderful work. My two boys have saved $1 each out of their weekly allowance, and I hope I have planted the seed in them to understand what it means to help others not as fortunate as they are. With sincere wishes that you will break all previous records.

Evelyn M. Moore—I always follow with keenest interest the daily progress of this splendid campaign and am more than glad to make my small contribution, though I regret it can't be ten times as much. The spirit shown in your undertaking, which pervades organizers, workers and contributors alike, is to be one of the finest manifestations of the real Christmas spirit to be found anywhere.

A. A. R., Mystic, Conn.—Enclosed find check for $3 to be applied to Case 70, as it made an especial appeal to my sympathies. The two elderly sisters, who are fearful what the future holds, reminded me of Hugh Walpole's work "The Old Ladies."

Anonymous, Bellefont, Pa.—Enclosed please find check for $25. Case 22 appealed so to me, having had dogs for years and knowing their faithfulness.

L. B., Washington, D. C.—I am enclosing my small check to help in this splendid work. I feel personally grateful for the aid you are giving to those who need it most.

Contributions have been received from Adile T. Dahlman "In memory of her mother," $5, and from E. McWilliams, $5, which were incorrectly acknowledged in a previous issue. Another contribution should have been acknowledged as "John H. Ball, in memory of grandparents."

Among the neediest cases are the following:

CASE 31.

A Mother is Defeated in Her Struggle to Keep Her Afflicted Son.

She was getting old. For twenty years she had scrubbed floors, but a little more than a year ago the corporation discharged her and gave her a year's extra pay. Because of her age she has been unable to obtain other work. A friend, a telephone girl in the great building where she had scrubbed, visited her recently and found her in dire want. The year's extra pay had been exhausted, for the aged woman has not only herself to keep, but also her middle-aged son, Danny. Danny has never been quite right, although his mother will not admit it. Danny is harmless and pleasant, but his mind slips. His mother has always cared for him and loved him more than if he had been a mental giant. Now it is proposed to send Danny to a State hospital and his mother to a home for the aged, but they are despairing at the thought of being separated. It is hoped to keep them together a little while longer.

Amount needed, $600.

CASE 78.

Both Parents Are Suffering and There Are Two Children to Care For.

The father is a helpless invalid suffering intensely from sciatica and cancer. His wife, a patient under treatment for diabetes and varicose veins, is the janitress of the house, doing a heavy day's work, but with great pain and difficulty. Aaron, 15, tried to help out as an errand boy, but a painful condition of the feet due to infantile paralysis put an end to that. The other child is Minnie, 13. They are in need of constant medical attention, better food and other necessities, and the children must quickly learn trades.

Amount needed, $1,300.

Case attested and administered free of cost by the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, 114 Fifth Avenue. (Telephone Ashland 5380.)

CASE 87.

Robert, 10, was one of her best pupils, and the teacher was worried when he grew thinner and paler. The boy assured her that he was all right. She asked him many questions. Then she telephoned his name and address to the charitable organization. "I am sure he is starving," she said. The visitor went to the home and found three others suffering as much as Robert. Janet, 11; Ralph, 8, and Marie, 7, were emaciated children with dark circles under their eyes. Their mother was worn and tired from anxiety and toil. In addition to caring for the home she worked regularly as a scrubwoman. The grandmother was past 70 and blind. Help given now would enable the mother to make a better start toward self-support.

Amount needed, $520.

CASE 26.

A Boy of 12 Who Has Had Ten Homes and Still Is Homeless.

Stuart was trying to sew up one of the larger holes in his stockings when the social worker arrived in answer to an "abandoned boy" report. He was in a grimy room at the head of a rickety staircase in the rear of a rickety building. Seated in the corner, with an old rag over her head, was an aged woman smoking a pipe. "They left him on my hands," she said. "I can't feed him." The boy was in tatters. The old woman was not related to Stuart; she had him at tenth hand. His mother had disappeared; his father had deserted him; one group of relatives had him, then another, and next he was thrust upon strangers. But they would not keep him. Ten times he was passed on. For months the boy had had nothing but angry glances and hard words. When he was taken from these surroundings, washed up and dressed in better clothes he proved to be an attractive boy, with thoughtful brown eyes. He is only 12 years old. At school he is studying hard and is popular with his new playmates. He needs food and shelter until he can become self-supporting.

Five Fatherless Children Who Are Always Having to Move.

Anna, 10, is only in the second grade, and Sally, 8, and Rose, 7, are only in the first, yet they are unusually bright children. They never have a chance to get used to their school. They are always on the move. They are dispossessed almost as soon as they get a new home. Their father died last March, leaving them penniless, and it has been a heavy struggle for them since then. In addition to the three school children, there are Bess, 4, and Edward, 2. Bess is barely recovering from diphtheria. For months they have hardly ever had a nourishing meal. The children are poorly clothed. They are all living now in three small rooms which the sun never reaches. The mother must have aid to raise her helpless brood.

Amount needed, $660.

CASE 85.

A Father and a Son in Hospitals; a Mother and Three Little Girls in Need.

The father and 10-year-old Lewis are both in hospitals suffering from tuberculosis. At home, in dark, bare rooms, under plaster that threatens to fall, are the mother and her three little girls—Eva, 6; Grace, 2, and Eleanor, 9 months. They are all undernourished and without money for food or rent.

Amount needed, $1,040.

Case attested and administered free of charge by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, 105 East Twenty-second Street. (Telephone Gramercy 7040.)

CASE 84.

Four Are Left Fatherless and a Mother Cannot Earn Enough for Them.

Arthur was born in June—three months after his father had been buried. Very little was left after the funeral expenses were paid. Arthur was one of four who were left fatherless, the others being George, 8, Harold, 6, and Josephine, 4. Grief-stricken and bewildered, their mother, who was only 29, found a job as a janitress and took outside work when she could. She made over cast-off garments to clothe her children, and she keeps the little folk remarkably neat. Although only 8, George is in 4A. A school nurse noticed the undernourished condition of the two older children. A visit to the home showed that the young mother was breaking under her heavy burdens and that the suffering of the family was becoming acute.

Amount needed, $700.

CASE 33.

Darkness Comes Upon the Mother of Three Little Ones.

Mary was left alone with three small children—Joseph, 5; Michael, 4, and Maria, 2. She had the children cared for at a day nursery while she beaded dresses. Her eyes were not perfect and they grew steadily worse as day after day she strained her sight to follow the microscopic bead patterns. One morning she found that nothing appeared before her left eye but a deep fog. She will have to undergo an operation. Generous help now will save her from the thing that she fears most—the possibility that her children may be taken from her and placed in asylums.

Amount needed, $1,080.

CASE 28.

Pneumonia Takes the Father, and a Mother and Four Are Penniless.

Leo's school report from Class 8A read "Not alert or active, rather listless, but very dependable." His face was wan and he never played or smiled. The reason became known when a neighbor asked for help for the family. The father had died of pneumonia, leaving a wife and four children without money. Leo had not been getting enough to eat. He had been getting up before dawn to deliver breakfast rolls for a baker. His mother is too frail and sickly to do any outside work after caring for her four boys. The three others are Walter, 8; Arthur, 6, and Al, 4. The family must be helped.

CASE 82.

The Father Killed in an Accident, the Mother and Two in Want.

Ethel, 11, still wakes up screaming at night from the memory of the time her father was brought home dead. He was killed and terribly mutilated by a train on his way home from work. No one saw the accident, and there was no basis for a claim for compensation. A mother and two children were left penniless. Visitors found the home a good one for children to be reared in. It had a devoted and capable mother, who cooks, washes, irons, cleans and sews for her children and sits up until after midnight working on ribbon ornaments. But she earns less than $5 a week. She must have help if the children are to remain with her.

CASE 35.

A Father in Jail, a Mother and Five Children Who Hunger.

"I am in very bad need," she wrote. Her husband had just been sent to prison. Her heart was so weak that she could do only very light work. Her five children were hungry. She had told her plight to the Judge who sentenced her husband. He told her to go to the charitable society, but she borrowed a stamp and wrote a letter because she did not have the money for carfare. The visitor found the woman shrinking and timid. Since her husband's arrest every knock at the door had made her jump. She and her children were stunned by the disgrace that had befallen them, for they had always thought their father the best of men. The oldest boy, John, 13, is in Junior High. Jennie is in 7A, and Joseph in 6A. The others are Ellen, 6, and Mary, 4. The three school children had left home that morning without breakfast. Little Ellen and Mary that day had had only sweet cakes that a neighbor gave them for lunch. Their eyes shone and they ate eagerly when food was provided. The father, a mechanic, has an indeterminate sentence for receiving stolen goods. They all believe that he yielded to the temptation only because much sickness had left them without savings.

Death of the Breadwinner Leaves Family Destitute

CASE 34.—Six Good Children, Fatherless, Hungry, Frightened.

A school teacher noticed how thin and haggard one of her pupils was. At her request a visitor went to the home and found a weeping mother and six hungry and frightened children. The little money left on the death of the father had been exhausted. The mother had taken up tailoring at home, but, with six children to look after, she could earn only $3 a week. Their poverty had come on them suddenly. They had been well provided for until one day—the fourth day after last Christmas—their father, who had seemed in good health, died of cerebral hemorrhage. He left a family of exceptionally good children—Marion, 15; Billy, 13; Nancy, 12; Harry, 10; Gus, 8, and Grace, 5. Just before her father's death, Nancy, a handsome child with bright dark eyes and dimples, was the winner in her school popularity contest. It is seldom that there is a mark below B+ on any of their report cards. Marion is hurriedly learning dressmaking, but it will be eight months before she can go to work. Meanwhile the family has no resources.

NARCOSAN CAUSES AGONY, HARRIS SAYS

Drug Addicts Begged for Death on His Visit to Hospital, He Declares.

McADOO HEARS OF DANGER

Wallis Still Defends Welfare Island Treatment as Better Than Any Other.

Acute suffering is caused by the narcosan treatment for drug addiction, now being administered to inmates of the Department of Correction hospitals on Welfare Island, and the efficacy of the substance remains to be proved, Dr. Louis I. Harris, Health Commissioner, said yesterday.

"I went to Welfare Island in October and questioned those who had submitted to the treatment," Dr. Harris said. "I found what had been done was interesting and suggestive, but by no means worked out in a scientific manner. It is agreed that in order to know the limitations as well as the benefits of narcosan, a thorough and scientific study ought to be made. There should be laboratory facilities to check its effect on the blood, heart, kidneys and nervous system.

"I never saw such suffering as is undergone by those given the narcosan treatment on Welfare Island. I am not a layman, but a physician. I heard them scream, 'Won't you kill me? Won't you kill me?' The possible effect of the treatment on the weakened heart or weakened vital organs is important."

Wallis Still Backs Narcosan.

When told of Dr. Harris's views Frederick A. Wallis, Commissioner of Correction, who has declared the results following the use of narcosan to be "amazing," said:

"All criticisms of this new treatment are answered beforehand in the report of Dr. Alexander Lambert and Dr. Frederick Tilney in The Medical Journal and Record. Whether or not the effect of the treatment is permanent I do not know. But I do know that the immediate result is merciful and highly satisfactory, and this is the opinion of doctors whose standing in the medical profession is unquestioned.

"It is my understanding that the suffering, in general, from this treatment is shorter and less severe than under other treatments. The people with whom I have talked after being restored to apparent normalcy all say it is the most wonderful treatment they have ever taken and they wish it had come earlier in their experience."

Chief Magistrate William McAdoo said yesterday that he had been informed that the return to drug addiction by one who had taken the narcosan treatment perfected by Alexander S. Horovitz, a biochemist at 67 Fulton Street, might result fatally.

Chief Magistrate McAdoo explained that under a city ordinance a self-complaining drug addict may be sent to the hospital on Welfare Island for treatment. He said that yesterday he had an application from a foreign consulate to send a young man there for this reason and that he had hesitated to do so.

Wants Patient to Know Danger.

"I have in writing asked whether or not it is optional with the patient to take the new Horovitz treatment or to be treated as formerly, either by what is known as the 'cold turkey' or by reduction treatment," the Chief Magistrate said.

"Having been officially informed that if a patient under the Horovitz treatment, or after, resumes his addiction to narcotic drugs and takes a full dose of any derivative of opium it will be almost sure to kill him; also that the hospital is shorthanded as to nurses to prevent the patient from surreptitiously dosing himself with narcotic drugs while taking the Horovitz treatment, I want to be sure the patient is thoroughly informed as to this danger and allowed to take other treatment if he so elects."

The "official information" Chief Magistrate McAdoo referred to is understood to have come from Dr. Harris.

Dr. James T. Madden of Pawling, N. Y., who has had eight years' experience in treating drug addiction, said that under a treatment similar to narcosan many of his patients attempted suicide. He said he would accept Commissioner Wallis's invitation to make an inspection of the results of the treatment on Welfare Island.

Opposes City Appropriation.

Dr. Carleton Simon, formerly Deputy Police Commissioner in charge of narcotics, said that he was opposed to any appropriation of city money to continue the narcosan treatments at Welfare Island.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, said, in Passaic, yesterday that Mr. Horovitz had treated the late Representative Robert C. Bremner for cancer without success in 1913. He declared that the Horovitz cancer remedy was "completely exploded."

At Mr. Horovitz's office it was said that he never promised a cure for cancer, but simply a treatment which rendered suffering less acute.

Emory R. Buckner Leaves Hospital.

United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner returned to his home yesterday from the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital where he was operated on for mastoiditis on Dec. 1. Dr. Arthur B. Duel, who performed the operation, said that Mr. Buckner was steadily progressing toward complete recovery. Mr. Buckner said: "I feel fine."

FEARS HOUSING BANK WILL BEFOG PROJECT

State Board Chairman Asserts Issue Should Not Be Raised to Divert Attention.

INVESTMENT COMES FIRST

Stock in the Limited Dividend Concerns Must Be Sold, He Says, to Get Required Capital.

APPEAL WILL BE MADE SOON

Commerce Chambers to Be Asked to Study Report—Brooklyn Plan Up for Discussion Monday.

Concern was expressed yesterday by those interested in the plans of the State Housing Board that confusion would arise as the result of discussion of the establishment of a State Housing Bank in connection with the preliminary report of the board made public last Wednesday.

The bank, if it were established by the Legislature, as Governor Smith is said to desire, would supply money for the first mortgages on the proposed building operations begun in conformity with the Housing Board's plans. Two-thirds of the cost, under the Housing law, would be supplied by such mortgages. But what is concerning those who have taken an active interest so far in the movement to wipe out the slums is not the mortgage money, but the remaining one-third of the cost, which has to be raised by the sale of bonds in a limited dividend corporation.

Darwin R. James, Chairman of the State Board of Housing, thought it wise yesterday to make the following statement:

"There is no reason to divert public attention at this time to a consideration of returning to the proposal for a State Housing Bank. The first requisite now is to determine whether the one good investment which must be made by limited dividend companies, the so-called equity money, will be forthcoming. If that can be had, we are assured at the present time of first mortgage money from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Calls Investors First Need.

"The State Housing Bank, in the form in which it was submitted to the Legislature, assured first mortgage money at a somewhat lower rate of interest, but we are not concerned with that phase of the problem at this time. What we need is investors who are willing to loan money for a 6 per cent. return in order to build a plentiful supply of decent houses for people, to replace our old tenement rookeries."

Any tenement replacement project, under the plan of the board, will require a considerable sum, one-third of which it will be necessary to raise almost before any practical steps are taken at all. So far the only move that has been made was that made by the City Housing Corporation, which offered to underwrite $100,000 of the bonds of the first project in Manhattan. Thereupon Aaron Naumburg, a banker, offered another $100,000, either for the City Housing Corporation's project or some other operation. Much more would have to be raised before even a site for the first tenement replacement work would be selected.

However, it is likely that within a day or two an appeal will go out to the various Chambers of Commerce, and perhaps to other civic organizations, asking them to take up and discuss the Housing Board's report with a view of having their members form limited dividend corporations to undertake tenement replacements.

To Push Brooklyn Plans.

The directors of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce are to meet on Monday and at that time Ralph Jonas, President of the chamber, will bring up his proposition to form a limited dividend company to start an operation in Brooklyn. It has been roughly estimated that the total cost of an initial undertaking will be about $600,-000, of which $200,000, or one-third, would have to be raised by sale of the bonds of the limited dividend corporation. The effort will be made to raise this latter amount among the members of the Brooklyn chamber.

Louis H. Pink, who is a member of the State Housing Board, is also the Chairman of the Committee on Education of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce. He refers to one area in Brooklyn as a "plague spot." It is that area about Fleet Place, Fleet Street, Hudson and Navy Streets, south of Myrtle Avenue. The old wooden and brick tenements there are notorious for their age, insanitary arrangements, poor ventilation and bad lighting. The Chamber of Commerce project will probably be carried out somewhere in that neighborhood, though there are sections in Williamsburg which are said to need as much attention.

There has seemed to be some misunderstanding among those who have discussed the report as to the provisions for interest on the investment. Under the Housing law the bonds which are sold to meet one-third of the cost bear not more than 6 per cent. interest. The first mortgage money, which would represent two-thirds of the cost, must be had at not more than 5 per cent interest.

The Housing Board will hold a meeting on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in its offices in the Flatiron Building.

NEGROES DEFEAT OXFORD.

Lincoln Students Win First International Interracial Debate.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 17.—In the first international interracial debate ever held in this country, a team from Lincoln University, a negro institution in Pennsylvania, won the decision over three picked debaters from Oxford, England's oldest university.

By a vote of 803 to 376, a mixed audience, of which about 95 per cent. were negroes, decided that the Oxford men had failed to establish the negative of the subject, "Resolved, That This House Opposes Any Change in the Eighteenth Amendment."

The debate was held in Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church, before an audience the sympathy of which manifestly was with the negro team. The ballot revealed, however, that in many cases opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment was a more potent influence than racial sympathy.

Debating for Oxford were Gyles Isham, former editor of Isis, an Oxford publication, and former President of the Oxford Dramatic Society; Patrick Monkhouse, former editor of Oxford Poetry and Oxford Outlook, and Michael A. E. Franklin, winner of the British Empire Shakespearean Association Prize for 1925. Lincoln University was represented by Richard Hurst Hill, Mark Gibson of Oklahoma and Eadras Turner of Arkansas.

LAWYERS HAIL ROOT FOR STATE REFORMS

Delegates to 1915 Convention Celebrate Passage of Laws He Sponsored.

NICOLL SOUNDS SMITH BOOM

Elihu Root was honored as the leader of the New York bar in point of public service last night at a testimonial dinner in the Hotel Astor by 100 men who were delegates to the New York State Constitutional Convention of 1915, over which Mr. Root presided. The dinner celebrated the fact that the chief reforms proposed by that convention but defeated at the polls in 1915—home rule for cities, the literacy test, judiciary reform, the short ballot, the executive budget and the reorganization of the State Government—have now been approved by the voters.

Non-partisan in character, the gathering consisted of prominent Republican and Democratic lawyers from all over the State, and included Governor Smith and three former Cabinet members—former Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, former Attorney General George W. Wickersham and former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

Names Smith for President.

The diners not only paid tribute to Mr. Root for his work of creating the constitutional reforms, but to Governor Smith for his work in getting many of them approved by the voters. Mr. Nicoll went further and nominated Governor Smith for President in 1928.

Calling Governor Smith the "rara avis" of the 1915 convention because "he was the only man who thoroughly understood what he was talking about," Mr. Nicoll recalled that everybody at the convention had predicted a brilliant future for the young legislator.

"That future has been realized," Mr. Nicoll said, "in four elections as Governor of this State by ever-increasing majorities. And now, unless the party to which he is attached has lost all common sense and wishes to go down to well-merited defeat as the party of sumptuary law and religious intolerance, he will soon be nominated for President of the United States."

Both Republicans and Democrats joined, standing, in the applause for Governor Smith that followed this, but the only comment "Al" made was: "Some introduction!" in his familiar nasal tone.

Between courses of the dinner Governor Smith led the gathering in singing old songs. After the orchestra had played "The Sidewalks of New York" it started another piece, but the Governor held up his hand and called: "Wait a minute." Then he asked if they had the music for "The Bowery." The leader replied that they had not.

"Then I'll sing it and you can pick it up on the piano," said the Governor, and proceeded to sing to the great delight of the audience. Mr. Hughes joined in the chorus with gusto.

Governor Smith also occupied the centre of the stage just before the speechmaking began, when, after toasts to the "honored dead" of the 1915 convention and to President Coolidge, the diners drank a toast to the Governor, and some of them sang "God Save the King" to the music which the orchestra played amid laughter, in which the Governor joined.

Introducing Mr. Root, Mr. Nicoll said:

"The Constitution of 1915 was defeated, but after ten years it has come to pass that all its essential reforms have found their way into the present Constitution with the assistance of Governor Smith, Mr. Hughes, Mr. Stimson and Mr. Guthrie and we are vindicated. We are met to celebrate the results of our labors and do honor to the President of our convention, whose long life has been full of glorious achievements for the good of his country and the betterment of mankind. The Constitution as he wrote it bore the imprint of his mind and character—he was the 'root' of all good."

Better Comeback Than Dempsey.

Mr. Root, after thanking the gathering for their tributes, said:

"We have come back better than Dempsey. We have come out of the shadow into the light. It was a grievous thing to find that our labors failed of appreciation from the people, but perhaps we might have expected it. Long experience has led me to the conviction that measures of Government which have nothing but the public interest behind them require long periods of incubation before they come to life."

Mr. Root said that the non-partisan, non-controversial character of the 1915 convention may have been responsible for the failure of the constitutional reforms that year, because the convention failed to arouse sufficient public interest, but that the ultimate result had proved the value of the methods used by the convention.

Governor Smith said he thought the reason the 1915 convention failed was that the voters had had too little time to consider it.

"The great trouble was," said the Governor, "that the man on the sidewalk felt that it took us four months to prepare a document and we only have him a month to study it, plus the natural standpatism of the average New York citizen."

"I am happy that this reunion has been brought about," the Governor said, smiling. "It has been a great opportunity for me. You know, I never let my campaign manager forget for a minute what I did in the Constitutional Convention."

This was received with laughter. Then, more seriously, the Governor turned and looked at Mr. Root, Mr. Hughes and others who had sat in the convention.

"No one seems to be a day older. Everybody looks the same. Divine Providence has blessed us in permitting us to live and meet to see some of the fruits of our work there.

"I think we ought to meet every year just like this. I would like to come to every meeting."

Hughes Pays a Tribute.

Mr. Hughes said that he considered it a great privilege to attend the reunion of the members of the convention, inasmuch as he was not a member.

"I did not have the honor to be a principal," said Mr. Hughes. "I was a sort of accessory before the fact and an accessory after the fact. What you accomplished is not only a tribute to what you did so well, but to popular government itself.

"Both parties worked together and you represented the statesmanship and the acumen of both parties."

Turning to Mr. Root, he continued, "You hitched your constitutional wagon to a star in the President of the constitutional convention. The speech Senator Root made on invisible government will be remembered when historians write the history of the constitutional convention."

Mr. Guthrie paid tribute to "the broad and high statesmanship of Senator Root," and said that the 1915 Constitution was "the best Constitution ever framed for the governance of the State of New York." No one had done more during the past fifty years than Mr. Root to restore the prestige, influence and leadership of the bar in American public life and in our international relations, Mr. Guthrie added.

SCHORR SINGS IN RECITAL.

Metropolitan Baritone Recalled Six Times After One Number.

Friedrich Schorr, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, well-known in the opera houses of Berlin and Vienna, gave his first New York recital at Aeolian Hall last evening. Mr. Schorr proved that he knew how to manage his powerful voice as well on the concert platform as on the stage. He gauged the acoustic qualities of the hall to a nicety, putting no more force into his fortes than was necessary to fill the auditorium and to counter-balance the accompanying instrument. Unlike some stage artists, he relied on his voice and his interpretive talent alone to bring him into contact with his audience. The splendid resonance of his voice was fully displayed in Schubert's "Dem Unendlichen," where broad tones gave strength and dignity to this Hymn to the Eternal.

The next two songs by Richard Trunk were on the soft stops of the baritone's voice. The second, a "Gossamer," idyll, was sung almost entirely in the mezza-voce, giving, in spite of the weight of the timbre, an impression of mist and mystery.

As if determined to show how well he could control his tone production, Mr. Schorr sang Mattiesen's "Serenade" in a light and cheerful vein that brought him prolonged applause.

He was heroic and martial in Loewe's descriptive "Prince Eugène," beautifully contrasting the full-toned passages with the piano phrases. Hugo Wolf's 'Der Freund," which brought the first group to a close, resulted in an encore, "Du bist wie eine Blume."

There were only three numbers in the second group, an air by Handel, an aria from Verdi's "Macbeth" and an aria from Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine," but they showed Mr. Schorr in the plenitude of his powers and master of the dramatic idiom. Except for one moment, Handel's air was laden with quiet grief. In "Macbeth," however, the tones expressed terror, foreboding, the tragic gloom of Shakespeare's great drama translated into music by Verdi. This was the highest artistic development of the evening. Not even the air from "L'Africaine," though sung with tremendous bursts of eloquence, could surpas it. Mr. Schorr was recalled six times by the enthr i-astic auditors.

His last group consisted of songs in English by American composers.

PRAISES PALESTINE IDEA.

Rabbi Harris Chides Dr. Pritchett's "Pessimistic Report."

Dr. Maurice H. Harris, rabbi of Temple Israel, 202 West Ninety-first Street, in an address at the temple last night, took Dr. Henry S. Pritchett to task for his "pessimistic report" on the Zionist movement to colonize Palestine.

Dr. Pritchett, he said, was "sowing distrust and casting aspersion upon a romantic undertaking" which was fundamentally sound in a practical sense. Far from having reason to protest their lot, as Dr. Pritchett reported to the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, the Arabs had cause to be thankful, Dr. Harris said. They now enjoyed a wider territorial area than before the war and a greater degree of independence, he declared. The Jewish immigration had raised their own standards of living and increased the productiveness of their country.

Professor Thomas P. MacLaughlin, Instructor of Law at New York University, was selected as the "most popular professor at N. Y. U." by students last night at the "Winter Frolic" dance at the Waldorf. Professor MacLaughlin and five other professors at the university were balloted on, the number of votes cast for the law instructor being more than double those for his nearest rival.

A silver loving cup was presented to Professor MacLaughlin. The other professors entered in the contest were Rudolph Brosius, Clarence H. Sprague, Saul P. Ackerman, Gerald A. Boyer and Leon R. Whipple.

'SECOND MONA LISA' ARRIVES INCOGNITO

Painting, Centre of Art War, Here on Rochambeau Under False Title as Precaution.

GUARDED ON SECRET TRIP

New York Dealer Will Exhibit It for Charity—Reiterates It Is Not the Original, but May Be a da Vinci.

The so-called "second Mona Lisa," about which an artistic controversy raged last month when a writer in L'Oeuvre, a French paper, asserted that it was the original which had been stolen from the Louvre in 1911 and that the copy now in the gallery was spurious, arrived yesterday morning on the French liner Rochambeau. It was brought by a woman passenger and was billed on the ship's manifest as "A Woman of the Sixteenth Century." According to M. Edouard Jonas, art dealer of 9 East Fifty-sixth Street, by whom the painting will soon be exhibited, this was done simply to safeguard the picture.

Mr. Jonas said that M. Morain, the Paris Prefect of Police, was aware that the picture had been removed secretly from M. Jonas's establishment on the Place Vendome, and added that official notification of the fact that it had been taken from France had been sent to the Minister of Fine Arts the day after the liner left.

"The portrait is not being brought here for sale," said M. Jonas, "it being the property of Admiral Louis Ernest Paton, Governor of the Province of Toulon and Commander of the Mediterranean Fleet of the French Navy. It is brought here at the request of a number of American art connoisseurs who wished that the piece be exhibited in this country. The proceeds from such exhibition will go in part to several charitable organizations, among them the Crippled Children's Camp of the New York Rotary Club. It will be here only a month.

"I am informed from my Paris headquarters that special precautions were taken to remove this picture from Paris with complete safety. A man measured the canvas and constructed a special case for it. The masterpiece was packed and in the early morning hours was quickly taken and sent with all speed to Havre and shipped on the Rochambeau. Our representative aboard the liner, traveling under another guise than that of an art dealer or representative, kept constant watch on the case to protect it from any possibility of theft."

M. Jonas reiterated that this picture was not the original "Mona Lisa." He characterized the assertion that it was as the work of a personal enemy and intimated that he was prepared to sue the French paper that published it.

"It is possibly the work of Leonardo da Vinci, if we can believe that he painted two 'Mona Lisas,'" he said, "and it is almost certainly the work of the same period. That is what I want American experts to judge. The two pictures are identical in size, coloring, and in fact in every detail."

The picture was still in the hands of the United States Customs yesterday. F. J. H. Kracke, Appraiser of the Port, said that he had been advised of the painting's arrival and expected that it would reach the Appraiser's Stores either tomorrow or Monday, when it would be examined by Government experts.

THEATRE HOLD-UP FAILS AS THIEF LOSES NERVE

James Ward, Treasurer of the Republic Theatre, has seen a number of persons pass in front of the box office of the West Forty-second Street show house in the five years since "Abie's Irish Rose" opened. He thought for a moment yesterday that the well-dressed young man who halted at the ticket window was just another customer for the perennial play.

Mr. Ward was wrong, for the young man thrust an automatic pistol at him and told him to hand over all of the receipts which Miss Anne Nichols, producer, had failed to bank. Mr. Ward eyed the ugly-looking automatic which the stranger had placed on the glass ledge and decided to temporize.

He reminded the importunate one that "Abie's Irish Rose" had no matinee yesterday and that the money in the box office consisted chiefly of Mr. Ward's dinner money. The hold-up man, who had read of the millions made by the play, refused to be cajoled. He was getting impatient when two women walked into the lobby. They did not look toward the box office, contenting themselves with gazing at the pictures on the walls, but the robber saw them. He picked up his pistol and fled.

The Treasurer telephoned to the police and Detective Stapleton of the West Forty-seventh Street Station hurried over. He got a description of the hold-up man, who, as Ward recalled him, was about 23 years old and of medium height. And, although Mr. Ward's attention had wandered only occasionally from the automatic, he recalled that the hold-up man's voice "had a trace of an Irish accent in it."

ANNE CALDWELL IN PLAY.

Anne Caldwell, actress, who recently received an award of $50,000 in her breach of promise suit against John W. Hubbard, Pittsburgh shovel manufacturer, will soon be seen on Broadway in a comedy called "The Virgin Man," it was announced yesterday. William Francis Dugan is the author of the play, which will probably open on New Year's Eve. Mack Cohan is the producer.

"Turandot" Sung for Fourth Time.

Puccini's "Turandot" was performed for the fourth time to a sold-out house at the Metropolitan last evening. Mme. Jeritza, Mr. Lauri-Volpi and their associates in the Chinese legend interested a gala assembly and Mr. Serafin conducted the great ensemble of more than 600 persons in the scenes of the Court of Peking.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES FATHER OF 28 CHILDREN

Upshaw Also Presents Atlanta Patriarch, a 'Bone Dry,' to House, Which Applauds Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Leander C. Gentle of Atlanta, Ga., father of twenty-eight children, was presented to President Coolidge today by Representative Upshaw, one of the Democratic leaders of the dry bloc in Congress. Later Mr. Upshaw made a speech in the House, directing attention to the presence of Mr. Gentle in the gallery, and proudly described him as a "dry." Mr. Gentle arose and bowed his appreciation as the House applauded.

Mr. Upshaw, in presenting Mr. Gentle, spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen of the House: I acknowledge natural pride as his Congressman in presenting to you one of my honored constituents, Leander C. Gentle of Atlanta, who enjoys the proud distinction of being the father of twenty-eight children. I presented him at the White House and President Coolidge actually smiled, patted my patriarchal friend on the back and said: 'I am glad you came. Good luck to you and all your children.'

"It goes without saying, gentlemen, that my honored friend in the gallery, who would have gladdened the heart of that great American, Theodore Roosevelt, is bone dry, and if any of you expect to be the father of twenty-eight children you must be bone dry."

TO INVEST RADIO CONTROL.

Free Says Broadcasting Will Be Regulated in Thirty Days.

Power to control broadcasting will be invested either in the Secretary of Commerce or a radio commission within the next thirty days, according to Representative Arthur M. Free of California, who spoke last night at the opening of the Atlantic Broadcasting Company's Station WABC, formerly WAHG, in the Steinway Building.

"People throughout the country favor the White bill," said Representative Free, "and as soon as legislation is passed, whoever is given the authority to act will allocate power, wave-length and time, according to whatever station gives the best service. The first thing to be considered when the time comes, as to whether or not a station is giving service to the public, will be its geographical location. When a cheap station increases its power for absolutely no good reason, it should be suppressed and put out of business.

"New York and Chicago stations are the principal offenders when the chaotic condition of the air at the present time is considered. People living in these cities do not get as much interference as those living in the country and outlying districts. It is in the country that the waves overlap and cause heterodyning and whistling to such an extent that listening to any one station is an impossible feat."

Marguerite Sylva Recovered.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 17.—Mme. Marguerite Sylva, opera singer, who had been in the Union Memorial Hospital for three weeks, left Baltimore today for her home in New York. Mme. Sylva was accompanied by her husband, Bernard Smith, opera producer. She came here for a minor operation. She was at the time singing in "Carmen" in Philadelphia.

CITY ADORNS ITSELF IN YULETIDE DRESS

CHARITIES PREPARE GIFTS

Y. W. C. A. Plans Many Parties—Gene Tunney Wraps Toys—S. P. C. C. Asks for Donations.

With one remaining week during which Johnny must be kept from the second floor coat closet at all costs, New York's Christmas arrangements are nearing completion. Yesterday two outdoor trees were decorated, the Y. W. C. A. announced its holiday plans and Gene Tunney helped to pack toys for the Salvation Army.

The first live Christmas tree to be put up in the city was placed in a large box on top of the subway grating at Times Square. The Colorado blue spruce, which stands 35 feet, including its roots and their protecting layer of soil, is the gift of Miss Evelyn W. Smith, President of the Amawalk Nursery at Amawalk, N. Y. The setting up and decoration with 2,000 lights is being done by the New York Electrical League. At the four corners of the platform holding the tree there will be small arborvitae, or trees of life.

"Tree of Light" With 4,000 Bulbs.

The fifteenth annual "Tree of Light" was also erected yesterday in Madison Square Park. It stands about 40 feet, and for decorations will have 4,000 multicolored bulbs surmounted by a flashing star. At its base musical entertainment will be broadcast during Christmas week. The tree is made possible by subscriptions.

Further uptown, at Sixty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, a tall Christmas tree blazoned forth Christmas cheer Thursday night. It will burn every day from dust to midnight until after New Year's. This tree is the gift of the Park Avenue Baptist Church to the community. It is lighted with hundreds of red, green and amber bulbs, and at the top is a white star. In the evenings, the Rockefeller Memorial Carillon in the church tower will play Christmas carols above the tree.

The Young Women's Christian Association expects to give Christmas parties throughout the city. Fifteen hundred dolls, as well as other toys will be taken to various hospitals by the Harlem branch. At 341 East Seventeenth Street there will be a party for children of foreign-born parents, and in Chinatown one for members of the Chinese Mothers' Club. Children waiting at Ellis Island for admission to the country will receive candy, trinkets and small American flags, while at Y. W. C. A. branches there will be Christmas tree parties and pageants.

Tunney Boxes Children's Toys.

Tunney stopped his ring activities yesterday and changed his style to boxing toys at the Salvation Army Headquarters. First he inspected the building with Brigadier Edward Underwood, who, during the war, staged the bouts in which the champion first achieved fame. After that he went to the toy department and assisted members there in packing the gifts for poor children. It was interesting to note that the hands that handled Dempsey were capable of handling dishes, and when the idol of youth expressed a desire to kick a football no one interfered.

The Welfare Committee of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children sent out an appeal yesterday on behalf of their charges. The children in question are from 2 to 16 years old, and the committee asked for donations of toys, sweets, games and clothing. The society's Christmas entertainment will be held at 2 East 105th Street, on Dec. 26.

Christmas gifts with individual cards will be given to 2,000 New York State boys who are disabled veterans in hospitals throughout the country, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Lottie Hass, President of the New York State American War Mothers at a meeting at the Hotel Astor.

DECISION RESERVED ON CARROLL APPEAL

Attorney Assails Buckner for Bringing Up Bathtub Party at Trial for Perjury.

ATTACKS THE INDICTMENT

Incident on Stage Not Material to Grand Jury Inquiry, He Tells the Court.

Arguing before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for a reversal of the conviction of Earl Carroll on a charge of perjury in connection with the Grand Jury investigation of his so-called wine bathtub party, Herbert C. Smyth, Carroll's attorney, yesterday charged United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner's office with a lack of good faith in introducing the bathtub incident into Carroll's trial. Mr. Smyth said the incident had been included in the indictment not because it was connected with the case, but "to give a background by the introduction of something salacious." Decision was reserved.

Mr. Smyth argued that even if Carroll might have told an untruth when he swore there was no woman in a bathtub on the stage of his theatre at the party the bathtub incident was not material to the Grand Jury investigation, which was to ascertain whether liquor had been possessed or served by Carroll at the affair. He also said the verdict, which acquitted Carroll of the charge of possessing or serving liquor and convicted him of perjury in connection with the same case, was inconsistent and should not stand.

Mr. Smyth told Judges Hough, Manton and Mack that it had been apparent from the conduct of the case by the prosecution that an attempt had been made to influence the jury by presenting a girl who claimed to be 17 years old, when in reality she was 21, and adorning her with a blond wig over her dark hair. Judge Hough asked Mr. Smyth if he was attacking the indictment.

"Yes, sir," replied the attorney, "and I contend that the trial court's charge was wrong in that it failed to submit to the jury the question of materiality."

Each of the Judges took issue with Mr. Smyth on certain points in his argument. Judge Mack said that the Grand Jury had a right to attempt to find out whether any one had been near enough to the bathtub to say whether it had held intoxicating liquor. Judge Hough said the question of materiality in the Grand Jury inquiry and also the submission of the Grand Jury minutes as evidence at the trial of Carroll were matters of law and questions for the court. Judge Manton held that any phase of a Grand Jury investigation to uncover facts was material.

Assistant United States Attorney John M. Harlan declared that Carroll had lied to two Grand Juries with respect to the bathtub scene, the guest list and the guests themselves. He said that by these false statements Carroll had tried to strengthen his denial that there was liquor at the party. He insisted that the bathtub incident was material to the investigation and cited numerous court decisions.

Mr. Harlan said that the Government might have failed to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that liquor had been served, but that all the defense witnesses who testified they saw no liquor there admitted they had left the party before the bathtub scene was staged.

It was contended by the prosecution at Carroll's trial that Joyce Hawley, a model, had entered a bathtub of wine.

Chorus Girl Weds Radio Engineer.

Announcement was made yesterday of the marriage of Margaret Driscoll, a chorus girl in the Earl Carroll "Vanities," and Cyril J Rannie, a radio engineer. The ceremony took place at the Paulist Fathers' Church on Wednesday.

ARCTIC FLIERS TELL SANTA'S SECRETS

Ellsworth and Byrd Reveal He Will Use Aircraft as Well as Reindeer This Year.

THEY SAW HIM AT THE POLE

Disclosures Made for Benefit of Boys and Girls at Request of Aerial League Head.

Lincoln C. Ellsworth and Commander R. E. Byrd saw Santa Claus when they visited the North Pole. In fact, they discovered that the old gentleman will use airplanes and dirigibles as well as reindeer when he sets out on his trip a week from tomorrow.

These hitherto unchronicled discoveries of the famous Actic explorers were made known yesterday in answers to letters which Henry Woodhouse, President of the Aerial League of America, addressed to them, seeking information on Santa Claus. The letter to Mr. Ellsworth was as follows:

Mr. Lincoln C. Ellsworth, Century Club, New York City.

Dear Mr. Ellsworth: From inquiries received by the Aerial League of America and newspapers throughout the United States it appears that boys and girls the world over are concerned over the omission in the accounts of the splendid flight of the Norge from Spitzbergen to Alaska of mention of whether you saw Santa Claus.

Would you please be so good as to answer the following questions?

1. Did you see Santa Claus at the North Pole?
2. Did you see the reindeer?
3. Do you think Santa will use reindeer or aircraft next Christmas?

Cordially yours,
HENRY WOODHOUSE.

Mr. Ellsworth's replies were written at the bottom of the letter. They were:

1. Absolutely. I hope the time will never come when I cannot see Santa Claus.
2. Yes, I saw hundreds of reindeer north of Nome.
3. I hope Santa will always use reindeer, but I fear this progressive age will require the use of aircraft.

LINCOLN C. ELLSWORTH.

Commander Byrd's reply was as follows:

Mr. Henry Woodhouse, President of the Aerial League of America, 280 Madison Avenue, New York:

Dear Mr. Woodhouse: Answering your letter in which you ask whether I saw Santa Claus and the reindeer during my flight to the North Pole, and whether Santa is to use reindeer or aircraft this Christmas:

1. How could I miss seeing Santa when I had been waiting all my life to visit his dominion?
2. At the time of the year when I flew to the Pole the reindeer were busy getting new antlers and new coats for Christmas, and I could not go where they were, but Lincoln Ellsworth did, and saw thousands of them north of Nome.
3. I do not think Santa will mind if I tell you that he is using planes and dirigibles this Christmas in addition to the reindeer, wherever airports are available for landings. Where he does not go by aircraft it will be the fault of the cities. They failed to provide airports on which Santa can land safely. Sincerely yours,

R. E. BYRD.

PARIS MUSICIAN WINS RECOGNITION IN OPERA

Michel Maurice Levy's 'Cloister' Is Produced at Comique—Was Written in 1913.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—To compose an opera to the story of Kipling's "Light That Failed" is the cherished dream of Michel Maurice Levy, the musician, better known by the pseudonym of "Betove," under which for years he has been earning a living as a musical clown because serious music does not provide bread and butter excepting for the fortunate few.

After years of waiting he has now obtained an opportunity for recognition, for today the Paris Opéa-Comique produced "The Cloister," the inspired work of the Belgian poet, Emile Verhaeren, which Michel Maurice Levy composed in 1913.

The score is extremely modern and original and often strangely melodious and captivating, even to ears unused to the musical expression of the younger school of the composers of today.

The story of "The Cloister" and its composer is most picturesque. Michel Maurice Levy, an undistinguished pupil at the Paris Conservatoire, obtained nothing better than a bronze medal for "Solfeccio Contrapunt." The ups and downs of his musical career saw him a member of an orchestra in Germany, where he made a special study of Wagnerian music in Baireuth. Later he directed the orchestra for the rehearsals of Dhiagileff's Russian ballets.

His occupations in the Paris Opéra brought him in close touch with the world's most famous singers, whom he rehearsed for their parts. Imitating one of these in the presence of an impresario one day brought him the offer of an engagement, and the poor musician living in a Montmartre garret became "Betove," one of the highest paid music hall artists in France.

But Mr. Levy cared most for his art and never gave up hope of recognition. His brother is the author of "Arnyvelde."

Students Present a Play.

"Rollo's Wild Oat" was performed last night by the Players of Washington Square College at the New York University Playhouse, under the direction of Professor Randolph Somerville, university director of dramatics. John Koch appeared as Rollo and Mildred Anderson as Goldie McDuff. The others in the cast were present and former students in dramatic courses, including Richard Ceough, William Binder, Edward Fitzhugh, Alexander Gerry, Russell Shenton, Anna Smith-Payne, Dorothy Bachrach, Judith Knight and Mary Emmett. Another performance will be given tonight.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

William A. Brady Jr. and Dwight Deere Wiman plan soon to produce "The Road to Rome," a comedy by Robert E. Sherwood, editor and motion-picture critic of Life.

Martin Brown has completed a play called "The Poisoned Pen," in which Florence and Mary Nash will appear.

A revival of "Night Hawk" will be presented at the Frolic Theatre by the Lepane Amusement Company, Inc., which has leased the house for two years.

The Messrs. Shubert are rehearsing a musical comedy, "Listen Dearie," in which Fred Hillebrand and Vera Michelina will be seen. The book is by Harold Atteridge and Gertrude Purcell and the music is the work of Charles Gilpin.

According to the office of Basil Dean, a Berlin production of "The Constant Nymph" is in rehearsal and will open in January.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne will appear together for the first time since the production of "At Mrs. Beams" in "The Brothers Karamazov," which the Theatre Guild will introduce in its repertory program on Jan. 3.

A special matinee performance of "The Dybbuk" will be given by the Habima Theatre players at the Mansfield tomorrow afternoon.

The managers of the revival of "Beyond the Horizon," at the Bijou, announce that the acting company there may be used as the basis of an O'Neill repertory organization. A program of four or five plays is planned.

Era Briggs of "Castles in the Air," Harry Delf and Yvette Rugel of the "Vanities," and Harry Hershfield will appear at an open meeting of the Young Folks' League Home for Hebrew Infants tomorrow afternoon.

MARILYN MILLER NOT ILL.

Taking a Vacation and Will Rejoin "Sunny," Dillingham Says.

The withdrawal of Marilyn Miller from the cast of "Sunny" because of serious illness was denied yesterday by the Charles Dillingham office here. A report from Philadelphia, where "Sunny" begins a three weeks' engagement on Monday, said that Miss Miller was seriously ill in New York, but this was not true, a spokesman for Mr. Dillingham declared.

He said that Miss Miller was tired after playing the same rôle for sixty-four weeks and would take a short vacation, rejoining the company in Boston on Jan. 10. Mary Eaton will play the title part during the Philadelphia run.

Mayor to Welcome the Guitrys.

Sacha Guitry, his wife, Yvonne Printemps, Raoul Labis, their conductor, and members of their company will arrive in New York Monday on the Leviathan to make their appearance a week later at Chanin's Forty-sixth Street Theatre in "Mozart." A. H. Woods, under whose management they will appear in this country, will accompany them. Delegations from the Actors' Equity Association, the Green Room Club, Drama League, French Alliance and other organizations will meet the French players at the pier.

Upon their arrival the Guitrys will proceed to City Hall where they will be welcomed by Mayor Walker.

TOPICS TO INTEREST THE CHURCHGOERS

Big Electric Sign Depicting the Bible Is a Christmas Gift to Society Here.

CHRIST CHURCH LIFTS DEBT

133-Year-Old Episcopal Edifice Will Be Dedicated Tomorrow by Bishop Manning.

A Christmas gift in the form of a huge electric sign over its door has been given to the New York Bible Society, 5 East Forty-eighth Street. The sign represents an open Bible and across it in red and gold electric light is "New York Bible Society." It was presented through the Rev. Dr. George William Carter, the General Secretary, by the same man who gave the cross and crown which burn every night on the top of the building. The donor is one of the Board of Managers but prefers to remain anonymous.

Christ Episcopal Church, Seventy-first Street, just west of Broadway, will be free of debt this Christmas for the first time in its 133 years' history. Bishop William T. Manning will consecrate the edifice tomorrow morning, assisted by the Rev. Dr. John R. Atkinson, the rector. Dr. Atkinson in the nine years he has been rector has paid off a huge debt and obtained a generous endowment by leasing adjoining land in Broadway. He also rebuilt the church after it was burned down in the Summer of 1925.

The new $300,000 edifice of the Reformed Church of Bronxville, N. Y., will be dedicated at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by the Rev. Deane Edwards, the pastor. The dedication sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Malcolm James MacLeod, pastor of the Collegiate Reformed Church of St. Nicholas, who resides in Bronxville. The church occupies two acres at Pondfield Road and Midland Avenue. It is in the English village Gothic style. The architect was Harry Leslie Walker of Manhattan. The edifice is built round a central court which is completed by a cloister. The latter is in memory of Charles Woodruff Halsey.

The Rev. Charles Daniel Trexler, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Brooklyn, has been elected a member of the Executive Board of the United Lutheran Church in America, which consists of nine clergymen and six laymen. Mr. Trexler succeeds the Rev. Dr. Franklin F. Fry of Rochester, who resigned on Thursday. On Jan. 1 the latter will take up his duties as Secretary of the American Board of Lutheran Missions, 437 Fifth Avenue. It was Dr. Fry who nominated Mr. Trexler.

Miss Alicia A. Woodburn has resigned as parish visitor of Vermilyea Collegiate Reformed Chapel, 416 West Fifty-fourth Street, after thirty-two years of service. She was graduated in 1893 from the Training School of the City Mission Society and joined the staff of Vermilyea when the work was conducted in a store in Tenth Avenue.

The 306th anniversary of the landing on Dec. 21, 1620, of the Mayflower Pilgrims at Plymouth, Mass., will be commemorated tomorrow with the annual observance of Forefathers' Day in more than a thousand congregational churches throughout the country. An appeal for continued loyalty to the Pilgrim's faith in freedom for government, education and religion is contained in a call for the observance sent out by the Rev. Dr. Frederick L. Fagley of 287 Fourth Avenue, associate secretary of the National Council of Congregational Churches.

The Rev. Allan Sheldon will begin his duties tomorrow as pastor of the Union Baptist Church, Noble Street, near Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn. He and his wife and a son, Theodore, have been assisting in the work at the Richmond Hill Baptist Church. There was a farewell for them there last Sunday.

Ground has been broken for a Methodist Church in Queens Village L. I. The church was organized about two years ago by the Rev. Dr. H. B. Munson, Superintendent of the Brooklyn and Long Island Methodist Society. It has been worshiping in the Citizens' Community House, Queens Village. The site is at 220th Street and Ninety-fourth Drive.

The Community Methodist Church, organized recently at Island Park, L. I., is taking steps to erect a building of its own. A central plot has been donated and $6,000 pledged for a parish hall. It is hoped to have a building erected by Summer. At present the services are held in the Firemen's Hall, Island Park.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Lubeck, who was rector of the former Episcopal Church of Zion and St. Timothy when it was in West Fifty-seventh Street, is acting temporarily as dean of the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, L. I.

A Religious Players' Club is being organized at the West Side Methodist Church, 461 West Forty-fourth Street, by the Rev. C. Everett Wagner, the pastor. Its membership will consist of young people who are interested in sacred drama. The purpose of the club will be to present religious or ethical one-act plays that are suitable for Sunday evening services. The dramatic director is Alfred G. Fish, who has coached plays in Princeton and California. The club meetings will be held on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

The annual Christmas service of the Baptist Ministers' Conference of New York and vicinity will be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock in the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, at Thirty-first Street. The Rev. Dr. J. Stanley Durkee, new pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, will preach the Christmas sermon. It will be a public session.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The course of yesterday's stock market was in most respects what was to be anticipated, when the Steel Corporation's unexpected 40 per cent. stock dividend had been announced after Thursday's closing. The common shares of the company itself rose 5⅝ points on the first transactions, went fractionally higher afterward, then receded to slightly less than the highest opening price. Pretty much all other active industrial stocks made more or less spectacular advances of their own, the extreme rise in several of them running 5 to 6 points and one of them gaining 12. The trading was very large in these stocks; total transactions for the day, 2,640,000 shares, were the largest since Aug. 3 and, with that exception, the largest since the 3,000,000-share period in the early days of March. But nearly one-fourth of yesterday's large business occurred in United States Steel common stock alone.

It was rather noteworthy, however, that those industrial shares which rose most rapidly were subject to heavy realizing sales at the higher prices, which in the end caused numerous reactions ranging from 2 to 3 points. This was evidently a sequel to the speculative purchases of the preceding week or so. Taken as a whole, the stock market's action seemed to be merely response to an agreeable surprise; an effort to measure the extent to which the public's appetite for speculation would be excited by it. The exact implications of the "Steel stock dividend" were not very closely studied; indeed, they were left largely to guesswork.

The directors naturally said nothing as to what dividend rate the stock would carry after its 40 per cent. increase. That decision need not be made until nearly six months have elapsed; for the shareholders have to ratify the stock issue in April, and the first dividend on the increased capital would be paid at the end of June. Until the rate is fixed, it will naturally be impossible to know definitely whether the holder of the old stock with its 40 per cent. addition will receive more actual cash in dividends than he received before, or, if he gets the rather generally expected increase, what its amount will be.

Probably the actual effect of the Steel directors' move on public sentiment will not be clearly visible at once; the market's movement yesterday gave no very positive clue. The market as a whole closed below the day's highest, and with the day's advances very irregularly distributed. The advance in the railway shares, however, was rather unusually uniform—perhaps because that group of stocks has not participated in the violent bidding-up process of the past week or so. The bond market was again distinctly strong, with the "averages" at a still higher figure for the period. Foreign exchange moved rather more quietly than of late. The franc did not reach yesterday its high price of Thursday and of the year, but it ended very close to the 4-cent figure and was unquestionably strong.

The attention of the week-end mercantile reviews converges, as it usually does in this week of December, on the "Christmas trade." Ordinarily, reports on the course of the public's buying on such occasions is perfunctory, but this time the retail holiday business has itself rounded out the prevailing picture. One of the mercantile agencies tells us that the volume of that trade is reaching nation-wide proportions of a scope which indicates that a "record turnover" is possible. Both report that the heavy retail buying has stirred up quick "re-order business" to restore depleted stocks.

It is fortunately not just such a Christmas trade as that of 1919; which also broke previous records, which ended the year in character with what was described as a "saturnalia of buying" and in which even Christmas trees, as described by one financial publication of the day, were "sent to New York in vast quantities, with speculators first asking $6 and $10 apiece for them and with a fall to 50 cents on Christmas eve"—a not uninteresting forecast of the year which was to follow. The reassuring fact of the possibly unprecedented retail buying now in progress is that it reflects real resources, acquired in the main by efficient labor or prudent business methods.

UNDERWOOD QUITS ERIE PRESIDENCY

Directors Elect J. J. Bernet of the Nickel Plate as His Successor.

CHANGE EFFECTIVE ON JAN. 1

Retiring Executive to Remain on Railroad's Board—More Than 25 Years in Office.

Frederick D. Underwood formally resigned yesterday from the Presidency of the Erie Railroad and directors elected John J. Bernet, head of the Nickel Plate, to succeed him. Mr. Bernet will take office on Jan. 1.

Mr. Underwood will remain as a director of the road and retain the office at 50 Church Street, which he occupied while the Erie was under Federal control. When asked regarding a report that he would act in an advisory capacity for the road, he replied he had heard nothing of it.

The new President of the road is not well known in Wall Street outside of railroad circles. The few railroad men who know him are enthusiastic in praise of his ability as an operating man. He spent a full apprenticeship as a journeyman blacksmith before entering the railroad business. While working as a blacksmith he studied telegraphy at night until he became sufficiently proficient to accept a position with the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad as a telegrapher.

At that time telegraphy afforded an excellent opportunity for advancement in the railroad world. Mr. Bernet soon was promoted to trainmaster and attracted attention by his assumption of responsibility of every sort connected with his work. When time for promotion came, it is said, he was so obviously the man that his superior officers did not give a second thought to the matter.

Mr. Bernet's new task is admitted to be the most difficult one which he has faced in his entire career. Whether the Erie is operated separately by the Van Sweringen brothers, who control the Nickel Plate or is included in a general plan, he will have to effect new traffic alliances and build up a road long operated under the handicap of insufficient funds. In the matter of new money he will be better situated than Mr. Underwood was as the road's credit position is rapidly improving.

Mr. Underwood's twenty-five and one-half years in office covered three serious money panics and two coal strikes. In the face of these he built up the Erie's total revenues from $40,700,000 to $120,000,000, an amount which failed to produce dividends only because of a wrecked financial structure.

Information in certain quarters yesterday was that Mr. Bernet will eventually head the Van Sweringen trunk line if the brothers are able to put through their plan of railroad consolidation. His successor on the Nickel Plate has not yet been named.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17 (AP).—Selection of J. J. Bernet as President of the Erie Railroad was interpreted at Mr. Bernet's office here today as an indication that O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen are contemplating using the Erie as an integral part of a greater Nickel Plate merger plan which they are preparing for submission to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Although Mr. Bernet was out of the city and could not be reached for a statement, it was believed here that he would give up his present position as head of the Nickel Plate road to devote all his time to his new duties. The Van Sweringen brothers could not be reached for a statement.

Formation of a fast trunk road by blending the Erie lines from Buffalo to New York with the present Nickel Plate road between Buffalo and Chicago is considered as the chief task that will confront Mr. Bernet.

HARRIMAN INTERESTS FORM OIL COMPANY

Development Work in Baku Field Under Soviet Concession Expected to Begin Soon.

Formation in New Jersey of the Comparre Oil Company by representatives of W. A. Harriman & Co., Inc., was said yesterday to indicate that these interest intended soon to develop a concession in the Baku oil field obtained from the Soviet Government in September. The new company is capitalized at $5,000,000 of $100 par preferred stock and 500,000 shares of common stock. It is expected that Harriman & Co. will make a public offering of some of the stock.

Organization of the new oil company closely follows a visit made to this country by Soviet officials in charge of development in the Baku oil fields. These officials expressed the belief that the field could best be exploited with the air-pressure method, and this method is expected to be used by the Harriman interests.

The oil field to be developed by the Harriman interests is in the Abcheron Peninsula, on the Caspian sea. Mr. Harriman is to pay $7,000,000 down and a percentage on annual production for the concession, according to Paris advices. The concession is said to be unaffected by any claims which may be made by foreign companies against the Soviet Government on the grounds of confiscation. At the time news of the concession became public the $7,000,000 down payment provision was expected to delay financing of any company for some time.

This is the second important concession which the Harriman interests have obtained in Russia. The other covers the famous Tchaigouri manganese deposits in the Caucasus.

FIVE BANKS ANNOUNCE CHRISTMAS BONUSES

Bridge Company to Pay Stock Bonus—Gas Company to Distribute Employes' Savings.

Christmas bonuses were announced yesterday by five banks and a bridge company. A utility announced distribution of savings from the employes' Christmas savings fund.

The Bowery and East River National Bank and the Columbus Bank declared bonuses of 10 per cent. of annual salaries for 1926 to all officers and employes.

Harriman & Co. declared a bonus of 15 per cent. to all employes. Additional compensation of 10 per cent. of 1926 salaries is to be paid to all officers and directors of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company. A bonus according to the length of service of each employe was announced by the Harlem Bank of Commerce.

The Dominion Bridge Company, Ltd., declared a bonus of $2, payable to stock of record Dec. 17.

The Consolidated Gas Company of New York announced the distribution of more than $110,000 in Christmas savings to employees of the parent and all affiliated companies. This represents the weekly savings of 988 employes who put from 50 cents to $5 weekly into the Christmas savings fund. The largest amount distributed was $31,252, which went to 328 employes at the company's main office, Fifteenth Street and Irving Place.

ATLANTIC COAST LINE PLAN.

Company to Take All Railroad Stock Allotted, It Announces.

The Atlantic Coast Line Company of Connecticut, holding company for the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company, will subscribe for all stock to which it is entitled under an offer which permits shareholders of the road to buy one new common share at par for every five shares held, it was announced yesterday.

The holding company owns 185,906 shares of the railroad company stock and does not contemplate selling any of its own stock to provide cash for its subscription to additional shares of the railroad company.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and in the Financial Markets.

With United States Steel common a spectacular leader, the market on the New York Stock Exchange bounded upward yesterday with a vigor that has not been equaled since last Summer. The volume of trading was greater than it has been on any day since Aug. 3. Total transactions in Steel common reached 617,400 shares; they were the second heaviest of any day on record and made up more than 23 per cent. of yesterday's total sales of stocks. There was heavy profit-taking at times in Steel, as well as in other leading issues, but there was no perceptible slackening of the pace. The most notable gains at the close were in the following stocks: United States Steel, Allied Chemical, American Smelting, Atchison, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Crucible Steel, Delaware & Lackawanna, International Harvester, Nash Motors, National Lead, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Pullman, Reading, Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific and Warner Brothers.

The "Outside Public's" Buying.

A notable increase in public participation in the market has taken place during the last week, according to the heads of some of the large wire houses. Detroit buyers are stated to have been especially active in the present market, as have those to Pittsburgh. The head of one brokerage house said yesterday that his outside business had run this week approximately 25 per cent. ahead of last week and that it had gained on each succeeding day this week.

***

Inferences From Steel Dividend.

Most persons in the financial district, especially those in banking circles, were disposed to look behind the scene of the 40 per cent. Steel stock dividend and read into this extraordinary declaration a vote of confidence in the business of the future by the two financiers who probably control or have an influence in more lines of business and corporations engaged in these lines of business than any other two men in the country. There was not much doubt expressed in the financial district that the Steel dividend was a joint suggestion of George F. Baker and J. P. Morgan. In some quarters the declaration was considered an indirect expression by them of complete confidence in the stability and prosperity of the iron and steel industry. Speaking generally for all the Steel Company directors, it may be said that it has been many years since they have been so unanimous in their opinion that the coming year will be a good one.

The Arbitrage in Steel.

Nimble traders in Wall Street were quick to take advantage yesterday of the arbitrage possibilities which existed between the old Steel shares on the big board and the when issued shares on the Curb. At many times in the morning it was possible to make a point net between the two markets; that is, by purchasing 500 shares of old stock and selling 700 shares of new stock on the Curb. The only difficulty which will be encountered by the arbitrage traders appears to be the fact that the funds invested in United States Steel common on the big board will be tied up for something like four and one-half months. Nevertheless, this trading was profitable yesterday, and to a rapid operator seemed to represent about as near a "sure-thing profit" as they have lately encountered.

The Atchison Dividend.

Following the declaration of large stock dividends by leaders in the motor and steel industry, curiosity has been aroused as to what Atchison's directors will do at the next meeting for their stockholders. President Storey's failure to deny that the dividend question would be considered at that time seemed yesterday to be regarded in Wall Street as encouraging. There is no question but that the company can well afford a handsome disbursement, which may come soon if it appears likely that the official valuation of the road will take in all the elements of value in the property.

Southern Pacific Gains.

Shares of the Southern Pacific reached the best levels yesterday they have gained since 1918. The oft-repeated rumor that the directors would advance the dividend from 6 to 7 per cent. has been revived partly on the basis of what other railroads are doing and partly on the conclusion of the road's heavy expenditure program. Southern Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio are running almost neck and neck now, and speculation in each rests on the possibility of a 1 per cent. advance in the dividend rate.

Banks Favor State Charters.

A pronounced trend toward the conversion of national banks into State institutions or trust companies has been one of the features of the banking world in the year now drawing to a close. There are several reasons for this. The principal one is the great growth of estate business, which has come to be one of the most lucrative ends of the banking profession with the rapid creation of fortunes in the United States in the last few years. Another reason is the broader powers obtained under State charters than under the national banking laws. There have been several straight conversions from national banks to trust companies and several mergers where a national bank first obtained a State charter and then linked up with a trust company. Only two national banks in New York now exceed in size the two largest trust companies in the city.

Taxes and Railroad Earnings.

The tendency of the leading municipalities of the country to reduce their borrowings will have a far reaching effect on railroad earnings. For nearly every year since Federal control the railroad tax bill has been larger than the payment to railroad stockholders. This situation, bankers contend, is a purely abnormal one created by the fallacy that public expenditure does not come out of private pockets. When the public mind is focused on the question they feel that not only municipal but State tax demands will be substantially reduced.

Brooklyn Manhattan Transit again set a strong pace for the local transit group by gaining 4 points to a new high of 77 yesterday. Interborough, which usually pairs with B. M. T. when the latter advances, bettered its previous high by a fraction and closed firm. Manhattan Elevated closed up a point and Third Avenue fractionally more than a point. As has been the case in recent sessions, B. M. T. led Interborough by a substantial amount in volume of sales.

Electric Industrial Outlook.

The outlook for the electrical manufacturing field in the coming year is good, it was said in official circles yesterday. The two dominant companies in the field have done well this year, and final figures for the period are expected to approach the record. It was pointed out that public utilities continue to expand at rates which should insure good business for the manufacturing end of the electrical industry. At the same time, American interests have not neglected the foreign field. In view, however, of the substantial efforts made by German interests to establish themselves in world markets and of similar efforts by other nationals, the net result of American efforts is still uncertain.

FORECAST CHAIN OF DRUG STORES

Reports From San Francisco Say New York Tobacco Firm Is Seeking Control of Owl.

SCHULTE DENIES INTEREST

United Also Mentioned in Rumor—$10,000,000 West Coast Firm Would Be the Nucleus.

Inauguration of a coast-to-coast chain of drug stores, with the Owl Drug Company, a $10,000,000 west coast concern, as the central unit, was forecast yesterday by reports from San Francisco, which said that a New York tobacco company was in the market to obtain control of the Owl chain. The rumors mentioned three local companies, the Union and United Tobacco Company, the United Cigar Stores Company and the Schulte Retail Stores Company.

D. A. Schulte denied that his company was in the negotiations by declaring that "there was no foundation for the report." Another report had it, however, that other interests close to the Schulte organization might be the interested parties. The Schulte company controls the American Druggists Syndicate, the Alfred H. Smith Company, V. Vivaudou, Inc.; the Melba Manufacturing Company, Park & Tilford and has agreements with American agents for several foreign perfumes.

The United Cigar Stores Company is in the drug business through its control of the United Retail Chemists, and also controls the United Retail Candy Company. The foundation for the belief that one of these companies is behind the coast-to-coast proposition is placed on the fact that they have been extending their activities lately to the drug field.

The Owl Drug Company, which is capitalized at $10,000,000, is one of the largest drug chains in the country. It operates a system whose stores reach as far east as Philadelphia, although its units are located principally on the Pacific Coast.

What Is Your Favorite Charity?

YOU may want to perform a substantial charitable act—endow a hospital, set up a fund for an asylum, create a University fellowship, provide for a foreign or domestic mission—but you may feel that your means will not permit the required expenditure.

Why not take an insurance policy on your life for the amount needed and make your favorite charity beneficiary? You will then have to pay only small amounts annually in the form of insurance premiums, in order to make available at your death the lump sum required to carry out your wishes.

In such a plan, however, you should go a step farther and have the proceeds of your policy managed by the Bank of New York and Trust Company under the Uniform Trust for Public Uses. This will safeguard your endowment against future litigation and assure the charitable organization an uninterrupted income.

$152,815,000 BONDS ARE SOLD IN WEEK

Offerings More Than Double Those of Previous Period—All Absorbed Readily.

FIVE ISSUES OF LARGE SIZE

Expansion in most of the major bond groups brought the total of new offerings in the week ended yesterday up to $152,815,000, which compared with $70,517,000 last week and $141,574,500 in the corresponding week of last year. Five issues of $10,000,000 or more each were brought out and there was a long list of smaller loans. Offerings, by groups, of this and last week follow:

	This Week.	Last Week.
State and municipal	$46,315,000	$14,275,000
Public utility	46,000,000	10,050,000
Industrial	36,000,000	7,100,000
Foreign	20,000,000	38,092,000
Railroad	4,500,000	1,000,000
Total	$152,815,000	$70,517,000

The largest issue of the current week fell into the industrial classification and consisted of $35,000,000 debentures of the Chile Copper Company. This issue, bearing a 5 per cent. coupon rate, will replace approximately the same amount of the company's 6 per cent. bonds, which are to be retired by redemption next April. This was followed in size by a $20,000,000 issue of the Berlin City Electric Company, which is controlled by the municipality of Berlin. The financing here was arranged by Dillon, Read & Co. after competition with both American and European banking groups.

The public utility field was unusually productive with three issues of $10,000,000 each, one for $7,500,000 and one for $7,000,000. The Illinois Power and Light Company, the Detroit City Gas Company, the Interstate Public Service Company and the Standard Gas and Electric Company were among the companies in this class arranging important financing. Several more large issues in this division are scheduled to reach the market soon.

In the State and municipal field Los Angeles led with an issue of $15,700,000, which was awarded to a First National Bank syndicate, while the Port of New York Authority sold $20,000,000 of bonds through a group headed by the National City Bank. Both of these issues sold readily, the Port Authority offering, which will help to finance a bridge across the Hudson River, being brought out on a yield basis of one-half of 1 per cent. less than a previous issue of the same bridge. There were nine other State and municipal issues, ranging in size from $400,000 up to $2,800,000. There was one transportation issue, $4,500,000 of American Refrigerator Transit equipment trust certificates brought out by Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

All the week's important offerings were sold quickly and large oversubscriptions were announced in several instances. The bond market continued strong under the influence of a broad investment demand, with new high records established in several foreign and domestic issues. The market now is awaiting announcement of the terms of the financing for the Victor Talking Machine Company, which was sold recently to Speyer & Co. and J. & W. Seligman & Co. in a $40,000,000 transaction. A loan to Bulgaria, as well as several important domestic industrial issues, also will reach the market soon.

NEW HAVEN IN RAIL MERGER.

To Join With Harlem River & Port Chester and Central New England.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP).—Merger of the Harlem River & Port Chester Railroad and the Central New England Railway with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad was approved today by the Public Service Commission. The New Haven owns all of the stock of both roads.

The Harlem River road extends from New Rochelle to the Harlem River and the Central New England Railroad runs from Upshur Junction to Poughkeepsie and over the Poughkeepsie Bridge to the Maybrook distribution yards.

In an opinion accompanying the decision, Chairman Prendergast explained that because the road did not "have the room" to receive traffic through the East River in New York, the New Haven was "endeavoring to force traffic to the Poughkeepsie Bridge." The commission felt that that route should be "owned and maintained by a corporation able to rebuild the bridge when reconstruction becomes necessary," he said.

Railroads on the Jersey shore have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to route their traffic through New York Harbor, although the New Haven maintains that it cannot receive it.

NEW BONDS OFFERED TODAY

Two Issues Amounting to $6,885,000 Placed on Market.

Public offering will be made today of $6,500,000 first mortgage 6 per cent. sinking fund gold bonds of the Dierks Lumber and Coal Company, and its principal subsidiaries, the Choctaw and the Pine Valley Lumber Companies by Baker, Fentress & Co., Harris Forbes & Co. and the Continental and Commercial Company. The bonds, due serially from Dec. 1, 1932, to 1941, are priced at 100 and interest. The company has shown a profit in each of the last forty years.

M. M. Freeman & Co. are offering $365,000 Township of Union, N. J., 4½ per cent. school district bonds, maturing from Jan. 1, 1928 to 1967, and priced to yield 4.35 per cent.

The portion of the recent offering of $24,121,000 of 7 per cent. external sinking fund gold bonds of the province of Buenos Aires reserved for issue in Holland has been offered for subscription in Amsterdam. A heavy oversubscription was announced yesterday, allotments of 2 per cent. being made. The American issue was made through a syndicate headed by the First National Corporation of Boston, White, Weld & Co., Hallgarten & Co. and Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co.

INTERBOROUGH-MET. DIRECTORS UPHELD

Plea of "No Recourse" to Holders Who Alleged Bond Losses May Stand, Court Rules.

OTHER DEFENSES REJECTED

Legality of Dividends Attacked in the Suit—Belmont and Juilliard Estates Involved.

In the suit brought by a bondholder against directors of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company to recover $3,000,000 paid in dividends on the ground that the payments were illegal and caused a loss to the bondholders the Appellate Division handed down a decision yesterday upholding an important defense to the action. The defendants named included Edward J. Berwind, Solomon R. Guggenheim, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Guy H. Tripp, Horace M. Fisher and the estates of August Belmont and Augustus D. Juilliard.

The suit was brought by Herbert Small as owner of a $5,000 bond of the company in behalf of himself and all other bondholders and creditors. He said the company was formed in 1906 as a holding company with $45,000,000 of preferred and $93,262,162 of common stock, and bonds aggregating $67,825,000. He asserted that the corporation sustained large losses prior to 1915 and that the capital was impaired by $80,000,000.

The Interborough - Metropolitan, it was alleged, had accumulated a large sum in its treasury from dividends paid by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, but they were not applicable for payment of dividends by the Interborough-Metropolitan because the latter had no surplus profits, and the capital impairment exceeded its earnings. The plaintiff said no payments had been made for seven years prior to 1915.

Speculation Is Alleged.

The gravamen of the complaint was that the defendants were large stockholders in Interborough-Metropolitan and were speculating in its stock on a large scale, and in order to open the way for the payment of the alleged unlawful dividends, and thus increase the value of the stock, they decided in 1915 to consolidate the company with the Finance and Holding Corporation, a paper concern which had only $550 in cash as an asset and was not engaged in business. The plaintiff accordingly contended that the consolidated company, called the Interborough Consolidated Corporation, with a capital of $90,403,634, was still liable for $67,825,000 of bonds, while it had assets amounting only to $52,559,397, for which reason the dividend payments were unlawful.

The opinion written by Justice Martin said that the answers deny all the important allegations and plead separate defenses, refraining at the present time from challenging the sufficiency of the complaint. The case came before the Appellate Division on an appeal from a decision by Justice Crain denying the motion as to seven defenses, and striking out only two of them, one of which was that the plaintiffs had an ample remedy at law and could not sue in equity for an accounting and also that the statute of limitations intervened against the claim.

Justice Martin in his opinion yesterday pointed out that the first defense was that the trust deed under which the bonds were issued provided that there should be no recourse against the directors. Other defenses were that the consolidation was legal according to the terms of the trust deed and was in good faith; that the plaintiff and other bondholders had received the benefit of the consolidation plan; that the dividends complained of were paid from surplus profits of the Consolidated; that the claim, if any, rested with the trustee of the bond issue and not with the individual bondholders, and finally that another action was pending. Several of the estates sued contended that the assets of the estates had been administrated and failure to present the claim previously barred a recovery.

Ruling on "No Recourse" Clause.

Justice Martin, with the other members of the Court concurring, held that the "no recourse" clause was intended to protect the directors from any charge because of non-payment of any corporate obligations, the plaintiff having alleged that the bondholders sustained a loss of at least 70 per cent. of the par value of their bonds.

The Court, however, strikes out the third defense, which asserted that the bondholders had received the benefits of the readjustment plan, and also the allegation that the dividends were declared from surplus profits arising from the business of the consolidated, in good faith and without fraud. The Court holds further that the defense contention that any claim was in the trustee and not in the individual bondholders is insufficient, but upholds Justice Crain's decision in striking out some defenses. Justice Martin finally ruled out the defense that another action was pending.

If the ruling is upheld the case will now go to trial with the defenses retained.

PENNSYLVANIA BARS 10 INSURANCE CONCERNS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 17 (AP).—Seven Pennsylvania insurance organizations—four fraternal and three beneficial—today were ordered by Einar Barfod, State Insurance Commissioner, to liquidate their businesses. In addition, the Pennsylvania licenses of three foreign assessment life organizations were revoked and two foreign life insurance organizations were ordered to change methods of operations as a condition for renewal of their licenses in 1927.

Today's action was the result of hearings last month on citations requiring the organizations to show cause why their Pennsylvania licenses should not be revoked. The citations resulted from a study of their status as set forth in reports filed with the Insurance Department.

Mr. Barfod said the following companies were ordered to liquidate, because of insufficient assets, excessive operating expenses and non-compliance with the Pennsylvania insurance laws:

Ionic Temple, Lincoln Fraternal Brotherhood of Equality, Loyal Knights of America and National Safety Protective Association, all fraternal organizations of Pittsburgh; American Independent Beneficial Association, American Mutual Benefit Association and National Security Association, all beneficial societies of Philadelphia.

The revocations applied to the following assessment life organizations:

Homes Assurance Company, South Bend, Ind., revoked "on account of excessive management expense and its claim that it was not subject to any Pennsylvania insurance laws."

St. Lawrence Life Association, New York City, revoked "on account of failure to answer charge of excessive management cost amounting to 79 per cent. of its total premium income and its claim that it was not subject to any Pennsylvania insurance laws."

Union Casualty Company, Detroit, Mich., revoked "on account of insufficient assets and its non-compliance with the Pennsylvania insurance laws."

Suspension of the Detroit Casualty Company, Detroit, and the United States Indemnity Society, Boston, was removed, with notice that they reduce management expenses and acquisition cost as conditions for renewal of their Pennsylvania licenses in 1927.

ST. PAUL SALE CONSIDERED.

Judge's Decision on Confirmation Expected by New Year.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17 (AP).—A motion to confirm the sale of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the National City Company of New York was taken under advisement by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson here today.

At the same time it was announced that more than 82 per cent. of the stocks and bonds of the railroad had been deposited with Kuhn, Loeb and the National City Company, reorganization managers under the terms of the sale at Butte, Mont. UNIVERSAL PIPE EXCHANGE.

Chairman Predicts Retirement of Half of Preferred Stock.

George A. Harder, Chairman of the Universal Pipe and Radiator Company, said yesterday that stock deposited or indicated for deposit made it probable that about 50 per cent. of the outstanding preferred issue would be retired under the plan announced a week ago. This plan provided for an exchange of the preferred for $70 in new 6 per cent. debentures, $10 in cash and one-half share of common stock. The plan will expire on Dec. 24.

Mr. Harder said the outlook for the company was good and that the directors would consider next month the inauguration of dividends on the common stock. "They have felt for some time that common stockholders are entitled to a return on their investment and this will be acted upon at the coming meeting," said Mr. Harder.

OREGON RAIL ROUTE DEADLOCKS CHIEFS

Presidents of Western Roads Confer in Vain on Problem Given Them by I. C. C.

WILL MAKE NEW ATTEMPT

Another Session to Be Called to Avoid Mandatory Order From Commission.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Heads of railroads which have conflicting programs for new construction in Central Oregon met today to remove points in controversy. They were unable to reach an agreement, but left Washington with the understanding that another session would be assembled before a final decision was made or before asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to rule in a mandatory way upon the points at issue.

Participating in the meeting today were Ralph Budd, President of the Great Northern; Charles Donnelly, President of the Northern Pacific; William Sproule, President of the Southern Pacific, and R. E. Strahorn, President of the Oregon, California & Eastern.

The principal difference among the railroads arises from a project of the Oregon Trunk to construct a line southward from Bend to Klamath Falls, Ore. This line would parallel closely sections of the Southern Pacific system, built or projected, and also would parallel the existing line of the Oregon, California & Eastern, which is controlled by the Southern Pacific.

The commission decided that the Oregon Trunk should be permitted to build a portion of the line from Bend, but should complete the route to Klamath Falls by joint use of Southern Pacific tracks. The railroads were asked to adjust the question by a conference of their own chiefs. It was their failure to reach an agreement that resulted in today's discussion with the commission.

The railroad officials said the situation was too complicated to be discussed publicly at this stage, while Commissioner Aitchison, for the commission, said nothing would be given out in behalf of that body prior to further conferences.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Approaching Holidays Act to Cut Business and Rate Changes to Minimum.

Business in the foreign exchange was in comparatively small volume yesterday, the inactivity being attributed to a reduced turnover for foreign account as the Christmas holidays approach. Rates were firm, however, with a notable exhibition of strength in the French franc which hovered around the 4-cent level, a slight advantage over Thursday's final.

Sterling ruled steady at $4.84 11-16. The Italian lira also held its ground at 4.47¼ cents. The Swiss, German, Spanish, Holland and Scandinavians were dull.

In the South Americans, the Argentine bill rose 1-16 cent, to 41.18 cents, on reports of increased shipments of grain coincident with the closing of the Canadian supply. On the other hand, Brazilian milreis softened to 11.87 cents. Easterns developed slight fluctuations on small turnover.

HOOVER URGES CHECK ON FEDERAL POWERS

He Asserts Encroachments Will Destroy Government if They Are Not Halted.

FOR STATE POWER CONTROL

Advises Interstate Compacts at Providence Conference on New England Industries.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 17 (AP).—"The type of research which your council has undertaken is the creative force in community consciousness which New England has not heretofore possessed to a great degree," Herbert C. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, told the quarterly meeting of the New England Council at the Squantum Club here today.

"This council is producing that consciousness," he continued. "The whole structure of New England is cooperative. The whole upbuilding of this region depends on collection action, and in stimulating that your council is contributing its great share."

Declaring "the growing encroachment of Federal power threatens disaster," the Secretary of Commerce said Electric power transmission should be controlled by the individual States rather than the Federal Government, making interstate compacts where necessary. Unless the growing encroachment of Federal authority was checked, he declared, "it will ultimately break down our Government. New England should take the lead in a movement that will check the system. States must rule themselves."

In opposing the idea of Federal control of electric power Mr. Hoover pointed out that only 4 per cent. of all power communicated was of interstate character and that the situation was logically one for local authorities to handle.

In urging interstate compacts he explained that they were a constitutional function of which the States seldom availed themselves. Power matters should be considered from an engineering rather than an "emotional" standpoint.

Discussing the report of Harry B. Lewis of Davisville, R. I., Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, Mr. Hoover declared: "In the West we have built up the reputation of our products and State Government have been rigorous in their control of gradings. If you wish to repeat their success you are in the exact trail by which they have arrived in Boston and have made a profit after paying 3,000 miles of freight."

The council plans for the coming year call for efforts by the Agriculture Committee to obtain better marketing conditions for New England farm products. The Power Committee will work with State regulatory authorities to devise an economical power system and will endeavor to get power into rural areas. The Research Committee will investigate industrial conditions. The Committee on Public Relations and Community Organization will endeavor to raise the level of community effort and create outside of New England a wider knowledge of the great industrial advantages of the section.

Dr. Julius Klein, Chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, told the council that various Government agencies would give aid whenever the council desired it.

Plans for the work of the council during the coming year were outlined by the President, John S. Lawrence of Boston. Mr. Lawrence was re-elected head of the council. Arthur L. Aldred of Providence was elected Secretary, and Guy P. Gannet of Portland, Me., and Dudley Harmon of Boston were re-elected Treasurer and Executive Vice President, respectively.

INDUSTRIALS GAIN OVER THE COUNTER

Advances of From Two to Five Points Made by Leading Unlisted Issues.

BANK SHARES RISE IN PRICE

Utilities, Tobaccos and Insurance Stocks Less Active, but Firm in Tone.

Buoyancy prevailed throughout most of the session on the over-the-counter market yesterday and several industrial shares noted material gains. Bank shares advanced slightly in a few cases. Price changes through the rest of the market were limited.

Bucyrus and Johns-Manville were each up 5 points on good demand. White Rock second preferred rose 3 points, and Curtis Publishing and Safety Car and Heating made gains of about 3 points each. Knox Hat continued to be a feature of the medium-priced group, adding 3 points to recent gains. Atlas Portland Cement, International Textbook, Gorham Manufacturing and Crocker-Wheeler preferred were the other leading performers.

United States Mortgage and Trust was the feature of the bank stocks group, advancing several points in response to a declaration of the regular $4 quarterly dividend. First National and Financial Industries Securities were also strong. The remainder of the section held firm but was not very active.

Utilities continued in good demand, but without noteworthy price changes. Tobaccos displayed firmness in tone under the influence of American Cigar, which was up on declaration of a 33 1-3 per cent. stock dividend. A beneficial influence was felt in the insurance group, the result of dividend declarations by Fidelity-Phenix.

NEW FARM AID BILL OFFERED BY FULMER

South Carolina Member Presents McNary's Measure, With Its Cotton Provision Modified.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Senator McNary and Representative Haugen parted company today and a new farm relief proposal under the name of McNary-Fulmer was introduced in the House as a companion for the Senate bill.

The farm forces began immediately to lay plans for bringing the new bill to a vote this session, but a decision by the House Agriculture Committee to discontinue further meetings until after the holidays indicated inaction until January. The Senate committee also plans no meetings until after the holiday recess.

The new bill was introduced in the House by Representative Fulmer, Democrat, of South Carolina, and was identical with the McNary bill, except for a provision to postpone application of the equalization fee on cotton until two years after passage.

While plans of the farm leaders were being pushed quietly, new interest was attached to the remarks of Representative Dickinson, Republican, of Iowa, with publication in The Record in revised form of his Wednesday's speech.

Members who discussed it informally were surprised by the directness of Mr. Dickinson's threat to the Administration that unless it supported the farm relief program, "it ought not to be continued in political power."

Even more surprised were the members by Mr. Dickinson's statement as to Presidential prerequisites, which followed in The Record directly after a reprint of remarks by Frank O. Lowden, former Illinois Governor, before a Chicago farm meeting.

The Iowan had been questioned whether he believed Mr. Lowden to be too old "to understand the problem of agriculture, much less to be a candidate for President of the United States."

"That," Mr. Dickinson replied, "in my judgment, with good health, is not nearly so serious a handicap in a candidacy for President as trying to exceed the standard eight years' limit that has been so unanimously fixed by precedent in previous years on Presidential candidacies."

Coincident with the introduction of his bill, Mr. Fulmer issued a statement saying that its passage "is the one way to force tariff reduction by having a farmer-minded board that will look into freight and tariff rates and give Congress facts as they affect agriculture."

PULLMAN RECAPITALIZATION

Wall Street Hears Semi-Officially That Stock Will Be Split.

Wall Street received word yesterday from Chicago that directors of the Pullman Company are working on a plan of recapitalization which will be submitted to the full Board of Directors at their meeting in January. Such a move has been reported at various times in the last year, but yesterday's news was the first semi-official announcement. Incidentally, Pullman stock gained 5¼ points yesterday, selling up to 192¾.

It is expected that the proposed recapitalization will involve some sort of split-up of present outstanding shares. It has been reported in the financial district that this would be on the basis of three for one, with a $3 dividend on the new stock, bringing the total up to an annual payment of $9 a year on the present capitalization, in comparison with the $8 payment being made at the present time.

Bridge in Brooklyn to Stay Closed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The War Department refused today to reopen the abandoned bridge on First Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street, Brooklyn. In response to inquiries Secretary Dwight Davis said the reopening would require opening a public thoroughfare through the centre of the New York General Intermediate Depot. The only inconvenience now suffered by the public, it was said, was in its having to travel a few hundred additional yards over paved streets.

Electricity Sales Rise 16.5%.

November sales by the Associated Gas and Electric system totaled 67,430,296 kilowatt-hours, an increase of 16.5 per cent. over November, 1925. Electricity sales to Nov. 30 were 741,-698,644 kilowatt-hours, an increase of 19.3 per cent. over the preceding period. Electrical output in the week of Dec. 10 was at the record figure of 16,115,349 kilowatt-hours, exceeding the total of nearly 16,000,000 kilowatt-hours reported for the week of Dec. 3.

BRITISH MERGER STOCK UP.

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Stockholders of the chemical firm of Brunner, Mond & Co., the Nobel Industries, the United Alkali Company and the British Dyestuffs Organization, all members of the £65,000,000 chemical merger, recently announced, have been invited to exchange their holdings into stock of the merger.

Overseas stockholders in these amalgamated concerns were notified the offer will remain open until Jan. 15. It is probable some latitude will be allowed beyond this date.

INSULATION MAKERS MERGE.

Siemon Company Gets Control of Watertown Manufacturing.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 17 (AP).—With the acquisition of a controlling interest in the Watertown Manufacturing Company, announced today, the Siemon Company of this city and its subsidiaries became the largest molders of insulation in the United States. The interests now represent an $8,000,000 investment.

The Siemon Company was organized as the Siemon Hard Rubber Corporation in 1903. Ten years ago the Specialty Insulation Manufacturing Company of Hoosick Falls was acquired, and two years later control of the Colasta Company, also of Hoosick Falls, was purchased. Four years ago the Furnaoid Company of Newark, N. J., was taken over.

WOOL PRICES STEADY.

More Business Done, but With Little Change in Quotations.

BOSTON, Dec. 17 (AP).—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: "There has been rather more business done this week, including more activity for account of the woolen mills. Prices are hardly changed, fine wools in particular remaining firm. Consumption of wool is proceeding steadily at a decently good rate, while repeat orders on goods continue to be placed with fair regularity.

"The foreign markets are showing a strengthening tendency as a rule, Australia recording an advance of 3 to 4 cents clean on merinos. The River Plate markets are tending slightly against the buyer and the other primary markets are all firm. Bradford is quiet but steady."

HOSIERY MERGER IN EFFECT.

Onyx Properties Transferred to the Ownership of Gotham.

Actual transfer of the properties of Onyx Hosiery, Inc., to the Gotham Silk Hosiery Company, Inc., took place yesterday, the Gotham thereby acquiring ownership of Pointex products. Coincident with the transfer, the Gotham Company granted Julius Kayser & Co. a license to manufacture and sell a stocking with a pointed heel. These companies will combine to protect patents covering the right to make this type of stocking.

The Gotham Company is engaged exclusively in the production of full-fashioned silk stockings. Kayser & Co., on the other hand, are interested also in the manufacture and sale of silk, woolen and fabric gloves and silk, cotton and rayon underwear.

VOTE TO CUT COTTON FEES.

Brokers Refer Back to Managers Plan to Provide Pension Fund.

Members of the New York Cotton Exchange referred back to the Board of Managers yesterday a proposal to so amend Section 57 of the by-laws as to reduce floor brokerage and clearance fees and to devote moneys derived from the fees to the employes' pension fund and a fund for building alterations and improvements.

Most of the members approved reduction of fees, but wished to vote separately on the uses to which the moneys would be put. Samuel T. Hubbard Jr., President, said the amendment would be changed to conform with wishes of the members and again would be submitted to a vote.

TO DOUBLE PAPER REAM.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17 (AP).—Simplification and standardization of printing papers by adoption of 1,000 sheets as the basis for count and weight, and the elimination thereby of the old 500-sheet ream, was announced today by the American Paper Conference Board.

No change in the actual substance of paper or in the business of manufacturing, merchandising and converting paper is involved.

The board said the change is to further the use of standard sizes of paper recommended by the Federal Department of Commerce and generally adopted by many industries.

The change is effective Feb. 1, or soon thereafter.

Building Workers Will Be Honored.

Eight workmen who took part in the construction of Hotel Drake, Park Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street, will receive certificates and gold buttons in recognition of their superior craftsmanship from the New York Building Congress. The presentation will be made on Tuesday at the building. R. H. Shreve, President of the congress, will preside. The eight workmen are William Rice, sheet metal worker; A. Morrison, plasterer; T. McMillan, plasterer's helper; Walter P. Gregory, steamfitter; Fred Borst, wire lather; Daniel Fitzpatrick, bricklayer; J. W. Herman, electrician, and Fred Anderson, carpenter.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—A German with a French name succeeded an American today in the most ambitious attempt yet to obtain for Great Britain a place on the silver screen. The German, E. A. Dupont, who filmed "Vaudeville," succeeds J. S. Williams, an American, as director of the British National Studios. Mr. Williams's retirement is now the subject of litigation in the courts.

PRODUCE EXCHANGE VOTES TO SELL REALTY

Brokers Pass Referendum by 618 to 58—New Office Building Is Proposed.

The Board of Managers of the New York Produce Exchange announced yesterday the result of the referendum on the question of disposing of the realty holdings of the Exchange subject to certain conditions. From a membership of 1,059 qualified to vote 618 votes were cast in favor of the referendum and 58 against it. The board referred the result to the special realty committee.

The Chairman of the committee is J. E. Smull and the other members are James W. Warner, Elliott T. Barrows, Edward Flash Jr., E. R. Carhart, Walter B. Pollock, R. N. Morgan and B. H. Wunder.

In a statement announcing the result President Wundor called attention to the items embodied in the referendum as the provisions to be met out of the sale of the Exchange's realty in the event that it should be disposed of.

"Provision must be made," he said, "to cover the existing mortgages and loans for which the Exchange is obligated, payment of Federal income taxes on profits resulting from the sale, for a self-supporting Exchange office building with adequate facilities not less than those now enjoyed, and for the refunding of the gratuity fund."

The board acted favorably upon the amendment to permit trading in oats in the grain futures market of the Exchange. As a result of this action trading in oats futures will begin in the New York market on Jan. 3.

RETAIL SALES RISE AS HOLIDAY NEARS

REVIEWS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Retarding of Buying Movement in Wholesale Trade Laid to Season and Cold Wave.

The week has noted a concentration of buying in the retail field and a slackening of the wholesale line. The weather has been the chief factor and heavy seasonable goods have been very active while extreme cold has been somewhat of a retarding element in regions such as the Pacific Coast lumber fields and other parts of the Northwest.

Christmas goods have gained steadily in momentum, until forecasters are saying that December retail trade holds promise of record achievement, outside of some Southern, Southwestern and north Pacific points. Industry, on the whole, has quieted somewhat, but there is promise of expansion after the turn of the year.

"Buying, generally speaking," Bradstreet's reports, "has converged upon small lines this week, with very cold weather and snow giving added stimulus to holiday buying, which seems to be larger than a year ago at most centres. A few exceptions to this rule are noted, generally in the Southwestern cotton belt, but also in a few North Pacific lumber centres and in parts of the Northwest, where the intensity of the cold has had a retarding effect upon all but the most necessary purchasing of heavy wearing apparel and coal.

"Wholesale and jobbing trade has very generally tended to quiet, which is in accord with seasonal conditions, but in a few instances the heavy retail buying has stirred up some quick reorder business to restore depleted stocks. Industry has tended toward further quiet, with, in some cases rather more than expected easing noted in operations. Absolutely clear views of the extent of this latter is, however, prevented by the widespread suspensions for inventory purposes, which, from most accounts, are likely to be light because of the small, but often, buying so generally noted."

"Allowing for seasonal restraints on wholesale and manufacturing activities, the status of business is distinctly favorable as the year end approaches," according to Dun's Review. "In several respects, indeed, the situation has gained in strength during the week. Financial sentiment is more buoyant, with active and rising markets for securities; a cold wave over must of the country has quickened buying of heavyweight apparel and fuel; and the great steel industry gives promise of expanding operations after the holidays.

"The trade in Christmas goods, moreover, has gained momentum steadily, and various reports indicate that a greater turnover is expected. The largest domestic merchandise exports for any month are shown for November; cotton consumption for that month rose substantially; unfilled steel orders increased; and an unprecedented movement of coal carried freight car loadings above the million mark for the latest reported week. The final payments of Federal income taxes for the year, involving very large amounts, were made without causing the slightest tension in money rates, funds being in ample supply. It is not the season now to look for expansion in primary channels, but the year is closing with strong underlying conditions, and some annual statistics will make new high records."

FORD PLANTS PREPARE TO TAKE INVENTORY

Annual Temporary Closing Down Starts New Rumors of Plans for Next Year.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Dec. 17.—The Ford Motor Company will begin next week the annual taking of inventory, which will be completed, it is expected, the first week in January. Normal production will be resumed, it is said, about Jan. 6.

It was stated at the Ford offices today that the various departments would not be closed simultaneously. As in previous years, some will continue to work while others shut down, and when the inventory is finished in the idle departments they will reopen and other departments will be closed.

Five departments were closed today, but which ones, or the number of men affected, was not stated by the officials. Two weeks ago the Ford works were partly closed for a period of four days.

The partial closing twice during the present month has set afloat a new crop of rumors as to what Mr. Ford has in mind for 1927. In the absence of any authoritative statements the automobile industry sits back and awaits further developments, which are expected about the time of the National show week in New York in January.

Although it has been repeatedly denied that Mr. Ford has any intention of coming out with a new six-cylinder car, there are many who say the manufacturer is liable to change his mind overnight, as he has a faculty of getting results in a short time with his undertakings.

Price cuts, improvements on his present models and a stand-pat policy on his present line are among the subjects of gossip whenever two or more automobile officials meet. Still another rumor that has gained headway is that a plant making a full line of "sixes" may soon be controlled by Ford interests.

FOR RUBBER IN PHILIPPINES

New Jersey Corporation Asks License to Operate 2,000 Acres.

MANILA, Dec. 17 (AP).—The first foreign rubber corporation to apply for a license to do business in the Philippines since the rubber agitation was begun was the Mindoros Rubber Plantation Company, a New Jersey corporation. The company was formed as the result of an extended visit here in 1924 by J. F. Corsey, its President.

The company plans to plant 2,000 acres with rubber trees on the Island of Mindanao during the next four years.

BILL BY WELLER ASKS CUT ON INCOME TAXES

Representative Moves to Raise Exemption to $5,000 as Yuletide Gift to Fathers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Another bill proposing a reduction in income taxes by increasing the exemptions for married persons from $3,500 to $5,000 with $500 exemption for each minor child was introduced today by Representative Royal H. Weller of New York.

Mr. Weller expressed the opinion that President Coolidge had a wonderful opportunity to play Santa Claus to millions of taxpayers by using the Treasury surplus as the basis of a permanent tax reduction for married men.

The New York Representative said that the President's plan to effect tax cuts by rebate or credit was impracticable and that permanent reduction should be made through a bill such as he has offered.

"At this season of the year, when the head of the family is wondering how his bank account will withstand the many demands that are made upon it, the assurance of a substantial tax reduction for the year 1927 would come as a welcome gift," said Mr. Weller. "At least it would be something in addition to the silk ties which fathers are accustomed to receive on Christmas morning. No doubt such a promise from President Coolidge would make many a father enjoy his Christmas dinner."

"The average rebate or credit to the small taxpayer would be 70 cents," added Mr. Weller. "On the other hand, this surplus if used as the basis of a permanent tax reduction would altogether eliminate from the payment of further taxes some four million small taxpayers who can least afford to pay.

"This would make for better and happier homes among the middle classes; it would encourage young men to marry and raise families; and, if promised now, it would come as a welcome Christmas gift to the real heroes of this nation, the fellows who plug along each day to provide homes for their wives and children. The matter rests with President Coolidge and the Republican Party. Will they do it?"

COTTON STEADIES AFTER EARLY LOSS

Small Ginning Estimate From Southern Point Provides Support for Recovery.

FOREIGN PRICES WEAKEN

After an early loss of 10 points, the cotton market steadied and recovered over quarter of a cent yesterday on a small ginning estimate from Memphis. The total was placed at 15,550,000 bales, or 904,000 bales for the period, compared with 960,000 last year. Though a moderate comparison with the record ginning of a year ago had been expected, a private estimate of less than last season from Dec. 1 to Dec. 12 developed active covering in both local and commission house circles and final quotations showed a gain of 17 to a loss of 5 points in December, the spot month.

Following the liquidation of the previous day, foreign prices weakened over a dollar a bale and the execution of overnight selling orders unsettled both the New Orleans and local markets at the start. The Fossick Bureau estimate proved so much below general expectation that a recovery developed soon after the opening and when arbitrage selling against purchase in Liverpool ceased, the list moved upward sharply. There was an evident demand for January contracts on the Southern Exchange which advanced that month 11 points over New York, the widest spread in some weeks. This brought covering orders to New York and prices gained 15 points the last hour under a wave of active covering in both markets. Just before the close of the session, December broke sharply 20 points, which reflected the reduced interest left outstanding in that position.

Week-end figures disclosed another substantial increase in the visible supply, with the world's figures of American now 7,063,000, largest totals ever recorded. The amount in sight for the week was 617,000, against 538,000 last year, making 11,849,000 for the season compared with 11,100,000 a year ago. Spinners took 485,000, compared with 404,000 last year and for the season 7,074,000, against 6,814,000 last season.

RECORD ON CURB MADE BY NEW STEEL STOCK

Much the same sort of bullish enthusiasm which was evident on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday was dominant also on the Curb Exchange. Prices of many stocks were higher, the leaders in the upturn being Victor Talking Machine, Sherwin-Williams Paint, Lehigh Valley Coal, Johns-Manville, Ford Motor Company of Canada, American Cigar and Bucyrus. A measure of irregularity cropped out in such issues as Curtis Publishing, Southern Cities Utilities and a few of the Standard Oil issues.

In point of volume, the new shares of United States Steel, traded in on a when issued basis, broke a record. A total of approximately 120,000 shares was dealt in during the day. This established a record for an industrial stock in that market.

Another feature of the market was the great activity in the South American oil shares, although some of them lost ground fractionally. In the bond list the best gains were made by the Servel Corporation 6s, which gained 6 points, and by the Galena Oil 7s, which gained 2 points.

WHEAT ADVANCES THEN BREAKS AGAIN

Recession Comes Early in the Day and Then Grain Rallies, Only to Ease Off.

LIVERPOOL IS LOWER

Good Weather and Slow Cash Demand Leads to Selling of Corn by Local Element.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Wheat had a range of 1 to 1¼ cents, breaking early only to rally sharply and then ease off again toward the last, with the finish unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Trade was largely of a local character and the market was easily influenced, with the pit element quickly becoming oversold or overbought. Buenos Aires, after being 1 to 1⅛ cents higher at midday, weakened late in the day and closed ¼ to ⅝ cent higher, while Winnipeg was unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, with the pool credited with selling May on the hard spots. Liverpool was easy and ⅜ to 1¼ pence lower, and had some effect here, being largely responsible for the early decline.

Forecast indicated rain in Argentina, although it had not materialized late in the day, with weather conditions in all provinces favorable for the movement. Estimates on the Argentine exportable surplus are being raised, a local house having a cable placing it at 160,000,000 bushels, while Broomhall placed it at 157,000,000 bushels, compared with the recent Government figures of around 145,000,000 bushels.

The strength in Buenos Aires was reported as due to larger export sales being made. The weakness in Liverpool was due to hedging against the same grain.

Holiday dullness prevailed in the export trade and no material change is anticipated for several weeks, although there is more or less business passing, as importers must secure North American grain to cover requirements until the new crop of Argentine and Australian is available, which will not be until March. Sales in all positions for the day were 200,000 to 300,000 bushels, with 600,000 to 700,000 bushels Manitobas taken late Thursday. Local handlers sold 16,000 bushels No. 2 hard Winter in store at equal to 4 cents over December.

Primary arrivals today, 730,000 bushels; week ago, 769,000; last year, 1,042,000. Shipments, 571,000 bushels; week ago, 494,000; last year 507,000.

Favorable weather over the corn belt with increased country offerings to arrive and a slow cash demand led to selling of corn futures early by the local element, but they took the buying side later when wheat firmed up, and with a little buying by houses with Eastern connections the close was ⅛ to ⅛ cent higher, with December leading.

Primary arrivals today, 880,000 bushels; week ago, 867,000; last year, 1,446,000. Shipments, 392,000 bushels; week ago, 225,000; last year, 340,000.

Longs sold oats early, while sellers on yesterday's bulge took advantage of the decline to reinstate holdings, and with commission house help, the finish was ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower. Rye was unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, with the action of wheat the main influence.

LOCAL WHEAT MARKET.

Futures Close Steady After Day of Irregularity in Prices.

An irregular price trend, which led up to a steady close, featured wheat futures on the New York Produce Exchange yesterday. In the early trading weakness at Liverpool and an indifferent foreign demand caused prices to ease ½c. A rally ensued, however, as a result of buying induced by strength in the Argentine and steadiness at Winnipeg, and the prices advanced ⅝c to ⅞c from the lows. The advance was checked toward the last by profit-taking, and prices closed unchanged to ⅛c net lower.

CRUDE RUBBER IS STEADY.

Prices Unchanged to 30 Points Up—February Strongest Month.

May was the most active position traded in, closing at 38.80, for a 10-point loss.

Sheep steady, with sales mainly at $5 to $6.50. Receipts 16,000.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of G. L. MILLER & COMPANY, INC., Bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy—No. 41,619.—Order to show cause.

On reading and filing the annexed petition of LAWRENCE BERENSON, the Trustee in Bankruptcy herein, verified the 10th day of December, 1926, and on motion of ROSENBERG & BALL, Attorneys for the Trustee, it is ORDERED that all creditors of the above-named bankrupt and all other persons, firms and corporations claiming any right, title or interest in or lien upon any specific moneys, bonds, stocks, securities or other property, or any part thereof, or any proceeds thereof, now or hereafter in the possession, custody or control of the Trustee herein or any successor trustee, or to the possession, custody or control of which the Trustee or any such successor trustee may now or hereafter be entitled, show cause at a Term of this Court to be held in Room 235, of the Old Post Office Building, Park Row and Broadway, New York City, on the 8th day of January, 1927, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel may be heard, why an order should not be entered herein providing among other things substantially as follows:

ORDERING all creditors of the above-named bankrupt and all persons, firms and corporations who claim any right, title or interest in or lien upon any specific moneys, bonds, stocks, securities or other property (including the cash and securities claimed to be segregated by the bankrupt in the alleged Trust Fund described in the petition of the Trustee in Bankruptcy verified the 10th day of December, 1926), or any part thereof, or proceeds thereof, now or hereafter in the possession, custody or control of the Trustee herein or any successor trustee; or to the possession, custody or control of which the Trustee or any successor Trustee in Bankruptcy herein may be now or hereafter entitled, to file reclamation petitions setting forth their claim or claims in and to said specific moneys, stocks, bonds, securities or other property, or any part thereof, or the proceeds thereof, duly sworn to, with Oscar W. Ehrhorn, Esq., the Special Master hereinafter appointed at his office, No. 280 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on or before the 18th day of March, 1927, and on or before said date to serve a copy of such petition upon the attorneys for the Trustee, Messrs. Rosenberg & Ball, at their office, No. 74 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York; and

FURTHER ORDERING that all creditors and other persons, firms and corporations who shall fail to file such petitions and serve copies thereof as hereinbefore directed on or before the said 18th day of March, 1927, be forever barred and foreclosed from making or asserting any claim, right, title or interest in or lien upon any specific moneys, bonds, stocks, securities or other property, or any part thereof, or any proceeds thereof, now in or which may at any time hereafter come into the possession, custody or control of the Trustee or any successor Trustee in Bankruptcy herein, or to the possession, custody or control of which such Trustee or successor Trustee may be now or hereafter entitled, and be forever enjoined and restrained from making, claiming or asserting any such claims, right, title or interest thereto or therein or lien thereon: and

FURTHER ORDERING that all such reclamation claims and petitions so filed be referred to Oscar W. Ehrhorn, Esq., who is hereby appointed Special Master herein to hear and examine the allegations, proofs and testimony upon and in respect of such claims and petitions and to make to this Court a report thereon and of his findings of fact, conclusions of law and opinions in respect thereof: and

FURTHER ORDERING that any claims or petitions in reclamation filed by creditors or other persons pursuant hereto within the period limited by such order shall, in the event that such claims or petitions in reclamation are not sustained as claims or petitions in reclamation, be deemed to constitute, and to be filed as proofs of claim of general creditors, subject to the right of the Trustee to contest upon the merits any such claim as a general creditor's claim; and

FURTHER ORDERING that all creditors or claimants, who have heretofore instituted reclamation proceedings in this or any other suit or proceeding and which are pending and undetermined, intervene herein and file their petitions in accordance with the directions of such order, and that all of such creditors or claimants be enjoined and restrained from further prosecuting such reclamation proceedings other than in the omnibus proceeding directed by such order; and that all other creditors and claimants be permanently enjoined and restrained from filing or prosecuting any reclamation claims herein except pursuant to the terms and provisions of such order; and

FURTHER ORDERING that notice of the entry of such order be given by mailing a copy thereof, together with a notice of entry, to all of the creditors whose names and addresses appear on the schedules filed by the bankrupt herein or who have filed claims with the Referee, to each of the mortgagors on bond issues underwritten by the bankrupt, so far as known to the Trustee, to all persons to whom the Bankrupt sold bonds and whose names and addresses appear on the records in the Trustee's custody, to the Committee for the Protection of Holders of Bonds underwritten by G. L. Miller & Company, Inc., of which George E. Roosevelt, Esq., is Chairman, and to all other persons known to the Trustee to be interested herein, at their addresses appearing on the books of the Bankrupt or as otherwise best known to the Trustee, on or before the 18th day of January, 1927; and

Granting such other and further relief in the premises as to the Court may seem just and proper; and it is

FURTHER ORDERED that all creditors, claimants and other persons interested in the bankrupt estate, show cause on January 8, 1927, at the time and place aforesaid, why the Trustee herein should not be authorized and directed forthwith to pay over to or for the account of those entitled thereto, in such manner as the Court may direct and without requiring the filing of reclamation petitions, all sums of money (except so much of such moneys deposited, as hereinafter set forth, as the Trustee herein, at said time and place, shall assert any claims to or against on behalf of the bankrupt estate) received by the Bankrupt after August 10, 1926, for interest, amortization and other items under the terms of trust deeds or mortgages securing bond issues underwritten by the Bankrupt, and which moneys were deposited by the bankrupt in a special account in the Chemical National Bank of the City of New York in the name of "G. L. Miller & Co., Inc., Trustee," as per Schedule "C" annexed to the said petition of the Trustee, verified December 10, 1926, and on file in the office of the Clerk of this Court; and it is

FURTHER ORDERED that notice is hereby given to all creditors, claimants and other persons interested in the Bankrupt estate that upon the hearing of this order to show cause on January 8, 1927, at the time and place aforesaid, or any adjourned hearing, and either before or without reference of any questions to a Special Master and either before or without requiring the filing of reclamation petitions, this Court may hear and determine any or all questions of law or of fact which the Court deems it necessary or expedient to determine with respect to the right, title, interest or lien of any creditor, claimant or other person in and to any specific moneys, bonds, stocks, securities or other property, including the cash and securities claimed to be segregated by the bankrupt in the alleged trust fund described in the petition of the Trustee in Bankruptcy, verified the 10th day of December, 1926, or any proceeds thereof, which now or hereafter are or come into the possession, custody or control of the trustee herein or any successor trustee; and it is

FURTHER ORDERED that all creditors, claimants and other persons interested in the Bankrupt Estate show cause on January 8, 1927, at the time and place aforesaid why an order should not be entered authorizing the Trustee or any successor Trustee herein to sell or cause to be sold, with the approval of the Referee in Bankruptcy, any or all of the stocks, bonds and securities which have come or may hereafter come into the possession of said Trustee, including such stocks, bonds and securities as are or may be the subject matter of reclamation proceedings, at such time or times and at such place or places, either on public or private sale or on such Exchange or otherwise, and in such manner and upon such terms, as to the said Trustee may seem desirable, and why said Trustee should not be authorized to take any and all other steps with respect to said stocks, bonds and securities which in his judgment may be deemed necessary or expedient to provide for the eventual realization upon said stocks, bonds and securities, including in but not limiting such authority to the right to deposit such stocks, bonds and securities with any committee or committees which have or may be formed for the protection of such stocks, bonds or securities, upon the terms imposed by such committee or committees, and to join in any plan of readjustment, reorganization or exchange affecting said stocks, bonds and securities and to accept, hold and dispose of any new securities which he may receive as a result thereof; and why it should not be further ordered that the Trustee keep the proceeds of sale, exchange or other disposition of such bonds, stocks and securities as are or may be involved in reclamation proceedings in a separate fund, subject to the further order of this Court; and it is

FURTHER ORDERED that pending the hearing upon this order to show cause, all creditors, claimants and other persons be and they hereby are enjoined and restrained from prosecuting any reclamation proceedings heretofore or hereafter commenced in this or any other suit or proceeding; and it is Further ordered that due, sufficient and timely service of this order to show cause be made by mailing a copy thereof (without said petition of the Trustee) to all of the creditors whose names and addresses appear on the schedules filed by the Bankrupt herein or who have filed claims with the Referee, to each of the mortgagors on bond issues underwritten by the Bankrupt so far as known to the Trustee, to all persons to whom the Bankrupt sold bonds and whose names and addresses appear on the records in the Trustee's custody, to the Committee for the Protection of Holders of Bonds underwritten by G. L. Miller & Company, Inc., of which George E. Roosevelt, Esq., is Chairman, and to all other persons known to the Trustee to be interested herein, at their addresses appearing on the books of the Bankrupt or as otherwise best known to the Trustee, on or before the 20th day of December, 1926, and by publishing the same once in the Daily News Record, New York, N. Y., and The New York Times, New York, N. Y., not later than the 20th day of December, 1926.

CONDITIONS GOOD FOR HOLIDAY TRADE

GOODS DISTRIBUTION LARGER

Bituminous Coal and Petroleum Up, but Beehive Coke and Lumber Show Decline.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Evidence of favorable business conditions during the holiday season was found in the statement of the Department of Commerce today, which showed that the dollar volume of trade during the second week of December, measured by check payments, was larger than during the preceding week or the corresponding week last year. The distribution of goods, as seen from car loadings, also was larger than during the comparative week of 1925.

The production of bituminous coal and petroleum during the first week of December was greater than a year ago, while the volume of new construction contracts let was smaller and the output of lumber and beehive coke showed a decline from the previous year.

Cotton receipts during the second week of the month were larger than a year ago, while the receipts of wheat were smaller. Wholesale prices for both cotton and wheat strengthened as compared with the previous week, but were considerably lower than during the corresponding week of the previous year.

Wholesale prices in general were lower than at any time in almost two months, making a decline of about 7 per cent. from a year ago.

Loans and discounts of Federal Reserve member banks were lower than at the end of the previous week, but higher than last year. Rates on call money show no change from the previous week, but were lower than last year. Business failures were more numerous than in either the previous week or the corresponding week of 1925.

A review by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Labor, also made public today, stated that the general level of wholesale prices in November was below that of October. The bureau's weighted index number, which includes 404 commodities or price series, was 148.1 for November, as compared with 149.7 for the previous month, representing a decline of 1 per cent. Compared with November, 1925, when the index number was 157.7, there was a decrease of about 6 per cent.

Farm products in general were more than 3 per cent. lower in November, 1926, than in October, owing chiefly to a decline in the prices of corn, wheat, cattle, hogs, cotton and hides. Foods and clothing materials also were slightly lower, as were chemicals and drugs and miscellaneous commodities. There was practically no change in metals and house furnishing goods, while fuels and building materials were slightly higher.

ADVICE FOR CLUBWOMEN.

H. D. Thayer Says They Should Widen Labor Reform Activities.

American clubwomen too often confine their activities in support of new legislation to those measures having to do with hours of work for women and child employes, said Henry D. Thayer, Secretary of the Industrial Survey Commission, in an address yesterday before 200 members of the Woman's Forum at the Hotel Biltmore. Workmen's compensation laws, prevention of accidents and other safety measures were among the questions which Mr. Thayer declared were also of vital importance.

The speaker described the functions of the Industrial Survey Commission, expressing confidence that its investigations would enable the next Legislature to act without delay on proposed measures with full knowledge of existing conditions.

Other speakers yesterday included Mrs. W. W. Crosby, Miss Lillian R. Sire, Mrs. William D. Sporborg and Miss Helen Varick Boswell.

COOKING CASE ADJOURNED.

Test of Law Covering Apartment Hotels to Continue Wednesday.

The test case brought to determine whether the city's apartment hotels are violating the tenement law by allowing cooking on the premises, was again adjourned by Magistrate August Dreyer in Traffic Court yesterday morning after one witness had half concluded his testimony. The case will be continued Wednesday morning at the same court.

Nathan Burkan, new counsel for the Morris White Holding Corporation, asked an adjournment on the ground that he had had no time to study the case. Acting Corporation Counsel Arthur J. Hilly objected and George R. Wills, a draftsman for Charles B. Myers, architect of the hotel, took the stand. In the midst of his testimony Mr. Burkan again asked the adjournment, which was granted.

DRY GOODS SALES IMPROVE.

Fewer Customers in Market—Collections at Last Year's Figure.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Marshall Field and Company in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods maintained approximately the same volume as for the corresponding week a year ago. Road sales were considerably better than a week ago and were about equal to last year's figure for the same period. There were fewer customers in market than for the corresponding period last year. Collections were about equal to last year's figures for the same week."

CHICAGO SHERIFF FREED.

Hoffman and Other Officials Acquitted of Favoring Beer-Runners.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17 (AP).—Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman and seven others were found not guilty of obstructing justice here this afternoon in Federal Court.

The case grew out of charges that the Sheriff, Warden Wesley H. Westbrook, and his secretary, Henry Foerst, had granted too many privileges to two beer-runners, Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, while they were serving jail sentences.

Wants Freight Rates Changed.

The Chicago Northwestern and the Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Omaha Railroads have applied to the State Railway Commission of Nebraska for authority to cancel their combination rates and to apply distance tariffs on all class shipments, treating all such shipments as though made over one railroad. The Northwestern now owns the Omaha.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—4½ per cent. for the best names. Thursday—4½ per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

Better Rugs Are Selling.

Recently opened lines of Spring rugs and carpets are meeting with practically the same reception as those introduced to the trade earlier in the Fall, the best business being received on the finer grades of axminsters. Lines including the better grades of velvets are also meeting with success, but as a general rule there is little call for tapestries and the cheaper velvets. The sale of the lower-priced axminsters also is smaller than that of better quality rugs of the same construction. A pretty fair business is also being done in seamless wiltons, but it is not of great proportions. Orders from the Pacific Coast and Middle West districts were said yesterday to be best, with those from the South and New England making the poorest showing. Reports do not agree as to the amount of buying that is being done by stores in and around this city, but the indications are that it could be larger.

Hard Coal Demand Fluctuates.

To an even greater extent than usual the market for anthracite domestic sizes is responsive to weather changes this year, Saward's Journal will say today. Although these have followed each other in quick succession during the past fortnight, there has not been enough of the right kind of weather to keep the demand on as high a plane of activity as might reasonably be looked for in December. A slight improvement is conceded, as compared with conditions just prior to the season's first snowfall, but not enough more than to steady independent prices. No recovery can be recorded in the sizes above buckwheat. The bituminous market is quiet without being widely demoralized. The heavy tonnage being turned out has not resulted in as great a degree of overproduction as might have been expected.

Burlap Situation Improves.

The effects of the recent sinking of a burlap laden steamer in the harbor at Buenos Aires are still being felt in the various markets for that material. This is truer of heavyweight goods than of lightweights, and spot lots of the former are still so scarce here that the prices quoted on them are nominal. Spot lightweight burlaps, on the other hand, fell off about 15 points during the week. Calcutta shows a firmer tendency, according to cables that have been received from there, and is quoted a little higher each day. In the local market buyers are interested chiefly in heavy goods, which are under order in some cases as far ahead as December shipment from Calcutta. Prices on futures in this market are up 10 points on lightweights and from 20 to 25 points on heavyweights. These were the prices quoted here yesterday on standard 40-inch burlaps by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc.:

	8-ounce.	10½-ounce.
December shipment	6.45c	9.00c
January-March shipment	6.25c	8.85c

Gray Goods Sales Fair.

Considering the season a fair business was put through in the local gray goods market yesterday. For January and February shipment sales of 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths were made at 6½ cents, and there was also trading in a small way in spot 39-inch 72-76s at 8¼ cents. Spot lots of 39-inch 68-72s were held more or less nominally at 7¾ cents. Sales of sheetings for the day embraced 36-inch five-yard goods at 6¾ cents and 37-inch 48-square four-yards at 8¾ cents. For 37-inch 3.95-yard drills buyers paid 7½ cents. In the fine-yarn goods there was further call for fancies, while in the specialties trading in 37½-inch 64-104, 4.37-yard sateens was done at 11 cents. Ten cents was paid for 64-88 sateens of that width.

Trends in Silks for Spring.

Taffetas are being bought now for bodices of evening dresses and also for bouffant effects. How long the vogue for the goods will continue is not evident as yet, but silk manufacturers say that some activity for at least a brief period in the Spring is indicated. Increasing interest is shown in printed silks in the small patterns and they are expected to have a good season. Georgettes and chiffons are counted on to be very active. Canton crêpes are being bought for sports wear. Staple crêpes in solid colors are doing well. Flat crêpe is an outstanding weave, but the price competition in this fabric is very sharp.

Shirts Have Sold Well.

Sales of men's shirts by retailers during the holiday period have been well up to expectations. Reorders for fancy figured silk shirts have reached manufacturers in good volume. White was a leading shade earlier in the season, but colored shirts, particularly tans, have been increasingly well bought. Jacquard effects have dominated in the better grade merchandise. Broadcloths in both plain and fancy patterns have led in the popular priced class. Orders for Spring have yet to be booked in volume. Retailers, most of whom are budgeting their buying, are ordering their merchandise solely as they need it.

Outlook Bright for Silk Hose.

Although the advance Spring business done to date by direct-selling manufacturers of women's full-fashioned silk hose is not so large as that in recent seasons, the general feeling in the trade is that a good period is ahead. The falling off in advance business is not ascribed to any lack of desire on the part of the retailers to buy, but to a lack of desire to buy so early as they used to. The general feeling, however, is that the present lack of volume in Spring sales will more than be made up later on. In some quarters quite a wave of buying is looked for after Feb. 1, by which time retail inventories will have been practically completed, if not entirely. One of the things notable of the Spring business that has been done is the tendency to buy better goods, especially hose of the qualities to retail at $2 a pair and up. An especially good season is looked for on $2 "retailers."

Trimmings on Spring Coats.

Leather effects in brilliant shades are receiving much attention as trimmings for both sports and dressy coats for Spring. Also prominent are reptile and metallic treatments. Much use will likewise be made of novel belts and buckle details. Velvet and velveteen will be featured as trimmings in many models. In the furs the list is said to be headed by calf, pony and dyed mole. There is much favor accorded baby white fox with gray edge. Squirrel, coney, Summer ermine and leopard will also be used extensively on the better grade garments.

Prices of Rayon Underwear.

By the turn of the year the rayon undergarment market is expected to be fully adjusted to the new price levels of the fibre. Stocks of rayon bought at higher prices will have been absorbed and the reduction will be taken into account in the new production. To some extent the lowering in rayon has hurt the undergarment trade, as buyers have been holding back their purchases. Sales of the merchandise at retail during the holiday period has been brisk, so that wholesalers here look for enlarged buying when the holidays are over.

Season Is Winding Up Well.

While the men's clothing trade is quiet at present, some fill-in buying is being done by retailers in preparation for clearance sales to be held next month. Stocks of seasonal merchandise, either suits or overcoats, in the hands of manufacturers are small, production having been cautiously held down. Despite unfavorable selling weather at the start, the retailers are credited with a fairly good season. They have held off clearance sales later than in the past and have been able to obtain early season prices on both suits and overcoats. Clearance sales are expected to meet with good results because of the tendency of many consumers to wait for these events and to carry the coats over into the next season.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

More Declines Than Advances, but Few Were of Consequence.

Fewer changes were shown this week by Dun's list of wholesale commodity prices than last week, but the excess of declines over advances in the current list was greater than that of a week ago. Then there were thirty-three advances in seventy-one changes, while this week only twenty-six of sixty-three revisions were upward. Among the few features was the unusual number of fluctuations in the parts of the list given over to drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for this week and the corresponding week a year ago:

*Nominal.

Prices for flour were practically unchanged in the local provisions market this week. The only revision was a drop of 5 cents a barrel in Winter soft straights. Hams did not change here, but prices on bacon and Middle Western lard were lower. At Chicago the only changes were declines in live steers and hogs.

Three of the four revisions in the dairy products were upward. Extra creamery butter and special held cheese each advanced a cent a pound, and a rise of a cent a dozen was seen in prime fresh-gathered eggs. Near-by fancy eggs dropped a cent a dozen. Cheese is now the only item in the list that is lower than at this time last year.

Changes were lacking in the listed fresh fruits this week, and a rise in cleaned currants was the only revision in the dried ones. Cabbage and onions advanced 25 cents a barrel and bag, respectively. The price of potatoes eased off 35 cents a barrel, and they are now nearly $2 a barrel under the corresponding price of last year.

The only change in the beverages was a further decline in No. 7 Rio coffee. Both raw and refined sugars were without change this week for the first time in several months, but in the spices advances in black and white peppers contrasted with declines in cloves and nutmegs.

Oats and malting barley supplied the only advances in the grains list, the declines being seen in wheat, corn and rye. Straw was higher.

No declines were seen in hides or leather. The only advances in the former were in No. 1 Texas and Colorado stock, while in the latter the sole rise was in No. 1 scoured oak backs. Tallow declined.

Revisions were lacking in the lumber list and in the building materials. Tin supplied the only rise in the metals, with the declines shown by No. 2X pig iron, antimony, copper and lead.

In the naval stores, resin and turpentine were higher, and the former is now nearly back to its 1926 level. Of the eighteen changes in the combined list for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils twelve were downward. Eight of the declines were in the oils, which was one of the few features of this part of the general list. Another was a rise of $2 a flask in quicksilver. Eastern crude rubber went up this week, but there was a drop in Brazilian rubber. Japanese raw silk was higher. Jute declined.

Most of the week's changes in the textiles were confined to cotton goods, the outstanding feature of which was the naming of denim prices for early 1927 delivery at the lowest price in more than five years and, with one exception, the lowest since the war. In the local market for burlaps lightweight goods eased off again.

USE MORE AMERICAN YARN.

British Spinners Lengthen Working Week, as Suggested by Keynes.

MANCHESTER, England, Dec. 17 (AP).—Full-time, or the lengthening of the working week, is to be re-established in that section of the cotton mills using American yarns. Thus will be brought to an end the practice of curtailing American yarn spinning, which has been in effect almost continuously since 1920.

The abandonment of short time is described by cotton experts as an exceptional instance where a theoretical economist has succeeded in imposing his theories against established convictions of the business man.

John Maynard Keynes, noted British economist, some weeks ago astonished the Lancashire cotton trade by blandly questioning the value of the policy of short time as a remedy for a depressed industry. He insisted short time had the effect, by restricting the output, of increasing enormously the ratio of overhead charges and thereby increasing the cost of the manufactured article for the consumer, to the advantage of the Japanese and other foreign competitors.

The remedy he recommended was fuller utilization of American raw material and the protection of the trade by the formation of combinations.

FINDS JAPAN SUSPICIOUS.

Miss Winsor Blames Exclusion Act and "Bad Manners" of Tourists.

Suspicion of the United States is so prevalent in Japan that our aid to the Japanese after the earthquake in 1923 not only aroused no gratitude, but is suspected of some ulterior purpose, according to Miss Mary Winsor of the Women's Peace Union, who returned recently from the Orient. Miss Winsor, who went, she says, "preaching peace to men and rebellion to women," blames the "rudeness and insolence" with which we exclude Japanese immigrants and the "bad manners" of the average American tourist for this suspicion.

In China the United States was still regarded as that country's best friend, she reported, but she feared that Great Britain was using the United States as a tool. Only the withdrawal of our gunboats from Chinese waters and our renunciation of extra-territoriality rights could retain our prestige in China, Miss Winsor added.

Plans are being formulated by the Women's Peace Union for a public hearing on its proposed constitutional amendment to outlaw war before the sub-Judiciary Committee of the Senate some time in January. The amendment was introduced last April by Senator Frazier of North Dakota.

Taxi Men to Test Power Over Debts.

The newly formed New York Taximen's Association has authorized Philip Hart, its counsel, to proceed with the case of Theodore Sanghi of 1,000 Kelly Street, as the one under which the Deputy Police Commissioner's powers over taxi drivers' debts will be tested, Mr. Hart announced yesterday. Mr. Hart said that for the present this would be the only case he would bring for the drivers, but that the association's policy would be to fight rulings against members which are deemed arbitrary.

Prize Offered for Jefferson Essay.

Mrs. Richard L. Sweeney, director of the Loyal League of New York State, announced plans for a prize essay contest for eighth-grade school children in the public schools of New York at a meeting of the Daughters of the Revolution at the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon. The subject of the essay will be Thomas Jefferson. The contest will end at the close of the school year and a medal will be awarded to the winner in each school.

PARK GARAGE PLAN DRAWS CRITICS' FIRE

Roulstone Disowns Proposal to Convert South Reservoir and Lays It to Walker.

The proposal made before the Board of Estimate on Thursday to drain the south reservoir in Central Park, deck it over for a public playground and open a huge subterranean garage under the superstructure was disowned yesterday by William Bradford Roulstone, President of the Central Park Association, and attacked by Captain William J. Pedrick, Vice President and General Manager of the Fifth Avenue Association.

Mr. Roulstone, who was present at the meeting when the proposal was made, explained that he was not an advocate of the plan, saying:

"It was the Mayor himself who made the suggestion. To his proposition I made no reply other than to advocate the retention of water surface where the south reservoir now stands. The transfer of the jurisdiction of the south reservoir from the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity to the Department of Parks is advocated for the common-sense reason that the reservoir, now obsolete and surrounded by the park, logically should be under the jurisdiction of the Park Department. And if the reservoir could be converted into a series of charming lakes and a large part of its water surface thus retained, the reservoir site could be put to no more ideal use.

Captain Pedrick stated the Fifth Avenue Association's objections to the subterranean garage in a letter of protest to the Board of Estimate, which said:

"We wish to record our most vigorous opposition to any such use of this property. It is our opinion that this property, located in the heart of Central Park, could be put to no more undesirable or inappropriate use.

"Garages are forbidden by law, not only in the city's residential centres, but also in business districts, because of the detrimental effect that their presence has upon surrounding property and upon the convenience and welfare of the general public, as well as the development of the city as a whole.

"Garages of any type, and particularly garages for transient parking purposes, attract large numbers of motor vehicles to the area in which they are located. The site of the lower reservoir comprising, as it does, thirty-seven acres of property, would, unquestionably accomodate, if it were used to capacity, thousands of cars during the average business day. New entrances would have to be constructed through the park to accomodate this tremendous vehicular burden.

"This is, of course, based on the assumption that a parking garage in that vicinity would be successful. Its success, however, is to be very much doubted because of the inaccessibility of location and because of the distance from transportation lines on which the business sections could be reached. In fact it is hard to imagine a location for such a facility that would be more difficult of access to the business centres which it would of necessity be designed to serve.

"There is only one legitimate and proper use for the property included in the old reservoir, and that is to make it part, in fact, of the park which encloses it. While the expense of removing the heavy granite walls and planting these thirty-seven acres would be considerable, it is also a fact that there is no way in which a similar amount of park property could be secured in the heart of Manhattan Island at so little expense. The reservoir might also be used to advantage as a lagoon, with proper paths around its borders, and small streams flowing in all directions from it could be made into beautified irrigation ditches to relieve one of the most distressing conditions from which the park now suffers—the absence of sufficient water supply to provide proper moisture for the growth and development of its trees and shrubs, just as is done in the Brooklyn Botanical Gardens."

August Heckscher, financier, sent to THE TIMES a telegram denying that he and others had pledged $1,000,000 to a restoration fund for Central Park on condition that the city appropriat an equal amount for that purpose. His telegram follows:

New York, Dec. 17, 1926.

Editor New York Times:

The statement attributed to Mr. Roulstone that others with me have tendered $1,000,000 for Central Park's rehabilitation is in error. No concerted effort has yet been made. I will gladly subscribe $10,000 to head the list or go to the foot of the ladder and would have offered more but for the lure of Florida.

A. HECKSCHER.

Mr. Heckscher recently informed THE TIMES that his investments in Florida and loans on Florida real estate ventures totaled more than $4,000,000

Mr. Roulstone said that the statement regarding Mr. Heckscher's proposed gift which was attributed to Mr. Roulstone at the Board of Estimate meeting on Thursday, was erroneous. He said he had merely recalled that Mr. Heckscher at the opening of the children's playground in southern Central Park last Summer had suggested that a $3,000,000 fund for the restoration of Central Park, representing one mill on the real estate value of Central Park, ought to be raised to restore that park; that Mr. Heckscher had suggested the city might appropriate half that amount, the other half to be raised by public subscription, with Mr. Heckscher assuring the Mayor he would make a "substantial contribution."

"If the news accounts indicate that somebody said Mr. Heckscher had offered $1,000,000, it is unfortunate, for nobody made any such statement in my presence," said Mr. Roulstone.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, President of the World Zionist Organization, and Mayor Walker will be the principal speakers at the opening of the Keren Hayesod, or Palestine Foundation Fund Women's League bazaar, to take place tonight at the Waldorf. STEAMFITTERS END FORCED SHORTAGE Unions Agree to Supply Demand of Contractors After State Commission's Inquiry.

BEHA DENIES SLUSH FUND

Contractors in this city and representatives of the Steamfitters and Helpers Union have entered into an agreement whereby the union will supply a demand for this type of worker, the State Industrial Survey Commission announced yesterday at its meeting in the Bar Association Building. The agreement was the result of numerous complaints from contractors that the union was creating a scarcity of these workers by restrictions on admissions to the union and by rules governing the admission of workers from other cities.

Several days ago the commission appointed a committee of three, Emanuel Koveleski, James W. Gerard and Merwin K. Hart, to meet both sides with a view to settling the differences. When the session opened yesterday William Keanelly of the Progress Association of Steamfitters' Helpers, William J. Bonner of the Enterprise Association of Steamfitters and Henry B. Gombers of the Heating and Piping Contractors' Association informed the commission that an agreement had been reached. Assemblyman Jaspar W. Cornaire, Chairman of the commission, complimented his committee for its success.

James A. Beha, State Superintendent of Insurance, was questioned concerning a pamphlet produced by Mr. Koveleski at a previous session, which was captioned, "Do the Big Insurance Companies Maintain a Slush Fund?" Mr. Beha's attention was drawn to an item which intimated that money listed as having been paid to bureau assessments and dues was the slush fund. He was asked what the items meant.

Mr. Beha said that these figures represented the sum paid by the companies to bureaus which gathered statistics on which rates are determined for all companies. Mr. Beha said that his examiners often inspected the books of these bureaus and that he would know of any slush fund, but denied it existed. He said that some of the bureaus operate throughout the country and named seven within his jurisdiction.

Mr. Koveleski said that the author of the pamphlet was Michael Flynn, who worked under the direction of Chester M. Wright of the American Federation of Labor. Both will be asked to appear before the commission to tell what they know about it.

Leon S. Senior of the New York Compensation and Industrial Rating Board told of the working of the board.

The commission will meet in executive session on Monday at the office of Mr. Hackenburg, 51 Chambers Street.

PRINCESS GALATZINE SEEKING SEPARATION

Former Aimee Crocker Admits Legal Action in Paris Against Fifth Husband.

Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—"Yes, I am doing everything I can to obtain a legal separation," replied the former Mrs. Aimee Crocker Gouraud today when she was asked about reports that her romance with the Russian Prince, Alexander Galatzine, had ended.

"Of course, we have been separated a long time but I have applied for a legal separation and expect to obtain it shortly," she added.

The Princess is the heiress of the Crocker family of California and is also well known in New York. Prince Galatzine is her fifth husband. They were married in secret about a year ago. She is 51 years of age and the Prince is 26.

The former Aimee Crocker, daughter of Judge E. B. Crocker of Sacramento, began her matrimonial career in San Francisco, where she was the reigning belle of her day. Two rivals, Porter Ashe and Harry Gillig, played cards for her, it was reported at the time, and Ashe won her hand with four aces. A year later the couple were divorced and she married Gillig. He ootained a divorce some years later.

Afterward in Europe Mrs. Gillig and her daughter, Gladys, met two brothers, Jackson and Bowers Gouraud. The mother married Jackson and Bowers eloped with her daughter.

After being divorced from Gouraud the former Miss Crocker was married to Prince Alexandre Miskinoff. Another divorce and another husband, Prince Galatzine, followed.

Six years ago Count Ferri Pisani brought suit against the Princess in Paris, alleging $900 was due him as salary as her secretary. She replied that he was merely an admirer and therefore not entitled to any pecuniary remuneration.

A few months previously in the New York State courts Mrs. Elizabeth Schill, a masseuse, sued the Princess for $100,000 for alienating the affections of her husbands, Bruno Schill.

The Princess and her latest husband visited this city a year ago, but when she sailed for Paris he was left behind. At the time he denied there was any substance to the rumor that he would soon follow the divorce court trail blazed by his four predecessors, and some weeks later he rejoined the Princess in Europe.

DEMOCRATS NAME WAFER.

Want Him to Succeed Kane as the Commissioner of Elections.

The Democratic Executive Committee of Kings County, at a meeting yesterday at the Jefferson, 5 Court Square, Brooklyn, named former Alderman Moses J. Wafer of 319 Clinton Street as the organization's choice to succeed the late James Kane as Commissioner of Elections. Mr. Wafer was nominated by Congressman Thomas H. Cullen. There was no opposition. It was generally understood that Mr. Kane, who had been leader of the Third Assembly District for more than fifty years prior to his death, had expressed a desire that Mr. Wafer succeed him on the elections board.

Mr. Wafer is Clerk of the First District Municipal Court at a salary of $3,500 a year. The salary of a Commissioner of Elections is $8 000. He is 75 years old and served in the Aldermanic Chamber when Van Wyck was Mayor.

Last night the Kings County Democratic Committee endorsed the Executive Committee's action and will make formal recommendation to the Board of Aldermen that Mr. Wafer be named.

Mayor Would Lift Cabaret Curfew for Jan. 1; Dislikes Being 'Spoilsport' New Year's Eve

Lest there still remain some doubt as to what extent the new curfew law was likely to act as a brake upon New Year's Eve merriment, Mayor Walker, who is the author of the law, but who has no desire to be thought a "spoilsport," sent a letter yesterday to License Commissioner William F. Quigley suggesting that he exercise his authority under the law to issue special permits to licensed night clubs and cabarets whose proprietors may desire to keep them open after 3 o'clock on New Year's morning.

The Mayor's letter follows:

CITY OF NEW YORK.
Office of the Mayor.
Dec. 17, 1926.

Dear Commissioner Quigley: On Dec. 16, 1926, I approved a bill passed by the Municipal Assembly entitled, "A Local Law to Regulate Dance Hall and Cabarets, and Providing for Licensing the Same."

As you no doubt know, this local law vests in you and your department jurisdiction over such places, and as the law becomes effective Jan. 1, 1927, I realize that you are allowed only a very short period in which to dispose of applications, issue licenses and otherwise put the law in operation. This is unfortunate, but was brought about by reason of hearings and discussions in the Municipal Assembly and its committees, and before the Mayor. I am confident, however, that you will make necessary adjustments without undue interference with business or unnecessary inconveniences to the public.

Under Section 5 of the local law you are given authority to permit licensed premises to remain open after the prohibited hour on special occasions. The Mayor and, I believe, the members of the Municipal Assembly, never had any intention of curtailing the usual New Year's Eve celebration, and I would suggest that such an occasion is an appropriate one for the exercise of the discretionary power of permitting licensed places to remain open after the hour on which on other days they must be closed.

Very truly yours,
JAMES J. WALKER, Mayor.

Under the provisions of the new law it is necessary that all persons or corporations desiring to operate night clubs or cabarets after Jan. 1 shall before that date obtain licenses from the Commissioner of Licenses, the annual fee for which is $50.

If they wish to obtain special permits empowering them to keep open later than 3 A. M. on New Year's morning, they must make a special written application to that effect to the same official, which, if granted, will cost an additional $5.

CAR ABLAZE TIES UP B. M. T. BRIGHTON LINE

Fire was discovered at 11 A. M. yesterday in the control box of the second car of a two-car wooden train used in the shuttle service between Franklin Avenue station of the Fulton Street elevated and the Prospect Park station of the Brighton subway line of the B. M. T.

The train had just made its last stop at the Prospect Park station, where it had discharged about fifty passengers and was about to take the crossover just below the station to make a return trip to Fulton Street. The discovery was made by Motorman William Schmidt of 235 Sterling Place. He notified Conductor Joseph Riccardi of 294 St. Mark's Avenue. The blaze was small at first and the two tried to extinguish it. The blaze grew and the motorman and conductor shouted for help. A patrolman turned in a fire alarm, but by the time the apparatus arrived the car was a mass of flames.

Before the firemen got there employes of the railroad had had the power shut off on the southbound tracks so that the firemen were able to get a hose over the wall of the cut. The fire had then reached the rear end of the front car but was extinguished quickly and that car was only slightly damaged. The super-structure of the car in which the fire originated was damaged badly.

When the blaze started the first car had just taken the switch of the crossover and was in such a position that it blocked both the local and express tracks bound toward Brighton Beach and Coney Island. After the fire was put out the train was drawn over to the local tracks and through service was instituted on the express tracks, with a shuttle service on the local tracks to Kings Highway. An hour later the burned car was removed to the company's shops and normal traffic was resumed.

'JOHN DOE,' 3, GETS A NAME.

Silent Child's Father Claims Him and Explains Son Is Dumb.

"John Doe," 3 years old, the bright-faced, silent child, who has been a mystery at the Brooklyn Children's Society since he was found seventeen days ago, became Lawrence Collins of 23 Orchard Street yesterday when Fred Collins, 23 years old, a porter, claimed the child as his son and explained part of the mystery.

John or Lawrence had mystified the authorities because he would not answer their questions, although he seemed to understand. As Collins entered the room where he was the child ran to him, threw his arms about his neck and uttered unintelligible sounds.

"The kid's been dumb since he was born," explained the father. "He can hear and understand, but he's never said a word."

Collins said the child disappeared on Nov. 30 when a family named Waltman, peddlers, who lived in the building where the Collinses made their home, asked to take him to Forest Hills until Christmas. Collins and his wife consented. The boy was found the next day at Brooklyn Avenue and St. Mark's Place, Brooklyn. Meanwhile the Collinses could not locate the Waltmans, and learned where their child was when some one sent them a newspaper clipping about "John Doe."

Lawrence, however, was not taken home last night. The authorities were advised by Newark officials that his parents were to stand trial Tuesday for neglecting him and that he should be held until that day.

MEET AFTER 60 YEARS.

Civil War Veterans Become Chums After Reunion on Liner.

A chance meeting after sixty years of separation is making life brighter for two Civil War veterans. John Noble and James D. Freeman, both eighty years old, who knew each other in New York before the Civil War, met three years ago on a ship bound for Florida, and since then have been chums, living in the same hotel, the Endicott, at Columbus Avenue and Eighty-first Street.

Mr. Noble, who is commander of the John A. Dix Post of the G. A. R. here, said that three years ago he was sitting in the smoking saloon of a Clyde Line vessel bound for Florida, when a man stepped up and exclaimed, "Isn't your name Noble?" "I replied," continued Mr. Noble, "Yes, your face is familiar, but I don't quite place you."

"He said, 'What? Don't you remember Jim Freeman?' I said, 'Gosh, I haven't seen you in sixty years!' We staged a regular reunion down in Jacksonville, and ever since we've been seeing a lot of each other."

Ex-Athlete Guilty In Hold-Up.

John O'Regan of 57 Harrison Avenue, Port Richmond, S. I., formerly a football player, was convicted of first-degree robbery by a jury before County Judge Tiernan at St. George early yesterday. He was remanded for sentence next week. O'Regan was found guilty of having participated in the theft of a $4,500 payroll from the office of John J. Donovan, a contractor in Port Richmond, on Sept. 11. Anthony Rachetti and John J. Brennan of Philadelphia are in Sing Sing Prison for having had a part in the hold-up.

HIS POLITICAL DOINGS IN LEITER'S LOCKED BOOK

Existence of Old Record Brought Out on His Last Day on Stand in Estate Hearing.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17 (AP).—Joseph Leiter, whose sister, Lady Marguerite Hyde, Countess of Suffolk and Berks, seeks to oust him as a trustee of the $15,000,000 estate of their father, once had political ambitions, it developed at the hearing of the case today.

Asked about a "locked book in the office of the Leiter estate" by attorneys for his sister, Mr. Leiter said he had such a book and was willing to bring it into court.

"It has reference to my political activities and has not been used in recent years," he testified on cross-examination.

Questioned by newspaper men later, Mr. Leiter said he could not enlarge upon his testimony regarding his "political activities," saying "that was a long time ago; let's forget about it."

Existence of the book, which attorneys for the Countess asserted had been given to Leiter's attorneys for perusal, was denied at first by the defendant, but later he recalled that the book, which he used about fifteen years ago, still was in his possession.

PRISON ASSOCIATION PRAISES ALGER REPORT

Calls It Outstanding Aid Toward Solution of Complex Parole Problems.

The Executive Committee of the Prison Association of New York announced yesterday that it had unanimously approved George W. Alger's report on the State prison and parole systems as "the most outstanding contribution thus far toward the solution of the many complex problems relating to parole and the administration of the penal and correctional institutions of the State."

Mr. Alger's suggestions for reforms in the administration of the indeterminate sentence and parole, the committee said, would tend to the protection of the public through more careful determination of the fitness of prisoners for parole.

"His recommendations point the way," the committee continued, "for the establishment of a prison system which will make for a maximum of public protection, and therefore deserve increasing public support. While the report and recommendations are excellent, still better will be the putting into action of the intelligence and understanding they evince."

George W. Wickersham is honorary Chairman of the committee.

ROB EAST SIDE POOR IN HOUSING SWINDLE

Fraudulent Salesmen Fleece Homeseekers of $500,000 by Talk of Heckscher Plan.

25 SAID TO BE IN THE BAND

Downtown Commerce Chamber Posts $500 Reward for Evidence—Fraud "Horrible," Heckscher Declares.

Swindlers, taking advantage of the publicity given to the proposals of August Heckscher for rebuilding the east side with model tenements, are fleecing the alien poor in several crowded districts of the city by bogus realty bond offers, according to Harry H. Schlacht, President of the Downtown Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Schlacht said last night that probably 5,000 persons had been victimized in the east side, Brownsville, Harlem and the Bronx and estimated the losses of the unwary at $500,000, at least. He said they might reach $1,000,000. The Downtown Chamber of Commerce, 150 Delancey Street, he said, offered a reward of $500 to any one bringing in evidence of the swindle upon which a conviction could be reached.

"Two days ago," he said, "some savings bank officials connected with the Chamber became curious to know why poor families were withdrawing so much of their savings. We started investigators working and uncovered the activity of the swindlers. There are at least twenty-five of them, well-dressed men and women, and there may be fifty. They had given some of their victims an address in Park Row as their offices, but we found the address to be fictitious.

"In all cases, I hear from the investigators, they speak of the Heckscher plan for model tenements to arouse the interest of their victims. They promise a 10 per cent. return on the investors' money and assurance of a chance to live in the homes in which they are buying an interest just as fast as the homes are built. They ask only small instalments on the bonds, taking as much cash as they can get, from $10 up to considerably more.

"This is the meanest crowd of swindlers on earth, for they are taking the Christmas savings of the poor and ignorant. We are having some difficulty in getting evidence against them, because the people who are robbed are hesitant about going to court and shy away whenever you talk to them about the police."

Mr. Schlacht said he did not know what form of receipts the victims of the swindlers were taking, as he had yet to see the evidence of which his investigators had told him. He expected to confer with them later and get additional data on the swindle today.

Mr. Heckscher said last night that he had been informed by Mr. Schlacht of the swindle and considered it "a horrible thing that the desire of the poor for better homes should be used to rob them."

"There is one lesson of value in the incident," he said. "It shows how anxious the poor are to better their homes and answers the contention of some people who have said the slum dwellers crowded into unfit quarters from choice."

STRIKE TESTIMONY ENDED.

Arbitrators' Verdict in Garment Controversy Due by Monday.

Arguments in the arbitration of the dispute between the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers Association and the striking cloakmakers were completed yesterday. The arbitrators, Judge Bernard L. Shientag, Colonel Herbert Lehman and Professor Lindsay Rogers of Columbia University, will meet at 3 P. M. today to discuss the issues. A verdict is expected not later than Monday.

Morris Hillquit for the union and Harry Uviller for the employers summarized their views. Mr. Hillquit urged the arbitrators to consider the subject in the light of an extension of the old agreement between the submanufacturers and the union.

Mr. Uviller quickly countered that his association would renew the old agreement "as it stands," including the forty-four-hour week and the lower wage scale, but this was not acceptable to the union.

MOTHER FIGHTS WOLF WITH BARE HANDS

California Matron, Clothing in Shreds and Face Torn, Saves Her Children.

MODESTO, Cal., Dec. 17 (AP).—With her hands as her only weapons, a mother yesterday battled for the lives of herself and her two small children when she was attacked by an animal she believes was a wolf at the door of her cabin at Camp Nine Stanilaus, near Angels Camp, according to a dispatch to The Modesto News-Herald today.

After her clothes had been torn to shreds and her face and arms covered with scratches from the animal's teeth and claws, Mrs. Peter Honrado, ran into the cabin with the animal at her heels.

Using a chair as a weapon she drove it off and barred the doors. The animal returned and tried to leap through a window. The cries of Mrs. Honrado for help were answered by Charles Avery, a neighbor, who came armed. His first shot grazed the animal's head and it rolled down an embankment, but regained its feet and attacked the man. A second shot wounded it and it disappeared in the underbrush.

The animal stood three feet high, according to Mrs. Honrado.

BUSINESS MEN URGE AN IMMEDIATE CUT IN CORPORATION TAX

WOULD LIMIT RATE TO 10%

Present Levy Declared Unfair and Tending to Discourage Expansion of Industry.

MOVE AGAINST FILIBUSTER

Democrats Offer Resolution to Limit Debate If Tax Bill Gets Before House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Taking issue with the Republican majority of the House Ways and Means Committee, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States declared today in favor of a reduction of the corporation income tax during the present session of Congress, and recommended a tax program which would substantially balance the governmental receipts and expenditures.

The prospective Treasury surplus of about $400,000,000 for 1927, the Chamber held, would make it safe to reduce the corporation income tax from 13½ to not more than 10 per cent.

The recommendations in behalf of the Chamber were made by a committee headed by Dr. T. S. Adams, an economist of Yale University. The action, it was stated, was in conformity with the attitude taken by the Chamber on the general question of taxation as outlined in a statement made by President O'Leary to President Coolidge, in which the necessity of reducing corporate income taxes and the repeal of the estate tax and certain excise taxes was emphasized.

Two Propositions Advocated.

The propositions which the Chamber advocates are as follows:

Congress should make early provision for the reduction of taxation substantially equal to the annual surplus realizable under the present law. The equitable distribution of the tax burden calls for the application of a large portion of this surplus to the reduction of the corporation income taxes.

There should be developed a systematic program of revenues and expenditures for the National Government to the end that these may be substantially balanced.

The committee also declared that "for the present all payments made by foreign Governments to the United States on account of both interest and principal of their debts should be applied to the retirement of the national public debt."

"Horizontal rebates or reductions in taxes," the report stated, "while always acceptable to the recipients thereof, do not remove any inequalities which may exist in the system. While practical conditions may not at present permit an immediate general revision of the revenue law, no such general revision will be necessary to bring in more equitable relation with other taxes the levy which is now most out of line—namely, the corporate income tax—since this may be adjusted by the simple process of changing the rate in the existing statute.

Heavy Corporation Payments.

"This calendar year at the rate of 13 per cent. on net profits it is estimated that the corporations will pay to the National Government about $1,200,000,000 in income taxes. The estimated surplus for the fiscal year is sufficient to permit of an immediate reduction to 10 per cent. Next year, if this particular provision of the revenue act is not changed, corporations must pay at the rate of 13½ per cent. on income, thus further increasing the present burden of taxation as paying into the Treasury still larger sums which are not necessary to meet the current expenses of government.

"At the present time the majority of those paying individual income taxes pay at the minimum rate of 1½ per cent., yet these numerous taxpayers are assessed at the rate of 13 per cent. on all income received from corporations in the form of dividends.

"In 1924, the dividends reported by individual payers paying on $10,000 or less of income amounted to $925,000,000. To pay this tax required profits of $1,057,000,000, on which $132,000,000 in corporation taxes were paid. The maximum tax on the same profits had they been taxed to the same individuals would not have exceeded $187,000,000, or $114,000,000 less than the corporations paid.

"The characteristic American method of doing business is by means of corporate organization. Since the corporations must earn and provide a large proportion of individual income upon which the personal income tax is based, the proper adjustment of the corporation tax is of essential importance. It is manifest that a burdensome levy on the sources of the production must inevitably discourage enterprise and business expansion and result in the curtailment of earnings."

Democrats Move Against Gag Rule.

Steps were taken today by the Democratic organization of the House to prevent the adoption of gag rules to throttle the Garner tax proposal if a majority of the members sign the peti-

Waterloo, Neb., Passes Hat To Help Belgian Namesake

WATERLOO, Neb., Dec. 18 (AP).—Waterloo may signify defeat and disaster, but to this American village of 400 souls it means progress and helpfulness, and the hat is to be passed in response to the plea for aid received Thursday by village officials from the Mayor of the war-stricken town of Waterloo, Belgium, famous as the scene of Napoleon's defeat.

Mayor Otto Wilson received a letter from the Mayor of the Belgian Waterloo, in which he asked for money "to permit us to restore our City Hall to a condition befitting the name of Waterloo." The letter promises that "a stone would be placed upon the façade of the new City Hall, recalling to passers-by your name and your generous donation."

"We doubt the legality of making an appropriation for this worthy little town from the village fund," Mayor Wilson said, "but we can and will pass the hat. I am certain all good Waterloo citizens will donate. We are a happy and prosperous village and we should try to help the town from which this place is named."

REDS IN RALLY BAR BACKERS OF SIGMAN

200 Policemen at Garden Help Communist Cloak Men to Pick the 13,000 Allowed to Enter.

RADICALS TO DROP STRIKE

International Union Head Says Arbitration Plans Will Go On Just the Same.

Under the protection of more than 200 policemen, a selected audience of 13,000 men and women gathered in Madison Square Garden yesterday and listened to attacks by Left Wing and Communist speakers associated with the Cloakmakers' Union and the Furriers' Union against the Right Wing and anti-Communist officials of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union.

The meeting, advertised to permit all the cloakmakers and dressmakers to express their sentiments on the strike, was from the start in the hands of the Left Wing and Communist officers of the Joint Board of Cloakmakers, which has been deprived by the international union of the conduct of the strike.

Admission to Madison Square Garden was supervised by the police and a committee designated by those who issued the call for the meeting. Practically the entire audience was in sympathy with the speakers, as not more than a dozen or so remained seated when the resolutions criticizing the international union officials were adopted.

It was later charged by Morris Sigman, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, that 15,000 members of the cloakmakers and dressmakers local union had been barred and that many thousands present were not cloakmakers or dressmakers, but were Left Wing and Communist recruits from other unions, notably the furriers' union and the jewelry workers, as well as Left Wing members in other needle trade organizations.

Sigman Barred From Hall.

Mr. Sigman was not permitted to enter when he insisted that the cloakmakers who were ejected included men who had been union members twenty-five years and more and were entitled to enter the hall. The policemen who ejected those whose credentials did not satisfy the committee of 200 at the door insisted that they were "neutral" as between the two factions. Deputy Inspector William J. McGrath was appealed to by Mr. Sigman for "a fair deal" and was informed by Mr. Sigman that the invitation was addressed to all cloakmakers and dressmakers. The police officials replied that it "was not a union meeting, but merely one called by a group of individuals who paid for the hall and who were entitled to allow anybody they designated to

ONLY $250,000,000 IS AVAILABLE FOR $713,000,000 PLANS

Estimate Board Must Discard Many Requests for Municipal Improvements.

MOST NEEDED FOR SUBWAY

Further Construction of City System in 1927 Will Call for $182,000,000.

SCHOOLS ASK $40,000,000

Docks, Markets, Water Supply and Incinerators Make Up Large Part of Huge Total.

With requests for municipal public improvements for 1927 already approaching four times the limit of the city's borrowing capacity, the Board of Estimate in the next few weeks will be confronted with the necessity of pruning them down to the borrowing limit. It will have to be a case of what the board may regard as the survival of the fittest, and many an ambitious project will have to go for the time being into the discard.

The 1927 public improvements requested, which embrace a program for schools, subway, docks, markets and hospitals, call for $713,000,000. Controller Charles W. Berry has already indicated that the borrowing capacity for 1927 will be limited to between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000.

Foremost in the demands for 1927 is a request for $182,000,000 for further construction of the projected municipal subway system. This sum is designed for the completion of the Eighth Avenue-Washington Heights route and to provide for the first connections with Brooklyn, Bronx and Queens.

Schools Want $40,000,000.

The aggregate in corporate stock sought for docks, markets, schools and incinerators totals $364,000,000. The total request for new school construction is $40,000,000. Other requests are $7,100,000 for docks, $10,497,000 for hospitals, $2,000,000 for incinerators, $1,810,000 for markets, $2,302,000 for plant and structures. Tax notes for these purposes aggregate $52,943,927.

Another important item is a request for $12,520,000 for the first year's instalment in the carrying out of the proposed program for a new source of water supply, which it is estimated will cost $347,000,000. Artesian well diggers have offered to produce water from Long Island wells for many million dollars under that figure. A general conference on the water supply situation and the proposal to increase water rates will be held by the Board of Estimate, Board of Water Supply and the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity on Jan. 10.

Following is an itemized list of the requirements of the Board of Transportation for 1927 to be financed by the issue of corporate stock or tax notes for construction purposes:

Wales and Peggy Marsh Stop Runaway Horse When Animal Bolts After Throwing Hunter

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The Prince of Wales and an American woman displayed both pluck and horsemanship today when they stopped a runaway horse at Melton Mowbray. They were with a party hunting with the Cottesmore hounds when Captain Alfred Loewenstein was thrown from his mount, which immediately bolted.

The Prince and Mrs. Keid Fenwick, who formerly was Peggy Marsh, an American actress, dashed after the runaway and, after galloping alongside the animal for some distance, succeeded in stopping him.

Captain Loewenstein escaped with a shaking up. He is the man who recently attracted attention by conducting financial operations by airplane from Biarritz.

In 1920 Mrs. Fenwick, then Peggy Marsh, unsuccessfully sued to obtain for her son $2,000,000 from the $5,000,000 estate left by Henry Marshall Field, Chicago merchant. She made the claim that the father of the child was a grandson of the Chicago merchant, whom she met while she was a chorus girl in London during the war. This son was later adopted by her first husband, A. B. Johnson, a wealthy New York broker, whom she married in 1921 and who died two years later. She married Mr. Fenwick in 1925.

SPROUL SEES DANGER IF SENATE BARS VARE

SAYS ZERO PRECINCTS EXIST

Vice President Dawes Assails Primary as Root of Political Corruption at Dinner Here.

Defending as reasonable, under all the circumstances, the expenditure of vast sums used to elect Senator-elect Vare of Pennsylvania, William C. Sproul, former Governor of that State and at one time a serious contender for the Republican nomination for President, last night at the annual dinner of the Pennsylvania Society at the Waldorf, asserted that to deny Vare his seat in the Senate would be revolutionary and "dangerous in the extreme." Senator-elect Vare heard the speech.

The former Governor's speech was a distinct surprise inasmuch as he and Vare have not been friends politically and few have come forward to defend the large expenditures on primary elections. Mr. Sproul, however, occasioned further surprise by attacking Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

"The overweening personal ambition upon the part of the present incumbent of the Governor's office, whose term of service ends one month from today, had divided the vote which would naturally be opposed to Mr. Vare and resulted in the loss to the State of a Senator who had in the short period of four years won a commanding place in the Senate of the United States."

Speaking as the principal guest of honor, Vice President Dawes laid the enormous expenditures in connection with political campaigns at the door of the direct primary system and argued in favor of a return to the old convention system of making nominations.

The Vice President warned that it was now within the power of a small minority in the Senate, by filibuster, not only to hold up and affect important legislation but "to humiliate our country and its people by compelling the President to call an extra session of Congress," and urged a change in the rules providing for majority cloture on revenue and appropriation bills. At the end of his speech he contended that the bloc system, largely chargeable to the primaries, threatened a breakdown of parliamentary efficiency here comparable to that which had taken place in some countries in Europe.

Sees Danger in Denying Seat.

Mr. Sproul, after he had paid a high tribute to Governor-elect Fisher, who, he said, would soon discard the experimental "isms" and get down to practical government in the State departments, made his reference to Governor Pinchot, without mentioning the Governor's name, and continued:

"I feel that to deny to Senator-elect Vare the seat to which he has been lawfully elected by the people of a great sovereign State would be a revolutionary attack upon the constitutional rights of the States, which would be dangerous in the extreme.

"Mr. Vare has not been my political friend for several years, possibly on account of some things which I thought I should do and other things which I was sure I should not do when I was Governor of Pennsylvania, but as a citizen I feel that I must come to the defence of his rights and the rights of our State in the present emergency, for the issues involved are greater than any individual, any faction or any party. If forty-nine men in the United States Senate may determine the qualifications, outside of the constitutional provisions as to eligibility, of the forty-seven other men who have been duly returned by the sovereign States as their associates, then we shall have an example of the tyranny of the majority which would surely be fatal to our democracy.

"Mr. Vare, astute politician that he is, saw his opportunity and seized it. He had behind him, in the largest unit in the State, the City of Philadelphia, a political organization upon which he and his brothers have worked for many years. The Philadelphia organization is not unlike those in the other large cities of the country except that it is staunchly Republican while most of the others are Democratic. Its methods are not much different from those of other city organizations, except that it is my impression that it is more personal and intimate, may I say kindly, and therefore more coherent and commands greater loyalty than most of the others. It is amazingly, overwhelmingly effective. There are 'zero' precincts in Philadelphia, just as there are 'zero' towns and even 'zero' counties in some of the States where our most virulent critics reside, because the people are all of one mind politically. That is not a healthy condition either in Pennsylvania or in Mississippi, but it is a condition nevertheless."

"It is said that $700,000 was ex-

BUCKNER TAKES UP JESS SMITH DEATH

Asks Heflin for Information on Which He Bases Murder Suspicion.

REQUEST STIRS WASHINGTON

Senator Wheeler Recalls There Was No Inquest—Rumors Following Death Revived.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The office of Emory R. Buckner, United States District Attorney for the Southern Judicial District of New York, has undertaken an investigation of the charges implied by Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama in a speech in the Senate Thursday when he intimated that Jess W. Smith, right-hand man of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, whose body was found in Mr. Daugherty's apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel in Washington on Decoration Day, 1923, did not commit suicide, but was murdered.

Senator Heflin said today that he had received a telephone call this morning from some one in the Department of Justice, asking him if he would furnish a letter in behalf of District Attorney Buckner's office, requesting a statement of what he knew with reference to the allegations implied by his speech. He said he replied that he would receive the letter and would furnish the information.

It is understood that Senator Heflin will no maintain that he has any positive information to support his suspicion that Jess Smith did not commit suicide, but that he based his statements to the Senate on reports circulated since the death of Smith.

6 Reasons Advanced for Inquiry.

While information is not available as to the purpose of District Attorney Buckner's office in seeking information from Senator Heflin, the belief prevails here that the intention is to make Mr. Heflin show whether he had any substantial foundation for his implications.

These implications were coupled with an insinuation that a disagreement of the jury was assured in advance of the recent trial of Mr. Daugherty in the Federal District Court in New York City on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the Government in the return of property seized by the Alien Property Custodian, Colonel Thomas W. Miller, who was tried with Mr. Daugherty. The jury failed to agree.

One suggestion advanced is that the Federal District Attorney's office in New York is investigating what lies behind the implication of the Heflin speech with a view to learning whether it will lead to information that might be used in future trials growing out of alleged corruption in the Department of Justice during the Daugherty régime.

When Jesse Smith died in Mr. Daugherty's apartment the Attorney General was the guest of President and Mrs. Harding at the White House. He was ill at the time and Mr. and Mrs. Harding had taken him to the White House in the belief that he would receive better medical treatment there. The only person in the Daugherty apartment when the tragedy occurred was the private secretary of the Attorney General. He heard the fall of a heavy object and going to investigate found the body of Smith with an automatic pistol near it.

Rumors Concerning Smith.

A gaping wound in Smith's head was the evident cause of his death and a certificate of suicide was given. Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, who conducted the Senate investigation into the conduct of the Department of Justice while Mr. Daugherty was Attorney General, said today that it was his information that no inquest was held.

At the time of Smith's death rumors were in circulation that he had been engaged in questionable operations in the Senate's investigation of the Department of Justice and in subsequent judicial proceedings accusations were made that he was involved in extensive grafting operations, including acceptance of money for permitting the shipment of the Dempsey-Carpentier prize fight films out of New Jersey in violation of a Federal law and for obtaining the illegal withdrawal of intoxicating liquor from Government bonded warehouses.

There was always considerable mystery in regard to Jesse Smith's status in the Department of Justice. He held no official position, but had desk room in the department building while Mr. Daugherty was Attorney General and was very active about the department. He was the owner of a small department store in Washington Court House, O., and an ardent admirer of Mr. Daugherty to whom he served as an assistant in the Harding Presidential campaign in 1920.

He came to Washington just before President Harding's inauguration in March, 1921, and was designated as

SUDDEN COLD WAVE SWEEPS IN ON GALE; HOMELESS SUFFER

TWO SAVED IN FROZEN BOAT

RELIEF PROMISED TODAY

Sweeping down from the Hudson Bay country through Canada and the New England States, a forty-two-mile-an-hour gale left in its wake yesterday the coldest weather this city has experienced this season. The temperature dropped to 7 degrees above zero at 6 o'clock in the morning.

The wind decreased as the day wore on and at the same time the temperature rose slightly. The low mark of 7 degrees held for a little more than an hour and then the mercury rose, 1 and 2 degrees at a time, until the highest temperature of the day, 19 degrees, was recorded between 2 and 3 in the afternoon.

7 AM	7	2 PM	19	9 PM	11
8 AM	10	3 PM	19	10 PM	10

Relief Promised Today.

Relief from the severe cold is promised for today, the forecast last night being "probably cloudy and not quite so cold." For tomorrow the forecast is "rain and warmer."

The forecaster said the temperature might go as low as six degrees above zero in the early hours of this morning.

The sudden intense cold sent homeless men, women and children scurrying in numbers to the municipal and charitable lodging houses and relief stations. The municipal lodging house cared for 438 men, 8 women and 4 children, though there was room for several hundred more had the emergency arisen. Hadley Hall at 293 Bowery took care of 225 homeless men and the Bowery Mission fed 105 and gave tickets for beds at various Bowery lodging houses. The Salvation Army Hotel at 225 Bowery accommodated 800 for a small fee, and those who did not have the required dime or quarter received beds free of charge. When all the beds were taken, mattresses and blankets were placed on the floor of the meeting rooms and 200 more were accommodated in this manner.

Two Marooned in Boat.

Two men, marooned in a frozen-in motor boat in Jamaica Bay at the foot of Beach 117th Street, narrowly escaped being frozen to death last night. After two and a half hours' work on the part of police of the Marine Division the men were rescued.

The engine of the boat went out of commission and, with the craft stationary, ice quickly formed round the hull and in a short while it was frozen in. Coast Guards tried to get lines out to the stranded men but were unsuccessful. A police boat was called and after considerable effort forced a passage through the ice and took the men off. The men were taken to the Rockaway Beach station house and after being thawed out were able to go to their homes.

Overheating of furnaces and stoves caused several small fires that kept firemen busy throughout the day. None of the fires caused serious damage.

The New England States experienced the coldest weather of the season, zero

Maine Jury Awards Damages To Autoist in Crash With Cow

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 18 (AP).—An automobile owner whose machine killed a cow today won an award of $188 for damages to his automobile. The cow had wandered onto the highway blindfolded.

The jury held to the opinion that a cow with a burlap blindfold over its head has no legal right on a State highway.

The suit was brought by William M. Tucker of Standish against Edward O. Brown of Vassalboro, owner of the cow. He asked $500 for damage to his automobile resulting from the collision with the cow, contending that the animal should have been secured or confined so that it could not have wandered onto the road.

SIX COAST GUARDS SINK WITH SCHOONER

TWO OF CREW PICKED UP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18, (AP).—The Coast Guard schooner Lincoln was destroyed by fire with a loss of six lives today several miles southwest of Cape Lookout Lightship, off the coast of North Carolina, the Navy Department was advised by the Coast Guard cutter Modoc. Two of the crew were rescued.

A message from the British steamer Defender, intercepted by the Modoc, said she had picked up Gordon J. Schults and Howard Carter, only survivors of the fire. The schooner burned to the waterline and sunk. The cause of the fire was not learned.

The Lincoln was a supply ship, based at Cape May, N. J., and was carrying oil and gasoline. She was destroyed so quickly that Coast Guard officials here believe the fire probably started with an explosion. Apparently there was no time to launch the two lifeboats she carried.

A high wind helped hasten the ship's destruction. All the Coast Guard vessels in the vicinity have been ordered to join in a search for the bodies of the dead.

Carter's mother, Mrs. Rosa Weaver, lives in Anne Arundel County, Md., and Schults's mother is Mrs. Mary Schults, 2,336 Homan Avenue, Chicago.

Crew of Eight Listed.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Dec. 18 (AP).—The Coast Guard schooner Lincoln, reported destroyed by fire off the coast of North Carolina, had a crew of seven men aboard in addition to Boatswain A. Erlingson, who was in charge, Commander Edward F. Addison, commandant of Cape May station, said tonight when informed of the vessel's destruction by The Associated Press.

The schooner was equipped with a Diesel oil engine and had three small oil stoves aboard, which would cause no great explosion, the captain said. She left here Sunday morning with a load of scrap metal for Baltimore, and from there was proceeding to Moore-

SHIFT SURPRISES CONGRESS

Coolidge Acts After Night Conference, Revealing Programs Abroad.

WARNING TO OTHER POWERS

White House Caller Says Britain, Japan, France and Italy Violate Treaty Spirit.

NAVAL RARITY IS MENACED

Measure Offers New Arms Parley as Condition for Halting $140,000,000 Project.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—President Coolidge today served what was represented to be notice on the world that if Great Britain and Japan intended to go ahead with cruiser construction as laid down in programs now under way, the United States was ready to keep pace with them.

Bearing the President's approval, a bill was introduced in the House by Chairman Butler of the Naval Affairs Committee involving an ultimate expenditure of $140,000,000 for the construction of ten 10,000-ton modern cruisers, with a view to increasing the strength of the United States in this class of armament.

The Butler program, its author announced, was presented with the knowledge and approval of the President. It was drawn as the result of a White House conference held last night, when figures were submitted to the President that convinced him that, in view of the light cruiser construction authorized by Great Britain and Japan since the conclusion of the Washington Arms Conference, and the heavy expenditures for warships made by France and Italy since 1922, the cruiser strength of the American Navy must be augmented to prevent this country's dropping to third or fourth place among naval powers.

Action Surprises Congress Leaders.

President Coolidge's endorsement of the ten-cruiser program came as a great surprise to most leaders in Congress because of the statement in his budget message that no estimates had been included for the construction of the three cruisers authorized in 1924, because of a belief that if work on them was begun it might prove embarrassing in pending negotiations for another international conference for the elimination of competition in naval armaments.

In last night's conference, in which the President was joined by Representative Butler of Pennsylvania, Andrew of Massachusetts, Vinson of Georgia and Drewry of Virginia, all members of the House Naval Committee, the opinion was expressed by at least one of the callers that at least four powers were violating the spirit of the Washington Treaty, and that it was incumbent on the United States to assure its safety by laying down a building program fairly comparable with those of Great Britain, Japan, Italy and France.

It is the understanding that this thought prompted the President to give his assent to the ten-cruiser bill.

Suspension in Case of Arms Parley.

Section 2 of the Butler bill, which will be reported to the House next week, leaves it within the power of the President to suspend the cruiser program in whole or in part at any time that an arms conference may be called. It reads:

"That in the event of an international conference for the limitation of naval armaments, the President is hereby empowered, in his discretion, to suspend in whole or in part any or all construction authorized by this act."

This provision was adopted, it was said, at the suggestion of the President, who wanted to be free under the bill to take such action as he deemed appropriate should an arms conference be held either under the auspices of the League of Nations or on the initiative of some power or powers irrespective of the League's endeavors.

Ships Would Cost $140,000,000.

Section 1 of the bill authorizes the President to undertake the construction of ten scout cruisers carrying protection and armament suited to their size and type, to have the highest practicable speed and the greatest desirable radius of action and to cost, exclusive of armor and armament, "not to exceed $10,500,000 each," or a total of $105,000,000.

The armor and armament, it is estimated, would increase the total cost by $3,500,000 for each ship, or a total of $35,000,000.

The Butler bill expressly states "that the construction of the vessels herein authorized shall be subject to the limitations prescribed by the treaty limiting naval armament ratified Aug. 17, 1923." That treaty stopped the building of capital ships in excess of 10,000 tons, and that will be the tonnage limit on the ships carried by the Butler bill.

While the President's approval of the Butler program is regarded as significant of a change of mind on his

Two French detectives, just arrived in New York, asked the police yesterday for assistance in finding New York robbers suspected of having stolen jewels valued at about $600,000 last October from the home of Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian financier, at Biarritz, fashionable French watering place on the Bay of Biscay.

The French detectives are Commissioner Marcel Charpentier of the Parish mobile-police and M. Bousselet of Le Geneth Insurance Company, Paris. They called at Police Headquarters with letters of introduction from the Paris police and from the French Consul General here. After an hour's interview with Police Commissioner McLaughlin and Inspector John D. Coughlin, in charge of the Detective Division, they were escorted through the Rogue's Gallery at headquarters and were sent out with Lieutenant Bernard Dietsch, who speaks French, in a Police Department automobile, to look for the robbers and the stolen jewels. It is believed that the robbers were international crooks who smuggled their loot into New York.

Dispatches from France last October told of the theft. The safe in which Mr. Loewenstein's wife kept her diamonds and pearls was opened after the key had been taken from the drawer of a writing table.

Mr. Loewenstein has been described as "the Belgian Croesus." He is about 50 years old, and has lived in England since the war. An English writer has characterized him as a speculator who "has a finger in every pie in Europe." He is said to have rented seven villas in Biarritz, one for the exclusive use of the pilots of four airplanes he uses for rapid transport between England, Biarritz and the capitals of Europe. He pays $10,000 a week for the upkeep of his airplane fleet, and another large sum to maintain fleets of automobiles in various cities. He has a staff of forty secretaries, distributed over England and Europe so that some may be at his disposal wherever he may alight.

Langley Is Paroled After Eleven Months; Leaves Prison for Kentucky Tomorrow

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Former Representative John W. Langley of Kentucky, who was convicted of violation of the prohibition laws and sentenced to two years in the Federal penitentiary in Atlanta, has been paroled and probably will be released on Monday, the Department of Justice announced today. He has served eleven months.

Mrs. Langley, who was elected by her husband's district in November, to take office on March 4, left Washington tonight to meet her husband when he leaves the penitentiary. They will go to Pikesville, Ky., for the Christmas holidays.

"I wish to say to every one, and particularly to the host of loyal friends regardless of party who have been so helpful," said Mrs. Langley, "that I am very, very happy. And why shouldn't I be, when my children are to receive the greatest Christmas present of their lives—their daddy? It will be indeed a joyous Christmas in the hills of old Kentucky among the many friends who know us best."

The children are waiting in Kentucky for the homecoming, and the family has planned a holiday reunion. Plans for after that have not been made. Mrs. Langley said definitely that her husband would not become her secretary, as had been rumored. What he will do, she said, remains to be decided.

Langley got his parole in the regular course, having been recommended by the parole board and approved by Attorney General Sargent.

At the same time three others who went to the penitentiary with Langley will be paroled. They are Walter B. Carey, Milton Lipschutz and M. E. Huth.

Mr. Langley, who will be 59 years old next month, began his sentence on Jan. 15, after the United States Supreme Court had approved his conviction under a charge of withdrawing liquor from Government bonded warehouses.

He was in the House for the tenth Kentucky district for nearly twenty years. He resigned some time after being convicted and Andrew J. Kirk succeeded him for the rest of the term.

Langley was Chairman of the House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

part toward expenditures for national defense, the bill, according to some naval officials, is little more than a gesture.

They point out that it does not specify when the ships are to be built, and that it does not provide a single dollar of appropriations at this time. Naval officers assert that it provides for cruisers on paper, but that it does not give any assurances that the vessels projected will ever appear on the ocean.

Another view of the situation is taken by Chairman Butler and his associates. Mr. Butler expressed confidence today that the program would be carried out in good faith, and that by 1931 it would give the United States twenty-five cruisers with a tonnage of 225,000.

Great Britain, by that time, Mr. Butler said, would have fifty-four cruisers of 340,000 tons and Japan 27 of 183,000 tons. He added that it was important that the United States should have such a cruiser ratio five years hence.

Earlier Congress Plans Revised.

There will be no attempt at this session to obtain appropriations for the three cruisers heretofore authorized, for which no estimates were included in the budget. The authorization for them, Chairman Butler said today, would be permitted to lapse, or at least no request would be made by the Naval Committee for appropriations for them in view of the Administration's acceptance of the ten-cruiser program.

In addition to the ten cruisers, it is expected that the President, in due season, will send in a supplemental estimate of appropriations needed to begin work on one of the two rigid dirigibles authorized by Congress in 1924. A letter urging such an estimate and setting forth the need for the dirigible will be forwarded to the White House on Monday in accordance with an agreement reached last night.

There is also a probability that the Administration may ask for additional appropriations for heavier-than-air craft for the navy beyond those suggested in the budget.

Butler Calls for Naval Parity.

"The bill I introduced today has the entire and cordial approval of the President of the United States," said Chairman Butler. "It is in accord with the judgment of the President as expressed to members of the Naval Affairs Committee with whom he talked last night. Beyond that fact the committee declines to make any statement of what occurred at the White House.

"Our object is to have the United States on a parity with other nations in naval strength and that the American fleet shall be rounded out. The authorizations in this bill are exclusive of and independent of the pending naval construction program authorized in 1924.

"We provide in this bill for 100,000 tons of light cruisers. They will be of the latest type. They will have the most modern type of equipment. Their addition will help to advance us toward our rightful position as a naval power.

Charges Violation of Treaty's Spirit.

"This program is not originated to terrorize any nation. Neither should it be regarded as a bluff. These ships will be built. You may depend on that. We are justified in taking these measures of preparedness.

"Personally, as one American, it is my opinion that some of the powers have brazenly violated the spirit of the Washington treaty. The ratio of 5-5-3 was understood by everybody concerned to apply to all classes of warships. While these powers have not gone back on the promise contained in the bond, they have evaded the spirit of the document, and we can no longer overlook the work of naval construction going on in Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy.

"It is indeed unfortunate that we are compelled now to undertake a building program that would have been unnecessary if competition in building naval armaments had been brought to an end by the Washington treaty, as we expected."

Program Gratifying to Wilbur.

Secretary Wilbur expressed pleasure over the cruiser program embodied in the Butler bill. He declared that the addition of the cruisers would increase the value of destroyers and would better balance the fleet.

"Very much pleased at the presentation of this bill," said Secretary Wilbur. "We feel that we can build ships that are worthy of the young men from all parts of the country who man them, and to enable them to compete on at least equal terms with the best equipment furnished to any other service.

"We feel that the cruisers already designed, for which appropriation has been made, will be the best vessels that can be built under the limitation imposed by the Washington agreement, that is, 10,000-ton ships with 8-inch guns. Those are the limitations, you will remember.

"The point that I would emphasize more than any other, perhaps, in this connection, is that in view of our large number of destroyers, the building of light cruisers to cooperate with and protect these destroyers, is of very great importance and significance, because the light cruiser, in one of its aspects, is a super-destroyer, having greater gun power and greater range of gun and equal or greater speed.

Stresses Value of Light Cruiser.

"Therefore the building of additional light cruisers will be of great value in balancing our fleet. Of course, there is separate and distinct value in the light cruiser in that it is used as a scout in getting information of the enemy's whereabouts and may also be used as a commerce destroyer, and is able to protect itself against anything other than a battleship or a battle cruiser.

"So for scouting and for the protection of destroyers and operation with them, the light cruiser is a very important adjunct to the fleet and will be very helpful to us.

"It increases the value of the destroyers we have. We have a large tonnage of destroyers, larger than any other nation, and if we are to get the utilization of those destroyers it is necessary to have them protected and deny information to an enemy."

Confident of Bill's Passage.

While the Butler bill will be reported to the house at a meeting of the Naval Affairs Committee to be held early next week, it probably will not be called up for passage until after the holidays.

With Administration support, members of the Naval Committee are satisfied that the measure will be passed by an overwhelming vote. They look for prompt concurrence in it by the Senate.

Although no plans have been made to authorize funds at this session for work on the ten cruisers, it was emphasized today that if a situation should develop between now and March 4, when Congress will adjourn, that would warrant such action the Administration would not hesitate to send in estimates for the purpose.

However, in the ordinary course of events appropriations for the cruisers will not be sought until Congress reassembles in December, 1927.

Britten Insists on Three Other Ships.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP).—Representative Britten of Illinois, ranking Republican on the House Naval Committee, asserted today that he had not been present at the White House conference last night, but thought that the Administration would "make a mistake" if it sanctioned an authorization for ten new cruisers and failed to provide funds for three already authorized.

"If it doesn't appropriate for those three cruisers now authorized," Mr. Britten said, "the authorization for ten additional ones would appear to the world as a big bluff."

The ten additional cruisers called for by the Butler bill would be exclusive of the eight already authorized. Congress has appropriated money for starting work on five of these. Two, the Salt Lake City and the Pensacola, are already building and the Navy Department is to call for bid on three more when specifications are completed. Three others remain to be appropriated for.

When the last comparative figures were filed by the navy the United States stood third in modern cruiser strength with ten ships of 7,500 tons each. Great Britain had forty and Japan nineteen. These figures, however, failed to take into consideration construction programs which are under way in several countries.

Will Rogers Does His Bit For Chicago's Canal Project

To the Editor of The New York Times:

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 18.—Am here in Chicago on way to California.

Poor Chicago! They are having a pretty tough break. They have a Senator elected that it looks like the poor devil is going to have to stand up all during his term and they got them a canal all dug and they can't find any adjoining country to loan them water to put into it. It's an awful nice canal. If you hear of anybody that has any water they want to loan them for it—you see they just need enough water to get them to the Mississippi River. That's all they want.

Five bandits came clear here yesterday but I guess that wouldn't come under the heading of news.

HITS NEWSPAPER MAIL RATE

Barnum Also Scores Congressional Committee for Its Inaction.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—J. D. Barnum, Chairman of the Postal Committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, today issued a statement expressing the regret of the organization that the Congressional joint subcommittee charged with the duty of recommending to Congress a revision in existing unjust postal rates has closed its work without making any recommendations other than those which it reported last May.

"Since this joint subcommittee was authorized under the law of Feb. 28, 1925," he said, "almost two years have elapsed; hearings have been held all over the country and two large volumes of testimony have been printed. Yet, notwithstanding these facts, the majority of the members of the committee has not been able to agree upon a report within the time fixed by law.

"Users of the mails cannot fail but recall in the light of this situation that two years ago a similar joint subcommittee, likewise headed by Senator Moses, took only a few weeks to revise the postal rates upward despite protests from practically the entire mail-using public.

"Daily newspaper publishers are hopeful that Congress will see its way clear to approve the recommendation of Senator McKellar in his minority report for a restoration of the 1920 rates and the establishment of a news dealers' bundle rate for the transportation of daily newspapers in the mails.

"Evidence has been submitted to this subcommittee which every publisher of a daily newspaper in the United States believes clearly proves the justness of the position we have taken in favor of a reduction in newspaper mailing charges. Such a reduction, in the opinion of the publishers, is not only a just one, but economically it is a practical one."

COOLIDGE ENDS HOPE FOR HAGUE MEETING

Tells Representatives Powers Are Not Ready to Consider International Law Study.

SEES PLENTY TO DO HERE

President's Main Interest Is Centred in Improving Waterways to Benefit Farmers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—President Coolidge reiterated today his belief that the nations of the world were too absorbed in economic and other problems to be interested at this time in a Hague conference to codify international law.

This opinion was expressed to Representatives Porter, Burton and Tinkham, who called to learn definitely of the Administration's attitude. It ends for this session the movement to enact the Tinkham resolution calling the President to suggest such a conference to the world powers.

Mr. Tinkham said there was no real opposition to his measure now before the House, but, unless a special rule was reported for it, the situation did not permit of action this session. Chairman Snell of the Rules Committee, is opposed to a special rule unless President Coolidge should agree to the resolution.

In the conference today President Coolidge made it clear that he was not opposed to the subject of the resolution, adhering to the belief that codification of international law was advisable, but was satisfied that none of the large nations would attend such a conference until they had made greater progress with economic situations growing out of the war.

The President is turning his attention from the foreign field and is concentrating on the activities of the Administration in domestic matters. In his opinion there is plenty to do at home, with the foreign competition increasing as economic conditions abroad improve. His main interest now centres in improving American waterways, which may tend to reduce freight rates to the farmers, the extension of water-power, and proper relief for the farmers.

Judged by the number of interviews he is now holding with the representative of the farm associations, President Coolidge is about ready to give his approval to some compromise form of farm legislation. It was said in White House circles that many plans that do not contravene the President's ideas of economic soundness have been presented to him, but that he has not reached any conclusion as to the bill that will best serve the purpose of aiding the farmers.

One suggestion combined a plan in connection with the improvement of the barge system on the upper Mississippi River. This proposes that the Government shall build warehouses along this waterway, where wheat can be brought cheaply by water and held in storage for better prices.

ACQUIRES SCHATZ GALLERY.

Hebrew Union College Gets Noted Art Collection From Palestine.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Dec. 18.—The Schatz Gallery of Jerusalem has been acquired by the library of Hebrew Union College. The collection includes the work of Professor Boris Schatz in bronze and stone sculpture, oil paintings and carvings in ivory. It comprises sixty-four pieces and is regarded as an important addition to the library and museum of the college, which houses the largest and most complete collection of Jewish art and ceremonial objects in the world.

Acquisition of the Schatz Gallery was made possible by the gift of Joseph Schonthal of Columbus, Ohio. The gallery is one of the first conscious attempts in modern times to create Jewish art specifically. The subjects are Jewish, representing ancient and modern types and celebrities, and Jewish festivals and ceremonies.

Popping Torpedoes at Christmas Shoppers, Bandit Gets $11,000 Chicago Loot; Is Caught

CHICAGO, Dec. 18 (AP).—Unarmed, but giving his exploit a background of heavy work with firearms by dashing torpedoes against the marble floor, a man identified as Douglas Craig, burglar and bond forfeiter, robbed The Fair, one of Chicago's largest department stores, of $11,000 worth of jewelry today. Christmas shoppers ran in all directions at the pop of the torpedoes.

The robber's possession of the loot was short-lived, for he was pursued by clerks and customers and finally overhauled by a mounted policeman, who dashed through crowded State Street and threw himself from his horse upon the fugitive after the manner of a cowboy bulldogging a steer.

Several women in the store fainted when Craig smashed a showcase with a brick and set off his fireworks. State Street traffic was halted by the cries of "Stop thief!" and the chase.

Five diamond-set bracelets, a diamond pendant and a rope of pearls made up the loot.

In Craig's hotel room the police found a stock of fireworks, which they believed he intended to use in other robberies.

Craig was able to break the showcase and seize the jewelry because the valuables had been left unguarded momentarily. The guard who watches over the section had just left his post and another watchman, who for years had stood just opposite the spot struck by the brick, also had stepped away a moment previously.

Craig said he came to Chicago a week ago from Pittsburgh. He said that eighteen years ago he was arrested in Los Angeles for forgery and served three years in the San Quentin Penitentiary. The police believe he has committed crimes throughout the country.

COOLIDGE TO JOIN IN TRENTON'S FETE

President and 13 Governors Will Celebrate Anniversary of 1776 Battle on Dec. 29.

MILITARY BODIES TO MARCH

Army Planes Will Take Part in Festivities—Navy Is Asked to Send Dirigible.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 18 (AP).—President and Mrs. Coolidge, New Jersey's United States Senators, Walter E. Edge and Edward I. Edwards, and thirteen Governors will join with Trenton on the evening of Dec. 29 in commemorating the 150th anniversary of the battle fought in this city during the Revolutionary War.

In addition to these guests, invitations have been forwarded to Vice President and Mrs. Dawes and Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft to attend the banquet, which will be held in the Stacy-Trent Hotel.

In the afternoon there will be a parade in which several thousand uniformed troops will march. The War Department has agreed to send a squadron of army planes to Trenton for the celebration. A request to the Navy Department for the appearance of the dirigible Los Angeles has also been made. Among the military organizations in the parade will be the First City Troop of Philadelphia, the Essex Troop of Newark and the Morris Guards of Atlantic City.

Following the parade, Governor Moore will give a dinner for the Governors of the other twelve States which comprised the thirteen original colonies. Last week Governor Moore dispatched members of his staff to the various State capitals to present the invitations.

Efforts are being made to have the President and his official party reach Trenton in time to review the parade, but those in charge doubt if such an arrangement can be made. President Coolidge at the White House yesterday let it be known that he probably will reach this city just before the banquet and will depart for the return trip to Washington soon after it. Arrangements are under way to have the President's address broadcast by radio, although the station has not yet been named.

Former Governor Edward C. Stokes, Republican State Chairman, will be toastmaster.

Among the first of the Governors to accept the invitation of New Jersey's Executive was Governor Trumbull of Connecticut. His response was received at the State House today. It was also announced that oral acceptances have been made by Governors Smith of New York, Ritchie of Maryland and Pinchot of Pennsylvania. Governor Moore believes all twelve next week will signify their intentions of coming.

DIAZ SEES DEFEAT UNLESS WE AID HIM

Nicaraguan President Says He Cannot Long Resist the Mexican-Aided Liberals.

MAY YIELD TO SAVE LIVES

Salvador Recognizes Him—Papers There Attack Pan American Union as "Useless" in Revolt.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 18 (AP).—Discussing the situation in Nicaragua and future possibilities, Adolfo Diaz, the Conservative President, made references today to both the United States and Mexico.

"I accepted the Presidency of Nicaragua," he said, "expecting that the United States would aid Nicaragua to restore order and secure peace. The day after my inauguration, therefore, I appealed to the Government of the United States, soliciting its support for the solution of the present crisis and to avoid further hostilities and invasion on the part of Mexico.

"Since then two expeditions have come to the shores of Nicaragua. Arms, munitions and personnel from Mexico have been landed and the Liberals sent to set up a government.

"I am confronted with the question, if the aid which I expected is not received, whether it will not be better in order to save lives and the industries of Nicaragua, to deal with President Calles direct now.

"I cannot believe, however, that the United States Government will stand aloof and allow Mexico to overthrow a Nicaraguan Government recognized by the United States and recognized under the conditions which existed.

"The Nicaraguan Government can quite easily dominate any revolution by Nicaraguan Liberals alone, knowing their inferiority in numbers and resources. But a Nicaraguan Government supported by 90 per cent. of the people could not permanently withstand a revolution made by 10 per cent., aided by arms, money, supplies and military personnel furnished by the Mexican Government.

"My Government can carry on alone for a month or two against the Mexican-aided revolution, but, if left unaided against Mexico, the latter should win."

Salvador Recognizes Diaz.

SAN SALVADOR, Dec. 18 (AP).—The Government of Salvador has recognized the Diaz regime in Nicaragua, basing its action on the Central American compacts signed at Washington, to which Salvador gave limited approval.

The directors of the principal newspapers in Salvador have sent a message to the Pan American Union at Washington declaring that organization is "useless."

The message asserts that the union did not even forward to the State Department telegrams of protest against the recognition by the United States of the Diaz Government, to the effect that that Government was "one of usurpation, repudiated by the peoples of Central America."

The publishers request the Pan American Union not to invite them to future conferences for the cementing of Pan-American relations.

ALL-METAL PLANES FOR THE NAVY NEAR

POINTS TO AVIATION NEEDS

He Reports 120,431 Flights for 83,228 Hours and Fewer Accidents in the Year.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Airplanes constructed nearly if not completely of metal were pointed to today by Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, Chief of Naval Aeronautics, in his annual report as within sight for the aviation section of the Navy.

"Satisfactory progress has been made during the year in this development," Admiral Moffett said. "To date the most important application of metal construction in the production of planes has been the extensive adoption of metal tubular construction to succeed the old standard wood and wire truss for the framing of fuselages.

"At the present time several types of wing frames and pontoons of duralumin are under construction to replace wood wings and pontoons in the further development of existing types of planes. Looking forward to quantity orders of metal aircraft, experimental orders are now nearing completion for four different models of all-metal three-purpose bombing, torpedo and scouting planes."

The importance of obtaining adequate appropriations for the five-year building program was emphasized by Admiral Moffett, who pointed out that no funds had been made available for this purpose, and urged that at least $12,000,000 be appropriated for the first year's work under that program.

Other recommendations were that of provision be made for "a reasonable increase" in the naval aviation personnel to meet the needs of the new building program, that an additional vessel be converted to provide another airplane tender, that larger appropriations be made for experimental work, and that the bureau be authorized to send experts to Europe each year to study the progress made in European countries where aviation advance is most rapid."

Aviation in the fleet, he said, "accomplished more than in any previous year." The Navy and Marine Corps, from all ships and stations, had made 120,431 flights, for a total of 83,228 hours. Of these, 45,[illegible]9 flights were made from the battle fleet, scouting fleet and Asiatic Fleet, for a total of 29,443 hours.

The development of all types of airplanes for service with the fleet went on, Admiral Moffet said, but the major design effort during the year was concentrated on fighters and the three-purpose—bomber, torpedo and scout—airplane. He said in part:

"Two improved types of fighters, one built by the Curtiss company and one built b ythe Boening company, have been flight tested and construction contracts placed for service use.

"A special ship board fighter built by the Wright company has been tested with three different types of engines and valuable test data obtained.

"An improved patrol seaplane, the PN-10, a development of the PN-9, has been produced and will be ready for experimental test flight and service flights early in the fiscal year 1927.

PAROLE SYSTEM FAIR, SAYS WARDEN LAWES

If Abolished, Special Court Should Pass on Cases, He Declares in Address.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing defended the parole system in an address yesterday at Town Hall, under the auspices of the League for Political Education. If the State did not like the present parole system, Mr. Lawes said, it should at least form a court modeled after the Court of Appeals, which would determine whether a prisoner should be released.

"It is impossible for Judges to know accurately how long a sentence to give a man because it is impossible to present most criminal cases in court with an adequate background of the offender," the Warden said. "Prison officials are the only ones capable of knowing how long a man should stay in prison. They have many ways by which to judge their prisoners—by the people who come to see them, by their methods of handling themselves and their work, and by their reaction to constructive discipline.

"Any man who can 'kid' institution authorities for a period, say, of ten years has made a pretty decent man of himself without knowing it. Reformation should undoubtedly play an even greater part in prison systems than it does today."

Warden Lawes expressed opposition to a minimum or maximum sentence, and continued:

"We know that men are released from prison every day who have served their sentences but are not fit to be released. We know that these men eventually will go back to crime. But what can we do? As long as there is no court for examining prisoners before they leave this condition will exist.

"With so many Judges in all parts of the State giving sentences for the same crime, there are bound to be inequalities in those sentences. Prisoners feel this. This condition is an added reason why the parole system is the only workable one. Prison authorities today knew that each prisoner is an individual problem, to be considered in an individual way."

secretary of the Committee of Washington citizens organized to make preparations for the inauguration. It was supposed at the time that he was the personal representative of Mr. Harding, but there is good evidence that the President did not like Smith and expressed himself to Mrs. Harding as perturbed when he read in newspapers after the inauguration that Attorney General Daugherty had installed Smith in the Department of Justice.

Circumstances Indicate Suicide.

Smith was said to have been suffering from diabetes at the time of his death and as not having fully recovered from an operation for appendicitis. All the circumstances of his death indicated suicide.

While Senator Heflin said in the Senate on Thursday that the bullet had been fired into the back of Smith's head and that there were no powder burns or marks to indicate that the shot came from close quarters the information given out at the time of his death was that Smith had been shot through the forehead.

Assuming that Smith did commit suicide, there has been much speculation in Washington as to what induced the act. At first it was attributed to ill-health. Subsequently, when proceedings before the Senate Investigating Committee and a large amount of gossip were construed by many as implicating Smith in grafting operations, various theories other than that based on the state of his health, were advanced.

Believed to Have Feared Exposure.

The outstanding feature of Smith's character, as Washington saw it, was his devotion to Mr. Daugherty. A man of full habit who greatly enjoyed the good things of life and apparently was possessed of a happy disposition, those who knew Jess Smith were of the opinion that only some mental cataclysm could have caused him to kill himself.

After the Senate investigation a rather widespread opinion prevailed that he was confronted with exposure of his alleged grafting operations and committed suicide either to escape possible punishment or to avoid the mental anguish and ignominy of being cast off by his close friends.

Through his intimacy with Attorney General Daugherty he had been invited to society functions and had met people of high social position.

Newspaper dispatches from Washington Court House in telling that Jess Smith's will had been filed there said that surprise was expressed at the size of his estate, the value of which was estimated at $200,000. A will made by him a year before his death left $25,000 each to Attorney General Daugherty, the latter's brother, Mal Daugherty, a banker of Washington Court House, and Miss Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of Smith.

Miss Stinson was one of the star witnesses against Mr. Daugherty in the Senate investigation. She was subpoenaed as a witness for the Government in the recent trial of Mr. Daugherty and Colonel Miller in New York, but was not called to the stand.

No Inquest, Says Senator Wheeler.

A will scribbled by Smith just before his death and found in his room in Attorney General Daugherty's apartment, was not probated because it had not been witnessed.

When informed today of the action of the United States District Attorney's office in New York, Senator Wheeler said:

"I received no direct or positive evidence that Jess Smith was killed in Daugherty's apartment. There was some circumstantial evidence which would seem to indicate that he had not committed suicide, such, for instance, as the position that his body was found in, and the fact that he was always afraid of firearms. It is a well-known fact that persons who commit suicide seldom if ever commit suicide by means of anything which they fear or by a method which they abhor.

"My information was that no inquest was even held over Jess Smith's body and, as I recall now, Jess Smith's former wife was not permitted to see him when she tried to do so.

"It is true, as Senator Heflin said, that Smith had been extremely afraid that some one would 'get' him and had so expressed himself on numerous occasions to different people.

"The foregoing were, in substance, the principal circumstances which tended to raise a doubt in my mind as to the method in which Jess Smith came to his death, but we were unable to go very deeply into it for the reason that the death occurred some time prior to the convening of the committee. We were able to get only meager and rather unreliable reports concerning the circumstances surrounding the same."

No Comment from Buckner.

Mr. Buckner, who returned to his home, 120 East Sixty-third Street, yesterday from the hospital, where he had been confined two weeks, following an operation for mastoiditis, declined last night to comment on the request made by his office on Senator Heflin.

Littleton Criticizes Heflin.

Martin W. Littleton, speaking last night at the annual dinner of the New York County Lawyers' Association at the Biltmore, attacked Senator Heflin for his speech in the Senate, alleging that the jurors in the Fall-Doheny trial had been guilty of improprieties.

"Only the other day," said Mr. Littleton, "a Senator of the United States arose in his place—he should thank God that he had the privilege of the Senate floor to protect him against libel—and denounced a Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia and denounced a jury. We have heard things like this of late from irresponsible people and demagogues. If the administration of justice in this country is to be protected there must be some voices raised against the demagogues of the country."

FIND MISSING DOCTOR; HIS WIFE STILL SOUGHT

Houck of Washington Is Located in Hornell Mentally Upset—Police Hunt Woman.

HORNELL, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP).—An unidentified man who appeared here Friday in front of a hotel, partly undressed and talking incoherently, proved today to be Dr. Knutte Houck, a Washington physician.

During an examination by local physicians today, Dr. Houck was more rational. He said that he was a graduate of Chicago University, was a former football player and that for the last two years he had been a physician at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington.

He was taken to the Willard State Hospital to await the arrival o freiatives. He is reported by the police to have disappeared from Washington on Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP).—Police here revealed tonight that not only did Dr. Knutte Houck, physician at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, disappear Wednesday but that his wife also dropped out if sight. Nothing has been heard from her.

Dr. Houck is said to have told friends Wednesday noon that his wife, who before her marriage was Gladys W. Walter of Canton, had disappeared, and that he was going to search for her. Since then nothing had been heard as to his whereabouts until word was received that he had been picked up in Hornell.

The police are searching the woods near St. Elizabeth's Hospital, which is an institution for the insane.

WAR VETERANS HONOR STITT

Official Reception Held in Commander's Honor at City Hall.

Civil, Spanish American and World War veterans assembled in the Aldermanic Chambers yesterday at an official reception in honor of Commander-in-Chief Theodore Stitt of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. During the ceremony Major Joseph Caccavajo, Past Commander of Brooklyn Post 282 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was sworn in as national chief of staff by Commander-in-Chief Stitt. In the absence of Vice Chairman Charles A. McManus of the Board of Aldermen, who was to preside, Alderman John J. Barrett of Manhattan acted as Chairman.

During the course of the ceremony John G. Trainor, County Commander of the G. A. R. and Secretary of the Armory Board of this city, said that a monument to General Philip Sheridan would be erected within a year at Sixth Aenue and Fifty-ninth Street.

HUNT GIRL AS GANG LEADER.

Westchester Police Hear Band of Six Hold Up Delivery Wagons.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 18.—"The girl in the blue sedan" is being sought by State troopers and policemen in Westchester County as the leader of a band of five men who, the police believe, have resumed the robbery of delivery wagons, and automobilists on lonely roads. Last Summer more than twenty-five motorists complained of having been held up by robbers operating in two cars, one a dark blue sedan, driven by a girl.

Within the past week the Yonkers police have received reports that drivers of delivery automobiles for New York department stores have been held up and robbed. The latest robbery was reported by John Onelchkoe of Yonkers, driver of a truck for Macy & Co. He said five men and a girl held him up last night on the Bronx River Road. Peter Izzo of this city, driver for B. Altman & Co. of New York City, was robbed of $100 last week by five men and a girl. Martin O'Brien of 570 West 180th Street, New York City, a department store driver, also reported that he was robbed of $243 last night on the outskirts of New Rochelle.

INJURED, WED IN BELLEVUE

Brooklyn Man Unable to Go to Church After Auto Accident.

A marriage was performed in Bellevue Hospital yesterday afternoon when the bridegroom, Archillo Grecco, 28 years old, of 146 Skillman Street, Brooklyn, was unable to appear at the church as the result of injuries received Friday night in an automobile accident. Grecco married Miss Filomena Visco of 2 James Street.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Voghera of the Church of the Transfiguration, 2 Mott Street, where the marriage was originally scheduled to take place. Miss Visco was given away by her brother, Nicholas Visco. The bridesmaid was Josephine Grecco and the best man was Frank Tedesca of 867 Forty-fifth Street, Brooklyn.

Grecco received lacerations and contusions of the head when knocked down by a taxicab at Broadway and Bond Street. His head was swathed in bandages during the ceremony. Physicians said he would be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

Countess di Robilant to Speak Here.

Countess Irene di Robilant of Italy, a disciple of Mussolini and a student of American democracy, will speak this evening at the Nazarene Negro Congregational Church, Herkimer Street and Troy Avenue, Brooklyn. The address will be preceded by negro melodies.

tion to discharge the Committee on Ways and Means from further consideration of the measure.

A resolution was introduced by Representative Garrett, the minority leader, directing the Rules Committee to report a rule limiting debate on the Garner bill if the House takes it from the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. Garrett wants to avoid a possible filibuster should he and Mr. Garner succeed in getting the Garner bill before the House. Without the proposed rule, he contends, the Republican leaders would be able to prevent a vote before March 4.

The Garrett resolution will not be pressed unless the petition to discharge is signed by the necessary 218 members to give it effect. The Democratic leaders are assured that all their party men will sign. They need the signatures of thirty-six Republicans. If they do not get them the Garner bill will stay in committee.

GRINIUS RESTORED AS LITHUANIA CHIEF

EX-MINISTERS RALLY FORCE

They Are Reported Endeavoring to March On Capital, Where Siege Is Lifted.

SMETONA IS NOT IN OFFICE

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 18 (AP).—Today's news from Lithuania, where a military coup d'état was carried out yesterday under the leadership of former President Smetona, is that the state of siege has been lifted in Kovno, the capital. It continues, however, in the remainder of the country, which appears tranquil, although there are persistent rumors that certain former Ministers who escaped arrest at the hands of the military are organizing forces in the Provinces to march against Kovno.

The military authorities at Kovno, it is reported in messages reaching here, have reinducted President Grinius to give a semblance of legality to their coup, by dismissing the old Ministry and appointing a Government headed by Augustine Valdemaras, who has acted for Lithuania in various League of Nations discussions.

M. Valdemaras is quoted as saying the Ministry just dismissed was too pro-Russian and was steering the country toward a catastrophe.

New Cabinet Formed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Word of the formation of a new Lithuanian Government under the leadership of Professor Valdemaras, a member of the party of former President Antona Smetona, was officially communicated to the legation of that country today.

"On the night of Dec. 17," the message said, "the President of the Republic accepted the resignation of the Slezavicius Cabinet and has confirmed a new Cabinet of Ministers."

The message named the new Ministers as follows:

Minister of Engineering—M. Sankauskius.

Minister of Communications—M. Silingas.

Minister of Justice — Colonel A. Murikys.

Minister of Defense—Colonel Musteikis.

Minister of the Interior—J. Alekna.

Minister of Agriculture — Dr. L. Bistras.

Minister of Education—Dr. A. Milcius.

A second telegram announced that the changes were effected without bloodshed, that the provinces had remained calm and that the new Cabinet had embarked on its task.

It was added that "the rumors reporting concentration of Lithuanian troops on the Polish frontier are false."

Poland Reassured by Events.

WARSAW, Dec. 18.—Lithuania's revolution will have nothing more than internal consequences, Polish Government officials believe tonight, after a day of anxious waiting for fuller news than the meagre reports filtering across the frontier.

The situation at Kovno tonight is reported calm, and M. Valdemaras, Premier of Lithuania four years ago, is said to be forming a Government from members of his Cabinet at that time. In this respect the overturn at Kovno resembles the Polish upheaval of May, except that here the movement came from the Left, while that in Lithuania was from the Right.

The population of Vilna spent twenty-four hours in terror last night and today because of flying rumors that the Lithuanian army was preparing for an invasion of the disputed territory, but with a strengthening of the border guard by Polish troops rushed from all the northern garrisons quiet was restored tonight. Officers of the border guard say they awoke this morning to find that the entire Lithuanian guard on the other side of the frontier had disappeared in the direction of Kovno, evidently expecting action there.

Foreign Minister Zaleski conducted a thorough investigation here today into conditions behind the overturn in Lithuania and found no signs that Russia had a hand in the revolution. On the contrary, there is reported to have been fear in Moscow, when the news first arrived, that it meant the beginning of a new offensive against the Reds, and Britain was immediately blamed as the agitator.

Marshal Pilsudski visited the Foreign Minister this morning, when it was announced that Poland would take no action whatever further than reinforcing the border patrol in case the adjoining country were thrown into disorder.

The absence of any reference to ex-President Smetona in the dispatches today leads to the assumption that he is acting behind the scenes without taking office, in a manner similar to that of Marshal Pilsudski in Poland.

CAIRO, Dec. 18.—Following a recent decision by the Chamber of Deputies, a Government communiqué this evening states that the Government has decided to enter the cotton futures market and buy all January contracts for Sakellaridis at $23.50, and all contracts for December and January delivery of Ashmouni at $15.50.

In all cases it will ask for the delivery of the cotton. The Government expresses the belief that call prices are not due to economic factors but to pressure on the market which it aims at counteracting.

BELGRADE IS DEAF TO ALBANIAN OFFER

Yugoslavs Fear Italy Is Behind Treaty Invitation—Acceptance Awaits New Cabinet.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

BELGRADE, Dec. 18.—According to well-informed opinion here, there is no possibility of Yugoslavia accepting Albania's recent offer to sign a treaty with Belgrade similar to the one concluded with Rome until a new Cabinet has been formed. Even then, it is held, the offer is not likely to be hastily accepted on account of the extreme reserve manifested in high political circles.

The tendency here is to consider the Albanian offer as prompted by Italy and to treat it either as a trap or as an impracticable arrangement liable to cause much friction. The Yugoslavs do not desire to sign any isolated treaty with Italy and think the better way of guaranteeing security in the Balkans will be for Britain and France, as well as Italy and Yugoslavia, to enter into an international agreement regarding Albania.

The belief that Yugoslavia ought first of all to make every effort to obtain British support is rapidly gaining ground and now extends to the leaders of all the important parties.

The Soviet is already making tentative overtures to Yugoslavia through the Russian Legation in Vienna, but it is fairly certain that the direction the Yugoslav foreign policy will take will depend largely on their success or failure in gaining British backing.

"It is not Italy," as one leading politician expressed it, "it is Britain behind Italy that we fear."

Meanwhile the Ministerial crisis has passed its eleventh day without registering any progress. It is probable however, that Premier Usonovitch will renounce his efforts at forming a Cabinet. Whom the King will then entrust for the task is as vague as everything else here. The long duration of the crisis keeps all Governmental business in suspense. The chief difficulties in forming a Government seem not so much a question of principle as of partisan jockeying for position in preparation for the elections which it is believed the Government will have to hold.

PRAGUE, Dec. 18.—The Prager Tageblatt, in an article regarding the Little Entente's conflict with Italy, says that Albania, before entering into an agreement with Rome, offered to join the Little Entente and to make a similar compact to the one subsequently concluded with Italy.

STEALS $10,000 GEMS AS CROWD LOOKS ON

A robber armed with a paper-wrapped hammer smashed the show window of a jewelry store at 976 Sixth Avenue, brandished the hammer as a weapon when the jeweler tried to interfere, and escaped into Central Park with $10,000 worth of jewelry at 8 o'clock last night while many passers-by looked on.

The jewelry store, a large one in the shopping district centering around Sixth Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, is owned by William Goldner. In its window last night was a Christmas display valued at $35,000 to $50,000, and prominent in it was a tray of flexible bracelets, two of which were of platinum studded with diamonds and sapphires.

Mr. Goldner was in the store when he heard the crash of glass. He drew his pistol and ran out the front door, to find a man with a hammer leaning into the open show window.

Before Goldner could collar him the robber straightened up and poised the hammer as if to throw it. Goldner was afraid to fire because of passersby, and as he waited the robber let the hammer fly. It whirled harmlessly past the jeweler's head. The thief then seized a handful of jewelry and ran north on Sixth Avenue, Goldner chasing him.

Bits of jewelry fell from the robber's hands as he ran. Goldner took aim once to fire, but a man crossed his path and he had to let the chance slip. Half a block distant from the store the robber jumped into an automobile whose engine was running and sped away into Central Park, while Goldner, policemen and others chased him in other cars. The pursuers lost trace of the thief in park.

A robber obtained $3,500 last night from George Vafier and his brother Hector, proprietors of the Italian Commercial Company, an importing and exporting firm at 125 Greene Street, while they were counting the money in the rear of their store, just before closing time. The robber entered silently and commanded them at the point of a pistol to "come across." They complied. The thief escaped under the eyes of four armed guards of the Station A Branch of the Post Office at Greene and Prince Streets, who were watching over the Christmas mails.

EXTENDS PENSION CAMPAIGN

New York Presbytery Has $887,858 of $1,156,000 Quota.

Of the $1,156,000 quota allotted to the Presbytery of New York to be raised toward the $15,000,000 Service Pension Fund for Presbyterian Ministers and their dependents the sum of $887,858 has been subscribed. The time limit for raising the balance has been extended to Jan. 5. These two announcements will be made in all the churches of the Presbytery at services this morning.

The largest single contribution was from Edward S. Harkness, an active member of the Madison Avenue Church, for $200,000. The next largest was from Arthur Curtiss James, a trustee of the First Presbyterian Church. The third largest was from Mrs. John S. Kennedy, a member of the Fifth Avenue Church.

APPROVES PANAMA TREATY.

London Paper Says Full Canal Control by America Benefits All.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The new Panama-American Treaty is approved by The Sunday Observer. Commenting on its unofficial publication, The Observer says:

"In so far as concerns America it is America's affair. In so far as it concerns the rest of the world, its effects are likely to be beneficial. The Panama Canal is an important highway for British commerce. Its full control by the United States will give as much confidence to the world's shipping as corresponding British control has been proved to give to the Suez Canal."

DEMOCRATS TO FIGHT COL. SMITH'S ENTRY

Senate Leaders Agree to Oppose Illinois Man If He Seeks Admission.

WILL AVOID PARTY ISSUE

Blease Asks Light on Pepper Funds —King for Wider Spoils Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Without previous warning Senator Blease of South Carolina offered in the Senate this afternoon a resolution asking the Reed Investigating Committee to make a partial report on the primary campaign expenditures of Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania. Senator Blease explained that he desired a preliminary report similar to the one the committee rushed to the front when Governor Small's appointment of Frank L. Smith to fill the Illinois vacancy became suddenly known.

Asserting that there had been hints about stopping Mr. Smith at the door, Senator Blease remarked that it might be inconsistent to permit entrance to a man who had spent more money in the primary. The Smith primary expenditure has been estimated at about $459,000, while the expenditure for the Pepper-Fisher-Smith-Woodward ticket was set at about $1,805,000.

"This is one reason, but I may have others; I have some matters under consideration," Senator Blease said.

On motion of Senator Curtis, the Republican leader, consideration of the Blease resolution went over.

Senator Blease has been a consistent opponent of proposals to investigate State primaries. He holds that the primary is a concern of the State, and not of the Government. He also thinks that a Senator-elect must be seated if he carries the credentials of his State.

That this view was shared by few Democrats was shown by the action of some leading Senators today. While they decided in conference not to make the fight against Mr. Smith's admission a party issue they will, nevertheless, vote individually against accepting his credentials if he tries to enter the present Senate.

Among those at the conference were Senators Caraway of Arkansas, Harrison of Mississippi, Heflin of Alabama, Swanson of Virginia, Reed of Missouri, Kendrick of Wyoming, Walsh of Montana and Pittman of Nevada.

The old question of State's rights was discussed in the conference, and for a time, it appeared as if it would stop all arguments for voting to bar Smith at the Senate doors. But some Senators held that Smith had had a fair chance to prove to the Reed Committee whether his expenditures had been excessive, and had failed to do so.

Therefore, they said, permitting him to be seated and then holding an investigation by the Privileges and Elections Committee would be useless, this investigation being merely a repetition of the Reed committee's disclosures.

A few of the Senators conceded that if the Smith forces could present sufficiently new evidence to warrant another inquiry his right to be seated would have some consideration.

One more angle of the "corruption-investigation" situation now so prominent before the Senate came when Senator King introduced a resolution to hold an investigation of the alleged sale and barter of Federal offices in the South. Senator Harris, Democrat, of Georgia introduced a somewhat similar resolution yesterday, but the King resolution is more positive in its preamble.

"It has been charged," read the preamble, "that members of the National Committee of the Republican Party, chairmen of State committees and other persons having partisan political authority and influence, particularly from States which do not have Republican Senators or Representatives in Congress, have been guilty of bartering recommendations, endorsements and influence for the appointment of individuals to Federal offices for money and other things of value and advantage.

"Such practice, if said charges be true, constitutes a corruption of political morality, and is otherwise a reprehensible means of controlling Federal patronage, and is a reflection upon the integrity of the executive administration of the Government."

Under the resolution a select committee of five Senators would be appointed to hold the inquiry and report to the first session of the Seventieth Congress next year.

The resolution of Senator Harris will come before the July committee as a special order on Monday, and it is understood that the King resolution will be brought up at the same time.

Senator Walsh of Montana, who introduced a resolution to investigate Senator Gould, Republican, of Maine, on the allegation that Mr. Gould paid a bribe of $100,000, today received the official journal of the Canadian court that acted in the Gould case. Senator Walsh said he desired to examine the official evidence on which the Canadian Judge based his statement referring to Senator Gould.

COLONEL SMITH IS SILENT.

Friends Think He May Avoid Washington Until March.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18 (AP).—Colonel Frank L. Smith, Senator-designate from Illinois to succeed the late Senator W. B. McKinley, left Chicago tonight for his home at Dwight after two days of shopping and conferences without making any clearer his purpose in respect to his unaccepted appointment.

He indicated a desire to receive the signed appointment before making any statement, and expected to find it on his desk when he arrived home. The belief grew among his friends that, in view of formidable opposition in the Senate to his seating, he may not say definitely in the near future whether he will accept the appointment. He may not even go to Washington to present his credentials, friends believe, until he goes next March to begin the term to which he was elected in November.

He made no comment tonight on a decision of Democratic Senate leaders to resist any attempt by him to take the oath of office.

ZANGWILL LEFT $15,000.

Author's Estate Is Smaller Than Bequests in His Will.

By Wireless to The New York Times.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Israel Zangwill left an estate of only about $15,000 and his bequests exceeded his estate.

Mr. Zangwill, who died in August, left most of his property to his widow and children, and directed that if there should be any surplus, the balance, up to $5,000, should be left "to the Zionist Organization if, in my wife's opinion, it is building up a Jewish national home."

JAPANESE EMPEROR RALLIES SLIGHTLY

He Takes Some Food, but Later Bulletins Report His Condition Virtually Unchanged.

OFFICIALS DISPLAY NO HOPE

They Assure Correspondents, However, That Bulletins Tell Exactly What Is Happening.

TOKIO, Sunday, Dec. 19 (AP).—There was practically no change in the condition of Emperor Yoshihito at 8 o'clock this morning, a bulletin issued by the Household Department said. His temperature was approximately 100, pulse 118, respiration 22.

It is regarded as probable that the Imperial patient's present condition will continue for several days.

Late yesterday, when his faithful attendants had almost despaired in their fight against pneumonia, which for more than a week had shortened the breath of their ruler, he rallied and was able to partake of food. Later, however, the frequent bulletins issued by the Household Department stated that his Majesty's condition was unchanged.

The Household Department, replying to persistent anxious inquiries by more than one hundred newspaper men gathered about the Summer Palace grounds at Hayama, gave assurance that the bulletins being issued were giving the exact condition of his Majesty. The anxiety of the newspaper men was caused by the Japanese custom of withholding an announcement of death until a deceased monarch has been taken to the palace at Tokio.

Such announcement would be made by the Household Department, and it also would announce the succession to the throne of Crown Prince Hirohito, who since 1921 has been Japan's Regent, acting for the invalid Emperor.

The principal theatres of Tokio have been closed indefinitely. Osaka reports that commercial business is at a standstill.

Virtually all of official Japan has gathered at Hayama. The village at the seashore, 33 miles from Tokio, virtually has become the temporary capital of the Empire. Soldiers and police throng the streets, and guard the palace walls which enclose numerous buildings clustered about the villa in which the Emperor lies in his struggle for life.

For more than a week the hundred newspapermen have continued their vigilant watch day and night since the Emperor's illness developed from bronchitis into pneumonia on Dec. 8.

Every temple and shrine in the nation is crowded with worshippers, praying for their Sovereign. All parties and holiday festivities are suspended, social and business life has halted. Foreign diplomats have canceled all functions.

The announcement of the death of the Emperor would bear the signatures of all the Ministers of State and would be carried throughout the Empire in an official gazette.

At the moment of its issuance, Shinto priests would proceed to a sacred place in the Imperial Palace gardens in Tokio, where deceased Emperors and their ancestors are enshrined. There, with secret services, they will perform the traditional ceremonies designated upon the death of the Sovereign, and others which mark the ascension of the new Emperor.

BRITAIN HAS NEW PLAN FOR POWERS IN CHINA

Envoys in Peking Study It—Lifting of Sianfu Siege Is Reported.

PEKING, Dec. 18 (AP).—The diplomatic body at a meeting today discussed a document presented by the British Chargé d'Affairs which is described as highly important.

Although the contents were not divulged, it is understood to contain new proposals of a liberal and far-reaching kind concerning the attitude of the powers toward China.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP).—The Baptist Missionary Society today received a cable message from China stating that the eight months' siege of Sianfu, capital of Shensi Province, has been terminated and six British missionaries liberated.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The news about the proposals submitted in Peking by the British Chargé d'Affaires, is variously interpreted by the British press. The Star (Liberal) thinks this development, in addition to the dispatch of more British warships and troops to China, justifies Lloyd George's recent warning against the danger of the Government being forced to do something impulsive and provocative in China. It is significant, The Star thinks, that these moves are taking place simultaneously with the withdrawal of the Cantonese from Hangchow and the reported intervention of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian war lord, who says he is confident of success against the "Bolsheviki."

The Sunday Times learns that Miles Lampson, the new British Minister, has arrived in Peking from Hankow, where he had friendly conferences with the Cantonese Foreign Minister, the last of them taking place aboard a British warship immediately before his departure for Peking.

This paper's special correspondent in Hongkong cables that the Cantonese are anxious that the powers should recognize them as the Government for all of China, but failing this they would be content at present with regional recognition.

SUDDEN COLD WAVE SWEEPS IN ON GALE

temperatures being officially reported in scores of places and in many towns and villages street temperatures were several degrees lower.

15 Below Near Worcester.

Barre Plains, near Worcester, Mass., had 15 degrees below zero, Princeton Depot was only 5 degrees higher, Norfolk and Highland Lakes in Connecticut reported 12 degrees below and Winsted, Conn., reported a temperature 10 degrees below zero. Satan's Kingdom, Conn., did not live up to its name, for there the mercury dropped to zero.

In the Berkshires zero temperatures were registered and Winter sports were in full swing at many of the resorts. In Philadelphia, a number of persons were driven from their homes in the near-zero weather when the plant of the Roberts Filter Manufacturing Company was destroyed, with a loss of $300,000, and the flames threatened near-by houses. Firemen were hampered by freezing hose lines and the fire blazed for three hours.

Watertown, N. Y., and a small area in the vicinity were covered by a heavy snowfall, and Malone, up-State, shivered with the mercury at 16 below. Tupper Lake, where the mercury fell to 21 degrees below zero, was the coldest place in the State, though at Saranac Lake the thermometers registered 12 below. At Albany the mercury dropped to zero.

TRAIN AFIRE SPEEDS SAFELY TO STATION

Rear Car Burns on Ninth Avenue Elevated as Passengers Rush Forward.

ROAD TIED UP AN HOUR

Apparatus Hampered in Fighting Blaze by Crowds at 72d Street.

As a three-car Ninth Avenue local elevated train pulled south from the Eighty-first Street station last night passengers in the last car smelled burning insulation and thin wisps of smoke began to drift through the car.

One of the twenty-five persons in the car notified Conductor Regan. He had hardly started to investigate when he saw flames. He ordered all the passengers to move to the forward cars, where there were about 125 others passengers, and ran forward to notify Motorman Van Ohlen.

With the flames in the last car spreading by the moment, the motorman sent the train speeding as fast as he could to the Seventy-second Street station. There all the passengers, among whom there was considerable excitement, were ordered from the train.

As the train sped south on the elevated structure, the attention of persons on the avenue had been attracted by the flames in the burning car. One of these was Patrolman Harrington of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station. He turned in a fire alarm and an engine company and a hook and ladder company were at the Seventy-second Street station soon after the train reached there.

The firemen had some difficulty in manipulating their apparatus, due to the crowds on the platform, but police reserves were called out and the platform was cleared, and it was not long before the fire-fighters put out the flames. The fire was confined to the last car, the interior of which was damaged considerably.

Large crowds gathered in the avenue below the elevated structure to watch the firemen at work. Traffic on the line was tied up for about one hour. No one was injured.

M'DERMOTT CALLS ALIBI WITNESSES

DISPUTE STATE'S CHARGE

Mrs. Rudner Says Her Husband Was Not in Massillon on the "Pay-Off" Night.

CANTON, Ohio, Dec. 18 (AP).—Alibis for Patrick E. McDermott, on trial for the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, and for Ben Rudner, indicted with McDermott, were presented by the defense today when it put its first witness on the stand. The State rested this morning after examining one witness.

The principal witnesses for the defense were Mrs. Sarah Rudner, wife of Ben Rudner, and Eddie, his younger brother. Eddie Rudner said that it was he, and not McDermott, who accompanied Ben Rudner to Canton Police Headquarters Sunday night, July 11. His testimony supported the defense contention that Eddie is McDermott's "double," who was mistaken on that night for the man now on trial.

Testimony by State witnesses earlier in the trial that Ben Rudner and McDermott went to Police Headquarters that night had supported the State's claim that police protection was being given Rudner, McDermott and Louis Mazer, the trio indicted for the murder. Eddie Rudner explained he and his brother visited headquarters because of a dispute which followed a traffic accident.

Mrs. Rudner's testimony was devoted to a minute narrative of her husband's movements as she recalled them on dates on which the State has charged important incidents in the alleged conspiracy occurred. She testified that she either was with her husband or could account for his movements throughout the evening of July 8, when, according to Steve Kascholk, star prosecution witness, McDermott and Rudner conferred in Massillon. In accounting for Rudner's whereabouts that evening she said she was with him most of the time, either in the store or at home, except for a period when he and his father, Max Rudner, drover to Canal Dover.

Mrs. Rudner said she was in Cleveland at the time of the murder. On the evening of July 26, she said, she and her husband with some neighbors drove to Wooster, leaving early and returning late. It was that night, the State charges, that McDermott drove from Cleveland to Massillon and visited Rudner to be "paid off" for the murder.

LARKIN TOWER STIRS DIVERSE COMMENT

H. H. Curran Thinks Skyscraper Would Use More Than Its Share of Facilities.

SOME DOUBT IT WOULD PAY

L. W. Flauniacher Disputes This and Declares Location Is Excellent.

Doubt that a 110-story skyscraper near Times Square would ever be erected, as announced last Friday, was expressed yesterday by several architects and others interested in city planning. While the Larkin Tower project was said to be feasible from an engineering point of view, it was declared that a building of such proportions would not be financially profitable.

Henry H. Curran, counsel to the City Club of New York, who has been working for a new zoning law to limit the height of office buildings, was one who commented on the proposed skyscraper. "As to looks, light and air, I don't see any objection to the building as represented in the published plan," he said. "The design is that of a collapsible spy-glass, but it makes a pretty good-looking spy-glass.

"But there are other factors than light and air and looks involved, and chief among these is the question of profit. The only part of a high building that really pays is the short tier of lower stories. In other words, the money is near the ground.

"I am wondering whether this sky scraper will ever really be built. Perhaps it is not much more than a picture that is on file in the Bureau of Buildings, rather than detailed plans.

"The real objection to the building, however, is that it will take up much more than its fair share of the city sidewalks, subway facilities, and highways which will have to accommodate the 30,000 people who will occupy it.

"The Higher the Fewer" Slogan.

"This building will not pay any additional tax in return for absorbing this extra service. All taxpayers and rentpayers, big and little, will help contribute. Furthermore, the building will help create an impossible situation if other similar skyscrapers are constructed along Eighth Avenue. Neither financially nor physically can the city ever catch up with itself as regards new subways so long as it allows new skyscrapers along new subway routes.

"I hope the Mayor's Committee on City Plans and Surveys will make a report soon that will be progressive enough to be of real help. 'The higher the fewer,' I think, would be a good slogan for skyscrapers.

Thomas Adams, General Director of the Plans and Surveys of the Regional Plan of New York and Its Environs, said that the proposed building was not in itself objectionable, although it was dangerously near the congested theatre district of Times Square. It would, however, he declared, tend to depreciate land values in the immediate vicinity, since it would concentrate on a small plot of ground the business facilities needed in the neighborhood.

Health Commissioner Louis I. Harris objected to the proposed skyscraper as another example of the modern tendency to erect high buildings without due regard for sunlight and ventilation. He also declared that it would seriously increase the transportation and traffic problems.

Frank J. Helmle of the firm of Helmle & Corbett, architects, expressed the opinion that the building would not be profitable and said he believed that for this reason it would never be built.

Sees Engineering Problems.

Ely J. Kahn, architect, also expressed doubt as to the likelihood of such a building being operated at a profit. He said, too, that certain engineering problems would have to be met, citing the increased size of the steel girders employed in the framework, which might make it difficult to obtain adequate space for windows. Mr. Kahn also pointed out that present sewer, water and electric conduits might be too small to supply the building, in which event the city would have to go to enormous expense in replacing them.

Unqualified approval of the plan came from Lewis W. Flauniacher, Vice President and Treasurer of Thoens & Flauniacher, building managers, renting agents and brokers. "The Larkin Tower, despite its tremendous size and cost of construction," he said, "can be made to pay a good return to its owners and at the same time make possible rentals lower than those being paid today in most office buildings. The location chosen is excellent, being near to all lines of transit. The section near Times Square is in demand by many business men just as the downtown skyscraper district was the result of a similar demand."

Mr. Flauniacher said that some time ago he made a survey of the needs of the Forty-second Street district and predicted that a building of the proposed type would be the solution of the growing demand for office space.

F. T. H. Bacon, building engineer, said last night that he doubted if the Larkin Tower Building would ever be built. He addressed the New York alumni of McGill University at their dinner in the Canadian Club quarters in the Hotel Belmont. His statement was made in connection with a prediction that the buildings of the future would not be more than thirty stories high.

Rupert Hughes Declares All His Statements Rest on Authorities.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18. (AP).—Rupert Hughes, the correctness of whose biographical work on George Washington was questioned by Albert Bushnell Hart, Harvard professor, said here today that every statement contained in his book was supported by quoted authority.

The part concerning Sally Fairfax, mentioned particularly by Professor Hart, was obtained from old letters and documents of Washington, Mr. Hughes declared.

"When Professor Hart first challenged my work last month in a statement printed in an Eastern newspaper," Mr. Hughes said, "I wrote him asking very politely that he send me a list of what he called errors and unsupported statements. We had some correspondence on the matter, and I thought it was ended.

"There is not a single unsupported statement in the biography. In dealing with the various details of Washington's life which were printed, authorities were quoted in each instance."

HINDENBURG CALLS LUTHER TO BERLIN

SEEKS TO KEEP GESSLER

By LINCOLN EYRE.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—President von Hindenburg's determination to keep political hands off the German army is likely to be the guiding principle in reconstruction of the German Government necessitated by the fall of the Marx Cabinet. The vote of mistrust which forced Chancellor Marx's resignation was motivated primarily by the Socialists' antagonism to Defense Minister Gessler. Nevertheless President von Hindenburg is resolved to maintain Dr. Gessler in office lest his retirement leave the Reichswehr at the mercy of politicians.

If Dr. Gessler remains—and he has the backing of all the bourgeoisie factions save a handful of Democrats and former ex-Chancellor Wirth's militant Republican followers among the Catholic Centrists—expansion of the governmental coalition to include the Socialists is out of the question. Therefore fusion with Nationalists who voted against the Marx Cabinet as a whole, but not against the Defense Minister as an individual, appears the more probable outcome of the Ministerial crisis scheduled by this evening's official communique to last well into the new year.

Stresemann Won't Head Cabinet.

This being the case the principal problem will be whom to make Chancellor. Dr. Stresemann does not want the job, preferring to devote his attention wholeheartedly to foreign affairs, which under any conceivable combination he will assuredly be permitted to do. No other possible candidate appears among the present Government parties at the moment, nor would these parties sanction the nomination of a Nationalist.

Consequently, THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns tonight President von Hindenburg has sent a hurry call to former Chancellor Luther out in Buenos Aires to return to Germany by first boat. The President's thought of persuading the one-time Mayor of Essen once more to head the National Administration may be the real motive for postponing Cabinet building until after the holidays. The absence of party leaders over yuletide is a secondary reason.

If Dr. Luther accepts he will have to take Dr. Gessler as his Minister of Defense, to which he doubtless will raise no objection. One of the ten Cabinets in which Dr. Gessler has held that portfolio was that headed by Dr. Luther and defeated last May over the question of flying the old black, white and red imperial colors over German embassies and legations. Then Dr. Marx succeeded Dr. Luther just as two years ago next month Luther stepped into Marx's governmental boots.

Crisis Every Christmas.

Curiously enough there has been a Christmas Cabinet crisis in Germany for three years now. Last December Dr. Luther was kept busy finding substitutes for the Nationalist Ministers who resigned on account of their party's dislike of the Locarno treaties. This time he would have no trouble with the reactionary element on that score. Since the security compacts and Reich participation in the League of Nations have become faits accomplis the Nationalists have formally committed themselves to their fulfillment. It will be domestic politics that will prove the bone of contention when the Reichstag reconvenes Jan. 19—and first and foremost the army of the German Republic.

Among middle-class Liberals, whose star spokesman is Dr. Wirth, there are many who desire to see the army of the republic reorganized. Very few of them, however, go so far as to echo the Socialists' demand for the retirement of Dr. Gessler. Despite bitter criticism of him in his own faction of the Democratic Party, of which he is still officially a member, none of the bourgeois groups have ever formally condemned his management of the Reichswehr.

The murders by the Black Reichswehr Fome, illegal contacts between the army and anti-republican militarist organizations, monarchistic manifestations by high army officers recently revealed, underground munitions deal between the Reichswehr and the Soviet Government—all have taken place during Dr. Gessler's seven years at the head of the republic's military establishment. Yet because a new broom might sweep too clean, the bulk of the German Parliament, like Hindenburg, want him retained in office.

He has inherited the sacrosanctity enjoyed by General von Seeckt until Gessler had him removed as "Reichswehr Generalissimo. It seems probable, however, that, unlike Seeckt, the Defense Minister is sacrosanct because the Reichswehr runs him more than he does the Reichswehr.

French Watching German Crisis.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 18.—The German Government crisis is being watched with the deepest interest here, because Paris feels that on the outcome depends in large measure the development of the plan of Locarno which now dominates European politics.

If the Marx Cabinet should be succeeded by a government leaning toward the Right it would be regarded here as German approval of the Nationalist leaders and as approbation of the efforts of those chiefs to obtain for Germany a stronger army than she is allowed under the Treaty of Versailles. This sort of new German government would heap difficulties upon the shoulders of M. Briand, greatly weaken French faith in his policy of reconciliation with Germany and inevitably strengthen the French nationalists.

On the other hand, if the new German Government is colored by Socialist, rather than Nationalist, opposition to the Marx Cabinet, and therefore leans to the Left, retaining Dr. Stresemann as Foreign Minister, M. Briand would be greatly reinforced at home and his belief that Germany really seeks reconciliation with France would stand against attacks of the French Nationalists. In other words the reaction of France will be shown rather exactly by the complexion of the coming Reich Cabinet.

No Predictions Attempted.

There is no disposition here to make predictions about the outcome of the Berlin crisis. It is realized that Chancellor Marx was beaten by the joint action of the Socialists and Nationalists, and no responsible person here wishes to guess which side of that strange partnership will gain in the future cabinet.

Dr. Marx adopted the plan of bending toward the Socialist foreign policy and bidding for Right support on domestic issues. It is the belief here that the new Government will have to be based on the Centre, as was the old one, but that it will lean further in one direction or the other.

DEAR BEER FOLLOWS CRISIS.

Reichstag in Its Excitement Failed to Postpone New Tax.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—Every German, regardless of political faith, is tonight regretting the Government's overthrow yesterday through a lack-of-confidence vote in the Reichstag. The resignation of the Marx Cabinet and adjournment of the Reichstag dissipate all chances of postponing raising the beer tax by 33 per cent., and the enforcement of this decree, which has been repeatedly delayed, is now automatically fixed for Jan. 1.

Owing to the excitement in the Reichstag after President Loebe's announcement of the results of the Deputies' vote defeating the Government, and the clamoring of the Communists for dissolution of Parliament and new elections, no attention was paid to Herr Loebe's calm proposal to postpone intended action on the beer tax until a later date, and since no objection was raised it was so written in the minutes.

The ordinary garden variety of beer with a mere 10 or 12 per cent. of alcoholic content will cost 20 cents a liter instead of 15, while the choice qualities and high-power brands will be 10 cents a liter more expensive on account of the Government's fall.

AUTO CLUB ISSUES NEW SAFETY CODE

Ten Rules for Motorists, Pedestrians and Children, Respectively, Are Given.

OBEY SIGNALS, THEY URGE

Ten safety rules for motorists, pedestrians and children respectively, are incorporated in a new Safety Code for highway users compiled by the Street Safety Committee of the New York Automobile Club. Copies of the code are being distributed throughout the Metropolitan District. The rules for motorists follow:

Obey traffic rules, signals and commands of traffic officers.
Go slow, passing children or vehicles, around corners, approaching street crossings, stop at railroad crossings, behind street cars stopped for passengers.
Give warning signal of your approach, keep to the right.
Use tire chains when streets are wet or covered with snow or ice.
Give hand signal when stopping or turning.
Be sure both headlights are lighted at night and properly adjusted.
Be sure brakes are in good working order, inspect them frequently.
Never leave auto unattended without shutting off motor and applying emergency brakes.
When in doubt have auto under control ready for a quick stop.

For children the committee suggests the following simple and safe rules:

Do not play in the street.
Play on the sidewalk, or nearest playground or vacant lot.
Roller-skate on sidewalk where vehicles cannot harm you.
Never chase a ball across the street.
Do not coast where street cars, buses or autos pass.
Don't "hitch on" autos, street cars or other vehicles.
Never play around autos or touch any of the levers.
Never run between parked autos or other vehicles to the street.
Do not fear the traffic officer, he will help and protect you.
Never run behind a standing street car, there may be another car or auto coming on the other side.

For pedestrians, the following are suggested for observance:

Cross street only at regular crossing, not in the middle of a block.
Don't read a paper, book or magazine when crossing street.
Obey traffic officers or traffic signal lights.
Be cautious of autos, buses and street cars.
When stepping from street car never go behind car unless way is clear.
Don't jump on or off moving street car or bus—wait until it stops.
When carrying umbrella don't let it obstruct view when crossing street.
Don't step into the street from behind a parked auto or other vehicle.
Always keep to the right—don't cut corners.

The rules are based on a study of causes of all kinds of motor accidents.

PEARSON COMMITTED FOR TRIAL IN LONDON

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Hesketh Pearson, who supplied "The Whispering Gallery" to John Lane & Co., the publishing firm, and is alleged to have represented it as the diary of Sir Rennell Rodd, former British Ambassador at Rome, was committed for trial at the Marlborough Street Police Court today on a charge of obtaining £225 under false pretenses from the publishers.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pearson's lawyer, Allen [illegible], who accepted "The Whispering Gallery" from Mr. Pearson, denied that he knew at the time that it could not be Sir Rennell Rodd's diary or that he had expressed the hope to Mr. Pearson that the book would be attacked for the sake of advertisement.

Mr. Pearson's counsel read extracts in which such epithets as "swindling super-swine" occurred, and added that Lane: "Ever, in your wildest moments, do you think anybody would enter such things as these in a diary?"

Mr. Lane replied that he had not set out to check the book at all. He admitted that he had written a letter to the newspapers which had praised the review copy of the book, stating, "We can vouch for the authenticity of the diary, as we know the diarist."

Mr. Pearson pleaded not guilty.

MEXICO INSISTS LAW PROTECTS OIL MEN

Reply to Producers' Complaint Asserts Terms of Concessions Were Made Known to Them.

DELAY LAID TO COMPANIES

96 Grants Have Been Asked Already, Morones Counters in Document Given Out by Embassy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—American and other foreign oil companies, which questioned provisions of the new oil law and regulations of Mexico, were told by that Government in a telegram made public tonight by the Mexican Embassy, that the provisions duly guarantee the investments already made and demonstrate the good faith of the Mexican Government in guaranteeing the petroleum interests acquired by foreigners.

The telegram, sent this week by the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico, at New York, to Luis Morones, Secretary of Industry, Commerce and Labor, was made public in New York and the reply from Mexico City was sent to the Embassy here for publication.

Numerous explanations of the new law have already been made to the complaining companies it is asserted in the reply. It is also said that many applications by oil companies for confirmatory concessions have already been received by Mexico.

As for any delay in issuing concessions, the reply states that this must be attributed "to the lack of opportune filing by the interested companies of their justifying documents."

A list of confirmatory concessions which Mexico says have been sought was appended. They cover an area of more than 3,000,000 acres.

The reply is addressed to the following: Compania Mexicana (La Corona), S. A.; Compania Mexicana de Petroleo (El Aguila), S. A.; Compania Mexicana Productora y Refinadora de Petroleo (La Atlantica), S. A.; Compania Petrolera del Agwi; Compania Petrolera (Los Chijoles), S. A.; Cortez Aguilda Petroleum Corporation; Huasteca Petroleum Company; Humble Oil and Refining Company; Island Oil and Transport Corporation; Mexican Gulf Oil Company; Mexican Petroleum Company; Mexican Sinclair Petroleum Company; New England Fuel Oil Company; Penn-Mex Fuel Company; Standard Oil Company of California; Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and Guy Stevens, Director of the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico, New York.

Text of Mexico's Reply.

The answer of Señor Morones, as given out by the Embassy here, reads:

"In reply to your telegram of yesterday's date, I beg to inform you that the notification to which you refer does not establish a new time limit, but it refers only to that time limit established in Article XV of the regulations of Article XXVII of the Constitution, on petroleum matters, which were officially promulgated on Dec. 31, 1925, and ratified by Article CXLVII of the regulations of this law, as issued on March 30 of this year.

"On the other hand, Article XV of the law does not establish any confiscatory penalty, but only considers that the owners who did not make use of their privileged rights, granted to them in Articles XII, XIII and XIV therein mentioned, within the time limit established in Article XV above referred to, shall be considered as renouncing such rights, and shall have no effect whatsoever against the Federal Government.

"That upon studying the regulations of the law they were duly discussed by the officials of this department with a committee appointed by you, and in the wording thereof all the reasonable objections made by these representatives, who had the opportunity of knowing all and each of the forms of its precepts and the criterion that this department had for their wording, were duly heard and heeded.

Always Ready to Explain, He Says.

"That likewise the department, in numerous meetings held with the Executive Committee which represented you, with delegates from your companies or with the managers of the companies duly accredited, and even in written consultations, has given numerous explanations regarding the views that guide the application of the law and its regulations and continues always ready to give as many explanations as may be requested with regard to the interpretation of the law, since it is its constant aim to grant to private individuals and companies engaged in the petroleum industry as many facilities as may be compatible with the law for its better enforcement.

"Confirmatory titles which have been issued in the form of concessions have been strictly adjusted according to the provisions of Article XIV of the law and Articles CLVI and CLIX of its regulations, that is, without any other conditions than those mentioned in Article CLVI above referred to, which are those of policing and safety in the works of development, without limitation, and with no other penalties than the fines mentioned in Article XVIII of the law regarding violations thereof.

Duration of Titles Discussed.

"That the time limit of legal validity of confirmatory titles, where foreign companies are concerned, is that pointed out in Article V of the organic law of Section 1 of Article XXVII of the Constitution and Article X of the regulations of that law, which provides that property rights acquired prior to the adoption of the Constitution by foreign companies or Mexican organizations having foreign stockholders may be preserved by them in full force during the entire life of the acquiring company established in their incorporation articles; and regarding preconstitutional rights, by leases of determined duration during the full time mentioned in such contracts.

"This department feels that the petroleum law and its regulations conform with the necessities of the industry, and that its provisions duly guarantee the investments already made, granting legal value to acquisitions made in the prohibited zones of the nation against the tenor of the prohibitory laws of public order in force at the time when such acquisitions were made, therefore demonstrating once more the good faith of the Mexican Government of guaranteeing the interests acquired by foreigners in petroleum matters.

Alleged Inaccuracies Cited.

"In the telegram to which this is a reply there appear a number of inaccuracies which this department feels it its duty to point out, to wit:

"First—It is averred that the Compania Mexicana Holandesa, 'La Corona,' S. A.; Compania Mexicana de Petroleo, 'El Aguila,' S. A.; Compania Mexicana Productora y Refinadora de Petroleo, 'La Atlantica,' S. A.; Compania Petrolera, 'Los Chijoles,' S. A.; Richmond Petroleum Company of Mexico, S. A., said to be a subsidiary company of the Standard Oil of California; Compania Transcontinental de Petroleo, S. A., said to be a subsidiary company of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the Compania Petrolera del Agwi, S. A., are foreign corporations, and, in accordance with the by-laws of those companies recorded in this department, not only appear to be Mexican companies, but even that their stocks and by-laws consider the stockholders as Mexicans for the effect of such securities, therefore renouncing all action foreign to the Mexican courts and authorities.

"Second—That no petroleum companies have requested the recognition of rights of properties acquired before the year 1917. As a contradictory example to this statement, I beg to mention the Compania Mexicana de Petroleo, 'El Aguila,' which requested the recognition, on Sept. 17 last, of its property 'La Encantada,' located in Acayuca, State of Vera Cruz, and the Compania Transcontinental de Petroleo, which requested confirmation on Lot No. 208, owned by them, at Amatlan on July 13 last.

"Third—That the delay in the issuance of concessions is due to tardiness in the handling of business in this department, when really such delays are due to the lack of opportune filing by the interested companies of their justifying documents, notwithstanding that this department has always given every possible facility to them.

"Fourth—That the companies or corporations which have requested confirmatory concessions have not been given the text of the concessions which must be granted in the cases of preconstitutional rights acquired by leases of limited duration.

"This affirmation has surprised this department since there was given opportunity to the interested companies such text in order that they might study it.

"Certain companies presented various objections to this text, objections which were duly heard upon the issuance of the confirmatory titles by means of the respective concessions, whenever such objections were considered reasonable.

"Furthermore, this department has knowledge that the drafts of such concessions were made public by the interested parties to all the other companies in the periodical meetings held by their directors in this city, copies of them having been made and delivered to all those present at the meetings.

"In conclusion, I beg to insert herein the list of the confirmatory concessions requested: Compania Mexicana de Petroleo, 'El Eguila,' S. A.; five concessions covering 1,067,500 acres; Compania Mexicana de Petroleo, 'La Corona,' S. A.; the Texas Company of Mexico; Topila Petroleum Company; Compania Unida de Petroleo Tierra; Amarilla y Anexas; Pellos, Mex.; International Petroleum Company; Compania Mexicana de Combustibles; East Coast Oil Company; Guaranty Oil and Mineral Association Company; Itamex Oil Company; P. J. Jonker, S. en C.; James D. Raines, National Oil Company, S. A.; 'La Territorial,' Compania Mexicana de Petroleo, S. A.; Manjac; Brings & Lufft, S. en C.; Pedro Cortina; Compana Petrolera del Ixtle; Cia International Purificadora de Petroleo; Southern Fuel and Refining Company; Gulf Coast Corporation; Compania de Terrenos Petroliferos, "Imperio"; Rafael Ortega, S. en C.; Alejandro P. Wiechers; Compania Petrolera, 'El Centenario'; Compania Petrolera, 'San Cristobal'; Compania Petrolera Cocuite; Ines P. de Jara; Ramon S. Lopez; Hermanos Milmore; Compania Petrolifera de Valles; Astis Acmay Compania; Hausteca Oil Fields; Abel R. Peres; Teodosio Gonsales; Compania Carbonifera de Ciudad Mier; William Mooro Abey; Rodolfo Garcia—ninety-six concessions in all, which cover an area of 3,587,500 acres.

"As regards the requests covering the preferential rights, they extend over an area of 6,251,935 acres.

"Mexico City, Dec. 17, 1926."

Luis Montes de Oca, Controller General of Mexico, defended the Calles Administration yesterday as having brought "economy, efficiency and order" to the finances of his country. He said it had increased national prosperity without imposing a heavy burden on the taxpayer.

Señor de Oca, who is head of a Mexican financial mission in the United States, spoke at a luncheon given in his honor by the Mexican Chamber of Commerce of the United States at India House, Hanover Square. At the speakers' table were Mexican officials and leaders of American business, including Arturo M. Elias, Consul General here; David F. Houston, former Secretary of the Treasury; James S. Alexander, Chairman of the board of the National Bank of Commerce; Frank D. Waterman, Senator Charles C. Lockwood, Peter J. Brady, President of the Federation Bank and Trust Company, and former Ambassador James W. Gerard, who acted as toastmaster.

RICKARD GROUP BUYS MORE GARDEN STOCK

$450,000 Purchase Does Not Give Them Control, However, Sports Promoter Says.

DILWORTH TO JOIN BOARD

Rickard Now the Largest Individual Holder—No Change in the Management, He Declares.

The purchase by E. F. Hutton & Co., stock brokers at 61 Broadway, of 30,000 shares of the New Madison Square Garden Corporation stock was announced yesterday. The price was said to have been $450,000, at the market rate of $15 a share. The stock was acquired by D. W. Dilworth of the Hutton concern, in behalf of a group of investors said to include the estate of Henry Phipps.

The 30,000 shares involved were acquired from John Ringling, Mr. Dilworth said. Mr. Ringling was the original owner of 61,000 shares. Both Mr. Dilworth and George L. (Tex) Rickard denied that Mr. Rickard had obtained control of the corporation through the sale and that 15,000 of the 30,000 shares involved in the transaction had been purchased by Mr. Rickard.

Rickard Owns Most of Stock.

"I do not care to make public the names of the group who purchased the stock," Mr. Rickard said. "The control still remains in the hands of Hayden, Stone & Co., but I am now by far the largest individual stockholder. I haven't got control of the corporation, nor have I ever tried to. My twenty-year contract as general manager of the Garden will have seventeen years to run from next March.

"There is no split among the stockholders and there will be no change in the management save that Mr. Dilworth will probably be put on the board of directors. There are about 1,000 stockholders and the stock is well distributed. All of the 300 members of the Madison Square Garden Club, which is to open next month, are stockholders, many of them investing so that they could, through their club memberships, obtain good seats in advance for the various shows put on at the Garden."

Mr. Dilworth said that Mr. Ringling wanted to sell part of his holdings and that the stock appealed to his associates and himself as being "a good speculative investment." It would not be used to speculate with, he said, but would be held as an investment. The purchase was made last Thursday by private sale.

J. Howard and Horace Phipps, representing the estate of Henry Phipps, were reported to be largely interested in the purchase. Both were said yesterday to be out of town.

Voting Trust in Control.

The voting trust, which will continue to control the stock, is made up of Hayden, Stone & Co., Harvey D. Gibson, President of the New York Trust Company; G. H. Walker of W. A. Harriman & Co., John Ringling and Mr. Rickard.

The corporation is capitalized at $3,191,000 in first mortgage 7 per cent. bonds, due in 1945. There are 326,000 shares outstanding. The conversion privilege of the debentures expires Jan. 9, 1927, and all but $108,000 has been converted into capital stock.

The new Garden, between Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Streets, near Eighth Avenue, already has proved its earning capacity, Mr. Dilworth said. The earnings of the Garden during its first year of operation were approximately $3 a share.

MANIA FOR BETTING GROWING IN BERLIN

City Now Has 350 Horse Racing and Lottery Bureaus, and Still They Come.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—The betting fever is growing by leaps and bounds in the German capital. Although the number of legal bureaus for accepting wagers on horse races and selling lottery tickets was recently increased to 350 there are indications that more licenses will be requested, since the bureaus are overcrowded with patrons of chance.

The central part of the city has one bureau for each 3,600 inhabitants. While many risk only a few marks on the ponies or in the lotteries, large numbers hand over huge packages of reichsmarks to show their confidence in their own judgment of horseflesh or lottery luck. It is a common sight to see $35 paid for a lottery ticket with once chance in a million of winning the big prize.

French and English races are played as heavily as on the home tracks.

TEXAS SUES FOR $50,000,000

Moody Seeks That Amount in Oil From Land It Claims to Own.

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 18 (AP).—Suit for the recovery of $50,000,000 in oil and gas taken from 606 acres of land in Harris County and title to that land, which the State claims, was filed today by Attorney General Dan Moody of Texas against the Atlantic and Gulf Petroleum Company, a Delaware corporation.

The suit also names as defendants Mrs. W. H. Willis of Norman, Okla.; E. C. Stockdick of Sidney, Neb.; A. Stockdick of Katy, Texas; Mrs. Laura Crow, wife of F. P. Crow, of Harris County.

The suit seeks recovery of receipts on 25,000,000 barrels of oil, which the Attorney General claims has been taken from the tract since Jan. 1, 1900, and an accounting. The State claims that the defendants have been in illegal possession of the land since that date.

PARKER LOSES SUIT AGAINST SINCLAIR

Judge Thacher Dismisses His Action for $20,000,000 on Salt Creek Lease.

LEGAL TRANSFER IS DENIED

Dorsett Had Already Disposed of His Share in Property, Court Decides.

The suit instituted last January by H. Leslie Parker of Casper, Wyo., against Harry F. Sinclair, head of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Company, for approximately $20,000,000 as the plaintiff's interest in the Salt Creek Oil Field in Wyoming, was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge Thacher.

The claim was based on leases embraced within a chain dating back to the last century. Mr. Parker got into the chain, he says, about four years before the beginning of the suit. Then he and a partner, Marion N. Wheeler, purchased an interest in locations which now form a part of the Salt Creek Field, which adjoins Teapot Dome.

All of the remaining interests, it was alleged, were held by joint co-locators and were bought by Mr. Sinclair or by the Mammoth Oil Company, owned by him and allied with the Midwest Refining Company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. Mr. Parker alleged that Mr. Sinclair paid $1,000,000 for these interests, part in spot cash and part as proceeds through the sale of oil.

Tells of Agreement With Fall.

The plaintiff also said that Mr. Sinclair, early in the Fall of 1922, made an agreement with Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, which provided that Mr. Sinclair was to take title to all the lands within the area of the Teapot Dome, and was to release the Teapot Dome lease which was capitalized into the Mammoth Oil Company.

A large part of the complaint was taken up by a court record of the former owners of the property involved in the litigation and contained the names of many of these along with certain transfers of interest. One of these transfers was from Marion N. Wheeler to Mr. Parker and the passing of interest from one of the former owners to those who came in later.

Mr. Parker claimed to hold interest through having procured title from Daniel M. Dorsett, which, he asserted, gave him a one-seventh interest in the property. In his decision dismissing the complaint, Judge Thacher explained that Dorsett and ten other persons conveyed their legal title in lands and oil placer mining locations in the Salt Creek field to F. N. Shannon in trust for eleven persons, including Dorsett and Shannon, with power to sell and convey the lands.

The Court pointed out that according to the complaint, Shannon conveyed to Joseph H. Lobel all of his own right and title and that of four of the trust beneficiaries, excluding Dorsett, and that Lobel, in turn, conveyed it to Mr. Sinclair. It is also pointed out by the Court that the plaintiff demanded an accounting on the ground that Mr. Shannon had "purported to convey" the entire trust property and that Mr. Parker, as a party to the trust, was a beneficiary. Other parts of the complaint reviewed by the Court were to the effect that Mr. Sinclair had paid Mr. Shannon $1,000,000 for the property taken over by the Mammoth Oil Company, which was allied with the Midwest Refining Company.

Court Explains Transfers.

Judge Thacher explained that the theory of the complaint was that Mr. Dorsett, from whom the plaintiff derived title, and nine other persons owned as tenants in common certain lands in the Salt Creek field, that Mr. Dorsett and his co-owners conveyed title to the lands and locations to Mr. Shannon, with power to sell and convey, and that they were conveyed to Joseph H. Lobel along with all the right and title of himself and four of the other beneficiaries, and that the defendant succeeded to Lobel's title. Then the Court said:

"His [Shannon's] only interest as trustee was, of course, as trustee of the Shannon trust, and having signed the deed as trustee thereof there can be no doubt that he effectively transferred legal title to the properties described. This is true because by the very terms of the deed the conveyance is a conveyance of all his interests as trustee under the Shannon trust. And so the conclusion is that Dorsett's interests in the properties in question were terminated by the conveyance of Shannon to Lobel."

Counsel for Mr. Parker were the law firm of Chadbourne, Stanchfield & Levy of this city, Chamberlain & Nyce of Washington, D. C., and Dudley W. Strickland of Denver, Col. Counsel for Mr. Sinclair were Martin W. Littleton and I. T. Stanford.

EQUITABLE BUILDING SCENE OF HOLD-UP

Two Men Walk Youth Into Lobby and Up Stairway and Rob Him of $5,900.

DASH AWAY THROUGH CROWD

George Penhallow, 23 years old, an assistant teller of the Bankers' Loan and Investment Company, 36 Pine Street, acting on instructions from his superiors, went to the Manufacturers' Trust Company, 180 Broadway, early yesterday and drew $6,500 in cash. He put $600 in a hippocket and the remainder, $5,900, in an inside pocket of his coat, and started to walk back along Broadway to his office.

In front of the Equitable Building, 120 Broadway, Penhallow halted and turned toward the entrance to light a cigarette. As he struck the match, a man stepped beside him, cigarette in hand, and said:

"I'm in on that light."

As the stranger bent forward to light his cigarette, a second man edged close to them and as the cigarette began to glow, the newcomer showed a revolver, half-hidden in the folds of his overcoat.

"Walk in with us," said the man, as Penhallow told his story to the police later. "If you make any noise we'll kill you."

At 10:30 A. M. the sidewalk in front on the building was thronged and hundreds of persons were passing in and out of the doors. Penhallow was forced to enter the lobby. Afraid to make a false move with a revolver at his back, he was walked about eighty feet down the lobby and then up a stairway to a turn which concealed them from the crowd in the lobby. There, Penhallow said, the men took the $5,900 from his coat pocket, cautioned him to remain silent and then fled.

Penhallow gave an alarm as soon as the men dashed down the stairs, and through Edward Maroney of 307 Pulaski Street, Brooklyn, one of the uniformed elevator attendants, a report was made to Police Headquarters.

W. S. Clark, Secretary of the Bankers' Loan and Investment Company, said Penhallow had been with the company four years and that his work as a clerk had been so good that he was promoted a year ago. The money was insured.

The owner of an abandoned automobile in North Eighth Street near Berry Street, Brooklyn, was sought yesterday by the police in connection with their search for three men who on Friday held up Dave Sanderman, a bookkeeper for the Eagle Upholstery Company of 216 Grand Street, Brooklyn. Sanderman makes a trip to a bank in Manhattan every Friday for the company's payroll money. On his last trip he drew $2,500. Then, having in mind recent payroll hold-ups, he asked the cashier for a quantity of envelopes, wrapped them in brown paper and put the package under his arm. He put the money in an inside coat pocket.

As he was proceeding up Driggs Avenue to the Eagle factory, an automobile drew alongside him near South Third Street and three men got out, drew revolvers and took the package from him, kicked him and re-entered the car. Sanderman recognized the car found yesterday. The envelopes were on the floor.

Macy's Trucks Go 3 Times Distance Around the World Each Week

Macy's News-Ad for Men Is on Page 23
Macy's Grocery Announcements Are on Page 22

They Travel 15,975 Miles in a Single Day, More Than Half the Circumference of the Globe.

Each week during the Christmas season, according to figures recently compiled, the trucks of Macy's delivery system go more than three times the distance around the earth. In a single day they travel nearly half its circumference.

At the present time Macy's is operating 355 trucks. Their total combined mileage every day is 15,975. Since the distance around the earth is 25,000 miles, the trucks travel a distance equal to .639 times the world's circumference.

Each week they go 95,850 miles, which is equal to 3.834 times around the world. In covering these distances Macy's delivery wagons serve practically all points within a fifty-nine-mile radius of the store.

The number of employees of the delivery department has been increased to 1,353. Yesterday they delivered over 74,000 packages.

The delivery figures are an example of the tremendous scope of Macy's service, especially during the holiday season.

GIFT BONDS FROM MACY'S SURE TO PLEASE

They Enable Recipient to Choose His Own Present.

It may be said that there is no gift in the world that is absolutely sure to please the person who receives it. One that comes very close to that certainty, however, is a Merchandise Bond from Macy's.

Such a certificate is brought to Macy's by the recipient, who proceeds to choose exactly what he wants from any department. The choice is so great and so varied that anyone is practically certain of finding the article that suits his taste perfectly.

Merchandise Bonds, in denominations of one, two and five dollars, are on sale at the Superintendent's Desk on the street floor. If the present is to be more than five dollars, the bonds may be combined to represent practically any amount.

Redemption may be made as soon as the certificate is received, or at any time in the future. The bonds have no expiration date.

Should the article selected be less than the value of the Merchandise Bond, something additional may be chosen to make up the full amount. Or, if the balance is not greater than ten per cent. of the bond's full value, it will be returned in cash.

FINE MIRRORS AND PICTURES AT LOW PRICES

Choice Things Reduced Just in Time for Christmas.

To-morrow a special sale of mirrors and pictures will open in the departments devoted to them on Macy's sixth floor. This event has been specially planned for the selection of Christmas gifts.

In the Mirror Department, many very handsome buffet mirrors will be included in the sale, as well as many inexpensive ones and a few fine crystals, a rare old Venetian mirror among them. There will be a group of crystal mirrors, formerly twenty-six dollars and twenty-five cents, to be sold at nineteen dollars and eighty-nine cents.

There will also be a number of colonial mirrors of Chippendale and Empire influence, as well as Spanish and Italian mirrors.

In every section of the Picture Department a number of fine pictures have been reduced. Baby pictures, flowers, landscapes and ships are among them.

Some of Bessie Pease Gutmann's delightful pictures of children, usually three dollars and twenty-four cents each, are on sale at two forty-eight. The flower pictures are in various sizes at a wide range of prices.

Among the marine views are some large pictures by James G. Tyler. A few of the finer mezzotints are by Sidney E. Wilson. The particularly beautiful "Broken Pitcher" is one of them.

Also included in the sale are some very fine mezzotints by S. Arlent Edwards, and a few wood blocks by Hever-Ferryman.

Macy's Milk of Magnesia Excellent for Children

Macy's Milk of Magnesia, on sale in the Drug Department on the street floor, may be given to children with every confidence in its purity. It is prepared for Macy's by a long-established manufacturer whose own products enjoy a national reputation.

Its quality is well above the standard of the United States Pharmacopoeia. The U. S. P. formula requires a minimum of 32 grains of magnesium hydroxide per fluid ounce, while Macy's product contains not less than 36 grains to each fluid ounce.

It may be purchased in sixteen-ounce bottles at twenty-nine cents.

MERCHANDISE ADVERTISED HERE will be on sale tomorrow and Tuesday unless otherwise specified

Use of Phone Taught For Efficient Service

Every member of Macy's sales force is taught the correct use of the telephone in order to save annoyance to customers. Although using the phone efficiently would seem to be simple, there are twelve instructions on this point in the saleslerk's manual.

Rules of courtesy are usually on the first page of Macy's instruction books. One of the most important is the switchboard slogan: "Be as courteous and businesslike over the telephone as you would be in a face to face conversation."

Christmas Tree Lights Flash Automatically

FLASHING electric lights on Christmas trees seem always to be more picturesque than the steadily burning variety. A device that constantly turns them on and off automatically is on sale in the Electrical Department in Macy's basement for fifty-seven cents.

The novelty is of the thermostatic type. When the current has been on for a few seconds it is switched off, and a very short time later it again is turned on. It is perfectly safe, and may easily be attached to the circuit.

125 PATTERNS OF DINNERWARE IN OPEN STOCK

Many Shown as Sets May Be Bought Separately as Well, at Macy's.

The visitor to the China Department in Macy's basement may select pieces or sets of dinnerware from over 125 open stock patterns. They come from England, France, Bavaria, Japan and Czecho Slovakia, and many of them are made in this country.

The increasingly popular ivory-colored dinnerware is represented by a new arrival in the China Department. It is in Maryland ivory, with a bright floral decoration. A one hundred piece service for twelve is twenty-six dollars and fifty cents, while a fifty-two piece set is fourteen ninety-nine.

As an example of the exquisite, superb quality china which may also be found among Macy's open stock patterns there is an aristocratically simple new pattern in cobalt blue, with a rich gold incrustation. A one hundred piece set in this design is two hundred nine dollars and eighty-two cents. A service for six, consisting of fifty-two pieces, is one hundred seventeen dollars and sixty-nine cents.

A number of attractively decorated sets have been made up in services for six, at special prices. Additional pieces may be purchased later in open stock as they are required. ("Open stock" means simply that the set may be made up in any number or combination of pieces that the customer desires, and that pieces can be added to this purchase from time to time.)

Macy's Policy of Lowest-in-the-City Prices

—that is, to endeavor to sell day by day for at least six per cent. less than the marked prices of our competitors—is made possible because we sell for cash only.

We are not infallible. Others may on occasion cut our prices—may on occasion sell merchandise for one reason or another at prices lower than we, until we find it out.

We employ a large and competent staff of shoppers. It is their job to keep our prices right.

We thank our customers who report any items on which we are being undersold.

That our policy is believed in and appreciated is clearly proved by our rapid growth.

We give no credit. We give no discounts to a favored few. We do not sell on easy payment plans.

We are the store of the thrifty—of those who pay as they go.

RETIRING JURISTS ARE GUESTS OF BAR

CHANGE IN DECISIONS SEEN

Chief Judge of Court of Appeals Describes Its Progressive Tendency in 21 Years.

The retiring Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, Frank H. Hiscock, and the retiring Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court for the First District, John Proctor Clarke, were the guests of the New York County Lawyers Association at its annual dinner last night in the Hotel Biltmore. Samuel Seabury, former Judge of the Court of Appeals, presided.

The speakers were Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo, who is to succeed Judge Hiscock; Supreme Court Justice Victor J. Dowling and Martin W. Littleton. Judge Hiscock and Justice Clarke replied.

Before beginning his speech, the Chief Judge disclosed, as an instance of the simplicity of American institutions, that just before the dinner he had met Judge Cardozo in a room on the fifteenth floor of the hotel and had there administered to him his oath as Chief Judge.

Judge Hiscock in his speech told in an introspective way of his twenty-one years in the Court of Appeals, remarking that his membership in the court had been in "a most interesting period." He said that his period on the bench had presented many problems which were inherited from the activity and expansion in industrial and social fields of the half-century preceding his inclusion in the court.

Liberal Interpretations Desired.

"And so," he said, "it has come to be that during this twenty-one years there has been an especially widespread and insistent demand that courts and especially appellate courts, should not only eliminate those rather loosely defined features which are called technicalities, but should be ready where possible to modify, expand and sometimes overrule ancient principles of law in order the better to adjust its administration to modern conditions, and especially that such courts should be more liberal in interpreting the Constitution so as to uphold legislation adopted for the purpose of bettering social and industrial conditions. I think of three influences which have been especially potent in the direction which I have named.

"Theodore Roosevelt, by his popular election in 1904 as distinguished from his succession on the death of President McKinley, was greatly strengthened in the country and a large part of his vigor was devoted to what were sometimes fair criticisms of the courts and sometimes to unfair attacks upon them and to proposals of supposed remedies which were abhorrent to most of us.

"But he did do one thing which undoubtedly met the approval of a widespread and intelligent public opinion. Taking the now famous Jacobs case as a text, he vigorously and sometimes bitterly preached the sermon of greater liberality by the courts in testing the constitutional validity of legislation, which secured widespread approval, and he helped to create a volume of informed opinion upon this subject which courts have many times said is an element to be considered in determining the debatable question of how far legislative bodies may go in enforcing the so-called police power.

Influence of Law Schools.

"And, again, during my term of service the influence of law schools and of their periodicals has vastly increased and from them also there has come a persistent and well reasoned demand that our administration of the law should be more scientific, that outworn principles should either be discarded or modified to adjust them to the present conditions, and in respect of the constitutional condemnation of statutes sometimes it has even been urged that this power of the courts should be withdrawn entirely."

Judge Hiscock commended the work of the American Law Institute in efforts to eliminate from the administration of law "its uncertainties, inconsistencies and faults." He said that he had observed a tendency toward progressiveness in the administration of the law.

"This," he continued, "is not the time and place to debate whether the Court of Appeals has gone far enough or too far in accordance with this spirit. In private cases it certainly has abrogated, modified and extended many principles of law, and in some cases involving the constitutional consideration of statutes, passed in the interest of social and industrial welfare, it has gone a long way from the decision, in 1911, condemning as unconstitutional the first Workmen's Compensation act and, in 1907, the statute regulating the night work of women, to the decisions upholding the Emergency Rent laws and the broad and far-reaching Zoning laws which have come before it. In both of these latter decisions the Court has been upheld in principle by the Supreme Court of the United States."

Pays Tribute to Associates.

The retiring Chief Judge then paid tribute to his associates in the State's highest court. He expressed his regret that his ties to them and to the bar were being severed by the law limiting the age of State Judges.

Mr. Seabury in his introductory remarks reported on the progress that had been made toward obtaining a site for a club building for the association. He recalled that a site in Vesey Street overlooking St. Paul's churchyard had been purchased by William Nelson Cromwell, attorney, who had agreed to hold the property from the time of its purchase last May until Dec. 31.

Mr. Seabury disclosed that Mr. Cromwell, who had already contributed $130,000 to the building fund, had extended the option until March 1 and had agreed to give the association $100,000 additional for the fund for the proposed building. He said that Mr. Cromwell had agreed to give $50,000 now and the remainder when the building fund reaches $950,000.

Justice Dowling, after expressing his admiration for the manifold services of the retiring jurists, asked the members of the association to do what they could to relieve the congestion of court calendars. Judge Cardozo spoke reminiscently of his years of association with Judge Hiscock.

Dinner for Democratic Club Heads.

The National Democratic Club has arranged to give a dinner to the newly elected club officers at the Hotel Commodore on Thursday evening, Jan. 6. The officers to be honored are headed by George I. Atwell, President. The club will be assisted by Governor Smith, Mayor Walker, and Senator Copeland, Senator-elect Wagner, Judge Olvany and Surrogate Foley.

PARIS, Dec. 18.—As alert and alive as when he began his task two months ago of shoving through in record time the biggest budget France ever dreamed of having, 65-year-old Premier Raymond Poincaré is tonight at the end of that task.

He has done what no one has done for forty years—got the French budget voted before the Christmas holidays, and that other budget of forty years ago was the merest minnow to the 40,000,000,000-franc whale which the former President of the Republic has tonight successfully landed.

Into chaos he brought method. For the first two months of his ministry he worked with the one sole object of getting the budget into proper shape. When the Chamber met at the end of October he was ready, with everything planned.

"Economy in expenditure and the fullest possible yield from existing taxes" has been his motto and he has done what he set out to do.

There are critics who point out that this budget of 39,500,000,000 francs with its apparent excedent of 370,000,000 is a thing dependent still on the stability of the franc. That is an argument to which the Premier has always replied that stability of the franc must have as its first essential basis the balancing of the budget.

The Premier does not for a moment count today's accomplishment as more than a first step toward a solution of his difficulties. Of his budget 22,500,000,000 francs is devoted to administration of the internal debt, a fact which in itself prevents any possibility of complete revalorization of the franc. With this budget, it is true, there has begun the operation of a properly fed sinking fund and for the last four months provision of foreign monies has been made sufficient to meet all foreign debt charges during next year.

Yet except for the moral and material accomplishment of this balancing of the budget, the financial situation as a whole is still admittedly in no great state of certainty. There are many pins and bolts to be fixed before the structure can be warranted to stand. Here and there little matters are being fixed. Two days ago a decision was taken to suspend from yesterday the emission of one-month National Defense bonds and begin from Jan. 1 the issue of two-year bonds bearing 6 per cent. interest. At the same time the interest on three-month, six-month and one year bonds will be reduced to 4, 4½ and 5½ per cent.

Houses Agree in Early Morning.

PARIS, Sunday, Dec. 19 (AP).—Both the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies agreed at 3 o'clock this morning on the 1927 budget, which calls for 39,728,310,792 francs in receipts and 39,541,443,921 francs in expenditures.

Parliament then adjourned until after the new year.

SIMS'S RESIGNATION FOLLOWED REBUKE

President of Royal Academy Says a Mild Reproof Was Given for Neglect of Duties.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Charles Sims, the English portrait painter, now in America, who has resigned the Keepership of the Royal Academy, sent in his resignation after he had received a mild rebuke for not attending to his duties, according to a statement today by Sir Charles Dickson, President of the Academy.

"Mr. Sims should have returned to the Academy to take up his duties as head of the Arts School at the beginning of October," said Sir Charles, "and when we heard nothing whatsoever of him we sent a letter of mild rebuke, asking if we might count on his services.

"He replied that his work had detained him in America and that he thought it better to resign his post.

"We had nothing to do but to accept his resignation, which we were loath to do. Mr. Sims faced the position of being a highly successful portrait painter in America or being in charge of one of the most important art schools in Europe, and preferred America."

When asked about certain criticisms of Mr. Sims's influence on the work of Academy pupils, Sir Charles Dickson said that the students had been allowed to be rather free in their work, owing, probably, to the fact that Mr. Sims was a very busy man. He denied that it had been decided that the portrait painter must return to London or resign from the Academy altogether.

1927 ALMANACH NOTES. 3 'ROYAL' AMERICANS

German Debrett Also Records Names of Many Married Into Princely Families.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—European royalty, as recorded in the index of the 1927 Almanach de Gotha, contains the names of three Americans, only one of whom is a member of a reigning family.

The former Eleanor Margaret Green of New York married Prince Viggo of the Danish royal house, though he now bears the name of Prince and Count of Rosenborg.

The two mentioned as members of non-reigning royal houses are Princess Anastasia, formerly Mrs. Leeds of Cleveland, who married Prince Christophoros of the royal Greek line, and Nevada Chapman, née Hoyt, of Ohio, who married Prince Alfonso, uncle of the deposed King Manuel of Portugal. There are no children by any of these marriages.

Of American ladies married into European princely families there is a longer list. German houses include Anna Louise Husser of Wisconsin, who married Prince Eberwyn von Bentheim und Steinfurt; Clara Huntington of Detroit, who married Prince Franz von Hatzfeld; Bertha Lewis of New York, who married Prince Karl von Isenburg.

The Almanach de Gotha does not record the names of Americans married into princely houses in Belgium, Spain, Italy, Russia, Poland and France.

King Albert Takes Wilson's Institute Seat; Hails 'Man of Peace' at Ceremony in Paris

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 18.—In an impressive ceremony held in the historic Mazarin Palace, Albert I, King of the Belgians, this afternoon formally took the seat of Foreign Associate vacated through the death of Woodrow Wilson in the French Academy of Moral and Political Sciences.

Attired in the official costume of the Academy—black silk jacket, knee-breeches, silk stockings and buckled slippers—the tall, distinguished ruler of Belgium stood before the eminent members and listened to the speech of welcome delivered by the President, M. Raphael Georges Lévy.

Around the monarch were grouped the President of the French Republic, many noted members of the French Government and a majority of the members of the five sections of the famous Institute of France, of which the Academy forms a part.

The demand for tickets to the public gallery presented a difficult problem in mathematics for the directors. The Belgians naturally predominated, but scores of Americans, anxious to witness the solemn ceremony of filling the vacancy caused by the death of the war President of the United States, also sought places.

On the way from the entrance to the palace, where he was met by a committee of members, the King paused for a moment with bowed head before the lifelike bust of the late Cardinal Mercier, Belgium's great religious leader. The bust was recently offered to the Institute of France by the Belgian sculptor Debremaecher.

After the reading of the Presidential decree declaring his election, the King received the gold medal of the members of the Institute of France, and M. Lévy then gave the official speech of welcome.

"It is a memorable day for the Academy," said President Lévy. "In four years Belgium will celebrate the centenary of her independence. Permit your new confrères to felicitate you upon the approaching event and to assure you that every French heart will beat in unison with the Belgians when the church bells herald the joyous occasion."

In a characteristically simple speech the King paid a glowing tribute to the memory of Woodrow Wilson, "the man of peace," and concluded by saying that his own membership was simply another tie between France and Belgium.

'IMMORTALS' WILL END FUNERAL ORATIONS

French Academicians Move to End Time-Honored Custom Because of Grip Peril.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 18.—The Immortals, that distinguished group of men whom France honors with membership in her famous Academy, will no longer solemnly follow the remains of their departed colleagues to the cemetery in Winter, there to be chilled to the bone and soaked to the skin while one of their number pronounces a long discourse over the grave of the departed savant.

The current grip epidemic has brought to a head an issue which has long troubled not only the Immortals, but all of their relatives and well-wishers. Each time they attend the burial of a member at least two of three catch cold.

Colds have frequently led to more serious illnesses, even death, so signatures are now being sought to an agreement which, in effect, says:

"Out of regard for those who survive me I prohibit all speeches at my funeral."

Those Immortals, therefore, who have good health may attend services without fear of falling ill afterward, while those who are not so robust may remain at home.

Several members are suffering from grip following the recent funeral of Jean Richepin, the poet.

A few younger Immortals, those still under the age of seventy, laughed at the petition today, but the aged members, it is said, are much relieved.

DIES WHERE HE SAVED SUBMARINES' VICTIMS

Umberto Freitas, Who Rescued Many From Three Ships off Madeira, Drowns There.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP).—Umberto Passos Freitas, scientist and oceanographer, who rescued many people from three ships sunk by German submarines during the war off the Island of Madeira, has met death in those same waters, a Lisbon dispatch to The Daily Mail reports.

The dispatch identifies Freitas, who was drowned with six other victims of a violent gale which swept Madeira on Wednesday, as the man who swam from the island to the ships Surprise, Kanguroo and Dacia, sunk by German submarines, and rescued many passengers and sailors.

MOSLEY BACKED TO WIN IN BITTER ELECTION

British Socialist Aristocrat Is Centre of Lively Campaign, Which Ends Tuesday.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP).—At Lloyd's, where wagers are made on everything from tomorrow's weather to the date of doomsday, odds of 10 to 4 are being offered that young Oswald Mosley, rich, dashing, debonair Socialist husband of Lady Cynthia Curzon, daughter of the late Marquess Curzon and granddaughter of the late Levi Z. Leiter of Chicago, will be elected to the House of Commons on Tuesday. He is a candidate in the Parliamentary election at Smethwick, near Birmingham. The Mosleys recently spent ten weeks in America, visiting the chief industrial centres of the Atlantic seaboard and the midwest to study labor conditions and production methods.

The campaign has been one of the bitterest ever fought in Great Britain. Rough and tumble tactics and vitriolic personal attacks have featured the fight. The personalities of the couple, their wealth, fine clothes, automobiles and palatial homes have been the centre of more interest in the vote-getting struggle than Mr. Mosley's political differences with his opponents—M. J. Pike, Conservative, and W. Bayliss, Liberal. Lady Cynthia Mosley has been in the thickest part of the fight.

At the outset Mr. Mosley announced that his wife had dropped her title for electioneering purposes. He refers to her as "the missus." She nurses tenement babies while he shouts the Socialist doctrine from the street corners, with a red flag in each hand. At times she leads the singing of Laborite songs.

Bones were broken, meetings dispersed and reporters mobbed in outbreaks of rowdyism after the first bitterness was injected into the campaign by the announcement of Sir Oswald Mosley, his father, that his son "was born with a gold spoon in his mouth and never did an honest day's work in his life."

During the final stages of the battle the big political guns of Great Britain boomed in Smethwick. Ramsay MacDonald, former Labor Premier, traveled from London to bless Mr. Mosley's candidacy and answer charges against him. Premier Baldwin sent a personal message to the Smethwick Conservatives; his daughter, Betty, backed it by plunging into the fight to offset Lady Cynthia's campaigning.

The day Betty Baldwin arrived, however, Premier Baldwin's Socialist son, Oliver, also reached the town to thwart his sister's efforts. So the Smethwickians were set to wondering about the criss-cross political beliefs of Britain's first families.

WOMAN INDIA AIR PIONEER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—A woman, one of Britain's pioneers of commercial aviation, set out today from the Croydon Aerodrome, near here, to open up a new air route to India. The machine leaving today is the first of three Bristol Jupiter planes, each capable of carrying fourteen passengers, which will fly between Cairo and Karachi, India.

The woman in question is Mrs. Weir, whose husband is a passenger in the plane. The second plane will leave Croydon on Monday and will overtake the first at Malta. The third plane will leave London on Dec. 27 with Sir Samuel Hoare, the Air Minister, and his wife aboard.

Sir Samuel will inaugurate the Cairo-Karachi service early in January. The commercial service will begin on Jan. 7, when one of the planes leaves Basra. Another machine will leave Cairo on Jan. 12. Thereafter a fourteen-day service will be maintained in both directions.

The new service cuts off a week from the sixteen days required for a letter to go from England to India. The distance from Croydon to Karachi is 5,000 miles.

If she completes the trip she has undertaken Lady Hoare will have flown the farthest distance ever traveled by a woman in the air.

ALIEN CLAIMS BILL PASSED.

House Acts on Property Measure and Sends It to Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP).—The Alien Property Bill, by which the administration hopes to settle claims of American and German Nationals against the two governments growing out of the World War, was passed today by the House and sent to the Senate. Offered as a compromise agreeable to both the claimants and to all members of the Ways and Means Committee which drafted it, the bill was approved by a vote of 279 to 66.

Opposition came largely from Democrats who contended that the act amounted to confiscation of German property now held by the Alien Property Custodian, and who criticised its failure to provide for reimbursement of American holders of German securities which lost their value with the fall of the mark.

The Republican majority blocked a last-minute attempt by Representative Fish, Republican of New York, to force immediate return of all property held by the Custodian, instead of only 80 per cent. Under the bill, the remaining 20 per cent. will be held as security until all American claims against Germany are satisfied.

LED PRIESTS TO SIDE OF BOY HE SLEW

Chicago Youth After Reported Confession Disappears and Is Sought by Police.

SON OF WEALTHY PARENTS

Six-Year-Old Victim Was Apparently Lured to Barn by Harold Croarkin.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—Harold Croarkin, 6,317 Winthrop Avenue, son of wealthy parents and said to be a nephew of former School Trustee Francis Croarkin, is sought on the charge of being the slayer of six-year-old Walter Schmith, who was found by priests dying in a barn loft at 2,109 Devon Avenue last night.

To the priests, Fathers L. J. Sweeney and C. J. McCarthy, the slayer confessed his crime and then led them to the dying boy. Although the priests hesitated about imparting information given them in confidence, the police early uncovered a mass of evidence pointing to Croarkin as the killer.

It was discovered that Croarkin had inquired of a family near St. Vincent's Church, 1,010 Webster Avenue, where he could find a priest. He was directed to the office of Father Sweeney, it is said.

George Hingle, former manager of the stable in which the boy was found, told police that he had seen Croarkin, whom he had known for some time, in the vicinity of the barn with two small boys shortly before the crime is supposed to have been committed.

Playmate Sent on Errand.

Police say the boy with little Walter was Anthony Horwick, 15 years old, 6,348 North Irving Avenue, and that this boy told them that a man of the same description as Croarkin lured them to the stable with offers of candy. When they arrived at the barn the murderer sent Anthony on an errand and when he returned he found the place locked.

It was recalled that Croarkin recently was arrested on charges made by a 12-year-old girl living in the Devon Avenue neighborhood. The matter was hushed up through the offices of mutual friends of the families involved, it was said.

The police message sent to all Captains and Chiefs in the Chicago territory describes Croarkin as being 26 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall, weight 160 pounds, gray-blue eyes and dark brown hair. He wore a dark blue or black overcoat, a gray fedora hat and tan shoes with half rubbers. He wears glasses.

Police visited the Croarkin home shortly after clews leading to him had been uncovered. They were informed he had not been home for twenty-four hours. He had left with about a dollar in his pockets, his mother said.

Fathers Sweeney and McCarthy attended the Coroner's inquest today. They said they had visited the Chancery office to get advice from church officials on their duty in revealing the slayer.

Father Breaks Down at Inquest.

Walter Schmidt, father of the murdered child, attempted to testify at the inquest, but broke down during the course of his statement. He said that had last seen his son when he departed for school at 8 o'clock Friday morning. In reply to routine questions the father said the little boy had a savings bank with $75 in it.

Police are hopeful that additional evidence may be gathered from Robert Mooney, 5 years old, a playmate of Walter. Bobby's parents reported that the child had come home Friday afternoon in a high state of nervous excitement and was almost hysterical when finally put to bed. Although coherent statements have not been obtained from Bobby, it is believed that he may have witnessed the tragedy.

Examination revealed Walter had been struck in the head three times, probably with a hammer. Each blow fractured the skull, but the child retained consciousness several hours after the attack sufficiently to give hospital attendants his first name and his telephone number.

BUTCHER, 106, STAYS HOME.

Hoboken Centenarian Omits Usual Birthday Visit to Coolidge.

J. Kupper Bier, Hoboken's aged butcher, celebrated his 106th birthday at his home, 86 Grand Street, yesterday, surrounded by many of his thirteen children, forty-two grandchildren and seventeen great-grandchildren. A slight illness prevented him from visiting President Coolidge at Washington, as he has done on his last four birthdays. He expects to be back in his butcher shop in a few days.

Mr. Bier differs from most centenarians in that he has no theories as to the cause of his longevity. "I just live," he says. He came to this country from Austria forty-six years ago and started his shop in Hoboken twenty years ago. His wife, Ethel, says she is "over 70."

TWO DIE WHEN TRAIN HITS OPEN SWITCH

Reading Express to Cape May Wrecked—Locomotive Razes Station.

COACHES REMAIN ON TRACK

Third Man in Engine Cab Escapes Injury—Passengers Shaken, but None Is Hurt.

Special to The New York Times.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Dec. 18.—The Reading express to Cape May was wrecked at 11:20 o'clock this morning when it ran through an open switch and crashed at high speed into the station at Erma, N. J., demolishing it. Two employes were killed instantly when the locomotive turned on its side and pinned them beneath it. They were Jules Blake of Audubon, 35 years old, and William Suming of Oaklyn. It took several hours to free the bodies and clear the tracks. David Smith of Collingswood was engineer.

The small passenger station at Erma was splintered as the train tore off its course and directly into the side of the building. No one was in the station and no agent was on duty.

The first coach clung to the rails and was only slightly damaged in front. No passengers were injured but all were badly shaken up.

Blake, one of the dead men, was an experienced fireman and had been on the road for some time. He at one time lived here. He is survived by his mother and a sister, Mrs. Carrie Blake of this place, and by his widow, Elizabeth Blake, and two children in Audubon. Suming, who also was killed, was an engineer, and it was said he was on his way to Cape May to get a train and take it to Philadelphia. Smith, engineer in charge of the train, was in the cab with the other men but miraculously escaped injury.

Coroner William H. Thompson has started an investigation of the wreck, as have officials of the Reading. A mysterious feature of it is that the switch which derailed the locomotive was not only open the wrong way but was locked in that position. It could not be ascertained who was last in charge of the switch nor for what purpose it had been opened and locked. Charles B. Shields, local passenger agent, declared he had no idea why the switch was in that condition. Other railroad men, including Chester Landis of Cape May, brakeman on the train, expressed themselves as mystified.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 18.—Motorists who make a practice of ravaging the orchards and gardens of farmers in Westchester County have exacted a heavy toll both in foodstuffs stolen and in damage done to trees and crops. Protective measures will therefore be taken in 1927 by the Westchester County Farm Bureau Vigilance Service, it was announced at the annual meeting of the bureau held here today. The plan to be followed was not made public, however.

Protection of farm property from the ravages of deer is also sought by members of the bureau and application to the State authorities for permission to shoot deer which do damage will be made.

PARKS 'IN STORAGE,' SO GALLATIN SAILS

Commissioner, Off for Cruise, Says City Must Develop a Hardier Type of Tree.

PLANTS NOW GET NO REST

Soot and Fumes Choke Them—Only the Chinese Tree of Heaven Is Able to Acclimate Itself.

Francis D. Gallatin, Park Commissioner, sailed yesterday on the Hamburg-American liner Reliance for a cruise of the Caribbean. He was accompanied by Mrs. Gallatin. He said he could take a vacation at this time of the year, as all the parks "have been placed in cold storage."

"A great problem faces the modern Park Commissioner," said Mr. Gallatin. "That is, how to find plant life that will acclimate itself to the city. The heat and the lack of ventilation make it difficult for trees and shrubs to thrive. Cats and dogs have adapted themselves to city living conditions, and perhaps some day trees will do likewise. But so far the ailanthus, or Chinese tree of heaven, is about the only one that has adapted itself to man's synthetic living conditions."

City Trees Get Tired.

According to Mr. Gallatin, the ailanthus seems to get along in any back yard, and even in the shadow of the skyscrapers. He said that New York trees get very tired.

"They never get any rest," he said. "In daytime they get the heat from the buildings and the streets and also they have their breathing clogged with soot and with the fumes from the exhaust of automobiles. Just as scientists in plant life have evolved hardy wheat and other grains, so scientists will have to develop plants for the city, where steel, stone and machinery are factors to be reckoned with."

Mr. Gallatin said that the only salvation for the smaller parks was to have fences around all their grass and flower plots.

"At the Battery," he said, "we could have the park in good shape and keep it that way if all the plots were fenced. Then, during two of the Summer months, we could open the gates for night sleepers and the public who are driven into the open for cool air."

Ship Flies "Pirate Flag."

The Reliance sailed with 400 passengers. On the signal yard, starboard of the foremast, flew a flag which 200 years ago would have invited fire from the warships of any civilized power. The flag was the emblem of the "Order of Pleasure Pirates" and shows a pirate with a patch over his eye. It is done in red, white and black and will fly on all the cruises of the Reliance this Winter.

Professor E. A. Leopold of East Orange missed the Reliance when the gangplank was lowered. He boarded the ship by way of a tug. The liner will not be in any port on either Christmas or New Year's Day.

TRAIN KILLS FLEEING MAN.

EDDYSTONE, Pa., Dec. 18 (AP).—Soon after shooting and seriously injuring his wife, John Johnson, 42, ran in front of a Pennsylvania Railroad express train here today and was killed. Police were pursuing him at the time for the attack on his wife.

Johnson, who, police said, had been drinking, wounded his wife during a quarrel. One bullet lodged in her neck and the man was trying to shoot again when his 16-year-old son wrested the revolver from him and summoned the police. Mrs. Johnson is in Chester Hospital in a serious condition.

After the attack Johnson went to his room and slept. When a detective appeared to arrest him, he ran through a rear door and ran toward the railroad. The officers gave chase and fired several shots after him. A train was approaching the station as Johnson looked back and then stepped in front of the speeding locomotive.

SMITH HAS BUSY DAY ON SHOPPING TOUR

Leaves for Albany Today to Finish Work on Message to the Legislature.

TO URGE FORMER DEMANDS

Governor Will Ask Teachers' Pay Rise, 'Off-Year' Elections—Water Power and Housing Vital Topics.

Governor Smith spent a busy day yesterday doing his Christmas shopping. He will leave for Albany this afternoon and is not expected back in the city until after the inauguration and the opening of the legislative session on the first Wednesday in January, when he will appear, as usual, at a joint meeting of the Senate and Assembly to deliver his annual message orally.

Tomorrow the Governor will appear before the Reorganization Commission, composed of legislators and two non-legislative members whom the Governor named to suggest amendments to the so-called Hughes reorganization statutes with a view to making them more workable in the operation of the new plan of administration which will go into effect on Jan. 1. The Governor will go before the committee at the invitation of that body, which is headed by Senator Walter W. Westall of Westchester. Most of the amendments the Governor is preparing to suggest are technical in character, but one or two relate to cardinal changes in the system.

While his time has been busily occupied during the week he has spent in the city, the Governor has had time to put in considerable work on the first draft of his annual message, which this year promises to be not quite so lengthy as previous ones. It will be Jan. 5 before the lawmakers get together for their 827 term, but the Governor expects to have his message ready by Jan. 1. Work on that document and on his inaugural address will occupy much of the Governor's time in the next two weeks.

Water Power and Housing Vital.

While water power and housing will be subjects upon which the Governor is expected to concentrate during the Legislative session, it is regarded as probable that extensive treatment of these topics will be deferred and that they will be taken as texts for special messages in which they will be dealt with exhaustively, after receiving merely casual mention in the annual address to the Legislature.

In regard to water power, the Governor will repeat his demand that the present law be repealed and that provision be made by legislation for the creation of a water power authority which can study the subject and take steps for realization of the Governor's State owned and operated power system as an agent of the State. In connection with housing, there is reason to believe that Governor Smith will urge the creation of a State housing bank to aid in financing projects looking to slum clearance and construction of modern, sanitary, moderate rent tenements.

Governor Smith will again urge the Legislature to discard the Republican proposal for the election of four-year Governors in Presidential years and to substitute an amendment to the Constitution under which the elections to these lengthened terms be held in the political "off year" that occurs midway in a Presidential term. There is reason to believe, however, that the Republicans will use their control of the Senate and Assembly to put through for a second time last year's proposal under which Governors will be elected in years when a national election is held. Governor Smith will also call for re-adoption of the executive budget proposal which, if receiving favorable action again, will be referred to the voters for ratification, as will under similar circumstances the four-year term amendment in the general election next November.

To Ask Rise for Teachers.

The annual address will contain a strong plea for favorable action on the so-called Friedsam Commission bills under which among other things the State would put up next year an additional $18,000,000 for increases to "equalize" the pay of school teachers, with about $14,000,000 of that sum going to this city.

County consolidation and reform in county government in the interest of efficiency and economy are old topics to which the Governor will return with vigor in his annual message. The Republican majority paid little attention to the Governor's recommendations on the subject this year and there is no reason to believe that by next year the time will be ripe for Republican acquiescence.

The Governor will urge also that the State Convention and the Judiciary conventions which at present name candidates for State offices and for the Supreme Court bench be done away with and direct primaries be brought back as the medium for nominating candidates for all elective offices.

TRAIN KILLS 2 ON TRUCK.

Youth is Crushed Between Building and Back of Auto.

Special to The New York Times.

ALLENWOOD, N. J., Dec. 18.—Two men were instantly killed here this evening when a truck owned by H. R. Feimster, a local merchant, by whom they were employed was struck by a westbound Pennsylvania express at Allenwood-Lakewood Road.

The men were William Birdsall, 55 Baileys Corner, driver of the truck, and Clarence H. Newman of Allenwood. Birdsall was thrown about twenty yards and Newman fifty feet. The truck was carried about four hundred yards and demolished.

Crushed between the rear end of a motor truck and the side of a building at 45 East Eighteenth Street yesterday afternoon, Edward Graffe, 17 years old, a truckman's helper of 361 East Nineteenth Street, died almost instantly. Charles Koch of 693 Tenth Avenue, operator of the truck, which is owned by Sheridan & Duncan of 471 Tenth Avenue, was locked up in the East Twenty-second Street Station on a technical homicide charge.

Graffe, who was employed by the Johnson & Faulkner Company of 46 East Eighteenth Street, had volunteered to aid Koch back his truck into an alleyway across the street. He stood at the entrance of the alley and waved to the chauffeur to back his truck. Koch backed too fast for Graffe to escape.

STRIKE ENDS AT SILK MILL.

Dundee Textile Company Fourth One to Come to Terms.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., Dec. 18.—The Dundee Textile Company, whose silk mill is in Ackerman Avenue, Clifton, has settled its strike with the United Textile Workers of America by negotiations with the committee of five.

Dundee Textile is the fourth concern to settle with the union. The Passaic Worsted Spinning Company reached a settlement on Armistice Day and the Botany Worsted and the Garfield Worsted Mills on Monday of this week.

Letters have been exchange between Dundee Textile's management and Thomas F. McMahon, International President of the U. T. W., and it now remains only for the strikers to ratify the terms. This they will do, it is believed, at a meeting in Ukrainian Hall, President Street, on next Monday afternoon.

The bases of settlement are the same as those in the previous settlements: Right to organize legitimately, collective bargaining, closed shop not demanded, disputed questions to be arbitrated, help to be taken back without discrimination, no outside help to be employed until the strikers are re-employed. As many workers will be taken on as conditions permit. At present the number of workers employed is said to range from 75 to 140, the maximum employed before the strike was about 500.

pended in Mr. Vare's behalf, and that the candidate himself contributed $71,000, or, say one-tenth of this amount. Now to reduce this to understandable figures as applied to other States. Based upon the last census, Pennsylvania had just about 113 times as many people as the State of Nevada, so that the expenditure of $6,200 in Nevada would be just as reprehensible as the expenditure of $700,000 in Pennsylvania, while a candidate spending $620 in Nevada would be as much of a corruptionist as Mr. Vare is alleged to have been. Pennsylvania has something over forty-three times as many people as Wyoming, and the expenditure of $16,000 there in a Senatorial election and of $1,600 by a candidate would be the equivalent of the amounts which it is charged should keep Mr. Vare from taking his place among the national Senators."

Enumerating the causes of the big expenditures, Mr. Sproul mentioned the demand of voters for information, pointing out that to send out a single letter cost $130,000, and possible effective advertising would cost $250,000. Lack of leadership and the putting of personal ambitions ahead of political loyalty were among the other things he mentioned.

"The situation is not to be defended as an abstract proposition," he concluded. "There is only one answer to it, and that answer involves the very fundamentals of good government and really of liberty itself. If we are to continue to require the spending of vast sums in our politics we shall make our offices and finally our Government the playthings of wealthy adventurers or the prey of designing men and cliques who would exploit the public funds and franchises. An alert citizenship which does not have to be driven to its duty will bring the answer."

Dawes Assails Primary System.

Vice President Dawes referred to the situation in the Senate caused by the rules he has attacked so often, saying that in the closing days of the session it is possible for legislation to be seriously affected through the working of the rules and the lack of time. He then attacked the whole primary system. He said, in part:

"Our people, as is always the case when men are devoted to the upbuilding of a new country, concern themselves largely with economic problems affecting the development of material resources to the comparative neglect of questions of governmental administration. This fact is responsible for the indifference with which corruption in politics and political administration is regarded for such long periods of time. However, when once the public attitude of indifference to a widespread evil is changed into one of acute apprehension we generally seize upon the most obvious remedy, which may or may not be the correct one.

"The abandonment of the representative form of party government because corruption had existed in spite of it, which was effected by the adoption of the primary system, is an instance of that proneness to error in applying remedies which characterizes a thoroughly indignant people. We assumed that representative party government was responsible for the existence of political rascals without realizing that political rascals will always exist and be active under any form of party government. We substituted the primary system for conventions to nominate public officials and imagined that we had abolished political rascality. Enough years have now elapsed for us to recognize the great damage thus done to our Government and our people.

Blames System for Corruption.

"The primary system is responsible for an enormous and improper use of money in contests under it and is steadily tending to debauch our electorate. Since it lessens the opportunity of minority parties properly to make an issue of corruption before the public it largely insures immunity to vote buyers from political or legal consequences with resultant increase in their activity.

"So immense are the sums which must be spent to advertise himself to the people under the primary system, even along legitimate lines, by a comparatively unknown candidate for a State or national office that under these circumstances only a very rich man, a man with rich men behind him or a man with an organization behind and generally controlling him, is likely to succeed."

Charles M. Schwab presided at the dinner. He spoke in high praise of the Vice President and applauded Mr. Dawes's attitude on the Senate rules. He spoke of the Vice President as "a great salesman."

About 1,500 people attended the dinner, which was the twenty-eighth annual affair of the society. Irvin S. Cobb also spoke.

Pennsylvania Women Dine.

The Society of Pennsylvania Women in New York held its dinner in the Waldorf Apartments, after which the members went to the grand ballroom to hear the speeches.

During the dinner Vice President Dawes visited them. He was presented by Charles M. Schwab. The Vice President paid a tribute to the women of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Dawes, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Miss Margaret Widdemer and Mrs. James I. Wendell were the guests of honor. Mrs. Donald Carr, President of the society, who presided, read the ode to the State of Pennsylvania which she had composed for the Sesquicentennial. Miss Widdemer gave recitations.

LLAR SEES FLEET AT PRE-WAR BASIS

Other Countries Are Building, While Our Ships Are Being Depleted, He Declares.

SAYS IT IS UP TO CONGRESS

Head of Shipping Pioneer Holds Lawmakers Alone Can Decide the Merchant Marine Future.

Stanley Dollar, son of Robert Dollar and Vice President of the Dollar Steamship Company, returned from Europe yesterday on the United States liner George Washington. He was accompanied by Mrs. Dollar and their two children. He said he had just been in Paris opening a branch office at 11 Rue Scribe.

"From what I have seen I am convinced that the general passenger and freight outlook is greatly better than a while ago," he said. "The other countries are all building ships, though I know of no passenger ships being built by the Americans for the North Atlantic trade. This I consider unfortunate as our fleet will soon be depleted and we will have as few ships as before the war.

"The only chance is for Congress to sell itself the idea that it is really sincere in its intention of placing the American flag over our ships in the foreign trade. Until a majority of Congress is in favor of this I look for no boom in American ship building. If Congress wants us to have an American merchant marine we will have one. Otherwise we will not."

Mr. Dollar called the recent cancelling of post office contracts "certainly discouraging to American ship operators." He discussed his company's lease of a new pier in Jersey City and said that it would be as good a terminal as any in New York harbor. He said that he had authorized the lease before going abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Perkins, American residents of Paris, also were passengers on board the liner. They said that stabilization of the franc was causing a great rise in the cost of living.

"Americans with a fixed salary are specially affected by this," said Mr. Price. "Many of them receive very small salaries which are paid in dollars."

The liner arrived a day late, Commodore H. A. Cunningham attributed this fact to th epoor quality of the German coal which they were obliged to use on their return voyage. While American coal was being used, according to him, the vessel averaged 430 nautical miles a day, but when they began to burn the German coal they could only make 380.

DRY MODIFICATION PROPOSED BY HAWES

New Missouri Senator Puts In Campaign Promise Bill to Raise Alcohol Content.

FOR LEGAL DETERMINATION

Supreme Court in Test Case Would Set Intoxicating Point, States Acting Within That Limit.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri, elected to the Senate as a Democrat on Nov. 2, today made good his campaign promise to seek modification of the Volstead act. He introduced a bill, the immediate object of which, he explained, is to raise the present prohibition in the Volstead act from one-half of 1 per cent. to 2¼, or 2.75 per cent., dependent upon a determination of fact by a jury and final review by the Supreme Court.

Senator Hawes's bill proposes a brief amendatory paragraph to the Volstead act, reading:

"Provided, that nothing contained in this act shall prohibit the manufacture, sale or transportation of non-intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof, for beverage purposes."

In explaining his measure, Senator Hawes contended that it was well established that it took considerably more than one-half of one per cent. of alcoholic content to make a beverage intoxicating. Through the progress of science, according to the junior Missouri Senator, it is possible to determine approximately how much alcohol is necessary to give a real kick to a drink. In these circumstances he would have a better determination of what constitutes intoxicating liquor, and then let each State fix the percentage of alcoholic content in beverages dispensed legally within its borders.

Incidentally, Senator Hawes declared that President Coolidge and many other prominent persons—in fact, "all observing men," to quote Mr. Hawes—have admitted that prohibition law enforcement has broken down.

Twice Offered Similar Bills in House.

While Senator Hawes twice offered a bill of the same character when he was a member of the House of Representatives, his election to the Senate puts him in better position to obtain its consideration. He explained that he introduced it now in the hope that an opportunity would be afforded either to discuss it before the appropriate committee or on the Senate floor, although he conceded that this opportunity was slight at the short legislative session.

"The amendment does not violate either the law or the spirit of the Eighteenth Amendment," said Senator Hawes. "It will be observed that the bill contains the exact words of the Eighteenth Amendment, with a change of only three letters.

"The object of my bill is to make statute law, in the matter of prohibition, conform to the constitutional intent and to permit the actual point of intoxication to be determined in a test case through the courts from the lower through proper steps to the Supreme Court, by which steps a scientific percentage may be fixed, whether it be 2, 2¼, 2½ or 3 per cent. Such orderly process of determination would be conducted through the proper judicial machinery of the courts up to the highest tribunal.

"What is and what is not intoxicating is a matter of fact, a matter of evidence and susceptible of proof. Science has progressed to such certainty in its efficiency that a proper limitation can be reached.

Break-Down of Enforcement.

"Prohibition law enforcement has broken down. This is admitted by all observing men. The President of the United States, Governors of States, Mayors of cities, heads of police departments, the great newspapers of our land, leading educators and all inquiring and investigating minds have generally admitted the failure of present enforcement.

"If this failure to enforce the prohibition law related exclusively to this one subject, it would be bad enough; but when the example set in this respect tends to break down respect for all law it becomes a serious menace to the general public welfare and threatens our general public safety.

"There are communities and States which had prohibition enactments prior to the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment and in them public sentiment supported local option and State-wide prohibition. Under my bill no State would be denied the right of placing its own limitation in the matter of percentages of alcoholic content. Even though Congress were to raise the percentage from one-half of 1 per cent. to the point of intoxication, this would not deny the right of any State or any county in a State to keep the limitation at one-half of 1 per cent.

"All this amendment will do will be to permit the States, in their own judgment and through State legislative enactment, to increase the alcoholic content of beverages to the point actually under the point of intoxication. This restores the right of local option within the limitation prescribed in the Eighteenth Amendment as to intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes.

"The passage of this bill will not permit the sale of intoxicating beverages; it will not violate the Eighteenth Amendment, but it will satisfy, please and make content millions of our people who now are now beating down respect for all law."

SANTA'S MAIL FORWARDED.

Postoffice Sends 1,000 More Letters to Association.

One thousand letters addressed to Santa Claus were forwarded yesterday by the postoffice to The Santa Claus Association of 182 West Forty-second Street. This brings the total above 34,000 to be turned over to the association this year.

Every year the postoffice receives thousands of letters from children at Christmas time, and all are sent to the association. They are investigated by the association and if found to be meritorious they are answered with gifts. The pleas range from cork legs, glass eyes, scooters, dolls and marbles to tin soldiers.

The association has a list of charitable persons who play Santa Claus to the poor children. Each year they receive from the association a letter written by one of these children. Often they send directly to the children the gifts they have asked for. Again they work through volunteer workers of the association and provide only the money for the presents.

Letters are addressed to Santa Claus in "Iceland Avenue," in "Paradise," in "Eskimo Burg" and "The Land of the Good Fairies."

PUTS BAN ON 'SLUSH' IN BROWNING SUITS

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP).—Supreme Court Justice Morschauser today denied four motions made by attorneys with various interests in the litigation between Frances Heenan (Peaches) Browning and her husband, Edward W. Browning, declaring as to two of the motions that the "slush" involved in the various pleadings of the parties should not become public property until it actually comes out in testimony on trial of the separation actions. He said this in refusing requests to examine the papers in the suits on file in the Putnam County Clerk's office in Carmel.

In addition, Justice Morschauser denied Browning's attorneys' plea for a bill of particulars itemizing his wife's charges against him, saying that in this too he wished to prevent publicity of the details of the charges prior to trial, and as a fourth denial he refused the petition of Mrs. Browning's attorneys for an order to examine Browning before trial to determine the amount of his property and fortune. Neither Browning nor his wife was present in court, but each was represented by several attorneys.

Denying the motions for leave to examine the pleadings, the court said:

"This is going to be a trial in the country and country methods will be adopted. Carmel is a fine little town and this trial will be handled openly and with fairness to everybody concerned."

N. Otis Rockwood, a lawyer of Poughkeepsie and New York, who was appointed special guardian for the wife when Browning began his separation suit six weeks ago, and who served less than a week, obtained from Justice Morschauser an order on the interested parties to show cause why he should not be recompensed for his services. The order has not been served on counsel for either of the parties to the separation suits and it was indicated here that it might not be brought up until after the holidays.

HUBBARD WIDENS PLEA IN ACTRESS'S SUIT

Shovel Maker Charges That the Judge Erred in Excluding Testimony About Miss Caldwell.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 18 (AP).—John W. Hubbard's appeal for a new trial in the case of Miss Anne Caldwell, who obtained a $80,000 verdict against him in a breach of promise action for $500,000, moved nearer a decision in Federal court today when counsel for the wealthy shovel manufacturer filed supplemental reasons to support their motion.

The Court now has fourteen reasons under consideration and it was expected arguments on the appeal would be ordered soon.

In two reasons entered today the defense contended that the Court erred in excluding certain testimony. In twelve previous reasons to support the retrial motion, Hubbard's attorneys argued he had not received a fair and impartial trial, that counsel for Miss Caldwell had sought to inflame the jury against him in summing up the testimony and that Judge W. H. S. Thomson erred in rulings.

The supplemental reasons contended that Judge Thomson erred in refusing to admit testimony concerning the class of women with whom Miss Caldwell associated in Atlantic City before the alleged engagement and that he erred in refusing to admit testimony which would have contradicted Miss Caldwell's statement that she never posed undraped before a New York photographer.

Max A. Williams, an Atlantic City cabaret proprietor, was on the witness stand testifying for Hubbard when the ruling to exclude testimony concerning the actress's associates was made. On the same objection Judge Thomson refused to permit Pauline Ginsberg to testify in contradiction to Miss Caldwell's statement as to her posing for photographs.

DIFFER ON STATUS OF BRITISH EMPIRE

Experts Object to Some Terms of Imperial Conference's Plan for Change.

'COMMONWEALTH' IS ISSUE

J. S. Ewart Tells Foreign Policy Association That "Personal Union" Will Result.

Exactly what the status of the British Dominions is to be in the immediate future is somewhat of a puzzle even to the people of those Dominions. This was disclosed yesterday at the luncheon discussion of the Foreign Policy Association at the Hotel Astor, where the topic was "The British Empire Takes Stock of Itself."

Three principal speakers and two who made brief addresses agreed that the report of the Imperial Conference in London which declared the Dominions to be "equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another, in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs," was a step forward, but just how big a step was not made clear, nor did the question from the floor afterward serve to better the understanding.

John S. Ewart, K. C., L. L. D., former Vice President of the Canadian Bar Association, approaching the topic from a legalistic viewpoint, asserted that the Dominions are not factors in a Commonwealth, though that word is used in the report.

Says Report Is Confusing.

"That is a very confusing and to some extent a contradictory statement," he said. "You know what a federation is? this is not one. There is no Federal Congress or Parliament. I am not sure that you know what a confederation is, but I do know that this is not one. There is no contract as in 1867 in the case of Austria and Hungary.

"Are you familiar with the form of association of States known as a Personal Union? It is the case of two countries which have no political relations, one with the other, whose Governments are perfectly separate and independent; one may be at war while the other is at peace, and the only link or connection is allegiance to the same sovereign."

Above the speaker's head was the statement from the report, in black and red. Mr. Ewart asked the audience to read the letters in black, which were:

"They are autonomous communities, equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs, though united by a common allegiance to the Crown."

"That," said Mr. Ewart, "is a perfect description of a Personal Union."

A little later Wilmot Lewis, Washington correspondent of The London Times, who had spoken before Mr. Ewart, in answering a question took exception to Mr. Ewart's objection to the word "commonwealth."

"I don't know why a horse is called a horse," said Mr. Lewis, "but when a horse is mentioned I know what is meant."

Objects to "Within the Empire."

Mr. Ewart insisted that he and General Hertzog, Prime Minister of South Africa, were in agreement as to what the words referred to actually meant. But he objected strongly to the words that had been painted in red on the banner, "Within the British Empire" and "freely associated as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations." After he had quoted several British statesmen as saying that the Dominions were wholly independent, he said regarding the phrase "within the British Empire":

"That must mean that they are still parts of the British Empire. Indeed, they are referred to as members of the empire. But that is a fragrant contradiction of the declared equality of status, for the empire always has been, and is, composed of two parts, the superior or dominant part and the inferior or subordinate part.

"The British Parliament always has been, and is, dominant over every part of the empire. Gradual and limited concessions have, from time to time, added to the political powers of the Dominions, but in many respects they are still subordinate. And so the clause on the scroll contradicts itself."

Characterizing the use of the term "commonwealth" as foolishness, Mr. Ewart continued:

"I do not know what sort of thing a Commonwealth of Nations can possibly be. A commonwealth is a political organism, or democratic character, possessing legislative and executive functions, and it is quite erroneous to speak of a Commonwealth of Nations.

United States Near Example.

"The United States, more than any other organism, may be thought to furnish an example of such a commonwealth; and if you wish to introduce a foolish novelty you may so refer to it. But surely it would be better to speak of a Commonwealth of States. And, undoubtedly, it would be still better and more correct to adhere to the well-worn phrase, a Federation of States.

"I do not know what a Commonwealth of Nations is, but I do know that there is no British Commonwealth of Nations; that there is no organism anywhere that looks in the least like what one might be induced to go in search of under that name; that there is no organism of any kind of which the British communities are members, except the organism known as the British Empire; and I am certain that an empire and a commonwealth are essentially dissimilar in conception, structure anr character."

Miss Christina Merriman, who presided, had introduced Mr. Ewarts as an advocate of the independence of Canada.

Professor H. Duncan Hall of Syracuse University, formerly of the University of Sydney, Australia, said he believed his view represented that of the majority of people in the Dominions and held that the report of the Imperial Conference was of supreme importance. He asserted that in Great Britain there is a marked distinction between what is legal and what is Constitutional.

"If we had had a written Constitution the British Empire would have broken down long ago," he said.

Mr. Lewis at the beginning of his address said:

"There was a British Empire of an earlier kind which came to an end in 1776. We lost a very valuable slice of territory, but gained a very valuable piece of wisdom."

The manner in which the Dominions acted in 1914, he said, indicated that the wisdom gained in 1776 had been applied.

E. F. Wise, representing the British Labor Party, which he said would shortly come into power, said there was nothing new in the report of the conference, but saw in the development a step toward a commonwealth of nations which regard discussion as the only right means of settling disputes. Eris Low, South African Commissioner, spoke briefly, outlining the views of General Hertzog.

ITALY LIFTS THE BAN ON CHRISTMAS SWEETS

Government Suspends the Compulsory 'War Bread' Diet Until After the Holidays.

ROME, Dec. 18 (AP).—Responding to the national appeal, the Government has consented to allow the population a respite from the diet of "war bread" for the duration of the Christmas holidays, and children will have their fill of rich cakes made from wheat flour.

Nearly every region has a special delicacy, without which Christmas would be as melancholy as an American Thanksgiving without turkey, or an English Yuletide without plum pudding. So, thanks to the Government's decision, Milan will have its "panettoni," a hard raisin-filled cake known in America through the Italian table d'hote; Rome will have its yellow "pangialli," Bologna its "ciambella," Siena its fruity "panforte," and Tuscany its "ricciarelli."

In other parts of the nation, children will gorge themselves with similar heavy sweets, knowing the death knell of their pleasure will toll as soon as the holiday season is ended.

Less pleasant, however, is the outlook for grown-ups. Strenuous efforts are being made by the Government to induce them to give, and give liberally, "Victoral loan" bonds as Christmas gifts. It is with this immense loan that the Government hopes to succeed in stabilizing the country's financial position.

Another pre-holiday move is the opening of an anti-high-cost-of-living campaign. Merchants have been forced to post the wholesale and retail prices of merchandise, maximum prices have been fixed by communal committees, and licenses are being taken from storekeepers found guilty of profiteering.

St. John's Law Class Holds Dinner.

Members of the first law class of St. John's College, Brooklyn, held a dinner and smoker last night at the Cafe Boulevard, Forty-first Street and Broadway. Three amateur boxing bouts were the feature of the affair. Harry Elberg, amateur intercity champion in the 128-pound class last year, fought three rounds with Willy Klein of George Washington High School. Murray Sprung, President of the class, and Phil Wagner boxed two rounds. Dean George W. Matheson of the school, and Professors J. P. Maloney and E. J. O'Toole addressed the students informally.

POLICE WON'T INTERFERE

Complaints Against Opening of Theatres Today, If Any, Must Be Made Monday, It Is Said.

Special to The New York Times.

IRVINGTON, N. J., Dec. 18.—The motion-picture theatres in Irvington will be open tomorrow and there will be no recurrence of the round-up of Sabbath Day violators such as took place last Sunday. Samuel Kessler, attorney for the theatre men, said:

"We think we have sufficiently demonstrated that the enforcement of the ancient Blue law was impossible. It was never our intention to compel a strict enforcement of the law, but it became necessary for us to demonstrate once and for all the absolute impossibility of the enforcement of such a ridiculous situation as was created by this law.

"Now that we have arrived at a point where we believe we have demonstrated to the governing authorities that the law cannot be enforced without discrimination, and since we have learned that it is not the intention of the authorities to compel a strict enforcement against those who violate the law, it is our intention that if all other places are open during the day to open our theatres tomorrow at 4:30 P. M."

Harry J. Stanley, Director of Public Safety, said the police would entertain no complaints tomorrow against the theatres and that if any were made they must await Monday. The Rev. A. J. Van Houten, who was active in closing the theatres several months ago, had no statement to make. The Rev. Dr. William H. Hainer, President of the Irvington Ministerium, said:

"The question of Sunday movies is in the hands of the City Commissioners. If they decide to have the theatres open in the face of our protests, why, I suppose the theatres will be open."

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 18.—Warrants charging violation of the New Jersey blue laws will be sought by Monday by Michael Steinberg, a local attorney, acting for clients whose names he declines to divulge. Mr. Steinberg said he would obtain the necessary evidence tomorrow through the purchase of gasoline, rides on trolleys and buses. He said he would present the evidence to Police Court Judge John J. Burke.

In outlining his proposed action Mr. Steinberg said: "I will assist any one in favor of showing the fallacy of the blue laws at the present by attempting to enforce them."

The Rev. Harry L. Bowlby of East Orange, Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, said: "I think any such movements are chiefly for the purpose of making the Lord appear obnoxious. The root of it all is the persistent effort to secure a commercialized Sunday of amusement and sport. There are certain politicians ready to fall for it, but there are others who are not and will not be misled."

"The Lincoln had a particularly fine crew," the Commander said. "They were all picked men and the best at the base."

Vessel Formerly a Rum-Runner.

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 18 (AP).—The Coast Guard schooner Lincoln was formerly a rum-runner, recently confiscated by a Federal court, Coast Guard officials here said tonight.

The Lincoln, during her rum-running career, bore several names, it was said. She was used by the Coast Guard as a supply ship along the Atlantic Coast.

In a message to headquarters here, the Coast Guard cutter Modoc transmitted a communication from the British steamer Defender, which rescued Gordon J. Schultz and Howard Carter, only survivors of the Lincoln's crew, advising that she would arrive at Galveston, Texas, Dec. 26.

The Defender's message said the fire occurred at 8:20 A. M. today, six miles off Cape Lookout.

The Modoc has joined the search for survivors.

WANTS EDINBURGH GOVERNED BY CHRIST

Councilor's Motion to Apply His Teachings, Although Cast Out, Stirs All Britain.

EDINBURGH, Dec. 18 (AP).—Great Britain's Christmas holiday season has been stirred deeply by discussions as to whether a modern city can be governed strictly in accordance with the teachings of Christ.

Andrew Gibson, member of the Edinburgh Town Council, believes that it can, and introduced a motion in the Council to that effect. His motion created a tremendous stir, not only in Edinburgh but also throughout Great Britain. Hundreds of congratulatory letters and offers of all sorts of moral support have poured in on the Councilor. The motion was eventually killed as incompetent after legal experts had been consulted.

After the motion had been submitted to the Council it was sent to the Lord Provost's committee for consideration, and Gibson, a tall, gaunt figure, with the light of asceticism in his eyes, made an impassioned plea in its behalf.

"Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it." Gibson quoted from Psalm 127. "Except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain."

Gibson, speaking of the coming Christmas holidays, thought that the time was opportune to ask the Council not merely to approve but also to take a high resolve upon his motion, which asked that Christ's law should be made the foundation of every discussion and act of the Council.

What did the Councilors see, he asked, when they looked about the world? It was a world of discontented, dissatisfied men, tearing the hearts out of one another. Instead of cooperation and friendship there were mutual antagonism, wire-pulling, strikes, strife and unemployment.

Christ's command, "Love thy neighbor as thyself," he said, had been forgotten. What he wanted, Gibson added, was the active cooperation of Jesus Christ in the city's affairs, which could be obtained only by doing His work because He had commanded it.

"That's my faith," he told the Council.

APPARATUS NOW TESTS CAUSES OF HAY FEVER

Bronchial Asthma Also Brought Under Greater Control in Hospital Treatment Room.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18 (AP).—Installation of a specially constructed treatment room, with apparatus capable of filtering and washing the air or charging it with any specific amount of pollen, house dust or other airborne substance, now enables physicians in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital to study hay fever and bronchial asthma under controlled conditions of environment.

By its use, physicians revealed today, it has been found possible for the first time not only to determine definitely the particular air-borne substances which cause hay fever and bronchial asthma, but also to establish the precise quantity and concentration of these substances necessary to produce even the mildest manifestations of either disease.

Apparatus connected with the treatment room also regulates with precision the temperature and relative humidity in the room, thus enabling the physicians to observe the effects of those factors in various diseases other than those caused by air-borne substances.

In its study of hay fever, to which approximately 1,000,000 persons in the United States are susceptible, medical science has long sought to learn whether the disease is produced in all pollen-sensitive subjects by the same amount of pollen in the air. It also has sought to determine whether the symptoms produced are similar in all cases or whether sensitivity varies to such an extent that the amount of pollen necessary to produce hay fever in one patient is innocuous to another.

In studying bronchial asthma, which is frequently caused by the inhalation of air-borne substances, the physicians likewise have sought to determine the variability in the extent to which sufferers are susceptible to danger from horses, cats or dogs, the dust of feathers, house dust and other substances which find their way into the air.

City College, Class of 1878, Dines.

The members of the Class of 1878 of the College of the City of New York held their fifty-first annual dinner last night at the Waldorf. This year for the first time members of the class were asked to bring their sons. The members discussed the proposal to give a collection of etchings to the college in 1928 in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of graduation. Frederick C. Leubuscher presided, and a report was made by William J. Campbell, secretary.

Barnard Alumnae Hold Mock Trial.

A mock trial and a performance of "Pokey," Philip Moeller's comedy, were presented last night by the Alumnae Association of Barnard College in the Horace Mann Auditorium. The proceeds went to the Students' Loan Fund for the aid of needy students. Members of the Faculty took part in the mock trial. Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve acted as judge and Annie H. H. Meyers, Registrar of the college, was the prisoner. The leading part in Moeller's play was acted by Miss Dener Frankel.

WIFE ASKS DIVORCE FROM F. B. HARRISON

Suit Charges Abandonment by Ex-Governor General of Philippines.

HE MAKES NO DEFENSE

Parents Opposed Marriage of Former Miss Wrentmore, Who Became His Third Mate.

PARIS, Dec. 18 (AP).—On grounds of abandonment, Mrs. Elizabeth Wrentmore Harrison of Berkeley, Cal., has brought suit for divorce from Francis Burton Harrison, former Governor General of the Philippines and at one time a prominent figure in political circles of the State of New York. He was Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor there in 1924.

The usual attempt at reconciliation was made last Wednesday, but Mr. Harrison did not appear and it is announced that he has not defended the suit. It is expected that a decree of divorce will be granted to Mrs. Harrison, probably early in January.

The couple, who were married in Chicago seven years ago, have lived apart since last Summer. Mr. Harrison at the present time is in Southern Italy, while Mrs. Harrison is in the South of France. Since he retired as Governor General of the Philippines in 1921, Mr. Harrison has spent most of his time abroad, making only one brief visit to the United States early in the present year.

Mrs. Harrison has the custody of their three children pending the outcome of her action. She was only 18 years of age at the time of her marriage, the ceremony being carried out despite the opposition of her parents. Mr. Harrison was 44 years of age. The marriage took place on the very day that a decree of divorce was signed in favor of his second wife, Mrs. Mabel Judson Cox Harrison.

Mr. Harrison was a captain and later Adjutant General in the Spanish-American War.

Mr. Harrison Thrice Married.

Elizabeth Wrentmore is the third wife of Francis Burton Harrison. They met in the Philippines while he was Governor General she having left the University of California to visit her father and mother the former, Professor Clarence H. Wrentmore, being Dean of the College of Manila. On account of the disparity in their ages, Mr. Harrison being 48 and Miss Wrentmore 18, her parents opposed a match between them, but they were married in Chicago on May 18, 1919, on the day a decree of divorce was signed in San Diego, Cal., in a suit brought by Mr. Harrison's second wife, Mrs. Mabel Judson Cox of Brooklyn, divorced wife of Dr. Roland Cox Jr. At the time of the ceremony Mr. Harrison was on leave of absence from his post in the Philippines.

Mr. Harrison's first wife was Miss Mary Crocker, daughter of Charles F. Crocker of San Francisco, who before his death was Vice President of the Southern Pacific Railroad. The ceremony took place in June, 1900. The former Miss Crocker was killed in an automobile accident in Long Island City in 1905, and on Jan. 16, 1907 Mr. Harrison married Mrs. Cox in London. When she obtained her California divorce in 1919 she received a substantial monetary settlement and the custody of their three children.

Mr. Harrison has been an ardent advocate of Philippine independence and his administration of the islands was the subject of considerable criticism on the part of Republican leaders. It was alleged that he approved of measures passed by the Philippine Legislature that tended to weaken the position of the Governor General and the American administration of the islands.

In 1920 his name was placed before the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco as that of a candidate for the Presidential nomination.

Two years ago his name was linked with those of Harry M. Daugherty, former Republican Attorney General, and A. Mitchell Palmer, former Democratic Attorney General and Alien Property Custodian in accusations made before the Senate committee investigating the administration of Mr. Daugherty in the Department of Justice.

HUNTERS IN GUN FIGHT.

Two Shot in Dispute Between White Men and Negroes Over Deer.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Dec. 18.—Two men were shot, one seriously, in a fight between white and negro hunters at Newtonville, eight miles from here, according to reports today to the state police.

The two parties of hunters became embroiled when both shot at a deer less than two miles from the heart of this community. A negro seized the deer, the white hunters, four in number, following to Newtonville. Roger Whitted, 46 years old, a negro, began firing. Thomas Ducenap, white, of Millville, fell, shot in the face. The other three white hunters then commenced shooting. Whitted finally was badly wounded.

State police are searching for the uninjured hunters.

Gasoline Tax Measure and Permit for Boxing Decisions Are Proposed by Caucus.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 18.—Thirty thousand dollars' worth of political "plums" were apportioned here today by the Republican Steering Committee of the Assembly at a meeting in the Ritz-Carlton. Atlantic County received $3,300 and with few exceptions each county received the same patronage as last year. The Republican caucus of the House controls seventy-two jobs.

Assemblyman William B. Knight of Camden County was unanimously elected Secretary to the caucus for the session. Fred A. Brodesser, Clerk of the House, is Secretary to the committee.

Bergen County gets $2,400, Burlington $1,000, Cape May $500, Camden $1,800, Cumberland $500, Essex $4,950, Gloucester $800, Hunterdon $300, Mercer $1,300, Middlesex $1,200, Monmouth $900, Morris $500, Ocean $350, Passaic $2,300, Salem $200, Somerset $250, Union $1,350 and Sussex $200.

At this meeting, presided over by Assemblyman Ralph W. Chandless of Bergen, it was decided to introduce in the Legislature an amendment to the Tenement House act to exempt three-family apartment houses in seashore communities from the present law and to place them under regulation of local government as to safety of construction and sanitation.

A new boxing bill will be introduced to permit decisions. Under the present law bouts can go to twelve rounds with no decision.

A gasoline tax measure also will be presented to raise income for road maintenance.

Speaker Straub will reintroduce a public safety bill requiring automobiles to stop when trolley cars running parallel on streets or highways halt to let off or take on passengers.

Thirty Jailed as Shoplifters.

Department store detectives made most of the arrests, while others were made by detectives of Chief Inspector Lahey's staff. The suspects were locked up in the West Thirtieth Street Station.

TRANSIT BOARD ASKS READJUSTMENT AID

Suggestions Are Wanted From Mayor and Other Officials and Civic Groups.

1,000 LETTERS SENT OUT

Formation of Authority Similar to Port Body Said to Be One of Plans Offered.

The Transit Commission sent out nearly a thousand letters yesterday asking for suggestions before preparing its readjustment plan. These letters were sent to Mayor Walker and the other members of the Board of Estimate, the members of the Board of Transportation, members of the Port of New York Authority, members of the Public Service Commission, former members of the Transit Commission and the commissions that preceded it, State Senators and Assemblymen, the heads of the various transit companies, including surface line companies, and more than five hundred civic associations and teachers' organizations.

The letters each contained a statement announcing the commission's intention to prepare a readjustment plan and the appointment of Samuel Untermyer as special counsel and read as follows:

"We enclose a statement issued by this commission. In accordance therewith, we would be pleased to receive in writing any suggestions that may aid us in the solution of the problem which, pursuant to law, has been imposed upon us by the Legislature.

"We beg to call your attention to the fact that the law, which was passed in 1921, not only imposes upon us the duty of formulating a plan, but also specifically states the scope of the plan. In our statement we have summarized the provisions of law relating to the subjects which must be covered in our investigation.

"All communications should be addressed to James E. Walker, Secretary of the commission."

Untermyer's Work Begun.

Touche, Nivens & Co., the expert accountants retained by the commission to work in conjunction with its own accounting staff, headed by F. W. Lindars, have already begun the preparation of accounting data for use by Mr. Untermyer as soon as he returns. Mr. Untermyer, who has started on a cruise around the world on the steamship Belgenland, already has been in touch with some of the Commissioners by radiogram, and is understood to have begun his study of the testimony taken by the former commission in its attempt to prepare a unification plan.

It was said that among the proposals that would be considered was the formation of a transit authority to take over the transit lines. Such a suggestion is only tentative, it was said, and the report seemed to be based largely upon the fact that Governor Smith, who is keenly interested in solving the city's transit problem, has suggested the creation of a water power authority to develop the State's water powers.

Many suggestions from civic associations are expected to result from the commission's invitation. It was recalled that the suggestion for the unification plan, which resulted in the legislative mandate to the commission, originated with the Merchants' Association. It was said that the Merchants' Association was making another survey of the transit situation and was one of the organizations from which constructive suggestions were expected.

DEFENDS COST OF SUBWAY.

Ryan Denies Church St. Razing Will Amount to $30,000,000.

Daniel L. Ryan of the Board of Transportation issued a denial yesterday of published reports that the cost of buildings to be torn down in Church Street to make room for a four-track subway would be between $18,000,000 and $30,000,000. Mr. Ryan said that the assessed valuation of the property which it was proposed to acquire for the city was about $3,500,000, and that its acquisition, which also will make possible the widening of Church Street, would result in a saving to the city.

"Most of the buildings are between fifty and ninety years old," Mr. Ryan said. "Some of them are 100 years old and only two of them are of modern construction. The engineer's estimate of savings in expenditure by adoption of the plan of placing four tracks on a single level immediately beneath the street, as against a two-track structure that would be double-decked and would necessitate compelling passengers to go to a considerable depth beneath the surface, will be not less than $4,000,000.

"At the public hearing on the form of contract given by members of the Board of Transportation only one objection was raised, and that was by the owner of a parcel of property at a considerable distance from Church Street. Practically all of the buildings to be acquired face on the side streets and not on Church Street. They are old-type structures, averaging four stories in height. If the city determines after the subway structure is complete not to widen Church Street, the city can resell all of the property affected and retain only the subsurface easement.

"It is wholly probable that the city will widen the street for the reason that the area affected extends from the mouth of the Hudson vehicular tunnel at Canal Street to Fulton Street. The width of the new Sixth Avenue, which is north of the vehicular tunnel portal, is 115 feet, and the new subway street, which will extend from the south side of the tunnel portal, may be made 100 feet in width. Church Street between Canal Street and Fulton Street is now only 40 feet in width, whereas south of Fulton Street it has at the present time a width of 80 feet.

"If the city determines not to widen Church Street between Canal Street and Fulton Street, it is altogether probable that it will be able to resell the property temporarily taken for subway construction at a price in excess of the cost of its acquisition. That has been the city's experience heretofore when it has resold property along subway lines."

WOMAN IS ARRESTED AS CRUEL TO HORSES

Founder of Animal Aid Society Neglects Her Charges on 'Rest Farm,' Neighbors Say.

HEALTH MENACE ALLEGED

Mrs. Ehrlich Says Complainants Lack Sympathy—Keeps Homeless Cats, Dogs and Cows There Too.

Neighbors of Mrs. Stella Ehrlich, who runs the Rest Farm and Hospital of the Horse Aid Society at Millwood, in Westchester County, have been complaining for months that Mrs. Ehrlich's equine wards were suffering. Yesterday they caused her arrest.

Three neighbors, Mrs. Florence Folsom, who lives across the road; C. N. Adams, formerly an employe of Mrs. Ehrlich, and Charles Wermelinger, joined in swearing out a complaint before Justice of the Peace Alfred Jones, alleging she was conducting a public nuisance. Mrs. Ehrlich's hearing was set for Dec. 27.

John P. Lee, their lawyer, said the complaint charged Mrs. Ehrlich's activities were "annoying, injuring and endangering the safety of a considerable number of persons, offending public decency, interfering with and obstructing a creek cleared out at public expense and rendering people insecure in life."

Mrs. Ehrlich founded the Horse Aid Society, with offices at 176 West Seventy-second Street, in 1910. She solicits funds for the care of worn-out horses, and places them on her farm in Millwood. According to the complainants, she also conducts an animal boarding business for horses, cats, dogs and cows. She issues brochures beginning with "The Horse's Prayer" and picturing the delights of her establishment from the equine viewpoint.

Last April she told the newspapers about "Chubble," who was retiring to her farm after twenty-five years of draying for the American Express Company. The rest of his life was to be a paradise of oats, hay, a warm stall and nothing to do. "Chubble" died five days ago "from natural causes," according to Mrs. Ehrlich; "because he froze and starved," according to Mr. Adams. Mr. Adams said he resigned three days ago. "I couldn't stand it any longer," he said. Mrs. Ehrlich said that Mrs. Folsom's complaint arose from the fact that "she has no sympathy for animals." She didn't know anything about Mr. Wermelinger, but "whatever they say it is an absolute untruth."

The whole community was in an uproar over the horse question, according to Mr. Lee.

"Mrs. Ehrlich doesn't give her animals enough to eat," he said, "so they die and she leaves the carcasses scattered all over her sixty-five-acre farm. Her cats and dogs wander freely about the village, with the possibility of spreading disease."

Mrs. Ehrlich denied this in toto.

CHRISTIE REFUSES TO PAY HUNT EXPENSES

Police Send Him Bill for £25, Outlay by Them in Search for His Wife.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The Christie disappearance tragedy that turned out to be a comedy has had a Gilbertian sequel. Sir Arthur Spurgeon, a member of the standing joint committee which supervises police expenditure in Surrey County, said today that the search for Mrs. Christie instead of costing £25,000, as alleged, had cost only £25. Colonel Christie, he said, had undertaken at the outset to cover the whole cost and the bill had not been sent to him.

Colonel Christie, however, is not disposed to pay it, according to a statement by his woman secretary. His attitude, she says, is that he has paid his income tax bills for years and that when assistance from the police force is needed on behalf of a ratepayer he should not be expected to pay the extra expense incurred.

Colonel Christie has been greatly angered by insinuations that his wife's loss of memory is not real.

"She is very ill," he said today, "and it seems likely, from what the doctors say, that we cannot hope for improvement for some time."

HOTEL FOOD UNDER INQUIRY

Diners Made Ill at Berkeley-Carteret in Asbury Park.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Dec. 18.—An investigation by city authorities and hotel employes in the last fortnight has failed to disclose the source of illness of several persons following dinner at the Berkeley-Carteret Hotel two weeks ago tonight. Specimens of food served at the meal have been examined by D. C. Bowen, State Health Inspector, and City Health Officer B. H. Obert. No trace of poison has been found in the food or any condition which might have caused the illness discovered, Mr. Obert said today.

Carl J. Tucker, manager of the hotel, said the food turned over to the officials was the same as served at the meal at which a number became ill. At the hotel it was said that a reorganization of the culinary staff and dining room service had taken place some time previous to the time the diners became ill. Investigation failed to show that this might in any way be linked with the illness, Mr. Tucker said.

Mr. Obert said that none of the cases was serious, being in the nature of bilious attacks accompanied by nausea.

PAJAMAS AID SLEEP IN YULETIDE NIGHTS

Wearing the Macy Variety, One Ignores the Rigors of Winter, Slumbering Snugly, in Warmth and Luxury

'Twas the week before Christmas, and all through the house was much indecision—both husband and spouse were wondering what the other might like. . . . That's this week, with only five more shopping days left! And both spouse and husband will have had an opportunity to go to Macy's.

The night after Christmas, likely as not, the master of the household will be sleeping soundly in the luxury and comfort of a pair of pajamas from Macy's Shops for Men on the street floor.

For there is an enticing array of pajamas at Macy's, ranging from purely practical garments of downy domet flannel—which nevertheless is made up in attractive patterns and colors—to suits contrived for luxury and pictorial effect.

Conspicuous among the many splendid values available are pajamas of English broadcloth, made specially for Macy's in England and only recently received from that country. These may be had in pleasing solid colors, often with contrasting trimmings, or in startling compositions of checks, stripes and bold blocks, employing several bright hues. Whatever effect appeals to one, the price is nine dollars and seventy-four cents the suit.

A bit out of the ordinary are pajamas of mercerized cotton richly fretted with rayon jacquard designs, all spotless white with the exception of a narrow black silk piping along the edges of the collar, cuffs, buttbands and pockets. Though they look "like a million dollars," their price is only six-ninety-four.

There is also a great variety of tub silks, heavy radium silks, silk broadcloth and silks of madras weave. They are obtainable in broad stripes or solid colors, almost unlimited in combination and character.

Some of the better domet flannels and fancy figured cottons are often preferred by the intensely practical man, for they pay big dividends in serene slumber, yet they are not without their aesthetic appeal.

Indoor Sports Shown

Exercising and gymnastic apparatus is being demonstrated daily in the Physical Training Apparatus section of the Sporting Goods Shop, on the fifth floor at Macy's. An expert in the art of manipulating these devices, who is a "regular" acrobat and very well set up, starts things about eleven every morning, and repeatedly goes through interesting exhibitions till closing time. All the apparatus demonstrated may, of course, be bought on the spot.

For Sportsmen and Travelers

GENTLEMEN PREFER BONDS

There's no danger of your gifts being duplicated if you send him a Merchandise Bond from Macy's. Dollar, $2 and $5 certificates may be redeemed by the recipient for anything he desires, at any time. Get them at the superintendent's desk, on the street floor, East Building.

Corner Shop Appeals To Masculine Taste

IT becomes increasingly evident that the Corner Shop, on the seventh floor at Macy's, is an attraction not only for women, but men as well. Throughout the year many men visit this trove of the odd and beautiful, and they find suitable and useful articles of minor furniture to complete the decorative scheme of their own rooms. Not the least of the appealing features of the Corner Shop are the courtesy and training of the saleclerks.

One of the items calculated to strike the fancy of a man is the "first edition" cigarette box. Some old French books have been converted into charming containers, the outside binding concealing a cedarwood box instead of the treatise on medicine or philosophy which formerly dwelt between the covers. These "books" may be had at four dollars and twenty-four cents.

Old Spanish mortars of very heavy brass make dignified ashtrays, and are truly "lifetime" pieces. They cost fourteen-eighty-nine.

Towels From England Add Luxury to Bath

From England, Macy's has imported bath towels both normal in size and enormous.

The normal towels are woven of a hard brown twill, making them ideal for the brisk rub that men demand after a cold shower. They are called friction towels, and rightfully, too. They are a dollar and sixty-nine cents, with border stripes of blue, red or white and black.

The enormous towels measure fifty inches by seventy-six, and hence they are known as bath sheets. One can wrap up easily in them, and emerge dry! These are soft and finely checked, in red, blue, helio or putty on white, and they cost four-sixty-nine apiece.

ORIENT SENDS RARE OLD ART FOR HIS STUDY

Bronzes and Potteries Lend Distinction and Charm

Out of the East, out of the twilight centuries of China and Japan, fantastic objects of art and skill continue to arrive in the Far East Department, on the sixth floor at Macy's. Often these pieces are so rare and so beautiful that they create a passion for collecting; and almost invariably they are destined to be coveted by one who already is a collector and a connoisseur.

Some of the examples of early Oriental craftsmanship are especially suitable for the decoration of a man's study or sanctum—that retreat which is invariably masculine, where a man's personality is allowed untrammelled expression. In the glass cases and on the shelves of the Far East Department may be found many quaint bronzes and old pottery, Japanese brasses and Chinese pewter. It is astonishing how adaptable they are to modern decorative ideals.

There are incense burners of bronze in the form of frogs, ducks and turtles, made sometimes so as to send forth a coil of pungent smoke in a spiral. Some bronzes of the Ming dynasty are especially notable. Han and Sung potteries have great charm and no small degree of utility. In all cases the prices are far below what one might pay in the Oriental shops elsewhere in town.

MOTOR LUNCH IS SIMPLIFIED

Kits Containing Ample Equipment Await Picnickers

At Christmas time people look forward to Summer in selecting their gifts. Hence many a family is going to be made happier by the acquisition of one of the motor-lunch kits at Macy's. In the Motor Accessories Department on the fifth floor, adjoining the Men's Shop, is a large assortment of three-ply basswood cases designed to take the trouble out of picnics, and add zest to an outdoor repast.

Every kit is dustproof, washable inside and veneered outside, besides being covered with enameled duck or leatherette. Basswood is said to be the finest wood for this purpose, as it is pliable and strong, yet very light. Each kit contains imported Swedish plates and cups in white enamel, and silver-nickeled knives, forks and spoons. There is plenty of room for food and vacuum bottles. Service for two may be had for nine dollars and seventy-four cents, while service for six is provided in kits up to forty-nine fifty.

This week, cases ordinarily twenty-seventy-four, for six persons, are being offered at fourteen-seventy-four.

Underwear for Men Found on Fifth Floor

That people engrossed by the current problem of shopping for Christmas presents may not forget the necessaries, it may not be amiss to call attention to the fact that the Men's Underwear Department is functioning on the fifth floor at Macy's during the holiday season. Usually it is on the street floor, but different arrangements were required to accommodate the throngs at this time of year.

In the temporary quarters on the fifth, adjoining the Men's Hat Department—which also is there for the holidays only—one finds, however, the same vast assortment of underwear. Many women have bought warm and luxurious undergarments as gifts for their husbands, sons and brothers. There are shirts, drawers and union suits in a multitude of weights and fabrics, including woolens, wool mixtures, cotton and silk. The athletic type of underwear is almost as strong a feature in cold weather as in summer. Many of Macy's special importations are remarkable for their luxury, in silk and silk-and-wool, or worsted from England, Scotland and Germany. All the garments are carefully fashioned and modestly priced in accordance with Macy's invariable policy.

And winter is only just begun!

INSISTS NARCOSAN IS NOT DANGEROUS

Horovitz Says His Treatment Normalizes Addicts, but They May Take Up Habit Again.

REPLIES TO DR. HARRIS

Tests on Guinea Pigs Proved His Remedy Was Not Harmful, Biochemist Declares.

Alexander S. Horovitz, the biochemist who originated the narcosan treatment for drug addiction, said yesterday no danger was connected with it. He had never claimed it was a cure but it would normalize a patient, if administered properly, and bring about "clinical recovery," he declared.

"There is no cure for anything—only treatment," Mr. Horovitz said. "Narcosan will restore a patient to a perfectly normal condition. Just as a man can develop pneumonia for a second time, it would be possible, of course, for him to contract the drug habit again. But he would have to begin all over again as the craving would be absent.

"Of course a man in a normal state could not take the amount of narcotic without grave danger that one habitually using the drug could. A dose that would be small for an addict would kill an ordinary man. Grave consequences would naturally follow if one who had recovered from the habit should take a large quantity of heroin, or any other narcotic, in one dose."

With reference to a statement by Dr. Louis I. Harris, Commissioner of Health, that he had never seen such intense suffering as that experienced by patients who received the narcosan treatment in the Department of Correction Hospital on Welfare Island, Mr. Horovitz said:

"I don't know what Dr. Harris saw, but it is contrary to my knowledge. Even the worst sufferers—addicts of from forty to forty-five years' standing—will be glad and happy after the third day of the treatment; but I do not want to enter into any controversy with Dr. Harris.

Cites Experiments on the Island.

"All of these experiments on Welfare Island have been made upon the lowest strata of humanity. The patients have been persons with the least amount of self-control and self-respect. The report shows that out of the enormous number of cases treated, there have been hardly any failures. It is not our aim to treat this sort of people. We want to save persons in a better class of society who have become addicted to drugs and, among them, we are quite sure the results will be even better.

"The addict who has been treated with narcosan and discharged as clinically recovered becomes normal physically and mentally. He is like a man who has never had narcotics in his system, with the consequence that his system will not stand more narcotics than the normal system. But no danger whatsoever is connected with the treatment. We have given guinea pigs four times and eight times as much as is contained in the human dose of one cubic centimeter without ill effects. The cells of the patient become normalized, so that any quantity of narcotic that would kill a normal man would kill one who had gone through the narcosan treatment.

"Many drug addicts die when given the 'cold turkey' treatment, which consists in abruptly shutting off all drugs. The substance that causes tolerance for drugs in an addict is very toxic and dangerous if the drug is withdrawn at once. Narcosan neutralizes that tolerating substance and supplies to the cells the lipoids destroyed during addiction. On the fourth day after the treatment starts the patients begin rebuilding themselves."

Says Narcosan Aided His Patient.

Dr. C. C. Moyar of Pittsburgh, a specialist in chronic diseases, came here yesterday to consult Mr. Horovitz whom he said he had known for more than twelve years. Dr. Moyar said he had a patient suffering from locomotor ataxia, or tabes dorsalis, and that the pain was so great he was obliged to administer morphine until the patient was taking ten grams daily. He administered narcosan, he said, and normalized the patient to such an extent that one quarter of a gram would give the same relief that one and a half grams previously had given.

"The suffering attending the narcosan treatment given drug addicts does not compare with that experienced by them when there is complete withdrawal of the narcotic," Dr. Moyar said.

INVITES DUCE TO VIRGINIA.

Norfolk-Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce Cables to Mussolini.

Mussolini was invited to visit this country yesterday by the Norfolk-Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce. Francis E. Turin, manager of the organization's advertising board, sent the following cablegram to the Fascist leader:

His Excellency the Premier of Italy, Rome, Italy.

Norfolk, where Italy's courageous aviators won additional renown, sends cordial greetings and asks to be honored by a visit when you come to America. Count Tornielli and Major De Bernardi will attest to our sincerity. Please answer.

FRANCIS E. TURIN, Norfolk-Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce.

The invitation had its genesis in a conversation he had with Count Tornielli, Italian Consul-General in Baltimore, and Major De Bernardi of the Italian Schneider Cup Race team, Mr. Turin explained. The possibility of Mussolini's coming to this country was discussed and Turin said he decided to get the Norfolk-Portsmouth invitation on record first.

'QUEEN PURNELL' IN COURT.

She Opposes Receivership Suit, the "King" Being Reported Ill.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 18 (AP).—"Queen" Mary Purnell, wife of Benjamin Purnell, leader of the House of David, the religious cult at Benton Harbor, Mich., appeared before Federal Judge Fred Raymond today in behalf of herself and her husband to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court and why a receiver should not be appointed for the colony. The "King" was not present, apparently due to his reported illness, which holds him an invalid in Shiloh, the administrative centre of the colony.

ORMISTON SURRENDERS AND IS HELD ON BAIL

Fugitive Radio Man in the McPherson Case Surprises Los Angeles Prosecutor.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18 (AP).—Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive from justice and co-defendant with Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, on charges of criminal conspiracy growing out of Mrs. McPherson's story of having been kidnapped, walked into the District Attorney's office here today and surrendered. Soon afterward he was taken before the Superior Court and was released on $2,500 bail to appear for arraignment on Dec. 27.

Ormiston acted as his own attorney and succeeded in having bail reduced from $10,000.

Seating himself at the District Attorney's typewriter, the radio man typed a short statement.

"Intrigue and hokum," he wrote, "are as thick as a fog," adding:

"I have entered into no understanding, agreement or contract with any newspaper. I have not received one penny from any newspaper, nor will I in the future."

While the radio man's unusual method of return here after an absence of nearly seven months, during which he was sought from coast to coast, apparently did not affect the calm surface at Angelus Temple, it did upset things at District Attorney Keyes's office.

E. J. Dennison, who took a leading part in presenting the State's conspiracy against Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, at the preliminary hearing, charged that he was "double-crossed" by Ormiston's private captors, who have had him in charge since he was located at Harrisburg, Pa., more than a week ago.

Dennison, after obtaining an indictment against the radio man from the Grand Jury in an effort to facilitate his extradition, was endeavoring at the time Ormiston arrived in California to bring about his arrest in Chicago on a fugitive warrant.

PRISONER HELD FOR ATTACK

Charged With Hitting Noisemaker With an Iron Pipe.

George T. Sullivan, 54 years old, a prisoner in the workhouse on Harts Island, alleged to have assaulted another prisoner with an iron pipe, was arrested yesterday afternoon by order of Assistant District Attorney William Kier of the Bronx, who explained that the assaulted prisoner, Nicholas Codisdodi, 21 years old, was in a serious condition suffering from concussion of the brain.

Codisdodi and two fellow prisoners went on a "noise rampage" in the workhouse dormitory Friday night, according to officials, and Sullivan, who was trying to sleep, became angry and attacked them with an iron pipe, striking Codisdodi on the head.

Proposes National Health Institute.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The establishment of a national institute of health, which would have authority to accept gifts and endowments, to establish fellowships, and to conduct research for the ascertainment of the cause, prevention and cure of disease affecting human beings, is proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative John J. Kindred of New York. The institute would be operated under the administrative control of the Surgeon-General of the Public Health Service and $1,000,000 would be made available as an initial expenditure.

BEATEN, SHE SAYS, BY TAXICAB DRIVER

Woman Has Man Arrested and Charges He Robbed Her After Ejecting Her From Car.

HIS STORY QUITE DIFFERENT

She Fought With Escort and Both Left Cab When He Went for Police, He Asserts.

On the charge of Mrs. Jeanette Tores, 28 years old, of 325 Third Avenue, Manhattan, that he beat and kicked her and stole $15 from her purse, Herman King, a taxicab driver of 2,079 Pacific Street, Brooklyn, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Jeremiah English and Joseph Bonnano of the Bergen Street Precinct and held for arraignment today in the Flatbush Police Court.

James Anderson of 27 Neck Road, a chauffeur, heard screams before daybreak from an excavation behind a lunch wagon in Flatbush Avenue, between Atlantic and Pacific Avenues, and found Mrs. Tores there hysterical. He notified Patrolman Stina, who called an ambulance. Dr. John M. Ain took Mrs. Tores to the Holy Family Hospital. Her condition was not considered as serious.

To Detectives English and Bonnano Mrs. Tores said she had attended a dance in the neighborhood of Park Circle on Friday night. Early yesterday morning, she said, a girl friend's escort had called a taxicab and told the driver to take her to her home in Manhattan, giving her $5 with which to pay her fare.

At the point where she was found, she said, the driver ordered her from the cab and told her he would go no further. She refused to leave it and told him she had money to pay him. He then pulled her from the cab.

In the struggle, she said, she tore two identification tags from inside the cab and threw them through a grating covering a cellar. She then ran behind the lunch wagon. The man followed her, she said, and beat and kicked her and left her after taking $15 of $17 which she had in her pocketbook.

The detectives recovered the tags and found that they belonged to King. As they were about to start for his home he telephoned to the Bergen Street Police Station to report the loss of the tags. The detectives arrested him at his home.

King told a story differing from that of Mr. Tores. He said he was hailed by a man near Borough Hall and told to drive to a cabaret near Park Circle. Mrs. Tores, he said, was with the man. Arriving at the place, he said, the man told him to return at 2 A. M. This he did, and at 4:30 A. M. the man and Mrs. Tores again entered the cab and told him to drive to her home.

On the way, King said, the man and Mrs. Tores quarreled and exchanged blows. They became so boisterous, he said, that at Flatbush Avenue he stopped the cab and went looking for a policeman to eject them. He did not find one and returned to the cab, only to find that the tags and his fares were gone. He then went home to sleep, he said, and on awakening called the police to notify them of the incident.

The police reported that King had been operating his own taxi business eleven years and never had been arrested previously, that he had three children and bore an excellent reputation. He was inclined to consider his arrest as a trivial affair until he was informed of Mrs. Tores's statement. He then denied positively that he had struck her or taken money from her. The detectives were unable to find any witnesses.

SEARCH OF ESTATES FOR STILLS PLANNED

Agents Say Bootleggers May Be Active While Owners Are Away, as in McKenna Case.

BEDFORD RAID RECALLED

Alcohol Taken on McKenna Place Dumped in Field—Town Feared It Would Not Mix Well With Lake.

Special to The New York Times.

SUFFERN, N. Y., Dec. 18.—Prohibition agents guarding the big still seized yesterday on the estate of Dr. Charles F. McKenna, four miles northeast of here, said today they would investigate other estates whose proprietors are in Florida or abroad to see if any are being used by moonshiners.

The discovery of liquor and liquor-making paraphernalia on the estates of Dr. McKenna and E. T. Bedford of the Standard Oil Company gave reason for belief, they said, that the practice of using New York country homes as bootlegging plants in the absence and without the knowledge of their owners might be extensive.

They said no house-to-house search would be necessary, as a building used for a distillery could be detected almost as far as it could be seen. Such stills must be near running water, they said, and that fact limits the number of estates to be investigated. Furthermore, such a building betrays itself in Winter, for the great warmth within keeps the roofs snowless and wet, while others are dry or snow-covered. The heat waves coming from the chimney of a still also were readily recognizable, they said.

The four prohibition agents, together with a dozen laborers relieved today the large force of State troopers who confiscated and guarded the $300,000 liquor plant found in a barn on the McKenna estate.

Alcohol Dumped Into Field.

This afternoon they began carting the alcohol and fermenting mash into a near-by field and dumping it there. This was a change from the original plan, which had been to dump it into the lake on Dr. McKenna's estate. This lake furnishes water for many neighboring residents and also for the village of Suffern.

Thus there existed lively possibility that householders would be drawing highballs from their kitchen taps. Some of the neighbors who heard about the projected dumping, however, expressed anxiety as to how the alcohol, mash and other ingredients would affect their water supply, so the plan was abandoned. The workmen started destroying the still also, but found it a long and intricate task.

Mrs. McKenna, wife of the physician, said yesterday at her home at 136 West Ninety-first Street, New York, that her husband was an invalid, now in the South, and that she feared the news of the use made of his estate might have an ill effect on him.

Says Two Men Rented Ice Houses.

Mrs. McKenna told Rockland County authorities investigating the distillery that the two ice houses on the estate had been rented about a month ago to two men who said they were Paterson (N. J.) ice dealers. The men represented that they wished to cut and market ice on the lake in the estate. This proposal was accepted, but the barn, which was later used to house the still, and the garage, which the bootleggers also took over, were not included in the deal. Mrs. McKenna said the moonshiners were purely trespassers when they made use of these buildings.

The bootleggers had made the same explanation of their presence to neighbors. They had explained the melting snow on the barn roof by saying they were using the barn as an artificial ice plant.

Mrs. McKenna also said she and Dr. McKenna had left no caretaker on the estate. One of the owners of the still, according to the prohibition agents, posed as caretaker. The agents said they knew the name and approximate address of one of the owners and expected to arrest him.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP).—The big alcohol raid by State troopers at Suffern, N. Y., yesterday put prohibition into the Senate Record today.

Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, obtained unanimous consent to have a newspaper account of the raid inserted in the Congressional Record, together with a statement in which he asserted the raid demonstrated that the administrative policy of the Empire State as regards prohibition was beyond reproach.

The incident established, he said, that although the State at large was not in sympathy with the Volstead act, the State officers charged with the co-operation in the administration of the law were cognizant of their duty.

RAIDS IN NEW ROCHELLE.

Dry Agents and Police Arrest 18 and Seize Much Liquor.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Dec. 18.—Headed by Special Agent Thomas Kennan and Inspector Edward O'Connell, a squad of twenty-five prohibition agents, assisted by Chief of Police Frank Cody, Captain of Detectives John McGowan, Arthur Titus, Chairman of the Board of Police Commissioners of this city, and a detail of fifty patrolmen, conducted a series of raids on New Rochelle's speakeasies late this afternoon. Eighteen men were arrested, 500 gallons of beer, whisky, wines, liquors seized. Sixteen of those arrested were charged with possession of liquor. One was charged with attempting to destroy evidence, and one was charged with interfering with an officer.

The largest haul was made at the store of Joseph Waller, 127 Webster Avenue, where twenty-five half barrels of beer were seized, while at the store of Eugene H. Primerano, 116 Union Avenue, a varied assortment of absinthe, benédictine, cordials, whisky, alcohol, vermouth, Italian wine and bottled cocktails were seized.

Among the places raided were the La Rochelle Club at 269 Huguenot Street and the Pelham Road Lodge, where Gustave Maue, the proprietor, was arrested charged with assault in the second degree and with having set a dog upon the raiding officers. Patrolman E. James Forsythe was forced to shoot a German police dog which he said Maue had set upon him when the officers entered the place. At the drug store of Pasquale Arbanos, at 57 Mechanic Street, Dominick Nicholette, Arbanos's assistant, smashed two bottles in a sink when the raiders entered the store. He was charged with attempting to destroy evidence.

All of those arrested, except Maue and Burns, were released on bail and summoned to appear in New York for hearing on Monday morning.

Raids upon about seventy-five other places are promised before Christmas, in an effort to dry up New Rochelle.

GUARDREDS IN RALLY BAR SIGMAN BACKERS

be present. This policy was carried out by the police and detectives, commanded by Inspector James S. Bolan.

Mr. Sigman appealed to Deputy Inspector McGrath again, alleging that the police were handling roughly those who were denied admission. The Deputy Inspector demanded to know where the "rough house was, and Mr. Sigman pointed to a knot of men being chased by the police. Mr. McGrath hurried away with the observation that "If you wouldn't keep me I'll attend to it." The police shoved many who did not respond quickly enough.

The explanation for the careful sifting of the audience, offered after the meeting by Louis Hyman, Chairman of the General Strike Committee, was that it was the desire of his group to keep out all those who had tried to create riots and break up previous meetings called by the General Strike Committee. He admitted that officials of other unions, in addition to the invited guests on the platform, were in the audience. Observers perceived men who were described as members of the furriers' union acting as ushers and wearing blue badges marked "General Strike Committee."

Thousands Chased From Garden.

The thousands who were chased from the vicinity of Madison Square Garden marched to Webster Hall, Arlington Hall, Beethoven Hall and Manhattan Lyceum, where they held indignation meetings and adopted resolutions protesting against their treatment. Half a dozen, including two Sigman supporters who are on the General Strike Committee, visited the office of THE NEW YORK TIMES and charged that 4,000 passes had been issued by Communist leaders of the furriers' union to those sympathetic to the Hyman faction. In the east side halls men who said they had been members of the union for twenty-five years and who had been on strike twenty-five weeks denounced who ordered them barred from the big meeting.

Boos for President Sigman and applause and cheers for Mr. Hyman and the others speakers marked the meeting in the Garden. The speakers were Moses Robin, Ben Gold, head of the local furriers' union; Joseph Borochowits, Rose Wortis, Julius Portnoy and Mr. Hyman. Charles Zimmerman was Chairman.

As the meeting drew to a close Mr. Hyman announced that regardless of what decision the Arbitration Commission might make today or tomorrow in the case of the 20,000 cloakmakers employed by the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers, he would order the workers gathered in the halls to-morrow to return to work in the shops at once. He denied the authority of the Provisional Strike Committee, which was authorized by the international union to submit the dispute to arbitration, declared he and his associates were not responsible for any agreement made by the sub-manufacturers and the international union leaders, and said that at "the proper time" he would instruct the cloakmakers "how to act."

"We thank Mr. Hyman for nothing," was the comment made by Mr. Sigman on the unexpected announcement of Mr. Hyman. "Certainly the strike will be called off after the arbitration decision is announced. His latest utterance merely shows that he is completely beaten."

200 Patrolmen on Guard.

More than 200 patrolmen were stationed in the vicinity of Madison Square Garden yesterday morning when the crowd began to appear at 9.30. An hour later about 1,000 men and women were at the hall and then the West Forty-ninth Street door was opened. A committee of about 200 men and a few women, which stretched from the street door for a hundred feet to the entrance of the vast auditorium, scrutinized the credentials of every one who tried to pass the gauntlet. Right wing supporters of the Sigman administration were curtly ordered out and if they hesitated were accelerated by the committee and the police.

Some Ejected From Meeting.

After several thousand men and women were in the Garden committees walked up and down the aisles and picked out some who were ordered to leave. Every effort was made to ban those who might be expected to make a demonstration against the faction which called the meeting. A man who accidentally dropped a monkey wrench wrapped in newspaper was shoved out to the street.

It was charged by Chairman Zimmerman that meetings of the pro-Sigman supporters in the garment union, as well as in the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, had been held in the morning and that word had gone out to appear at the Garden and "provoke riot and chaos." He predicted that "all sorts of stunts will be pulled" and that some one would cry "fire" in order to stampede the meeting. The prediction did not materialize and the meeting passed without disorder.

Mr. Zimmerman and Mr. Hyman, among other speakers, asserted that the "fake cry of Communism" had been raised by the Sigman supporters, who, they alleged, were upheld "by the capitalist press, THE TIMES, The Herald Tribune and The World." They said they did not care where the newspapers stood "so long as we have the confidence of the cloakmakers," denying that the issue was one of Communism and asserting that it was a revolt of the "decent elements in the union" against "the corrupt bureaucratic Sigman machine." They promised to carry on the fight until Mr. Sigman resigned.

Hyman Wants an Election.

Mr. Hyman challenged the international officers to hold an election supervised by the American Civil Liberties Union or some impartial body and said his adherents would abide by the results.

Mr. Gold of the Furriers' Union pledged the support of his organization and called for an amalgamation of all the needle trades. The audience burst into applause and cheers when Mr. Hyman, the last speaker, took the floor. Men and women waved their hands and some threw their hats into the air. The resolutions condemned "the tactics of Sigman" and pledged support to the deposed Joint Board leaders.

Following the meeting the international union issued a statement charging that 15,000 bona fide cloakmakers had been barred despite the fact that many arrived hours before the meeting was scheduled. It was alleged that "police, acting under specific instructions of Communists, manning the doors, barred the cloakmakers despite the fact that they waved union cards and demanded admission to a meeting advertised 'for cloakmakers.'"

Among the high officials of the union who were barred were Salvatore Ninfo, David Dubinsky, Harry Greenberg, Louis Pincowsky and Mollie Friedman.

Says Green Approves Course.

In a statement last night Mr. Sigman announced that President William Green of the American Federation of Labor in a letter approved his course in dealing "with the communistic elements who are bent upon the destruction of your great organization."

"The Communists have dropped their masks and display in full light that, from the beginning of their nefarious control, the voice of the rank and file was not to be heeded, but the voice of the Communist Party politicians, who embarked on a course to wreck the most enlightened and progressive union in the country, was to be heard," said Mr. Sigman.

"We admire the courage of our men, who were roughly handled by the police. Although they were kept in the intense cold for five hours the cloakmakers remained on the scene, despite being driven by police on horseback.

"The Communists employed their usual tactics by sending out an invitation to the cloakmakers' membership as a show of democracy and then only admitting their favorites who had been supplied with new black and red cards and little buttons."

Mr. Sigman said the call of the International Union to the rank and file to begin registering at the 3 West Sixteenth Street offices tomorrow would "reveal to the world that they are through, once and for all, with their Communist traducers."

JOHN F. O'HARA DIES; FIREMAN 44 YEARS

Sudden Death of Deputy Chief in Brooklyn Laid to Smoke of Blaze He Had Just Fought.

CAME FROM IRELAND AT 14

Joined Fire Department in 1882 and Was Widely Liked—Was a Personal Friend of Governor Smith.

Deputy Fire Chief John F. O'Hara, ranking officer of the Fire Department in Brooklyn, who had fought every big Brooklyn fire of the last forty-four years, died suddenly yesterday at his home, 508 Hancock Street, that borough, at the age of 62. His family and fellow-officers in the Fire Department say that he died from the heavy "dose of smoke," as the firemen call it, that he inhaled at the four-alarm fire he helped put out early yesterday morning at 255 Water Street, Brooklyn.

Chief O'Hara went to the fire at 6 A. M., on the first alarm. Sizing up the blaze as dangerous, he turned in third and fourth alarms, and entered with his customary energy into the work of putting out the fire. He found time occasionally to chat and joke for a moment with the other men and when the work was over and he left for home at 8:30 no one thought he was in a serious condition, although several had noticed him suffer for a time from the smoke.

After stopping at Fire Headquarters, O'Hara went on a brief Christmas shopping tour. Arriving home, he told his wife he felt ill and had no appetite. He said he would be all right again after a nap. In reply to her anxious inquiries, he assured her he had been through nothing worse than he had endured a dozen times before.

He went to bed about 10 o'clock. His wife went to his room at 6:30 and found him dead. She summoned Dr. C. B. Vogt of 496 Hancock Street, who gave no opinion as to the cause of death. Later Chief Medical Officer of the Fire Department Joseph E. Smith and the department chaplain, Father Edward P. Costello, came to the house.

Chief O'Hara was born in Ireland and came to this country as a boy of 14. He joined the old Brooklyn Fire Department in 1882, coming into the New York department on the consolidation of the two cities. He succeeded the late Deputy Chief Thomas Lally, on his retirement in 1918. He was popular in the department, and had the nickname of "Gentleman Boss John," on account of his friendly, pleasant ways with his men. In December, 1922, he had a miraculous escape from death when a mass of debris of a burned building at Harrison Avenue and Walworth Street, Brooklyn, fell on him, sending him to the hospital for a long time.

The Chief belonged to Columbus Council, Knights of Columbus; the Brooklyn Elks, the Holy Name Society of the Fire Department and the Church of Our Lady of Victory in Brooklyn. He leaves his wife, Catherine, four sons and two daughters.

Deputy Chief O'Hara was a close personal friend of Governor Smith, who probably will visit the O'Hara home today. Chief O'Hara was a distant relative of the late ex-Sheriff Tom Foley.

Fire Commissioner Dorman said last night:

"I was very sorry to hear the sad news of the death of Deputy Chief John O'Hara. He was a great and a noble man, loved and respected by all the members of our department.

"I have known Chief O'Hara personally for more than a quarter of a century. He lived an exemplary life and was a credit to men of his type. May I say also that in behalf of the greatest fighting force in the world we shall all miss him? Truly he was a great fighter. His death is a distinct loss to the great City of New York."

SENATOR ELIJAH B. WHITE.

Wartime Food Administrator and Head of Percheron Society Dies.

LEESBURG, Va., Dec. 18 (AP).—State Senator Elijah B. White, wartime food administrator of Virginia and President of the Percheron Society of the United States, died here today at the age of 68.

In April, 1922, the French Government conferred upon Mr. White the order of Officier du Merite Agricole in recognition of his services in improving horses. Twenty years earlier Mr. White had begun to breed horses upon his return to Leesburg after ill health had not only forced him to give up his grain exchange business in Chicago but had caused physicians to despair of his recovery. The outdoor life he led in connection with his breeding establishment aided his return to health.

The French decoration was conferred on Mr. White for the stallion Last, declared at the Chicago show grand champion Percheron stallion, and for one of his sons, declared reserve grand champion, a record said to have been unprecedented at the show. Mr. White was a member of the advisory board of the Horse Association of America.

PARK MAN FOUND DEAD; CHILDREN LOSE FRIEND

Paul Rosenthal, Ex-Pugilist and Once Owner of Cafes, Dies Suddenly in East Side Room.

Paul Rosenthal, 60 years old, the big-hearted handy man of Tompkins Square, and a prizefighter back in the days when boxing gloves were effeminate, was found dead in his room at 608 East Fourteenth Street yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Louis Geos. When the news of his passing became known in the neighborhood hundreds of children who had played with him in the square, clamored for one last look at the friend they had always called "McCarthy"—the name Rosenthal used in his days in the ring.

Once affluent and said to have been the owner of restaurants and cafés in New York, Rosenthal had wasted most of his money and had been forced to seek work in the Park Department. For a number of years he had been handy man in Tompkins Square, where the children of the east side came to play with him and keep him from work. During the time he lived in Fourteenth Street the old ex-fighter became an institution. It was said that he helped neighbors with small loans at times, and old Mrs. Nickleovitch, who lived on the floor above him, declared yesterday that every Christmas he had given $5 to her. At other times he cleaned walks for his friends after snowstorms.

Rosenthal had not been seen since Tuesday evening, when Mrs. Schlesinger, the landlady, saw him go to his room. Yesterday he failed to call for his pay check and a fellow park worker went around to see what was wrong. Looking through a transom he saw Rosenthal humped up in a chair. Patrolman Geos was called. He broke in the door. It was thought that Rosenthal died of heart trouble.

He is survived by a brother, H. M. Rosenthal, of 15 East 106th Street, who said the dead park employe had fought often in "Dwnie Geoghegan's saloon down on the Bowery, when boxers put up a better battle for a drink than the present-day kind do for $30,000." "McCarthy's" furniture and personal effects the brother gave to Mrs. Nickleovitch.

JOHN H. COLE DEAD; LAWYER FOR 53 YEARS

Had Many Philanthropic Interests —Funeral at Trinity Church Tomorrow.

John H. Cole, lawyer and philanthropist, who had practiced at the New York Bar for fifty-three years, died yesterday at his residence, 25 Fifth Avenue. His age was 76. He leaves a widow, formerly Josephine McIlvaine Hewson; a daughter, the wife of Professor Henry N. Russell of Princeton, N. J., and a brother, Charles D. M. Cole of Morristown, N. J. Funeral services will be held at Trinity Church, Broadway and Wall Street, at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mr. Cole was graduated from Harvard in 1870 and from the Harvard Law School two years later. During his long career as a lawyer he devoted himself chiefly to the trial of cases. Of recent years his professional activity had lessened, though he retained the office in the Mills Building at 35 Wall Street which had been his for more than forty years. He continued, however, to keep up his many philanthropic interests, chief of which were various charities connected with Trinity Church.

He was a trustee of St. Donlin's Home and of the Society for the Promotion of Religion. He was an incorporator in 1893 of the Church Club, had served it as President, and had also been Chairman of the House Committee of the New York Bar Association. In recent years he had given up membership in the University, New York Yacht and Larchmont Yacht clubs, but he remained a member of the Century Association and the Club until his death.

Samuel L. Hyman, President of the Congregation Shearith Israel, the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, Central Park West and Seventieth Street, died Thursday after a long illness at his residence, 223 West Eighty-third Street, where services will be held at 10 o'clock this morning. Mr. Hyman is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rachel Hyman.

Mr. Hyman had been one of the chief supporters and workers for the congregation for the last twenty-five years and previous to his recent election to the Presidency had been Vice President and trustee. He had also been Treasurer of the Lebanon Hospital for a long term. He was Vice President of the Hebrew Relief Society and a member of the Board of Managers of the Society Hebra Hased Va Amet. He was born in Richmond, Va. seventy years ago.

Patrolman John Kear Buried.

Services for Patrolman John Kear of the West Forty-seventh Street Station were held yesterday in the Church of Saint Paul the Apostle, Sixtieth Street and Columbus Avenue. Twenty patrolmen marched as an escort from the home, 124 West Sixty-third Street, to the church. Mr. Kear, who was 30 years old, died on Monday in Roosevelt Hospital after a two days' illness of pneumonia. He was cited recently by Commissioner McLaughlin for bravery in fighting two gunmen, one of whom he wounded.

OPERA

By OLIN DOWNES.

Chaliapin as Don Quixote.

DON QUICHOTTE, heroic comedy in five scenes. Poem in French by Henri Cain, after Le Lorrain. Music by Jules Massenet. At the Metropolitan Opera House.

The Lovely Dulcinea	Marion Telva
Don Quichotte	Feodor Chaliapin
Sancho	Giuseppe De Luca
Pedro	Grace Anthony
Garcias	Minnie Egener
Rodriguez	Max Altglass
Juan	Angelo Bada
A bandit chief	Paolo Ananian
Two servants,	Vincenzo Reschiglian, Arnold Gabor
Two bandits	Louis D'Angelo, James Wolfe
Conductor	Louis Hasselmans

Feodor Chaliapin recreated the part of Don Quixote in Massenet's facile opera of that name yesterday afternoon in the Metropolitan Opera House. He breathed the breath of life into a rôle which is of dramatic papier-maché and musically non-existent. If the hero of the opera yesterday afternoon had had to depend for one instant on the music that Massenet put in his mouth the work would by now have vanished from the Metropolitan repertory—less than a year after its production by that organization, on last April 3. It has its being in the extraordinary art of the principal impersonator. Sometimes this remarkable man appears as an actor manqué. He acts with his voice as well as his body; he seizes on the slightest excuse to envisage a moment that the observer always remembers.

Mr. Chaliapin has a voice of unusual qualities. It is used according to dramatic ideals rather than musical, and it is hardly necessary to stress the fact that while he can treat a musical phrase beautifully when he chooses he is always pre-eminently the singing actor; the framework of the phrase can go to perdition if his conception of text and situation differs from the melodic line provided by the composer.

In operas of a classic type this kind of performance lays itself open to severe criticism; in a score of the quality of "Don Quixote" it is rather a blessing than otherwise. It may be that Massenet would not know his own intentions in certain of the scenes of Mr. Chaliapin, but it is probable that if he were open-minded about the matter he would be surprised to discover so much that he himself had not realized in the part. That is the one profitable basis of this production. The music of Massenet must have been the more disappointing to those who had recently heard an orchestral performance of Strauss's "Don Quixote," a composition which may or may not stand as a piece of "absolute" music, but is certainly instinct with the psychology and the pathos of which the French opera manufacturer never dreamed.

As it was, the audience rejoiced in the spectacle of the crack-brained Don beneath Dulcinea's balcony—Sancho Pansa—and a good one, too, in the comedy of Mr. de Luca—by his side—the Knight's face allight with the radiance of his illusion; gaunt, ridiculous and noble, in his incredible defiance of reality. They saw, too, the Don, rapt in prayer, confronting the brigands in the pass, erect, his soul in his eyes, and the cut-throats awed by a thing greater than they could know. And they witnessed the climax of the drama, when at last the Knight discovers the truth of Dulcinea's shame, and disintegrates, body and soul, before the eyes of the crowd. There is not, from the theatrical standpoint, a more pathetic picture in opera-land. It can be added, however, that with Mr. Chaliapin the last scene is not an anti-climax, and does not lose its poignancy, after what has been seen.

This is surely one of Mr. Chaliapin's greatest achievements. The only incongruous thing about the business is the fact that it must be done to music. If only this were drama, without the meaningless meanderings of Massenet, and with Mr. Chaliapin as actor and reciter of text! The impression would then be still greater, and more unified, instead of the farrago of cheap music and operatic folderol that it takes a supreme artist to prevent it from being. "Don Quixote" is in fact a crowning argument for opera that must, after all, be "music-drama," or have only scant justification for its existence. Let the drama rule, as all thoughtful opera composers have insisted, but let it inspire music. When the composer plays the purely negative rôle, as in this score, he is writing theatre, not music, drama, therefore not opera in all that the word should imply.

It does not matter, so far as yesterday afternoon in the Metropolitan Opera House was concerned! There was a remarkable example of action, gesture, facial expression and the treatment of tone to give as much distinction as possible to text, and there was, generally speaking, a good show. Mr. Chaliapin's principal collaborators were Miss Telva, an intelligent and interesting interpreter, who does what can be done with the part of Dulcinea, and Mr. de Luca, who is capital in his part. All of the supplementary rôles—"Don Quixote" being an opera for one man, just as many of Massenet's works were operas for one woman—were those of previous performances at the Metropolitan.

There was Mr. Urban's generally excellent scenery. Mr. Hasselmans did his duty by the score. There were many curtain calls and prolonged applause, primarily for Mr. Chaliapin, but including fellow-artists. A virtuoso exhibition, one which reaches the status, so far as its material makes possible, of great art.

Christmas Carols.

A Christmas carol concert was given by the Carol Choir of Mount Holyoke College, William C. Hammond, conductor, last night, in Town Hall. There was a program consisting of many charming carols, some of them little known or entirely new to the local public, in various arrangements. Some of these were sung a cappella by Mr. Hammond's chorus, others with accompaniment. The performances were admirable in many respects, and in none more than the fresh and unprofessional nature of the singing, which was nevertheless very musicianly in rhythm, phrasing, accents and shadings, and remarkably clean and clear in the enunciation of text.

This was the quality of singing which should obtain more frequently than it does in this country, in which the singers make music for its own sake and do not strive for personal gain or glory. The sincerity and enthusiasm of the performances, and the careful treatment of detail, were testimony at once to Mr. Hammond's training of his young singers and also to the genuineness of feeling on their part in interpreting the music.

The carols were many. They were preceded by the Pastorale from Corelli's eighth concerto on the organ, and contrasted with other organ pieces of Karl-Elert, Jacob and Bach. The carols were selected from the folk-music of many periods and many lands. Some of the harmonizations were inclined to be conventional, but the melodic material and the qualities of the performance were in keeping with the music and the season. The hall was picked, and the audience showed its pleasure in the program. The chorus added encores to the performances originally announced.

The date of the wedding has not been announced.

Mr. Denby's father was at one time Consul General to Vienna. Mr. and Mrs. Denby formerly made their home in Detroit. They have two other sons, Edwin and James Denby, who are with them in Washington.

FIND OLD HUDSON PORTRAIT.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—A lost portrait of William Henry Hudson, explorer of nature and noted writer, has been found and identified in London. The portrait, showing a middle-aged man, was sold with other of Hudson's effects four years ago. There was no idea at the time that the portrait was that of Hudson himself.

Recently the portrait came into possession of Messrs. Stevens & Brown, American literary agents here. They referred it to Alfred Hartley, veteran British artist, who was a friend of Hudson for many years. Mr. Hartley succeeded in unearthing a letter from Hudson dealing with the portrait of the naturalist painted by Hartley in 1889, and afterward he came to London and identified it as that in the possession of Messrs. Stevens and Brown.

Mr. Hartley was the illustrator of Hudson's "Idle Days in Patagonia."

SINGS TWO OPERA ROLES.

Editha Fleischer Makes Five "Quick Changes" in "Magic Flute."

Last night's popular audience at the fourth performance of Mozart's "Magic Flute" had a surprise waiting when W. J. Guard announced from the stage that Marcella Roeseler was unable to appear. The versatile Editha Fleischer had consented to "double" her own rôle as Pamina, heroine of the opera, and that of the first lady of the trio attendant upon Marion Talley as the Queen of the Night.

Miss Fleischer not only sang the two rôles but made five "quick changes" in the wings, without benefit of costumer or dressing mirror, as Pamina and the First Lady figured in no fewer than seven of the opera's seventeen scenes. Besides Miss Talley and herself, the cast comprised Miss Hunter, Messrs. Meador, Schützendorf, Cehanovsky and Ludikar, and Mr. Bodansky conducted.

Mme. Donchian Gives Song Recital.

Angel Agnes Donchian, an Armenian soprano, who, as Agnes Chapourian, appeared here some years ago, returned to sing, last night, at Aeolian Hall. She was assisted by Walter Golde at the piano in an air from Handel's "Joshua," groups of Schubert and Tchaikovsky and the "Liebestod" from Wagner's "Tristan." Both this last and the Russian pieces were sung in English translations. There were in conclusion songs by Americans, including Sidney Homer, Fay Foster and Montague Phillips.

Miss McGlinchee in Recital.

Constance McGlinchee, a pianist, of Boston's Longy and Faelton schools, played in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon to an audience small in size but one that appreciated her quieter classics and stayed after hours for encores. Miss McGlinchee followed Beethoven's sonata, Op. 54, with a charming Gluck-Sgambati melody, and while she was overweighted with the technical storms of the Brahms-Handel variations and Balakirev's "Islamey," there was quick contrast in some straightforward Chopin and an impromptu and romance by Faure.

Large Audience Hears Philharmonic

The Philharmonic Orchestra gave the fifth of its students' concerts last night to the usual capacity audience in Carnegie Hall and an unseen myriad of "listeners in" by radio. Mieczyslaw Munz was the soloist, playing with breadth and brilliancy the piano concerto No. 1 of Brahms. Mr. Mengelberg conducted Lalo's overture to "Le Roi d'Ys," two quaint dances from Monsigny's "Aline" and an orchestral version by Zoltan KKurthy of the G-minor violin sonata of Tartini.

Florence Mills Would Be Peter Pan.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP).—Florence Mills, American revue star who is appearing here in "Blackbirds," would like to play Peter Pan. Jolson, who lived in Washington in his childhood, earned his first money here selling newspapers. His parents are the Rev. and Mrs. R. Moses Yoelson.

Arthur Hadley, Cellist, in Hospital.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 18 (AP).—Arthur Hadley, formerly cellist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, is a patient at the John Hopkins Hospital, it was learned today when his brother, Henry Hadley, guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, visited him here.

The nature of the illness was not revealed, but hospital authorities said that it was not serious.

DOG GOES 79 MILES TO ESCAPE MUZZLE

Black Collie, However, Is Glad to Get Back to White Plains Jurist's Home After 2 Months.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 18.—City Judge Stephen Holden of White Plains Court thinks he has a remarkable black collie dog, called Ebenezer, because the animal walked seventy-nine miles to get away from the dog quarantine in Westchester County, which provides that all dogs must be muzzled and kept on leash. Judge Holden lives at Pleasantville in the Winter months and at his farm at Bulls Head in Dutchess County during the Summer time.

Last May he drove his family to Bulls Head with Ebenezer trotting behind his two-horse buggy. They stopped at Stormville overnight and then went on to the farm. In the Fall, when they returned to White Plains, Judge Holden found that Ebenezer did not care for muzzles, so he took him to Pleasantville. But the collie got ruffled when he saw other dogs muzzled and two months ago disappeared. Today, after searching the countryside for many days, the Judge learned that Ebenezer had arrived at Stormville, where he had stopped for one night last Summer. He was footsore and weary, but Judge Holden said he was glad to get back to his kennel in Pleasantville.

MAN LOST AT SEA DEC. 2.

On Dec. 2 when the liner City of St. Louis was a day out of New York bound for Savannah a passenger registered as James Karner disappeared from the ship. Apparently he was lost overboard.

The man's absence was first noticed at supper time. A steward was sent to his room and reported he was seasick. When Karner failed to appear at breakfast another search was made, but he could not be found. His only possessions seemed to be a suitcase and a pair of pajamas.

Officials of the line yesterday asked the assistance of the Missing Persons Bureau in establishing the man's identity. He was about 25 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighed 145 pounds and had a light complexion. Detective Ward said he might have been H. J. Koenan of Milwaukee, who registered at the Hotel Seville the day of the boat's sailing and whose description was somewhat similar.

FUR MILLIONAIRE ARRESTED.

Leipzig's Richest Man Accused of Defrauding on Insurance and Taxes.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LEIPSIC, Dec. 18.—Leipzig's richest man, David Biedermann, a fur dealer, was arrested today on a charge of defrauding shipping insurance companies and the Government tax collector of 1,000,000 marks.

Biedermann, who is a Russian, built a fortune amounting to $20,000,000 in the last decade by buying costly furs in Russia and selling them in Western Europe.

Insurance agents became suspicious on account of the frequency with which his shipments of the rarest furs arrived at their destination short in weight, and they asked the police to make the arrest.

A Hearing of the scale on which Biedermann conducted his business, tax collectors seized his sales books. The fur dealer furnished 500,000 marks bail, but refused to stand responsible for his manager, who also was arrested on suspicion.

AMERICAN COTTON DISPLACING RIVAL

Exporters Say Price Has Made Inroads Into Indian Trade in the Orient.

FOREIGN DEMAND HEAVY

Traders Estimate This Year's Carryover Here Will Be Held to 750,000 Bales.

The price of American cotton has reached a point where it is displacing its Indian rival not only in India itself but in Europe and in such Oriental countries as China and Japan, according to traders who have studied recent export figures. They hold that the new fields opening for American cotton as a result of the low price at which it sells now will automatically provide markets for the year's surplus. With a record crop in excess of 18,000,000 bales, they estimate that foreign demand for the staple will hold this year's carry-over to within 750,000 bales of last year's carry-over.

While these views have in some quarters been considered somewhat optimistic, those who favor them contend that shipments of American cotton to the native home of Indian cotton already made this year demonstrate that the American product undoubtedly will oust its rival in the competitive markets.

The standard quality of Indian cotton sold in world markets is known as "oomra fine." This cotton is inferior in quality to American cotton, and must be sold at 2 cents a pound below the price of middling American seven-eighths staple to maintain a parity with the American product in competitive markets. As a result of the decline in American cotton prices, "oomra fine" is selling at Liverpool only 1 cent a pound under American middling. Low-grade untenderable American cotton is selling from 3 to 4 cents under a parity with oomra cotton.

As a result of the disparity in price between typical American and Indian cotton, there is said to have been extensive substitution of the former product for the latter product in foreign markets. This has been noted particularly in the case of low-grade American cotton. Well-informed men in cotton circles say that in Japan and China present indications point to the replacement of 600,000 bales of Indian cotton normally consumed with American cotton. Owing to differences in weights, this would be equivalent to 500,000 bales of American cotton. They also estimate that in India itself the Bombay mills will consume 250,000 bales of American cotton.

As to the situation in Continental Europe, one cotton house with extensive connections in Ghent and other parts of Europe estimates that the substitution of American cotton for Indian cotton in Europe will total at least 500,000 bales and possibly reach 750,000 bales. This estimate is partly sustained by the fact that Continental spinners have bought nearly 250,000 more bales of American cotton this year than they did last year. Most of this increase is said to represent replacement of Indian cotton with American.

Present estimates, therefore, indicate a replacement of Indian cotton with American cotton in all countries of at least 1,250,000 bales. Inasmuch as domestic consumption of American cotton is running 600,000 bales ahead of last year's consumption, total consumption of American cotton should be 1,850,000 bales greater than last year.

Assuming the Government crop estimate of more than 18,000,000 bales to be correct, there should be 2,600,000 more bales of cotton produced this year than last. While many persons in the trade figure that this total should be added to the carryover, these figures indicate that the increase to the carryover resulting from the record crop should not be more than 750,000 bales. After giving effect to last year's figures, the actual carryover would be 7,000,000 bales instead of the 9,000,000 bales which would be the total if no allowance were made for the abnormal demand for American cotton manifested in foreign markets.

While the situation would seem to spell hard times for Indian cotton producers, it also has provided profitable opportunities for Indian speculators. One authority who has gone far afield in his researches into the cotton world said last week that Bombay speculators were making large purchases of Indian cotton at reduced prices. Convinced that world cotton prices are sufficiently low for their purposes, they are buying their native cotton for the "long pull." By the traditional standards of Oriental speculation, the "long pull" may mean a wait running into years.

It was explained that Indian cotton competes with American cotton only on the basis of price. The Indian staple is of shorter length and therefore does not provide the same textile strength as the American product. There is also considerably more waste in manufacturing the Indian product. For that reason Continental European and Far Eastern markets use the Indian product only because of its cheapness.

The situation is a commentary on Indian agricultural methods. Although records antedating the Christian era show India to be the first known producer of cotton, the country raises cotton comparable with the American product only in a restricted area where it has been artificially stimulated by the British Government.

JUDGE CALLED BIASED IN GOODYEAR LAWSUIT

His Jurisdiction Also Questioned by Defendants—Decisions to Be Given Tomorrow.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Dec. 18 (AP).—Continuance on Monday of the fight for control of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, brought to the United States District Court here by a stockholder's suit to restrain F. A. Seiberling and his associates as a voting trust from blocking proposed recapitalization of the company, will depend upon a ruling by Judge John M. Killits on allegations of prejudice and lack of jurisdiction.

Attorneys for the Seiberling group questioned the jurisdiction of the Court today in motions to quash the summonses, asserting that none of the "real defendants" resides in the district, and that George M. Jones and John W. McMahon of Toledo, were named as defendants for the purpose of fraudulently creating a jurisdiction. At the same time, Russel L. Robinson, another defendant, submitted an affidavit charging Judge Killits with prejudice and personal bias, and asked that another judge be designated to hear the case.

Judge Killits must rule first on the charge of prejudice, and should he find that insufficient, the question of jurisdiction must be upheld before he can begin the hearing to make permanent the temporary restraining order issued against the Seiberling group.

FOUR $1,000 GIFTS AID CITY'S NEEDIEST

POLITICS HELPS THE CAUSE

MANY CASES ARE RELIEVED

Total of $152,418 Now in Hand—$108,000 More Is Needed to Equal Work of a Year Ago.

Contributions of $14,663.20 increased the total for the Neediest Cases yesterday to $152,418.96.

The total on the same day a year ago was $151,619.69, so that today the fund leads the figure at this time last year by $799.27.

On the same day a year ago there were received contributions amounting to $18,594.90, or approximately $4,000 more than the total received yesterday. This was due, however, to a contribution of $6,000, the largest single gift ever made to the Neediest Cases. This has not been repeated. The fund also has lost an annual contribution of $4,000 through the death of a great benefactor of the Neediest Cases.

With less than a week remaining before Christmas, more than $108,000 is needed to make this year's total equal that of last year—$260,998.26. That amount provided for 345 Neediest Cases.

Every cent contributed buys the necessaries of life for the Neediest Cases. The scrupulous adherence to this guaranty is demonstrated by the reports of certified public accountants printed below.

The amount so far received this year has provided for the Hundred Neediest Cases and for many additional ones. The appeal is now being made for additional cases, twenty-five of which are printed today in Section 7.

Four Send $1,000 Each.

Four contributions of $1,000 each were received yesterday. They were given by The Magazine of Wall Street, Paul Block, John T. Ardis and H. D. B. In making his contribution Paul Block wrote:

New York, Dec. 18, 1926.

Hundred Neediest Cases:

I beg to enclose herewith my check for $1,000, which I would like to have you add to the charity fund you are collecting for the Hundred Neediest Cases.

If it is possible I would like to have it distributed in the following manner:

One-third for the Jewish charities.
One-third for the Protestant charities.
One-third for the Catholic charities.

I would like to take occasion to offer congratulations on this fine charity. Very cordially yours,

PAUL BLOCK.

"I'm enclosing my check for $1,000 toward your fund," wrote John T. Ardis. "This is a very noble work and should be supported and commended to the utmost."

A bonus, an unclaimed sum of money, Mah Jong winnings, the proceeds of a children's home fair and a fee which a lawyer received for doing legal work for a charitable organization have been among the unusual contributions received so far. A gift of surprising origin is described in the following letter:

Klein, Hinds & Fiske.

New York, Dec. 17, 1926.

Hundred Neediest Cases:

Wonder of wonders. I have just received a letter from Senator Robert F. Wagner's Campaign Committee which informs me that the receipts of the committee exceeded its needs. The letter was accompanied by a dividend check of $5. I take great pleasure in transferring the check to you, properly endorsed, together with my additional check for $20. Good luck in your splendid endeavors.

Very truly yours,
JOSEPH J. KLEIN.

Some of the Contributors.

Among the large contributors were "Doris, Charles and Jimmie," $500; "Billie, Jimmie and Tommie," $300; John H. Fulton, $250; Mrs. Kathleen L. Turle, $250; the B. Katz Special Advertising Agency, $250; E. C. Jameson, $250; Marion L. Robinson, $200; W. A. Starrett, $200; Mrs. Benjamin Moore, $200.

Seventy-eight contributions were sent in memory of dear ones.

Checks should be made payable to the "Hundred Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The New York Times or to one of the six charitable organizations presenting the cases.

One contribution came from Minnesota. Many came from Virginia and North Carolina. The following are from letters acompanyincg gifts that traveled a long way to come to the Neediest Cases.

Hans Skabo, Northfield, Minn.—I have read in The New York Times of the Hundred Neediest Cases, so I am sending the little money I have to help them. It is not very mucn, but I think it will buy one child three presents.

My name is Hans Skabo from Norway. I am eight years old. And I have no brothers or sisters.

Shirley T. Sherman, Shipman, Va.—I am a litle girl and I want to help that other little girl living in the shanties. I am sending a check for $5 that my grandmother gave me.

Mrs. J. L. Goff, Fort Monroe, Va.—I am enclosing herewith check for one dollar and fifty cents which represents Jackie's savings from his penny bank. He is only four years old and wants to help.

E. W. Gregory, Fort Eustis, Va.—We get your paper on the post every day. I have been following the Neediest Cases Fund and it dawned on me that I should help a little.

Mrs. Ava B. Talman, Detroit—Enclosed please find check for $300, which I am glad to be able to send to help this wonderful work along. I wish to give it this year in the names of my little sons, Billy, Jimmie and Tommy, who wish to have it used to help the very neediest children. We all wish it were many times as great a sum, but are more than grateful to the many organizations who make it possible for us to reach those who really need help. With every wish for the growth and continued success of this work.

A North Carolina Friend, Fayetteville School of Music, Fayetteville—Please find inclosed a small check to help a bit a little bit in the wonderful work you are doing for the poor of my own city.

Messages With Group Gifts.

Schools, organizations and groups of employes were well represented yesterday. The following are from letters accompanying such contributions:

Miss E. M. G.—This is from the Greenleaf Mission Circle in memory of their beloved Sabbath School Teacher.

MacLean Gilmour, Club Leader—The Judson Tuxis Boys' Club of Judson Memorial Church, last night directed me to forward to you all the money in their treasury which amounts to $2. They planned to use this for a Christmas party, but decided on their own initiative that wee Victor, listed as Case 47, was much more entitled to the necessities of life than we were to the luxuries.

Mrs. Helen S. Taylor—In the name of a small social club, "Amity Club," I am sending $10 toward the 100 Neediest Cases. Apply it to a family with little children, as we all have youngsters and would feel happy in sending our small contribution where young children need help.

The New York Times Telephone Department—Kindly accept our small contribution ($15) to be applied to Case 100, "In Memory of Our Beloved Associate, Mercedes Crehan," with all good wishes that you may go "over the top" this year.

Pilgrim Chapter, No. 645, O. E. S.—Please find enclosed check for $10, our contribution to this wonderful fund for the neediest families. At this time of year our chapter is called upon to assist quite a few charitable organisations and we feel sure yours is entitled to a share, being such a worthy undertaking.

Frederic Henry Stern, student manager of Relief Fund of Textile High School—Impelled by our sympathy for suffering humanity and having read of the agonizing series of events which have, in many instances, deprived mothers and fathers of their own, we offer the following contribution ($27.05) in the hope that it may, in some slight measure, alleviate the intense suffering experienced by the mother and four children in Case 85, to whom this contribution is dedicated. We, therefore, offer you the enclosed amount, in extension of that wonderful relief work, so nobly begun, so ably administered and so greatly increased.

Sara Smith—The enclosed check of $26 is the Christmas contribution of the pupils of nine civic classes of the annex of this school to the Hundred Neediest Cases Fund.

Little Girl Makes a Sacrifice.

"I am sending $10," wrote Anne Fulcher, "to go to Case 38 in the hundred cases in The New York Times. I wanted a doll's baby carriage for Christmas, but daddy told me about these hundred people and I decided I would rather give to one of them. Daddy gave me the money and I am sending it so that poor Mrs. Calder won't get separated from her daughter."

A contribution of $50 was received yesterday from Ida M. Tarbell, the historian, who wrote as follows:

Dec. 17, 1926.

Hundred Neediest Cases:

I take great pleasure in enclosing my gift toward the Hundred Neediest. I would like to have it used for Case No. 33.

During the last few years I have come to know the work of the Charity Organization Society fairly intimately, for I have referred some very difficult situations to them. Perhaps more than anything else, I have appreciated the skill and tact and sympathy with which they have dealt with the so-called "seen-better-days" people. Such individuals are usually super-sensitive, unwilling to face present facts and very suspicious of those who would help them.

Time and again I have seen C. O. S. workers win the confidence and friendship of these people and ultimately their cooperation in working out plans for themselves.

I believe they have been so successful because of their tremendous respect for personality and pride and their great desire to protect the privacy and remaining self-respect of these pitiful people.

It is a great art, this "art of helping," and I believe the C. O. S. workers come pretty close to mastering it.

With best wishes for the success of your campaign, I am sincerely yours,

IDA M. TARBELL.

Sad Plight of This Family Calls for Immediate Help

Rose is too serious to smile over anything. She is only 10 years old, but she is thin and gaunt and weighed down by her heavy responsibilities. When she leaves her own class in the afternoon she gets Jane from 2B and Martin from 1A and pilots them home. Baby Lucy is at home all day with her sick parents. She is a silent, subdued child who has never had a toy. Her mother and father sit at a window looking out, dumb with fear and trouble. The money in the bank has all been withdrawn for doctor's bills and living expenses. Apparently the father is slowly dying. The mother herself is too ill to do more than care for the home and her children. Worried neighbors reported the family's plight and asked for help.

Amount needed, $450.

Case attested and administered free of cost by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, 105 East Twenty-second Street. (Telephone Gramercy 4066.)

Many Reasons for Giving.

The following are passages from other letters accompanying contributions:

Marion E. Moore—In memory of my father, Charles E. Moore, who always contributed to this cause at this time, I enclose my check for $25 for the Hundred Neediest Cases.

Tony and Judy—Please divide between the man who makes the Noah's Ark animals (Case 58) and Case 84.

G. D. H.—You will find enclosed my check for $5, which I wish you to use where it is most needed. I am sorry it is not a larger check, but we have our poor in Florida who have suffered in the hurricanes and need help.

Fanny Klein—In memory of my dear departed ones I am enclosing check for $10. I assure you it is a great pleasure for me to be privileged to do my little mite in this wonderful work.

Lilian Clegg—I would like this applied toward helping some one who is struggling to keep up, under adverse circumstances, a home which was once theirs under more favorable conditions.

Ella Conklin Davies—Kindly accept this small check for your most worthy charity. I wish it could be many, many times more, and consider it a privilege to give my small mite every year.

P. Bloch—Enclosed please find my check for $109.25, which kindly acknowledge as follows: P. B., South Orange, $100; M. B., South Orange, $5; Bridge Game, $4.25. I have not designated any one particular case, having full faith in your discretion that you will use the money where it will do most good. Wishing you the very best of success in your commendable endeavor to relieve suffering humanity.

A Privilege to Help.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. P., Janusberg, N. J.—Please enroll us among your contributors. The cause is "par excellence." We have no poor in our borough and therefore send you checks for a small amount, as we (my wife and self) are on the shady side of threescore years and ten. We feel that the distance is now short and deem it a great privilege and pleasure to add a little to your fund. As we are in the aged class, our feelings naturally go out to the older ones.

G. R. M.—Enclosed please find check for $5 which please accept as a contribution from Mamu and Carroll to the Hundred Neediest Cases Fund. It is a beautiful act of charity and most appropriate at this time of the year.

G. S. C.—Enclosed find check for $25 for the above fund. Kindly list it only as from "A Friend." May I say that the interesting way in which The Times presents these cases and the fact that this form of appeal admits of some "free-will offerings," seems to me more effective and better business a thousand times over than the dunning methods now so popular with worthy causes.

Mary C. Fitzpatrick—Enclosed find a small contribution to your fund and wish I owned a thousand shares of U. S. Steel so I could send something worth while. However, I will continue to ask the Giver of all gifts, great and small, that greater success than ever will attend these unmatched efforts to relieve distress and want among the helpless and unfortunate.

Reports of Auditors.

The six charitable organizations aiding the cases made public yesterday reports by certified public accountants who have made audits of expenditures by those organizations of the money received as a result of the appeal for the neediest cases a year ago. In each case it was reported that the obligation to use contributions solely to meet the needs of the cases had been exactly observed.

Haskins & Sells, accountants, who audited the accounts of the State Charities Aid Association, reported as follows:

Certificate.

Dec. 18, 1926.

We have audited the books and records of the State Charities Aid Association for the purpose of verifying the receipts and disbursements for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1926, for account of the 1925 Times Hundred Neediest Fund, and

We hereby certify that, as shown by the records of the association, the accompanying statement correctly exhibits the total receipts and disbursements of that fund for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1926, and

We further certify that all the cash disbursements aggregating $23,192.43 were made for food, clothing and shelter, and that no part of the fund was used for administrative purposes of the State Charities Aid Association.

HASKINS & SELLS.

The detailed report showed that the State Charities Aid Association had received $34,944.14 of last year's fund for the neediest cases, a balance of $11,751.71 existing on Sept. 30, 1926.

No Costs for Relief Work.

The report of Swasey & Co. on the neediest cases account of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities follows:

Dec. 16, 1926.

The Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, 69 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

This is to certify that we have examined the ledger accounts of the families appealed for by the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities among "the Hundred Neediest Cases" appealed for in The New York Times in December, 1925, and find that $42,021.88 has been expended by the bureau out of the total of $44,594.51 raised. * * * A few of the cases have been closed either temporarily or permanently, and unexpended balances have been transferred to other families or are being held for future expenditures of families still in need of care.

We find that no part of the fund is being used for the administration expenses of the organization, but being exclusively disbursed for relief.

Yours very truly,
SWASEY & CO.,
GEO. D. EHNI, Manager.

Fund at Work Entire Year.

The report of Price, Waterhouse & Co. on the neediest cases account of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies follows:

New York, Dec. 16, 1926.

The New York Times, Times Square, New York City, N. Y.

Dear sirs: At the request of the Jewish Social Service Association, Inc., we have examined the books and accounts of that association for the period from Jan. 1, 1926, to July 31, 1926, for the purpose of verifying the cash receipts and disbursements recorded on the books of the association in that period for the account of The New York Times Hundred Neediest Cases.

We find that the cash receipts aggregated $31,063.63 and the disbursements amounted to $15,302.21, leaving an unexpended balance on July 31, 1926, of $15,761.42.

The amount of the cash receipts was confirmed to us by the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies. We verified the disbursements by inspection of properly approved authorizations and canceled paid checks and found them to consist of expenditures made directly to the designated beneficiaries or for their account.

Yours very truly,
PRICE, WATERHOUSE & CO.

HASKINS & SELLS.

Marine Is Chosen to Dress The Duchess of York's Hair

LONDON, Dec. 18.—A royal marine named Uden is a very proud man. He is a marine aboard the battleship Renown, which will take the Duke and Duchess of York to Australia, and he has been deputed to dress the Duchess's hair during the voyage there and back. He also will attend to the hair of her two ladies in waiting, Lady Cavan and the Hon. Mrs. John Gilmour.

Uden means to make a good job of it. He has been spending considerable time in a fashionable London hairdressing establishment where women specially are treated, and he is said to have become an expert in shingling, bingling, bobbing and accomplishing other things that are done to the feminine head.

Aboard the Renown Uden will have his own quarters and the necessary apparatus for the treatment of women's hair in any style or fashion.

AUSTRALIA DERIDES HARD-BOILED 'YANK'

Former Premier Holman Says the Cornstalk Is Tougher by Every Test.

CALLS OUR NAVY "SLOPPY"

And Concludes That as the World Leader the United States Has Not Qualified.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Australia admires America, but she does not suffer from any inferiority complex on that account. She, too, has her hard-boiled hen fruit and certain encounters of her sons with America's ten-minute eggs make her believe that hers are harder boiled.

W. A. Holman, ex-Premier of New South Wales, makes this clear in a witty article in The Sunday Times. Sir Walter Besant he holds responsible for the cult of inferiority because in one if his novels he depicts an American cowpuncher as immensely superior to an English tenderfoot.

"The American was plain spoken," says Mr. Holman, "self-possessed, untrammeled in his expressions, quick on the draw and, above all, cool. He spoke of a corpse as cold meat and had not a humanitarian thrill at the sight of one. The Englishman was a quiet, God-fearing, conventional person—bold enough, but unaccustomed to battle."

Gallant Stand by Kipling.

Mr. Holman then describes the gallant stand against this made by Kipling, who wrote of Englishmen as quicker on the draw and more cynical about it than the most homicidal Yankee. But Americans, says Mr. Holman, scored again when they took up sports in which England had had a monopoly.

"The American seemed tougher," writes Mr. Holman, "both in body and mind and battles against him of any kind were not to be won on the playing fields of Eton and Harrow.

"But certain things have happened which have freed the Australian mind from any haunting sense of disadvantage. First there was the war. The Australian throughout his acquaintanceship with the United States Army troops was accustomed to talk to them from the vantage ground of membership in a crack corps with an almost unbroken record of success to raw newcomers.

"There was even an unfortunate encounter in which some hard fighting the Cornstalk veterans inflicted serious damage on some lately arrived doughboys and they met each other no more. But our men carried away a permanent impression of our own greater toughness."

Our Navy Not So Much.

Mr. Holman next finds the American sailor inferior to the British.

"The United States Navy has visited Melbourne and Sydney twice in the last twenty years," he says, "but has not commanded unqualified admiration. Uncle Sam's ships were always magnificent, but their handling was a little soppy and unbusinesslike. Sydney's aquatic susceptibilities, accustomed to the mathematical perfection of British methods, were outraged by the spectacle of the flagship pottering twenty minutes around a mooring buoy."

And as to athletics and other varieties of toughness, Australia is no small beer.

"We have during forty years," says Mr. Holman, "successfully held championships of the world in boxing, sculling, swimming, tennis and cricket. These things fortify our subconsciousness. We are a nation of horsemen. The cow-puncher has nothing on us. Our bushmen use a stock whip in place of a lasso and the buck jumper is without terrors for them." Mr. Holman's peroration is as follows:

"It will be gathered possibly from the foregoing that modesty runs some risk of being crowded out by our other virtues. And this perhaps is so. But Australians are not consciously boastful. They talk highly about themselves and their country because they believe what they say is true. For a long time when they encountered the American booster they were silent because they believed what he said was true. Now they know, or think they do, that in the great majority of cases it is not true.

"The solid merits of America shine out to our vision more clearly than ever, but we realize that as a world leader the United States has not yet qualified."

S. C. Britton Is Improving.

Sumner C. Britton, retired publisher, who was found in the Newark City Hospital Friday night suffering from amnesia, was reported greatly improved last night at his home in the Hudson View Gardens, 183d Street and Pinehurst Avenue. His son, William Britton, said, however, that his father had not been able to tell where he had been during the five days following his disappearance from his home.

GERMAN CRISIS REGRETTED

A Socialist Triumph Is Feared as Likely to Bring Nationalist Reaction Later.

By ERNEST MARSHALL.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

PARIS, Dec. 18.—European opinion this week has been oscillating like the Mills recording needle during a period of seismic disturbance. It registered quakes and tremors in many quarters.

The greatest shock came toward the end of the week when reports were published that the United States had concluded a treaty with Panama whereby the United States entered upon an entangling alliance with that Central American Republic.

Whether or not the reported treaty was a new development of the Monroe Doctrine was not the point in which European opinion was directly interested. To the European mind it was a question whether the United States had thrown the weight of its example and moral influence into the scale on the side of one or other of two policies which were being weighed in the balance in the Old World. It was, in other words, what may be termed the abstract verities which it was sought to crystallize into shape in the agreements of Locarno, or the concrete realities which were embodied in the Treaty of Tirana. European opinion has been swinging like a pendulum between the ideals of the one and the practical advantages of the other.

Locarno was born of blood and tears. It represented aspiration toward a common standard of good conduct between nations which had suffered the misdeeds of one or all, and had repented in sackcloth and ashes. It symbolized progression—an advance to something better than the old political systems of offensive and defensive alliances. It was a step along the road to universal arbitration in conflicts of interests. World opinion, as represented by the League of Nations, was to be the final court of appeal.

Tirana a Swing to Old Methods.

Then came the announcement of the Tirana Treaty, which appeared to be a reversion to the old policies of retrogression from the ideal that individual interests could best be safeguarded by a true appreciation of common interests.

Europe was confronted by the necessity of choosing between the two systems. Its opinion was not formed. It was in process of being formed. It had followed with the closest attention the efforts which had been made at Geneva to reconcile the theories of the old and new systems of policy. It had seen M. Briand working along one line and M. Poincaré holding to another. It had seen Herr Stresemann engaged in a Homeric struggle against opposition in his own country, which was not less potent because its methods were disguised.

The pendulum of European opinion swung higher in favor of the Locarno ideals because it felt that despite all the difficulties progress was being made toward their realization. The compromise of last Sunday was a distinct gain and not a loss. It marked time during which differences of policy could be threshed out. Sir Austen Chamberlain's reply to Socialist queries in the British Parliament indicated that protagonists of Locarno had possibly gone ahead of certain sections of public opinion in their own countries. It was a case of the Locarnists versus the Versaillists, of idealists against realists.

German Crisis a Factor.

Evacuation of the Rhineland at some date prior to the expiration of the maximum fifteen years provided for by the Treaty of Versailles had been discussed at Geneva. Sir Austen Chamberlain acknowledged the fact. He had no reason to conceal it, for it was within the knowledge of all the world that the question had come on the carpet both at Locarno and Thoiry.

Last week's negotiations simply showed that the Versaillists were not ready yet to meet the Locarnists on common ground. Poland was once again made to play the part of the conscientious objector, and the moribund Council of Ambassadors was dragged from its couch and dressed up in scarecrow raiment.

Now another argument has been put into the hands of the Versaillists by the debates in the Reichstag and the defeat of the Marx Government. A Socialist victory at this moment is about the most unfortunate development Germany's domestic affairs could have taken. It will probably be followed by a Nationalist reaction and consequent stiffening in the French objections to the logical development of the Locarno and Thoiry ideals.

Thus the European pendulum, which a week ago was swinging in favor of Locarno, now is swinging to the other side. The psychological effect which the reported Panama treaty will have upon opinion on this side of the Atlantic is among the imponderabilia of politics.

1,000 CHOICE DOLLS ARE GUESTS AT TEA

Children Exhibit Bearers of Good-Will Message to Japanese Youngsters.

TO HAVE PART IN FESTIVAL

Forty-eight Dolls, Representing Our States, to Be Kept in Imperial Museum as a Record.

One thousand dolls, the pick of the 58,000 that are being sent to the children of Japan with messages of friendship from American children, were guests at a farewell tea party yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Plaza.

The title of Miss New York was given to the most attractively dressed doll after 100 school children had passed the judges with their dolls in their arms.

The judges were Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, New York Chairman of the Committee on World Friendship Among Children, instituted by the Commission on International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America; Mrs. Winchester Fitch, Mrs. Frank Heyward, Mrs. E. K. Rice, Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld and Cosmo Hamilton.

To each of the doll messengers of friendship was attached a special passport, certified by Hirosi Saito, Japanese Consul General in New York, also a miniature steamship and railroad ticket, signed by Sidney L. Gulick, Secretary of the Federal Council, as general passenger agent.

Some of the dolls contributed by the children in the homes, schools and churches of America, are already on their way to Japan. Those exhibited yesterday will be sent on Thursday. They are all on their way to attend the next Hina Matsuri, the festival of dolls, which will be celebrated in Japan on March 3 and which has a history of more than 1,000 years.

Forty-eight dolls, representing each State, were also selected yesterday. These will be kept in the Imperial Museum in Tokio as a permanent record of good-will between the children of the two countries. The Japanese Government will supervise the distribution of the entire consignment, with the above exception, to children in the public schools of Japan.

One little doll almost missed the tea party. It came from Ireland Island in Bermuda, and arrived just before the party ended. It was dressed by children in a Sunday School in Bermuda, and was named "Bermudiana."

The doll was warmly dressed for the long voyage in a blue knitted suit, and brought with it a pretty party dress and complete bathing outfit, including bathrobe.

One doll was dressed by some children in a mining town in Montana. They were saving their pennies to dress and send a doll to Japan, when a disaster occurred in the mines and they decided to give their pennies to the local hospital to help care for the injured.

When Mrs. Rosalie Ashton, national director of the doll travel bureau of the committee, heard of the circumstance, she sent a doll to the children, which they dressed and sent on in time for the party.

Outstanding in the display was a bridal party, including a doll bridegroom; a radio doll, posed in front of a microphone, and a doll dressed by a blind girl.

Miss Margaret Hatch, who headed the débutante committee, contributed and dressed a doll. The débutantes dressed in Japanese costumes, served tea.

Girl Scout Troops and Camp Fire Girls were also represented in the groups contributing dolls.

It was announced that as the final date of shipment of the dolls to Japan has been extended to Jan. 20, Mrs. Ashton will continue to receive friendship dolls at the office of the committee, 289 Fourth Avenue.

Jointed dolls are not being sent, since the climate in Japan, it was said, affects the rubber, and the poor things will soon come apart.

AMERICA'S CURSES LISTED.

Strollers' Club Hears They Are Bigotry, Banditry and Babbitry.

Bigotry, banditry and babbitry were declared last night by James E. Hood of Philadelphia to be the three greatest curses of America at the fortieth anniversary dinner and roister of the Strollers' Club, held in the Hotel Imperial. Decency in Bohemianism was said to be one of the country's greatest needs.

Members of the club, which was in its hey-day before the World War, heard plans of Robert Cornell Sands, President since the founding, to rejuvenate it and to acquire quarters in the Forties, west of Fifth Avenue. The guest of honor was Lieutenant General Robert Lee Bullard. Among the speakers were Colonel Franklin Q. Brown, Edward Fales Coward, John V. Bouvier Jr., John Wendell Anderson of Detroit, and John Golden.

The New York City Federation of Women's Clubs will hold a special service at 4 o'clock today in the Episcopal Chapel of the Intercession, Trinity Parish, Broadway and 155th Street. The Rev. Dr. Milo H. Gates, the vicar, will preach on "The American Home."

Six rallies in that many parts of the Archdiocese of New York will be held today by branches of the Archdiocesan Holy Name Society, instead of the one annual rally held heretofore. These will be in Manhattan, Bronx, Yonkers, Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Rosebank, S. I. The Manhattan Branch will meet in the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, 111 East Ninetieth Street, at 3 o'clock. Bishop John J. Dunn, Supreme Spiritual Director, will preside.

ROB TEXAS BANK OF $6,000.

Three Bandits Later Fight Off Oklahoma Posse and Vanish.

VERNON, Texas, Dec. 18 (AP).—Three unmasked men robbed the Bank of Odell at Odell, Texas, twenty miles north of here, of about $6,000 today and later fought off a posse near Altus, Okla.

The robbers locked the bank employes in the vault and drove out of the town before an alarm was sounded. As they approached Altus a posse guarding the road opened fire and the robbers replied as they turned their car and headed back toward Texas. None of the possemen was hit and it was believed the fugitives sustained no casualties.

Search for the men was being centered tonight in the territory around Wellington, Texas.

'Spilliwobble' Invades Palace; Queen Mary Enjoys New Game

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP).—"Spilliwobble" has invaded Buckingham Palace. It is a new game and was seen for the first time by Queen Mary at the Dolls' Hospital during an inspection of the toys and other Christmas novelties.

The Queen had a good laugh when "Spilliwobble" was shown her. She took much interest in trying to make the little balls run into cups by means of a magnet.

The attempt failed, much to the Queen's amusement, so she ordered a set for the Palace, where she said she might play the game unnoticed by crowds, as was not the case at the toy exhibition. The Queen thought also that the King might be interested in "Spilliwobble."

The Queen bought more than a hundred toys, some of which cost only a penny, while others ran up to fifteen and twenty shillings.

JOURNALISM SPURNED BY ITALIAN CHILDREN

None Among 6,000 Chooses It for a Career—Girls Largely Prefer Dressmaking.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Dec. 18.—Journalism is one of the unpopular professions in Italy, according to a vote taken among the school children in Milan. Of 6,000 children who were asked what profession they desired to take up in after life not one chose journalism.

The largest number of boys, or over 17 per cent. of the total, voted in favor off becoming mechanics. Typographers came next with 8 per cent. and the professions of law and engineering were third with about 7 per cent.

Girls were largely in favor of becoming dressmakers. More than 38 per cent. voted for this occupation. Next came clerks with 15 per cent. and milliners with 5 per cent.

Those who had an ambition to be stage or motion-picture actors, dancers and vaudeville performers constituted about 2 per cent. of the total.

Six per cent. of the boys wished to take up sport as profession. Only seven boys wished to become priests and only three girls aspired to be nuns.

GIVES PLAYGROUND PRIZES.

Harmon Foundation Awards Go to Three Communities.

The Harmon Foundation prizes for the most beautiful playgrounds were awarded yesterday by the Playground and Recreation Association of America, which conducted a national playground beautiful contest in which 189 cities competed. Green Bay, Wis.; La Porte, Ind., and Stillman Valley won highest honors.

Each community receives $500 in cash from the Harmon Foundation. Thirty other communities, including Utica and Irondequoit, a suburb of Rochester, have received lesser prizes of $50. Supplementing the cash prizes, $50 worth of nursery stock will be given by nursery companies to each winning playground.

New York City and Brooklyn entered several playgrounds when the contest opened Oct. 1, 1925. Due to lack of appropriations, loss of land and other causes, all except one were withdrawn.

In Green Bay, which took first place among cities of over 25,000 population, the work of improvement was superintendended by the Park Department. The interest of the children was obtained through their planting of competitive flower gardens. The beautification of Scott Field in La Porte, Ind., was a community enterprise, led by a woman supervisor of physical training and Summer playground activities for the Board of Education. In Stillman Valley, a hamlet of 300 persons, all labor of beautification was given voluntarily by citizens. Three old buildings, thirty wagon loads of rubbish and a large sign board were removed from the site. A dangerous ditch was filled in and a hundred tons of crushed stone were laid down for streets and walks.

AIRMAN SEES TWO SUNS.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Captain Horsey, while piloting a passenger airplane from London to Cologne yesterday, thought himself for the moment stricken with insanity. He looked up and saw two suns. He rubbed his eyes and looked again. There were still two suns. Then he looked at his mechanic and was relieved to see only one of him. But the mechanic saw two suns also.

Sir Napier Shaw, the meteorologist, says that the phenomena was due to crystals in the clouds, either reflecting or refracting the light of the sun in such a way that the observer saw two suns instead of one.

PARTY FOR REISENWEBERS.

Former Restaurant Man to Mark 50th Wedding Anniversary.

Special to The New York Times.

WOODMERE, L. I., Dec. 18.—Mr. and Mrs. John Reisenweber, the family that gave its name to the old New York restaurant, will celebrate their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary tomorrow. There will be only a small party at the celebration, consisting mainly of the children of the couple.

Mr. Reisenweber, who admits 75 years, but who appears twenty years younger, will greet his guests. Mrs. Reisenweber merely says that she is "over 21," but her husband tells on her—she was born in June and he in October seventy-five years ago. He was the second of the name to operate a New York restaurant, which was originally started in 1856. Mr. Reisenweber said that their fiftieth anniversary was celebrated by a trip to Washington, when they were received by President Harding.

WATER TANK FALLS, CRUSHING FACTORY

Girl and Two Men Killed in Philadelphia Building and Four Employes Missing.

CRASH THROUGH 4 FLOORS

Firemen Are Hindered in Work of Rescue by Peril of Tumbling Ruins—Front Wall Torn Down.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18.—A 10,000-gallon capacity water tank crashed from the roof through four floors to the basement of the Philip Wunderle candy factory here at noon today, killing a girl and two men, trapping nearly a dozen injured under a mass of frozen débris and demolishing the entire central part of the plant. Although police and firemen were still searching in the ruins tonight, four employes were unaccounted for.

The girl, Miss Marie Hammill, 17, a bookkeeper, was dying when a Catholic priest crawled through a section of the icy mass of brick and twisted steel in search of bodies. The priest, the Rev. John J. Regnery, rector of St. Augustine's Church, gave absolution to Miss Hammill.

Robert Gouger and Charles Kolbish were the others killed. Kolbish's body was not recovered until this evening. Gouger was buried up to his neck in water and débris.

Distracted families crowded against the police lines begging the rescue squads to bring out their relatives.

After four hours of work, Fire Chief Davis ordered the firemen to stop until the ruins were made safer. Twenty riggers were set to shoring up the walls and stretching heavy ropes and steel cables to projecting beam ends, so that the rescuers might burrow from above through the tons of wreckage.

Chief Davis, after an inspection, said he felt certain two men were buried in the ruins, but that both were dead. The front wall of the factory was then ordered torn down to insure safety for the rescuers.

SUIT REVEALS DIVORCE.

S. L. Hydeman Asks $50,000 From F. E. Fehlman for Alienation.

A suit by Sidney L. Hydeman against Frank E. Fehlman for $50,000 damages for alienating the affections of Irene J. Hydeman and the statement that Mr. Hydeman had obtained a divorce from his wife were disclosed yesterday in an application by Fehlman in the Supreme Court for an order directing David Vorhaus, lawyer and member of House, Grossman & Vorhaus, to deliver to him a general release by Hydeman of all claims, made or to be made, against Fehlman, particularly an action for alienation.

Fehlman said in his petition that on Jan. 29 last Mr. Hydeman gave the release to Mr. Vorhaus with instructions to deliver it to the petitioner if Hydeman obtained a divorce. Fehlman asserts that a final decree has been obtained by Hydeman, but that on Oct. 2 he served papers on Fehlman in the $50,000 suit. Fehlman asserts that he needs the general release as part of his defense to the action, but that Mr. Vorhaus has declined to give it up.

A letter from Mr. Vorhaus to Fehlman's attorney, in response to a demand for the release, said that Hydeman now has another attorney, and has directed Mr. Vorhaus not to give up the paper. For this reason, he said, he is in the position of a "stakeholder." He suggested that a proceeding be brought to make a test of Fehlman's right to possession of the release.

MAXWELL INQUIRY PRESSED.

"Death Chair" Confession Is to Be Investigated at Sing Sing.

Circumstances relating to the so-called "death chair" confession of John Maxwell in Sing Sing Prison, in which he exonerated Victor Patterson of a burglary by assuming the crime himself, will be studied by Assistant District Attorney Joseph V. Gallagher, who will go to the prison tomorrow to question all persons who have any information concerning it.

At the conclusion of the inquiry here yesterday District Attorney Charles J. Dodd said he was convinced from information he had received that Maxwell's admission of the crime, for which Patterson, who is 22 years old, had been sentenced to fifteen years, was actually prepared in letter form about two weeks before his execution.

It has been charged that Maxwell, when held in the Raymond Street Jail, Brooklyn, had offered to assume other crimes for $100 each.

In the meantime, Hugh Finnerty and Robert Byrne, who were held up in the A. & P. store at 1,648 Eleventh Avenue, Brooklyn, again testified to their identification of Patterson as one of the two robbers, and said they had looked at Maxwell when he was here and had found he was not one of the gunmen.

MISSING MAN FOUND SLAIN.

Body of Pasquale Capazzo of Brooklyn Discovered Near Islip.

Special to The New York Times.

CENTRAL ISLIP, L. I., Dec. 18.—Pasquale Capazzo, 24 years old, who had been missing from his home at 353 St. Mark's Avenue, Brooklyn, for several days, was found slain yesterday afternoon in the woods along the Connetquot Road by a game warden. He had been shot through the chest and there was a severe gash on the head.

State troopers said tracks and a trail of blood in the snow indicated that the man had been killed in an automobile and carried to the place where his body was found. Identification was not made until today when, following a visit to Brooklyn Police Headquarters by a trooper, with a description of the dead man, the father, who had asked the Brooklyn police to search for Capazzo, was notified and went to Bay Shore, whither the body had been removed.

As far as was learned, there were no clues to the slayer or slayers.

CHURCH TOLERATES GOLF ON SUNDAY

Presbytery Letter Leaving Sunday Observance to Individual Conscience Welcomed by Scotch.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—One revolutionary change in the attitude of the Church of Scotland on Sabbath observance is illustrated by a pastoral letter issued by the committee of the Glasgow Presbytery. The letter, while insisting on the obligation resting on all members of regular attendance at church, admits the growing demand and necessity for recreation. The committee then makes the interesting observation that the proper observance of the Sabbath may be left to the individual conscience.

Scotland is the home of golf, and already a number of persons have chosen to regard the Presbytery's letter as a sanction to play that game on the Sabbath.

'SANTA CLAUS' ROBS A BANK.

With Masked Companion He Gets $4,200 in Pottsville, Ark.

POTTSVILLE, Ark., Dec. 18 (AP).—Two masked men, one wearing a Santa Claus mask, robbed the Citizens' Bank of Pottsville today of approximately $4,200.

They forced employes to hold up their hands at the point of guns, scooped up all cash in sight and fled in an automobile, one man firing at a small crowd near the bank.

The man with the Santa Claus mask was first to enter the bank. When he commanded Roy Falls, cashier, to hold up his hands, Falls thought he was joking and continued to wait on a customer. But when the other man entered, his face covered with a handkerchief, the cashier complied.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 18 (AP).—E. F. Irwin, a building contractor, was robbed of $1,000 in cash today while on the way from a bank with payroll money for his workmen. He reported that two men bumped against him when he boarded a street car, and later he discovered the money was missing.

TO PROMOTE RECREATION.

New Jersey Legislature to Be Asked to Save State's Resources.

Special to The New York Times.

BRADLEY BEACH, N. J., Dec. 18.—The Legislature will be requested to take steps for the preservation of the natural resources of this State, Commissioner Bernard V. Poland said today. The New Jersey League of Municipalities will be asked to support the appeal and also a proposal for an annual appropriation of $25,000 to advertise New Jersey as a recreational centre.

"Continued conservation of our natural resources—our lakes, bays, forests and woodlands—is essential to the future of New Jersey," said Commissioner Poland. "Many of them are being destroyed in various sections of the State as new areas are opened for development."

Commissioner Poland suggested that the proper administrative commissions be empowered to prevent the destruction of natural resources.

MAGPIES WYOMING PEST.

They Cost Chicken and Turkey Raisers $50,000 a Year.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 18 (AP).—Not the hawk or the eagle, but the magpie, is Wyoming's most costly bird of prey. It causes a yearly loss in chickens and small turkeys of nearly $50,000, Albert M. Day, leader of rodent control in the State, estimates.

"Coyotes, weasels, mink, foxes and bobcats occasionally pick up a juicy meal," Mr. Day says, "but the worst enemy the turkey producer has is an entirely different type of marauder—the beautiful, saucy, chattering magpie. They often kill lambs, too.

"The magpies seem to learn the habits of the chicken, and the hen's cackle is a signal for 'maggie' to leave the post where it has been waiting and watching, dart into the chicken house and fly away with the egg. Newly hatched turkeys and chicks are a special delicacy."

LONDON, Dec. 18.—A scheme for the establishment in London of a British Empire academy, as a central home where the arts of Great Britain and the dominions could be displayed, will be publicly launched at a meeting early in the new year.

It is proposed to build the palace of arts on the Thames embankment. In addition to exhibition space for painters and sculptors, there would be a large theatre and a concert hall.

The scheme, which would involve an outlay of $5,000,000, has many influential supporters.

BIBLE AIDS IN POLICE WORK.

Washington Officers Cheer Would-Be Suicide by Quoting Scripture.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP).—The Bible has proved more efficacious than the police manual to Washington officers in rendering assistance where it is not wanted.

Policemen found Luther Rhodes, 52, unconscious in his home, with gas flowing from the jets of a stove, but upon being revived he asked them to leave him and not offer aid. Finding the police manual inadequate in such cases, the policemen started quoting passages from the Bible. After a few minutes Rhodes, the police said, told them he was sorry for his attempt at suicide and would not try it again.

WITNESSES LURED OUT OF RHINELAND

Court-Martial at Landau Suspended After Proof of This Had Been Established.

STORY OF START OF RIOT

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 18.—The court-martial at Landau which is trying Lieutenant Rouzier and a number of Germans for a series of clashes in the occupied Rhineland between soldiers and natives continued today.

It was brought out that in a Gemersheim café on Sept. 26, German workmen cracked a bottle on the head of a French soldier, slightly the worse for drink, who was amusing himself by waving his bayonet at them. A servant girl took the bayonet away and although a waiter tried to get the soldier out, the Germans gave him a thorough beating.

A patrol headed by an officer arrived to end the disturbance and arrested a number of men present. The guilty ones escaped, and those detained were immediately released, not, however, until Lieutenant Rouzier, angry at the sight of a French soldier with blood streaming down his cheeks, had struck one of them with his riding crop.

French officers who responded to the riot call testified to the striking of the German by Rouzier and said that one of them reprimanded him for his act.

It was following the café incident that Lieutenant Rouzier shot three Germans in self-defense. One of them, Holzmann, who was slightly wounded, testified that he thought Rouzier was a friend and went up to him in the dark to verify this. Rouzier and a friend followed him from the café and began to attack him.

At this point an incident over the smuggling of witnesses out of the Rhineland occurred between the prosecution and defense, and the session had to be suspended. It was later decided that the question would not be raised again, it having been sufficiently established that the German authorities helped a number of men to cross the Rhine. It was proved one witness has lived at the expense of the Red Cross organization at Karlsruhe since the Gemersheim affair.

ARREST HALTS HONEYMOON.

Violinist's Bride Is Accused of Cashing Worthless Check.

Mrs. Virginia Arneson, a pianist formerly of St. Louis, Mo., was arrested in her room at the Hotel Commodore yesterday, charged with having obtained $500 from David H. She was held in $1,000 bail for examination tomorrow in the Jefferson Market Court.

Mrs. Arneson, according to a dispatch from St. Louis, lived in Staunton, Ill., before she went to St. Louis to study music. About a month ago she married Arneson, a violinist, who had been playing in a hotel orchestra in St. Louis, and came East with him.

The buck stumbled just before he reached Tomlin and the latter grabbed him by the horns. Tomlin was dragged for nearly a quarter of a mile before he succeeded in bringing the buck down. Hunters who came to his aid killed the deer with an axe.

BUYS MISSION CENTRE FOR WORK IN FRANCE

McAll Association, Composed of American Women, Gets Maison Verte in Paris.

The American McAll Association, composed of women representing the principal Protestant denominations of the United States, has purchased for 1,200,000 francs about ($48,000) the property known as the Maison Verte, fronting on the Rue Marcadet in the Montmartre district of Paris, it was made known yesterday by M. E. McIntosh, who is in charge of the publications of the National Baptist Board. The McAll Association will use this property for religious purposes and social service.

The land on which La Maison Verte stands is 125 feet square. The building is two stories and contains class rooms, an auditorium and other rooms. The decision to buy the property was made by the national board of the association on Dec. 9, and the transaction was subsequently closed by cablegram. By this action American women have preserved to religious usage a "property of historic interest."

In the early years of his work in Paris, the late Dr. Robert McAll, founder of La Mission Populaire, obtained possession of La Maison Verte by lease. He used it as a place to preach "a gospel of reality"—Christianity made practicable. He also used it as a means of reaching the children of the crowded Montmartre section and it took on the aspects of a neighborhood Christian centre.

The American McAll Association, named for the Rev. McAll, cooperates with La Mission Populaire, in religious and welfare work in the French capital and other French cities.

CHURCHILL GIVES A PARTY.

British Chancellor Is Host to His Charwomen, "Nice Old Ladies."

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP).—Winston Churchill, as a boy at Harrow, always was getting into scrapes. Even today the Chancellor of the Exchequer is fond of anything out of the ordinary.

Mr. Churchill is one of the youngest of British statesmen, having just celebrated his fifty-second birthday. But his colleagues contend that he will still enjoy a joke if he lives to be a hundred.

Mr. Churchill's latest "scrape" relates to a lot of elderly women whom he met in the hallway leading to his office. All carried little bags. Wondering what delegation was calling upon him so early, Mr. Churchill's inquiry elicited the fact that the crowd was made up of charwomen.

They did not want to see the Chancellor of the Exchequer at all, but were waiting for their pay. Mr. Churchill decided to get better acquainted with them. As the Christmas spirit was in the offing, the fiat went forth that all these "nice old ladies" were to come into the Chancellor's office at noon the next day. And they did.

Mrs. Churchill was there, too, to assist her husband in looking after the guests of one of the strangest mealtime affairs Great Britain had experienced.

JAIL ENDS LURE OF CITY.

Youth Going Back to Texas After Three Days in the Tombs.

Three days and nights in the Tombs have broken down the resistance of George Reynolds, 21 years old, who, following his arrest for disorderly conduct, refused an offer of freedom upon condition that he return to his home in Austin, Texas. He said at the time that he would accept no aid from his father, who had volunteered to wire him railroad fare to Austin, and declared he intended to remain in New York City.

Yesterday Reynolds told Magistrate Thomas F. McAndrews in Tombs Court that he had changed his mind and was willing to go back to Texas. Probation Officer George Plans said the youth's father had telegraphed that money for his railroad ticket would be ready for him in New York today.

Reynolds was arrested by a detective who testified he had seen the young man put his hand in the pocket of a man who was asleep on a bench in the Wall Street station of the Interborough subway. Reynolds denied the charge. He said he had been in the city two months and had been unable to obtain employment.

BELLPORT, L. I., Dec. 18.—At the annual Christmas dinner of the Brookhaven Game Protective Association at the Hotel Bellport tonight Jerome V. Jerome, President of the Long Island Association of Sportsmen's Clubs, read a telegram from Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, assuring Long Island game hunters that he would not lower the lawful bag limit for duck from twenty-five to fifteen, as has been reported, until he had learned the attitude of sportsmen toward the change.

Mr. Jerome said that "sentimentalists" have been urging Secretary Jardine to reduce the bag limit.

"Contrary to reports of a game shortage on Long Island," he said, "wild duck and quail have never been so plentiful as this season."

Many Long Island politicians attended the dinner. Telegrams of felicitation were received from Governor Smith and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt.

PEKING COUP SEEN ON BELGIAN TREATY

Allowing It to Lapse Without a Modus Vivendi Is Viewed as Nationalist Gesture by Koo.

BID TO SET A PRECEDENT

Success in This Would Likely Bring Termination of Other Extraterritoriality Compacts.

FOREIGN PRESS IS ALARMED

Belgium's Interest Is Declared to Be That of All the Powers by Leading British Paper.

By THOMAS F. MILLARD.

Special Correspondence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 12.—Hardly a month passes without an example of the slow and sure crumbling of existing treaties of China with other nations, and as the treaties break up the entire foreign position here becomes more precarious.

It is seldom, however, that a treaty vanishes instantly, carrying away with it a number of props and sanctions and privileges which are foundations of the whole comity. But such a thing happened this week when a so-called "presidential mandate," issued through the medium of the Wai Chia-pu at Peking, abrogated a treaty between China and Belgium.

This incident has extraordinary, one may say amazing, features. The instrument which denounced that treaty is termed a presidential mandate; but it is news to observers in China that this nation, or country, has a President.

So far as I know, no person even has been called President since the retirement of Tuan Chi-jui several months ago. There is no Parliament. A dummy Cabinet composed of henchmen of the two principal Northern militarists, Chang Tso-lin and Wu Pei-fu, whose personnel shifts so frequently that one has difficulty to remember their names, maintains a fiction of National Government in the old capital.

Belgian Treaty Expired.

So far as we know in China, that régime has not been formally recognized as a de facto Government by any foreign power, although a press telegram from Washington last week intimated that Secretary Kellogg still considered Peking to stand for Government in China. It may be that Mr. Kellogg's reported attitude on that point supplied Dr. Wellington Koo, now Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs, with enough of diplomatic regularity on which to base his cancellation of the Belgian treaty.

Dr. Koo, in fact, did not exactly abrogate a treaty. The Belgian treaty, which was made about seventy years ago, still existed. When treaties between nations are about to expire, the usual process is for the Governments to agree to a modus vivendi, by which relations are carried on until a new treaty is made. Negotiations between the Chinese and Belgian Governments regarding a modus vivendi were proceeding for a while before the time limit, but nothing was agreed on.

In this matter Belgium is unlucky. That nation happens to be the first lesser power whose treaty with China has expired since development of the new Chinese nationalism and its program for recovery of national rights.

For more than a year it has been a foregone conclusion that whatever of Government existed at Peking would seize any occasion to break the ring of "unequal" treaties.

Viewed as Momentous Event.

Belgium has the further bad luck to have her treaty expire at a time when the shell of Government at Peking is grasping for anything that will enable it to seem to be alive and to catch popular attention by a gesture of nationalism. Dr. Koo saw his chance and took it.

By most foreigners in China this act is taken as a momentous event, as, indeed, it is. It comes with equally important violations of the treaties in different parts of China by sectional régimes and dictators who impose extra customs and other duties without respect to what foreigners say about it. Thus revision of the maritime customs is happening, regardless of the fact that the Customs Conference adjourned without doing anything definite.

It is evident that failure of the Customs Conference to do anything definite has a direct relation to these arbitrary revisions by regional dictators. As long as there was a prospect of tariff revision by a process of international regularity, and additional revenue thereby, at least some important militarists had an interest in the matter (for they planned to get the extra revenue) and were willing to let the Foreign Customs Administration stand.

When it was plain that there would not be a new customs treaty soon, and maybe not at all, the real rulers of China, the big militarists, decided to do some customs revising themselves, strictly for their own benefit. So almost simultaneously we have Canton and Shantung and Mukden putting their own rates into effect, and, as far as one can see, paying no particular attention to diplomatic and consular protests.

This unilateral action of China (or of a casual and clever Minister of Foreign Affairs) in rejecting Belgium's proposal to extend a modus vivendi until there is general treaty revision, which amounts to cancellation of treaty relations and deprives Belgians in China of exterritorial status, is seized on by the foreign press here, which speaks for standpatism and wants military intervention to uphold that, to sound again the loud note of alarm. The principal British newspaper in China says editorially:

"Today nobody can be blind to the fact that Belgium's interest is that of all powers alike, that it is indeed a test case and that incidentally the whole validity of the Washington convention stands or falls by it.

"Of course, Dr. Koo * * * had two objects in view, as can be clearly seen. He wished to make his position with Belgium secure before the Exterritoriality Commission's report appeared, as it is an open secret that that report is entirely adverse to China's claims; and he wished to establish a precedent for the more important cases of the French and Japanese treaties which are due for consideration in the near future."

Success Would Set Precedent.

Psychological and diplomatic reactions to whatever the Exterritoriality Commission may report on China's moves to revise treaties are certain, but as yet the reactions are not exactly as the previous quotation implies. To me it has been plain for some time that action or advice of the Exterritoriality Commission that will delay or prevent movement by the powers to abolish this status must give a stimulus to an effort by Chinese to abolish exterritoriality unilaterally.

Of course, if China can "get away" one time with unilateral abrogation she will set a precedent, and further action on that line very likely will follow. The trend toward treaty revision by unilateral and quasi-legal action frequently has been pointed out in this correspondence. It is only the expected that is happening now.

Notwithstanding repeated warnings of this trend, the event apparently finds the principal powers no more ready with a policy to meet the occasion than they were three years ago. Hence the outcry here that Belgium's case is a test of the whole foreign status, in the hope that the principal powers will make Belgium's case their own.

Incidentally, there are 600 Belgians in China who now lose exterritorial status. There are approximately 80,000 Russians and 2,200 Germans and Astrians who lost it some time ago. There are 10,000 Americans and 14,000 British in China and 200,000 Japanese who still have exterritoriality.

Lead Apparently With Japan.

The numerous lesser powers whose nationals have exterritoriality obviously retain it only at the sufferance of the Chinese, unless the principal (actual) Pacific Ocean powers, the United States, Japan and Great Britain, will make the case of the lesser nations their own and act to uphold that status for them.

It is probable that Japan now has the lead to any action or policy of the Pacific Ocean powers about general Chinese treaty revision, and particularly about exterritoriality. The Sino-Japanese commercial treaty of 1896 is subject to revision, on request of either nation, soon; and the Chinese and Japanese Foreign Offices already have exchanged views about it.

China has stated plainly a wish to include in the discussioin the whole subject of treaty status, and especially exterritoriality. The Japanese Foreign Office has replied agreeing to discuss fundamental revision; and a semi-official résumé of its note intimates that Tokio is willing to overlook minor legal points and to consider the broad Pan-Asian position and outlook, expressing Japan's profound sympathy with China's aspiration to throw off exterritoriality in view of Japan's experience with the same condition.

Private View of British Policy.

It is no wonder, then, that London and Washington seem nonplussed and that diplomats at Peking are unable to discover a satisfactory solution, from a foreign viewpoint, of Belgium's predicament.

I cannot visualize the American Government going into a military intervention in China for the sake of protecting dubious treaty rights of Belgians or of any other small nations. I cannot even visualize, at this time, the American Government doing that to protect treaty rights of Americans here.

A well-informed Englishman, writing privately from London lately to a friend in China, said, in effect, that the British Government hoped to establish with Japan and America some scheme of common representation and action which would be both defensive and hopeful to China. If no common policy could be evolved, then Great Britain must abandon thought of a positive policy; but in adhering to a negative policy must defend British people and interests in China.

How to do that in case Japan and the United States frown on attempts to coerce China by direct action well may cause British statesmen to ponder.

Meantime treaty revision with China becomes more and more an academic question in diplomacy. The treaties are lapsing or are being revised sectionally bit by bit.

French Agitate for Return to Knee Breeches Of Silk and Satin for Men for Beauty's Sake

PARIS, Dec. 18 (AP).—The French, who popularized long trousers during their revolution of 1793, now are discussing a proposal to put the male species back into knee breeches, not "plus-fours," but fancy silk breeches, such as the Beau Brummells of the eighteenth century wore.

Ever alert for feminine charms, the Gallic male has observed through recent years how inch by inch well-dressed women have shortened their skirts, until now their very kneecaps brave the public gaze. With his traditional logic the Frenchman began to ask why men should not be equally free to display whatever charms they may think they possess between ankle and knee.

Proponents of a shorter, snappy breeches argue that masculine wear has become too dull, standardized and colorless in recent years. In their opinion it would be a service to beauty and a contribution to the gayety of nations to do away with sombre woolen trousers and readopt shorter garments of silk and satin in bright colors.

French tailors interviewed on the subject seem to think that by a return to eighteenth century fashions they will regain leadership in the masculine mode, captured long ago by the English, and thus Paris would become the leading style centre for men as well as women. They point out that those rich Americans who now buy woolens from Bradford and have their suits tailored in London would begin to spend their clothing budgets in Paris, as their ancestors did in the days of George Washington—in the days when Benjamin Franklin arrived in France in satin breeches and silken hose.

"If only twelve French gentlemen of secure social position would appear in knee breeches on the boulevards," one newspaper declares, "half the world would adopt them within a month."

But so far not a single male has been seen on the boulevards without long trousers except a few Anglo-Saxon tourists who think "plus-fours" the proper wear for sightseeing.

OPPOSE SELLING ISLAND OF 'MAN IN IRON MASK'

Riviera Residents Don't Want British Capital to Make the Prison Isle a Winter Resort.

PARIS, Dec. 18 (AP).—Plans of the French Government to sell the island of Ste. Marguerite, where the "Man in the Iron Mask" was imprisoned for ten years, have met with much antagonism. The report that British capital was planning to turn the island into a model Winter resort has brought protests from every part of the Riviera. The district is already objecting to the numerous subdivisions financed by foreign capital.

The island, which is about four miles in circumference, is situated at the mouth of Cannes Bay. The "Man in the Iron Mask," made famous by Dumas, was incarcerated in the Ste. Marguerite fortress in 1687. History still disputes his identity. In 1673 Marshal Bazaine, who was accused of treason in surrendering Metz to the Prussians, was an inmate of the prison. He succeeded in escaping the following year.

It is reported that the French Government has been offered a large sum for the island, but newspapers and societies are fighting the deal.

ROYAL RELICS SAVED FROM TURIN THIEVES

Historical Objects Taken From Castle Are Recovered and Gang Caught.

TURIN, Dec. 18 (AP).—A daring theft of priceless historical relics, including a belt belonging to King Arduin, who ruled Italy early in the eleventh century, was frustrated today by police, who recovered the booty.

A band of "gentlemen thieves," alleged to have been headed by Carlo Reys, 19-year-old member of a prominent family, succeeded in breaking in the ancient castle at Valperga, once occupied by King Arduin, and in making off with tapestries, paintings, jewels and medals of priceless, artistic and historical value.

The police, who had been watching Reys because of his contact with the underworld, arrested him and several accomplices, recovering the stolen relics within a short time.

GERMANS FORSAKE CIGARS.

Berlin Psychologist Says Women Cigarette Smokers Are "Modernizing" Men.

BERLIN, Dec. 18 (AP).—German men are forsaking the cigar for the cigarette. A Berlin woman student of psychology, who has been investigating the matter, believes the men are being "modernized" in this respect by feminine influence.

Most women do not enjoy smoking for just the same reasons men do, she writes. They like it, for one thing, because it gives them another medium for displaying their graces—the cigarette once lighted with dainty manipulation of the match, the upward curl of smoke is followed by the play of the eyes. The cigarette is in fact, she asserts, essentially a new weapon for women.

COMPLAIN OF FASCISTI.

Italians Appeal to League of Nations Alleging Injustice.

GENEVA, Dec. 18 (AP).—Individual anti-Fascist Italians have been appealing to the League of Nations for some action against the Fascist régime of Italy, League officials said today in confirming reports of such appeals published in various European capitals. The appeals, it was stated, were made on the ground that the Fascisti are violating justice and the rights of man. In some cases the League has been requested for refugee passports to replace Italian passports.

League officials said these communications merely were placed on file, since no action could be taken on the matters as they have to do with purely domestic affairs of a member State.

BAN BARE-KNUCKLE FILMS.

British Censors Will Not Permit Old-Style Fights on Screen.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP).—T. P. O'Connor, as President of the Board of Film Censors, has notified the motion picture trade that representations of old-fashioned organized bare-knuckle fights will be prohibited in the future.

Mr. O'Connor said his board deprecated a recent tendency to exploit these fights, which are illegal in Great Britain.
